

Exams Near Crisis As Students Dig In

'The moving finger writes, and, having writ, moves on: Nor all your piety nor wit shall lure it back to cancel half a line, nor all your tears wash out a word of it.'—Omar Khayyam. Latest reports from the Russian front (eight A's out of thirteen students) give students courage and energy to fight harder as they stagger toward the final examination finish line.

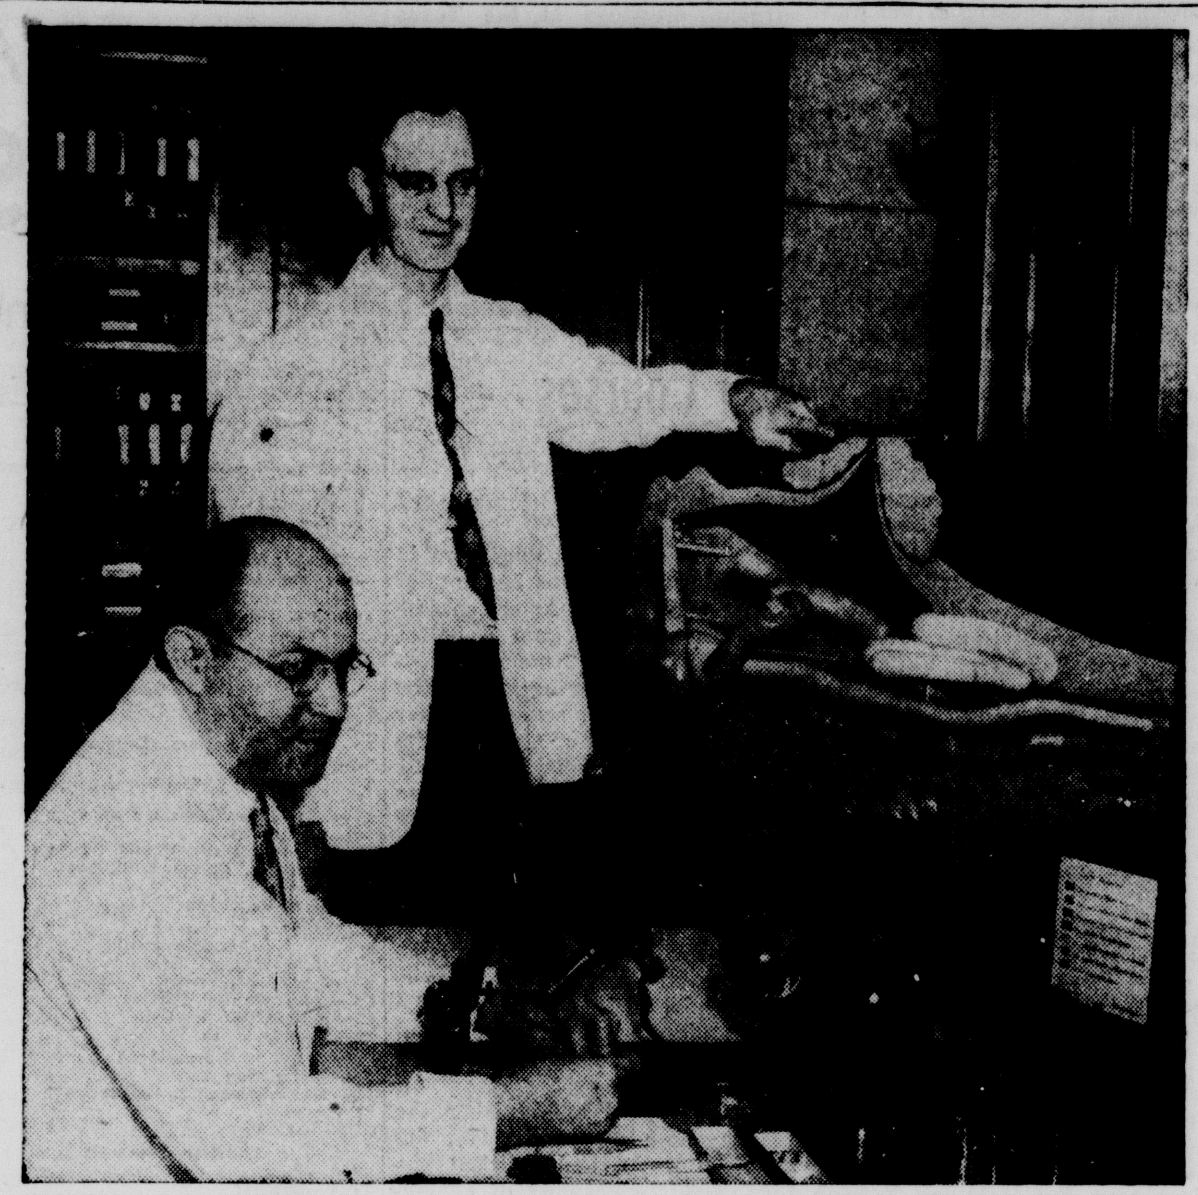

Russian Not So Tough as the Reds

8 of 13 Make A's In Beginning Course

Thirteen wasn't an unlucky number for the beginners in Russian; eight of the thirteen enrolled made A's, four made B's, and one made a C. The students were surprised to find the Russian language easy, Dr. Eduard Micek, associate professor of Slavonic languages, said.

Changes Posted In All Buildings

Will Supersede Fall Announcement

In September, 1942, you may have sat back and viewed with satisfaction the results of your well-planned schedule for the year, but, brother, since then there have been some changes made!

The University is the eleventh Graduate School to offer this exam, given in connection with the Carnegie Institute. It was first constructed in 1937 for four eastern universities, and has since been used in over forty colleges, all of which reported favorably on the results.

An unusual number of room changes were made necessary for the second semester this year because all Garrison Hall classrooms will be vacated for use by the Naval Flight Preparatory School.

Iowa Health Ed Expert Joins Staff

Dr. Aileen Carpenter, research leader in physical education for women, will arrive Friday to join the University faculty as assistant professor of physical and health education.

Included on the schedule are registration instructions for students who have not been in residence the first semester and did not therefore register at the fall registration for courses in the second semester and for students who withdrew during the first semester. These students will register Monday, February 1, in Gregory Gymnasium.

Regents Meet Saturday On Legislative Matters

University Regents will hold a one-day called meeting here Saturday to consider legislative matters concerning the University.

G. H. All Navy Now; U. T. Moves Out

Garrison Hall class rooms will be occupied solely by Naval Cadets during the second semester, according to an announcement from the Registrar's office issued Thursday. All regular University classes scheduled in that building for the next four months have been moved elsewhere.

Honey Replacing Sugar, Coffee Cut to One-a-Day at Dorms

Sudden Call of Reservists Will Hit Muscle Manor Hard

By LLOYD LARRABEE

The Longhorns are likely to be hard hit by the recent Army announcement that enlisted reservists are to be called soon. Thirteen members of the football team will be effected, including Walton Roberts, Frank Guess, Bull Weems, and Wayland Hill. The last three are all freshmen who were counted upon to hold some of the load of the 1943 football year.

The baseball squad will lose captain and shortstop Grady Hutton, while the basketball team will lose Lloyd Gregory and John Langdon. Langdon, a six foot, seven inch center, was counted on to relieve some of the load of the conference-leading Steers.

Max Bumgardner, Longhorn end, Glen Morris, tackle, Mac Charles Huff, and freshmen John Cowser, Kenneth Baker, Ed Bakak, F. G. Martin, Vernon Barge, and Harold McFarlane will also depart to join the khaki crew before long.

The Aggies will also be shorn of a little potency, and will lose four lettermen from spring practice, including Barney Welch, the boy who scored the only A. & M. touchdown in last fall's Thanksgiving game. You probably remember that long sideline run.

No changes in the intercollegiate athletic setup is expected from the Army announcement, however, since it was already known that the enlisted reservists were to be called some time this spring, anyway.

Where the announcement will have its greatest effect is in the spring sports where reservists were playing to participate. Two of approximately twenty swimmers are subject to immediate call, states coach Tex Robertson. But the swimming team is getting used to paring down since their roster is naturally much smaller this year than last, when about fifty swimmers turned out.

Speaking of swimming, the recently published National Intercollegiate yearbook lists Harold Bronfin, Longhorn swimmer, second on the all-American freshmen swimming team.

An Associated Press survey of college opinion indicated the other day that the reservist announcement wouldn't mean the halting or even necessarily a greater curtailment in the near future. Typical of opinion was that expressed by athletic director H. Jamison Swartz of Pennsylvania, who said, "Pennsylvania will play basketball as long as five men are available, and football as long as there are eleven men."

Only four Rice men are in the Army reserve, but the Owls would suffer greatly if the Marine reserve were called to duty, since twenty-eight Institute men are registered in the Marines. One of the four who will leave is Dick Dwelle, Rice backfield star, but he has already completed his eligibility. S.M.U. will lose Roy Baccus of the basketball squad which has recently shown a spurt in winning two straight games, their only victories in the conference. The Mustangs will also lose Johnny Collings, football letterman.

Texas Aggies Resume Practice for Baylor

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Jan. 28.—(INS)—The Texas Aggies resumed practice today for their basketball game with Baylor, originally scheduled for Wednesday night. The game was rescheduled for February 1. The Aggies put in the time they had intended for the conference game, playing the Blackland Fliers from Waco, beating the Army team 47 to 25.

The Longhorn basketball starting lineup is virtually a Marine nest, with Jack Fitzgerald, Buck

War-Conditioning Course Makes Tougher Soldiers

To make the men students before going into the service better physically is the purpose of the P. T. War-conditioning classes on the campus. Organized last February under the leadership of L. Theo Bellmont, physical training director, the course has grown steadily with leaps and bounds, both figuratively and literally.

At the start they separate the men from the boys. After a physical check-up, the student is surveyed for his ability in sports. Specializing in a single sport is undesired, for a soldier with a background of some swimming, boxing, wrestling, and a few hand-to-hand games, will prove the best in the field of battle instead of an expert swimmer or football player.

After the status of the student's sports background is determined, daily calisthenics, hand-to-hand games in which after learning how to play it, the rule book is discarded and the player goes in with his own ideas of how to execute the play, wrestling, boxing, and a general course of exercises to toughen the body and quicken the mind is carried out through the course.

The weight of each student is checked daily along with chinning and other devices executed to determine the progress of the student day by day.

So if any men students would like to get toughened up before entering the armed forces (especially you Marines who have to face boot camp), come around to Ed Barlow, C. H. Leinbach, or Bellmont and they will give you the works.

Glovers Mix It Saturday Night

Longhorn Band To Precede Bouts

The Longhorn Band will make their first professional appearance at the fights when they play preceding the opening of the Austin Golden Gloves tourney in Gregory Gym Saturday night. The fights will start at 7:30 o'clock, last about three hours, and will include three University representatives.

The fights will be broadcast over KNOW during the finals. Harry Leinbach, instructor in physical training, will referee.

University entries are middleweight Jack Wilkinson, who defeated John Malone Wednesday night, and will thus represent the Austin district state finals at Fort Worth; welterweight Gene Ehrlich; and featherweight James Butcher. One other University entry, Ted Manzano, withdrew.

About thirty-two boxers will fight in seven divisions, with entries from both Del Valle and Camp Swift Army bases. Admission to the fights will be 25 cents for blanket tax holders, 55 cents for general admission, and $1.10 for ringside, with all proceeds from gate receipts to be given to the Austin U.S.O.

All Service Teams Predicted for 44

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(INS)—Major Leagues in all sports will be composed of service teams by 1944 if the war lasts that long, Lieutenant Jim McMillen, former football star, vice president of the Chicago Bears and now officer in charge of athletics at Navy pier, predicted today.

"By this time next year college and professional rosters will have been depleted to such an extent that I see no likelihood of those teams being able to operate," McMillen said. "Then we in the athletic end of combat training will be faced with the obligation of helping to maintain morale among civilians, especially war workers, by supplying their competitive sports."

History - -

The sub-committee on women's defense activities will sponsor an advanced first aid class from 7 to 9 o'clock, the night not yet decided, a home nursing class from 2 to 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoons, and a nurses' aide course. Co-eds may volunteer for knitting from 4:30 to 5:30 o'clock on Tuesday and Friday afternoons, office work, social service, and making surgical dressings at the Texas Federated Women's Club Wednesday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Bland said pamphlets would be sent to the dormitories and rooming houses this week-end to allow University women to see the opportunities offered them in war training on the campus. Enrollment in these classes should take place immediately.

antipathy to any discussion of American traditions."

Some students, Strayer says in presenting his reasons for not favoring compulsory American history study, might gain a better understanding of American government by comparing it with the governments of several other countries than by studying its political development, incident by incident. "In studying our own history the student is apt to take our virtues for granted and to be shocked by our own wasted opportunities, our stupidities, our failures to live up to our ideals. If he studies European history he discovers that our faults can be matched in their countries, while our achievements cannot," contended Strayer.

He suggested emphasizing the development of civilization, instead of a detailed political history, and the drawing of conclusions from events, rather than attempting to leave facts to "speak for themselves." This interpretive study would not be dangerous, thinks Strayer, because undergraduates are quick "to detect insincerity and hypocrisy in their instructors."

In concluding his article Professor Strayer said, "Our students want to know where they stand, what they are fighting for, and what they can believe. We will not sacrifice our professional integrity if we tell them what the American story has meant to us."

Oil Output to Rise Despite Rationing

Gas rationing notwithstanding, Texas oil production is almost certain to increase during 1943. Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer for the Bureau of Business Research, predicts today. "Current national output of oil is a little under four million barrels a day," Johnson said. "But a recent report submitted to the Petroleum Industry War Council forecasts for the last quarter of 1943 a national total at a rate in excess of 4,600,000 barrels of crude oil and other hydrocarbons." Oil refinery operations constitute Texas' largest manufacturing industry, Johnson pointed out, and the demands upon the industry are constantly increasing. In addition to the tremendous expansion in production of high octane gasoline, since the war started, oil refineries have been asked to produce such synthetics as toluol for high explosives, butadiene and styrene for synthetic rubber. "Currently there is a definite trend toward what are known as four-way combination cracking plants," Johnson pointed out.

Community Series to Present Budapest Quartet Wednesday

The fourth offering of the Community Concert Series this year is the Budapest String Quartet to be presented Wednesday night in Hogg Auditorium.

The quartet, whose name is old in the history of music, achieved success in Europe as one of the preeminent interpreters of chamber music before coming to the United States in 1930.

Their American debut occurred at Cornell University in December, 1930. A few days later their enthusiastic reception in New York by the public and critics started the thirteen years of increasing popularity that they have enjoyed in this country.

During their first year in the United States they presented twenty concerts. This last season, twelve years later, audiences heard them eighty-four times. The concert program Wednesday night is from three of the more important exponents of chamber music, Franz Joseph Haydn, Maurice Ravel, and Ludwig van Beethoven. The selections from these composers is essentially a popular one.

Haydn, born in 1732, is considered the father of chamber music, having established this form of composition as one of the major vehicles of musical expression. His "Quartet in D major," Opus 76, from which the Budapest Quartet will play the Allegretto, Largo, Minuetto, and Finale, is a typical example of his mature work.

Ravel's "Quartet in F Major" is equally representative of the work of this musically radical Frenchman. For his drastic originality he was rejected from competition for the Prix de Rome.

This brought about a dispute that forced the head of the Paris Conservatory of Music and split musical Paris into two camps of opinion, one side holding that he was feeble imitator of Debussy, and the other that he was a strong and individual personality.

Beethoven's "Quartet in C Major" with the other two works mentioned completes the program for the Wednesday concert. This composition, dedicated to the Russian music lover, Count Tassomowsky, is orthodox in structure but romantic rather than classical in content.

The playing this popular program, the Budapest Quartet will follow Jamilla Novotna, Igor Piatigorsky, cellist, and the Ballet Russe in the Community Concert Series.

Alexander Schneider, Joseph Boismann, and Boris Kroyt, and Mischa Schneider make up the Budapest String Quartet who will be presented by the Community Concert Service Wednesday night.

S.R.O. in Longhorn Room If Cactus Keeps Growing

The Longhorn Room seems to be taking root in a big way in the Texas Union. Mrs. Nell Hutchinson, Union director, says if the cactus crop continues to reproduce the Longhorn Room may have to expand to care for the baby cacti.

It all came about during the Christmas holidays when Mrs. Hutchinson placed the cacti used on Longhorn Room tables in a dark room in the Union. Now the room is full of young sprouts which will make their debut when it opens again February 6.

Over in the Fine Arts Building, John Rosenfield Jr., is singlehandedly building thirty picture frames. The Department of Fine Arts made and sold Christmas cards with which to buy the frame material. When they are finished they will frame student paintings for exhibits at Camp Swift and Del Valle.

Joe Brennan, student painter, gets his degree in fine arts this semester. Brennan, who has been everything from a World's Fair stunt boat driver to a truck driver, has won considerable recognition for his paintings of the early American Negro. But his art career is to wait a while. Having completed private flying lessons in Austin, Brennan is scheduled to begin flying with the Civil Air Patrol, patrolling the Texas coast, within a few months. The spring issue of Southwest Review will carry an article by Brennan, titled "The Growing Romantic Tradition in American Painting."

Let there be no more long-haired discussions about what the war is doing to Moving Pictures. "Arabian Nights" Universal picture scheduled to appear soon, promises to be the most voluptuous piece of leg art ever conceived. An elaborate press book on the picture has kept male students in journalism building interested for weeks. Escaping the Hayes office only by the letter of the law, is the largest bathtub ever built for a Harem scene. The Hayes office censored the costumes three times and is still wondering.

Quick Freezer Frozen For Lack of Materials

Luis H. Bartlett, test engineer for the Bureau of Engineering Research, has returned to his office here after two months in the Rio Grande Valley where he assisted in the establishment of a new quick freeze and dehydration plant at Edinburg.

The plant, designed to assist in handling of Texas vegetables for shipment to the East and for armed forces consumption, has not been completed, its finishing touches being held up by lack of pipe and some other simple materials.

Mr. Bartlett estimated the plant, which employs principles worked out in University laboratories, could be completed and in operation within a very short time if equipment could be obtained.
