Auto Restrictions Remain in Effect

By MARY MORPHIS MOODY
Texan Editor

The "freshman car ban" is still operative until the University President and Board of Regents take action on the suggestion to remove the ban.

Dean David H. Thomas, member of the Dean of Men's staff, said that some freshmen were trying to bring cars on campus this semester, thinking that the lift of the ban proposed by the Faculty Council at the suggestion of the student House of Delegates was in effect.

Thomas said the recommendation has not yet cleared President Norman Hackerman's desk. Hackerman must approve the suggestion and recommend it to the Board of Regents before they take action.

Little Chance This Semester

Thomas said he is extremely doubtful as to the chances of the ban being removed at all this semester.

He said any freshman having difficulties or feeling that he needs a car in Travis County should contact him at his office.

The current regulations, as outlined in the 1967-68 General Information catalog, state:

"No student who has less than 26 semester hours credit at the University and whose home residence is outside Travis County will be permitted to have in his or her possession or to maintain an automobile in Travis County. Exceptions to this rule may be made by the Committee on Parking and Traffic.

"B" Students Excluded

"A beginning student who in his first semester in the University earns 14 or more semester hours of course credit with a B average will be entitled to exclusion from the provisions of the car ban upon submission of a written application to the Parking and Traffic Committee together with his grade report and, if he is a minor, a written statement from his parents."

Thomas stressed that the exclusion for freshmen with a B average on the first 14 hours was not automatic, but that the student must apply.

The lifting of the freshman ban was first proposed by the House of Delegates, under the direction of Bob Thompson. It was approved in a Jan. 15 meeting of the Faculty Council.

The suggested revision states that any freshman will be permitted to maintain a car in Travis County, but he will not be issued a Class C parking permit until he has completed 24 hours semester credit.

The freshman car ban has been in effect since 1956.

Clifford Approved As Defense Head In Unanimous Vote

Senate Action Presages Possible March Takeover Of Pentagon Top Post

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON

Clark M. Clifford, confidant and unofficial adviser to US presidents for nearly two decades, won — without dissent — confirmation of the Senate Tuesday to succeed Robert S. McNamara as Secretary of Defense.

The latest word was that he won't take over the troublesome top defense post until about March, when McNamara is scheduled to become head of the World Bank.

President Lyndon B. Johnson's choice of the Washington lawyer, long a White House adviser, to succeed McNamara at the Pentagon was approved on a voice vote.

"I am very happy that this man with his widespread experience in government extending back to the days of President Truman, has been selected for this most arduous and demanding position," Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said.

But it was Republican Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois who delivered the most extended speech in praise — and defense — of Clifford. He said there have been newspaper columns implying criticism of Clifford's past associations as a lawyer with firms which hold vast government contracts.

Dirksen said anyone who knows Clifford knows the new secretary will "bend over backwards" to make sure that no contractor receives any unfair advantage.

Unusually Large Number Register on Second Day

Another 4,802 students registered Tuesday bringing the two-day total for the spring semester to 11,182.

William Wallace, registration supervisor, said this number was higher than usual for the spring. In September, 5,461 students had registered on the second day even though there had been storms accompanying Hurricane Beulah.

Voter Registration Ends Wednesday

Year Residence in State Required of Applicants

Wednesday is the deadline for registering to vote in the May primaries and the November general election.

Any citizen of Texas who possesses the necessary qualifications for voting may register during the current registration period.

To vote in a statewide election, a person must meet the following qualifications on the day of the election:

- He must be more than 21 years old and must be a citizen of the United States.
- He must have resided in Texas for one year immediately preceding the election.
- He must have registered for the voting year in which the election is held.

To vote in local elections (county, school district, and city) he must also have resided in the county for six months immediately preceding the election. Residence for six months is required for voting in a city election.

Under a new law enacted in 1967 voters who move from one Texas county to another within the period of six months preceding an election may vote on statewide offices and issues if they have lived in the state for one year.

University students may register and vote in Austin if they meet the residence requirements, or they may vote by absentee ballot in their home counties.

Any person eligible to register may apply for registration by mailing an application form to his County Tax Assessor-Collector, or by applying in person at the County Tax Assessor-Collector's office or a registration substation. Registration certificates will be mailed before the beginning of the voting year on March 1 to persons who apply by mail.

While on campus he also was chairman of the Texas Student Publications Board, a Law School assemblyman, debater, Curtain Club actor and member of Friars, senior men's honorary society.

Saigon Embassy Raid Quelled by Paratroops

By The Associated Press

SAIGON

A Viet Cong suicide squad seized and held parts of the US Embassy in the heart of Saigon for six hours Wednesday before being wiped out by American forces.

Paratroopers swarmed out of helicopters landing on the roof of the eight-story building to battle the invaders to the end and lift the siege.

All the bold Viet Cong intruders died in the embassy battle, climaxing a series of guerrilla assaults and shelling in Saigon that brought limited warfare deep into the South Vietnamese capital.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, US commander in Vietnam, said "the enemy's well-laid plans went awry," and listed 19 Viet Cong bodies found on the premises.

He said one US Marine was killed and five were wounded and that seven US military policemen were killed or wounded, of whom he thought four were dead.

Diplomat Fights Duel

Trapped in his two-story frame house in the embassy compound, a senior US diplomat, mission coordinator George Jacobson, 56, fought a duel with one of the Viet Cong, killing him with a pistol thrown up to him from the outside. Jacobson is a retired US Army colonel.

Simultaneously with the strikes against Saigon, the Reds for the second straight day attacked cities up and down the country in an unprecedented explosion of guerrilla warfare against urban centers.

Aside from their propaganda impact, the Red attacks appeared aimed at diverting allied strength from the northern provinces where a major battle seemed imminent.

Visiting the embassy shortly after US forces regained control, Gen. Westmoreland said the Viet Cong did not get inside the gleaming, white, new building itself.

However, dozens of persons on the scene said some of the Viet Cong were in the lower floors of the main building.

The lower floor of the embassy building was a mess of tangled debris. There were four gaping holes in the front wall left by rocket rounds.

Two hours after the US troops had recaptured control of the embassy, the bodies of two Viet Cong still were lying only a few yards from a blasted hole in the wall where they had entered the compound.

Johnson Keeps In Touch

From Washington, President Lyndon B. Johnson kept in close communication with military and diplomatic leaders in Saigon throughout the Viet Cong assault on the embassy.

White House aides said the President received about 25 cables from Saigon during the eight hours after the attacks on the embassy and key South Vietnamese buildings began.

The cables included messages from US Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, who was moved from his home to a safe but undisclosed destination during the attacks, and from Gen. Westmoreland.

Many Buildings Shelled

Among key buildings attacked in Saigon were Independence Palace, where President Nguyen Van Thieu has offices.

Also shelled or attacked with small-arms fire were the building of the Vietnamese joint chiefs of staff, Vietnamese navy headquarters, three US officers' billets, the Philippine Embassy and the vicinity of Tan Son Nhut Air Base.

The embassy and its grounds were declared secured at 9:05 a.m.

Other sources said airfields had been hit at Marble Mountain near Da Nang, Chu Lai, Phu Bai, Bien Hoa and Quang Tri City. They said the US military compound at Hue also was hit by rocket fire. No details were available immediately on casualties or damage.

Gen. Westmoreland said first reports indicated two aircraft were destroyed at Bien Hoa, but there were some shelling at Can Tho and other areas of the Mekong Delta south of Saigon.

Assault Strategy Planned

Westmoreland told newsmen, "Obviously the enemy had been planning the assault on the American Embassy for some time. They chose the Tet (lunar new year) period for this assault. They obviously assumed the security would be lessened during this period.

About two companies of US military police tried to take the embassy compound at daybreak Wednesday but were driven off in their first attempt, reports from the scene said. A company of the US 101st Airborne Division then was rushed in.

"In summary," Gen. Westmoreland said, "the enemy's well-laid plans went awry. There was some superficial damage. All of the enemy who entered the compound were killed. Nineteen bodies have been found on the premises."

Construction Blueprints For Faculty Club Unveiled

By SANDY SCHLINE
Texan Staff Writer

Plans for the construction of a faculty center atop the new coed dormitory-academic complex were revealed Tuesday.

Providing a "place where faculty members can communicate with each other," the faculty center will probably include two dining rooms, 12 meeting and/or eating rooms, two floors for dancing, a bar, and a library reading room.

Construction of the $17 million coed dormitory-academic complex has passed the 40 per cent completion stage with an extension to the April 14, 1969 completion date anticipated.

Approval by the Board of Regents at last week's meeting in San Antonio of an additional floor to house the center is expected to result in the extension.

Poll Pushes Plan

The construction of the center, has been under consideration since 1966. The idea was approved by the Faculty Council and the general faculty after a poll indicated that about 600 faculty members would support such an operation.

Encased in glass panelling allowing a full view of the campus, the center will occupy the fifteenth floor of the 14-story complex presently under construction at Twenty-first and Speedway streets.

The complex entails plans for housing 1,800 women and 1,200 men students, classroom and library facilities, a kitchen and dining area, and a large auditorium.

Outside the dormitory will be a private elevator serving only the fifteenth floor and accessible only to faculty members.

Cost At $750,000

The designers of the academic center, Jessen, Jessen, Millhouse, Greeven and Crume and John Linn Scott, are the associate architects authorized by the Regents to plan the center. The Regents have appropriated $750,000 for its establishment.

The faculty center will "prove to be a valuable fringe benefit," said Regent Chairman Frank C. Erwin, Jr. "As the University grows larger and more diffused, there is need for some facility that will bring faculty members closer together."

Dr. Samuel P. Ellison, Jr., professor of geology and chairman of the committee investigating the establishment of the faculty center, said that, in general, membership in the new center would be extended to all voting members of the faculty, their administrative equivalents, and members of the Board of Regents.

Questions Arise

Whether visiting professors and retired faculty members should be extended membership privileges and if members of the old faculty club should be invited to belong without having to pay an initiation fee are still questions the committee is pondering.

The initiation fee is expected to be $100 and dues will be assessed monthly.

The faculty center will be controlled by the University faculty which will legally incorporate itself Friday as the non-profit Faculty Center, Inc. Directing the center will be a board consisting of 15 members, each to serve three years.

The University will lease the floor annually to Faculty Center, Inc. at a nominal cost and will offer University contracts for custodial, maintenance, and utility services.

Food service in the center will be provided under contract with the University's Division of Housing and Food Service, which will operate food facilities in the dormitory-academic complex.

Plans call for the faculty center to serve the noon and evening meals and to open its doors from mid-morning to midnight.

The report followed a White House statement that it had been advised the crew was being properly treated and the wounded were receiving medical care.

Gas Explosion Kills Five

PITTSBURGH

A gas explosion as devastating as a bomb blew apart a busy row of shops and apartments Tuesday, spewing flaming debris over a wide area and reducing the buildings to rubble. Five men were killed and two women were reported missing.

Workers probed the smoldering debris in suburban Ingram by hand and with a highlift. The bodies of three men were pulled from the ruins only hours after the blast. Two other men died in hospitals.

Union Drive Spreads Violence

JOHNSTOWN, Pa.

A United Mine Workers Union drive to organize small independent mines spread the worst violence in a generation through the Pennsylvania soft coal fields Tuesday and idled 18,000 men in three states.

President Requests Increases In Veteran Housing Benefits

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON

President Lyndon B. Johnson asked Congress Tuesday to help make it easier for veterans to buy better homes and to subsidize veterans who train for public service jobs.

In a special message, Johnson noted that the present $7,500 ceiling on the maximum guarantee on GI home loans is 18 years old and said it is no longer adequate. He asked for a $10,000 ceiling.

Training Subsidy Recommended
The chief executive also proposed a wholly new program to help finance training of veterans "to teach the children of the poor, to help man understrength police forces and fire departments, to do meaningful work in local hospitals" and to become full-time specialists in anti-poverty work.

Johnson gave this example of how the program would work for a veteran wanting to teach in a deprived area:

"While he is getting the schooling that will qualify him for teaching, he will draw additional benefits of $50 a month for every month he agrees to teach — up to three years of such extra benefits.

"While he is actually on the job teaching, he will draw a special training allowance, in addition to his regular salary — $80 a month for the first school year, $60 a month for the second.

The President also asked Congress to act favorably on two proposals he presented last year:

Insurance Increase Urged
• To increase servicemen's group life insurance from a maximum of $10,000 to a range of $12,000 - $30,000, depending on individual pay — meaning rank.

• To "protect the veteran against disproportionate pension losses that could result from increases in other income such as Social Security."

Trailer Crosses State, Promotes Engineering

By CAROLYN HINCKLEY
Texan Staff Writer

Approximately 54,000 high school students throughout Texas have been exposed to the School of Engineering and the engineering profession by viewing displays in "The Engineer," a 55-foot truck-trailer counseling service.

The show, assembled by the engineering faculty, includes exhibits on various types of engineering, the engineering problems involved in the building of the Hemisfair tower, a model of the University as it may look in 1970, and other displays.

The main purpose of the exhibit is to arouse interest in a career in engineering and to provide counseling information about the field.

Traveling since November in the Austin, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio and Waco areas, "The Engineer" has visited more than 90 high schools. Students come from the country by bus to larger towns to go through the engineering exhibit.

Man-Wife In Charge

The exhibition is driven and operated by Robert Y. Corder and his wife. Corder has taught high school physics and math for 38 years, his wife taught the same subjects for 34 years, so both are accustomed to working with teenage students.

Students view the exhibit with their math or science classes. A four-minute taped message explaining the demonstration and the field of engineering is played for students waiting in line. Local engineers often guide students through the exhibit and assist in counseling.

After viewing the student reaction at Richfield High School in Waco, teacher Phyllis Marrs said, "We can talk for hours and can't get the message across. Then they see something like this and the meaning becomes clear."

At Midland, it had been planned to open the trailer to school faculty members on a Saturday, but so many townspeople came, the faculty and students saw it Sunday and Monday.

Students COUNSELED

After school, many students and parents come to the trailer for more information about engineering. Corder counsels these students and distributes guidance information.

Under law, the School of Engineering can't recruit students, but it is hoped that high school students will come to the University, after viewing the exhibit.

Assistant Dean Billy Amstead, originator of "The Engineer," said, "The principal result that we are seeing from participation with the mobile counseling unit is an awareness by teachers, counselors, parents and students that engineering is the profession that has created most of the products and services that we enjoy today."

'Gee, I Would of Swore He Was A Teasip Player'

Being an Aggie is deemed bad enough in this neck of the woods, but being erroneously called an Aggie must be the height of gross slander, or libel, or something downright nasty.

Texas' fine basketball guard, Billy Arnold was a recent victim—and before a large audience. Sports Illustrated magazine, chronicling Southwest cage activity in its Monday issue, pulled the following boner which must have left Arnold a bit miffed:

"Southwest Conference teams were busy with final exams, but Texas A&M found time to knock Texas out of a tie for second place. The Aggies, with Billy Arnold scoring 36 points, came from behind to surprise the Longhorns, 88-87. . ."

USC's Yary No. 1 Draft Pick; First Round Bypasses Beban

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK
Gary Beban, honored as Heisman Trophy winner and outstanding collegian of the year, was bypassed until the thirtieth pick Tuesday in the pro draft as the American and National Football Leagues emphasized interior linemen and defensive players.

The honor of being Number 1 in the pro selections went to Ron Yary, the 6-foot-5, 261-pound offensive tackle of Southern California's national champions, chosen by Minnesota.

Five Trojans were taken among the 27 picked in the first round. LA Grabs Beban Beban, the running quarterback who directed UCLA to 23 victories against five defeats and two ties in three years, finally was taken by the Los Angeles Rams high in the second round.

Before the second combined draft is completed, probably sometime Wednesday night, the pros will have picked 462 players in 17 rounds.

Cincinnati, with special privileges calling for first and last picks in each round after the first, plus specials, grabbed Bob Johnson, Tennessee's 235-pound All-America center in the first round.

Johnson was the regular first pick of the initial round.

Linemen Dominate

The clubs picked defensive end Claude Humphrey of Tennessee A&I, Atlanta; offensive tackle Russ Washington of Missouri, San Diego; linebacker Fred Carr of Texas-El Paso, Green Bay; defensive tackle Dennis Byrd of North Carolina State, Boston; and defensive end Kevin Hardy of Notre Dame, New Orleans, before they finally got around to a back.

The world champion Green Bay Packers took Carr, an exceptionally quick 6-5, 230-pound linebacker from Texas El-Paso.

All-America defensive end Kevin Hardy of Notre Dame was picked by New Orleans.

Larry Csonka of Syracuse became the first back picked when he was taken by the AFL Miami Dolphins.

Taylor Second USC Pick

Mike Taylor, 6-5, 250, an offensive tackle from Southern California, was the selection of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the NFL.

Quarterback Greg Landry of Massachusetts was picked by the Detroit Lions of the NFL.

A third Southern California player was taken when Philadelphia of the NFL picked 6-5, 235-pound Tim Rossovich, a defensive end.

Cowboys Get Homan

Dennis Homan, who gained All-America honors by catching passes for Bear Bryant's Alabama Crimson Tide, was chosen by Dallas of the NFL.

Marvin Upshaw, 6-4, 240-pound defensive end from Trinity College, was selected by the Cleveland Browns of the NFL.

Kansas City made George Doney of Texas-El Paso its second selection of the round.

Detroit picked world record hurdler Earl McCulloch of Southern California. The speedy flanker was the fifth Trojan picked.

Southern California struck for the fourth time when fullback Mike Hull was taken by the Chicago Bears of the NFL.

Lee White, Weber State's bruising fullback, was picked by the AFL New York Jets.

San Diego made its second pick by selecting James Hill, a defensive back from Texas A&I. Maurice Moorman, 6-5, 252-pound guard from Texas A&M was picked by the Kansas City Chiefs of the AFL.

Miami, taking Cincinnati's second pick because of a trade, chose offensive tackle Doug Crusan of Indiana.

The Students' Association, in conjunction with the University of Texas and the Hogg Foundation, is sponsoring a seminar for the spring semester on the issues and problems of higher education. The course is coordinated by Dean Margaret Berry, considered on this campus and throughout the educational world to be an outstanding educator. The seminar will consider the important issues facing American higher education today and in the future. The course features guest discussion leaders to enlighten dialogue among the members. Last semester, the seminar was fortunate to have Cliff Drummond, former student body President; Dean Jack Holland, Dean of Students; Mr. M. Dickinson, regional co-ordinator for the current nationwide study of campus governance; and Vincent Herron, director of the Counseling Center who spoke on student characteristics. The list of discussion guest leaders was headed by Dr. Harry Ransom, Chancellor of the University of Texas System, Dr. Norman Hackerman, President of the University of Texas at Austin, Mr. Calvin, Vice-President for financial affairs, and other leading administrative and faculty personalities.

The program emphasized knowledge of the University structure, student participation and current issues and problems. We think it is a great program for the student interested in furthering his knowledge of the way the University works. The only requirements for participation are free schedule from 4:00-5:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, and a sincere interest in what the program offers.

If you are interested in the Seminar on Issues in Higher Education, plan to leave 4:00-5:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays free in your spring schedule and leave your name with the Students' Association secretary at GR 1-3721 or by post card to Seminar, Texas Union 323, University Station.

Houston's solid lead in The Associated Press major-college basketball poll doesn't seem to be in any immediate danger.

The unbeaten Cougars overwhelmed Fairfield, Conn., 108-76 Monday night. Their next two opponents are Marshall of Huntington, W. Va., Thursday night at New York's Madison Square Garden and Centenary of Shreveport, La., Feb. 10.

Marshall has a 10-5 mark and Centenary 2-13.

In points, Houston had 325 to UCLA's 302. North Carolina remained a distant third with 253. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc. Middle Spots Same

Orange & White

We're going co-educational this spring.

We're taking applications from both men and women for the spring semester at the Orange & White Apartments. It's our formula for a heterogeneous spring happening. There's room for 222 men and women in 6-man and 6-woman suites. And the location is convenient. We're only 3 blocks from the campus. So you can leave and walk to class in less time with less trouble than you could if you drove from most locations further away. The facilities are extra special, too. For example, each suite has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, wall to wall carpet, chest of drawers and spacious closets. The fully equipped kitchen has a large 17-inch stainless steel sink, four-burner electric range, refrigerator with freezer, steel cabinets and a storage closet. In addition, there's central air, fire proof construction, daily maid service, garbage pick-up, elevator service, assigned covered parking and a laundry room with coin operated washers and dryers. For your hours of relaxation there's a living room with a huge stone fireplace and color TV, a game room with regulation size pool tables, a canteen and a TV room. There's a separate study room for quiet concentration and a family room for private get-togethers. In short, that's the plan for our heterogeneous spring happening. Why don't you make your application today, and help us mix it up. For more information contact Mrs. Ruth Lewis/Orange & White Apartments/2707 Rio Grande/476-4648.

Court Judgment Favors Workers

By The Associated Press
SALINAS, Calif.

Nine farm workers have won guaranteed jobs with a probable minimum of $4,500 a year, it was reported Tuesday.

The arrangement is part of an out-of-court settlement that followed a ruling by Monterey County Superior Judge Gordon Campbell that an employer who fires a worker for union activity must not only rehire him but may also be required to pay punitive damages.

The workers' case was handled by California Rural Legal Assistance, a legal aid group funded as part of the federal government's War on Poverty.

Gov. Ronald Reagan had opposed the group's handling of the matter as it involved union activities, said Paul Zimmer, deputy director of the California Office of Economic Opportunity.

The workers' lawyer Robert Gnazida, contended the issue was the individual's freedom of association — including the farm worker's right to join a union. The union's rights were not involved, he said.

The men said they were fired last summer by Martin Produce Co., of Salinas, when it was discovered they were members of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, AFL-CIO.

Getting Hung Up for Challenge

Posters go up for Challenge '68 as final plans for the spring colloquium reveal that five films including "A Thousand Clowns" and "8 1/2" will be shown during the week prior to the conference. Bill Slaton and Sandy Wicker are hanging the signs that announce the registration date, Feb. 8, in Union 346.

Union Committee Schedules Lectures

The Texas Union Speakers Committee has announced the lecture schedules for the spring semester. M. Stanton Evans, editor of the Indianapolis News and a contributing editor of the National Review, will speak Feb. 8.

Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Robert C. Weaver, will lecture Feb. 20.

Bird's Nest Sends 6 Fire Companies Flying to Scene

A bird's nest in a ventilator fan was listed as the apparent cause for six companies of the Austin Fire Department answering a call at the Bellaire Apartments Monday night.

When the fire trucks appeared at the 717 W. Twenty-second St. address, they discovered a small amount of smoke coming from the vent in one of the apartment units.

Chief S. J. Hubbard, in charge of the firemen at the scene, said that a bird's nest apparently caused a short circuit in the electric fan motor. He said that no damage "other than one burned-out motor" resulted from the small blaze.

Modern France To Be Studied

Contemporary France will be the subject of an International Studies seminar to be offered during the spring semester at the University.

The senior course will be taught jointly by Roger Shattuck, professor of Romance languages, and Dr. Francis Beer, assistant professor of government. It is open to seniors in any field who are interested in exploring facets of contemporary French culture and politics.

A reading knowledge of French is required.

Shattuck is an authority in the field of contemporary French literature and culture. He will discuss "major myths that have grown up in the course of French history, many of which still dominate the contemporary scene in somewhat modified shapes."

The course will consist of lectures and discussions. Each student will be expected to complete a project that interests him—in politics, literature, one of the arts, a social problem or some other area of investigation and thought.

It is expected that the seminar will prepare students for possible trips to France and will complement their training in other academic fields.

Tanks Open Fire Across Suez Canal

By The Associated Press
TEL AVIV

Israeli and Egyptian tanks and artillery exchanged fire for 90 minutes across the Suez Canal Tuesday in the heaviest engagement along the troubled waterway since last October.

The firing began when Egypt sent four launches into the northern part of the canal to look for obstacles barring the way of 15 foreign ships, stranded in the waterway since the June war.

Israel had agreed to a clearing operation in only the southern part of the canal and had warned Sunday that any attempt in the north would be resisted.

The launches had proceeded about a mile north from their starting point at Ismailia, midway in the canal, when Israeli troops on the east bank fired warning shots.

Israel says the Egyptians on the east bank then opened fire with artillery which they returned. An Egyptian communique said Israeli troops were the first to open fire on Egyptian positions north of Ismailia.

Tanks joined the artillery in the duel. An Israeli army spokesman said two Egyptian tanks were knocked out. Five Israeli soldiers were wounded.

The Egyptian army communique made no mention of casualties, but said one of the launches was damaged. This contradicted earlier Egyptian reports that the four launches returned safely to Ismailia.

Fighting finally was stopped in response to an appeal by Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, the United Nations chief truce supervisor, who happened to be visiting in Cairo. Egyptian sources said he had ordered his observers on the canal to prepare a detailed report of the clash.

Union Theater Company Performers
... David McCarver and Jon Thornberry in a drama by Beckett.

Beckett's 'Godot' To Be Presented

The Texas Union Theatre Company will present Beckett's "Waiting for Godot" Saturday through Feb. 10 in the Main Ballroom of the Texas Union.

Douglas Dyer, general director of the company, has worked to expose the passion behind the poetry in the play. The staccato dialogue, groups of short fast lines, is difficult enough to learn, but to project it requires a great deal of sympathy among the actors.

"The director's main concern in these rehearsals has been to promote an understanding between the players as they find a meaning of the play for themselves," says Dyer.

Situation a Paradox

Two actors, Jon Thornberry as Gogo, and David McCarver as Didi, are on stage during the entire play. Each finds his situation a paradox of misery and joy. To pass the time, they play games which can never end until the sun sets.

The tyrannical Pozzo, played by Sylvia Verheyden, whips the bedraggled Lucky—Terry Conlin—across the stage to a carnival which changes their lives. Only the mysterious Godot remains aloof.

The Texas Union Theatre Company is offering a special pre-season bonus. A free ticket to "Waiting for Godot" is available with the purchase of a season ticket for the spring season, which includes "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum," Ferlinghetti's "Routines," Pinter's "The Homecoming," a modern adaption of Orestes, and the smash musical "Guys and Dolls." The price of a season ticket is $4.50.

Auditions To Be Held

Auditions for the company will be held Monday and Tuesday between 5 and 7 p.m. in the Main Ballroom of the Texas Union. Places in the company are available for set designers, costumers, technicians, public relations personnel, actors, dancers, and singers.

CEC Artists Named For Spring Term 53 Suspended For Long Hair

Artists from New York City, Philadelphia, and as far away as France will be coming to Austin and the campus to perform for blanket tax holders this spring.

Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians, the Chamber Symphony of Philadelphia, the Harkness Ballet, and John Gary will appear in Municipal Auditorium on the Cultural Entertainment Committee Series.

On the Solo Artist Series are violinist Henryk Szeryng and baritone Gerard Souzay, who will give solo recitals in Hogg Auditorium.

Free Events

Blanket tax or spouse tax purchasers may attend all of these events free of charge by drawing tickets at the University Box Office in Hogg Auditorium. Ticket drawings begin five days in advance of each event and continue as long as tickets last.

By special arrangement of CEC, blanket tax holders may also draw free balcony seat tickets for Austin Symphony concerts. Among the soloists for the four remaining concerts of the season are saxophonist John Giordano and pianist John Browning.

The first event is Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians on Feb. 13. For half a century, this showman has brought his style of music to the American public through radio, television, records, and concert tours.

Symphonic Music

The Chamber Symphony of Philadelphia, scheduled for Feb. 21, appears regularly in Carnegie Hall and Philadelphia's Academy of Music. An ensemble of 36 musicians from the United States and Europe, the group performs Baroque, classical, romantic, and contemporary symphonic works.

Henryk Szeryng, the first performer on the Solo Artist Series this spring, is recognized as one of the four or five major violinists of his generation. The Polish-born artist has played in more than 46 countries and is a popular recording artist in Europe.

"Most certainly the best ballet group of the USA and one of the best in the world" wrote a French critic in 1966 of the Harkness Ballet. The New York company, which gave its first performance in the White House in 1964, will perform March 19.

Opera To Be Offered

Paris opera audiences have been stirred time and again by the portrayal of "Don Giovanni" by Gerard Souzay, who will perform March 21. A favorite at international music festivals, the French baritone has furthered his reputation with his recordings of lieder, art songs, and operatic arias.

John Gary, the rising young singing star who appears frequently on television and in night clubs, will close the season on April 25. He has recorded more than 13 albums, each of them a best seller.

CEC events begin at 8 p.m. and all seats are reserved. SAS events are at 8:15 p.m. There are no reserved seats for these performances. Blanket tax and and free ticket must be presented at the door for admittance.

The CEC provides chartered bus transportation from campus to Municipal Auditorium at 25 cents per round trip for students.

Single admissions will be sold at the door the night of the performance. CEC events are $2.50 for adults and $1 for children. SAS events are $2.50 each.

Stars Reopen Ford's Theater

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Historic Ford's Theater reopened Tuesday night for the first time since President Abraham Lincoln was assassinated there in 1865.

Rain fell and anti-Vietnam war pickets chanted as Vice President and Mrs. Hubert Humphrey led a VIP audience into the refurbished playhouse in downtown Washington.

The evening was dedicated to Lincoln, with the first lady of the theater, Helen Hayes, becoming the first player to stand on the stage since the President was shot nearly 103 years ago.

The theatre, restored under a three-year project of the National Parks Service, was officially dedicated Jan. 21.

A galaxie of stars took part in the opening performance, televised on a special hour-long program broadcast nationwide.

The box where Lincoln was slain was flagdraped and unoccupied.

The 25 or so picketers outside chanted, "Hell, no, we won't go" and "End the war in Vietnam."

By The Associated Press

NORWALK, Conn.—Fourteen boys and two girls, carrying placards, picketing Tuesday at Brien McMahon High School, where 53 pupils were suspended for wearing their hair too long.

"It's not the hair, it's what's underneath it," read one of the children's signs.

Luther Howard, principal of the school, checked the boys in every classroom Monday and then suspended the 53 "longhairs."

Famous 'Longhairs'

"Jesus, Lincoln and Washington wore long hair," said another of the placards carried by the protesters. "Beethoven had long hair," read another.

Of the suspended boys, Cal Peterson, director of secondary education, said: "No one says they're trouble makers or hippies. What we did in enforcing the old student dress code was to hold the line."

Boys Warned

The 53 boys at the 1,700-pupil school were suspended and warned not to return before getting a haircut.

"We had to take a stand," Peterson said. "Three of the students suspended got haircuts Monday and were readmitted to classes."

He said barefoot students came to classes last fall at McMahon and Norwalk High, the city's other secondary school.

Educational Atmosphere

"None of this dress, like the transparent blouses, earrings and beards, is conducive to a good educational atmosphere," Peterson said.

"We just don't want our students to wear their hair so long that it covers their ears and shirt-collars."

"They're just afraid we're going to become nonconformists," said Sean Good, 15, one of those suspended.

'Not Troublemakers'

"We met with Peterson," Sean said, "and he couldn't give us any real reason to cut our hair. We just got that old line — 'It isn't good for the school.' We're not trouble makers — I'm an average student and some of the boys with long hair are on the honor roll."

Describing his hair, Sean said: "It covers my eyes and the tips of ears when it's combed down straight."

Sean is backed by his father, Paul Good, a writer.

"Some of the kids who were suspended can't be noticed in a crowd," Good said. "Their hair isn't any longer than others in their group. I think the school board has taken long hair and short skirts as a symbol for certain social attitudes. They see in it all forms of protest."

Good said he and some of the other parents are in touch with the American Civil Liberties Union, which expressed interest in the hair problem.

Hollywood School Helps New Actors

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD—"They don't teach you to be a star, and that's what I want to be."

That is the ambition of Lara Lindsay, and she is being helped toward her goal by the most intensive star-building program ever instituted in Hollywood—the 20th Century-Fox school for new talent.

For 10 years the film industry, out of economic necessity, ignored the grooming of new stars. Studios felt they could no longer employ and train dozens of young hopefuls, a few of whom might turn into stellar attractions. The result: as the established stars died or faded away, there were few new ones to take their places. Box-office stars became fewer in number and higher in cost.

With its return to prosperity, 20th Century-Fox realized the urgent need to replenish the talent pool. The Zanucks, father and son, established a program under the supervision of talent executives Owen McLean and Jack Bauer. Today a score of young hopefuls are enrolled in the compulsory curriculum. Universal also has a talent school, but attendance is voluntary.

Lara Lindsay is one of the most promising Fox students. The name sounds a bit artificial, and it is. She was born Gladys Jacobs in Chicago, started skating at an early age and ended up in the Ice Capades and other shows.

The Varsity Singers, which has performed for Gov. John Connally, presents programs of light music. The 15-voice group, one of the newest on campus, will perform at HemisFair. (one hour credit)

The Southern Singers (one hour credit), 46-voice woman's group, will tour Southeast Texas and the 43-member Men's Glee Club (one hour credit) will tour West Texas.

The University Chorus is designed especially for students with little vocal experience. The large mixed ensemble performs light music and allows its members to become acquainted with some of the standard choral repertoire. (one hour credit)

'Analyst' Rips American Folk-Myths

By BROOKS PETERSON
What is the loneliest job on earth? In other, less complicated times, we were conditioned to reply that the presidency of the United States must surely be the highest pinnacle of isolation available to mortal man. It was beyond our wildest dreams to conceive of anyone bearing a heavier burden of responsibility, a more onerous load of worries, doubts and frustrations. And we all felt a little pang for that lonely figure at the helm.

But that was another day. Theodore Flicker has the temerity to suggest that today is another case. He submits that the pressures of the modern presidency are simply too great for one man to bear them alone; the President—who is fashioned, after all, out of the same frail stuff as the rest of us—must inevitably pour out his troubles to a sympathetic ear. And by so doing, he automatically becomes only the second loneliest person on earth. It is the individual attached to the sympathetic ear—the "President's Analyst" of the title—to whom our hearts should truly go out, for he, by the mere fact of being privy to all the darkest secret musings of our leader, is effectively cut off from all meaningful contact with the remainder of the race. The President can talk to his analyst; but his analyst can talk to no one. Or so Flicker contends.

Fulfills a Function

Of course, the premise is no more substantial than it really needs to be. What is significant is that it does satisfactorily fulfill its real function: that of providing the pretext for a haphazard odyssey through the constantly shifting and uncharted realm of American folk-ways.

The plot line, not inappropriately, is a tenuous one that primarily serves to string together a series of wildly disparate vignettes. The real action begins when James Coburn finds the stresses of presidential analysis becoming altogether intolerable. Exhausted physically and spiritually, and alarmed by clear signs of incipient paranoia in his own personality, he makes the classic break for freedom. In his political naivete, he does not realize that he will set off a gigantic manhunt with himself as its object. All of the secret services of the world—including those of friendly and Third World nations—would be only too happy to drain the brain of the President's analyst. The Federal Bureau of Regulation (perhaps meant to bear some relation to an existing agency?) decides he knows too much, and sets out to kill him. The Central Enquiries Agency undertakes to retrieve him. The President languishes unanalyzed.

Coburn meanwhile leads them all a merry chase. In rapid succession he drops in and out of the household of a "liberal" gun fanatic—"When the right-wingers disarm, we'll disarm"; a caravan of hippies, whose flower power is augmented by stronger stuff; an opulent spy yacht plying the Great Lakes; and a sinister telephone booth. And there is more which would be neither fair nor expedient to relate. It is sufficient to state that the denouement is in keeping with the rest of the picture.

Deserving of Laurels

On the whole, Flicker's endeavor is a successful one. There are several counts on which he and his company deserve laurels. First, he has avoided the sort of tastelessness into which an effort of this sort could so easily have fallen. The President himself never appears as such; he is mercifully permitted to remain a shadowy eminence in the background. There are some swipes taken at him, to be sure, but writer and director Flicker have collaborated well in lending these a degree of subtlety.

Second, there is the matter of the supporting cast. Flicker has been highly provident in this regard by securing Godfrey Cambridge and Severn Darden to portray, respectively, the chief American and Russian operatives involved in the chase for Coburn. Their performances range up and down the scale from mildly amusing to wildly funny.

Finally, a little credit must be given to those who had the financial courage to present us this offering. "The President's Analyst" is not satire of epic proportions, but it is nonetheless good satire, and, coming from Hollywood, that is something for which we may justly be grateful. (Those of you who think otherwise may take heart. "The President's Analyst" will shortly be succeeded by "The Happiest Millionaire.")

'The Beggar's Opera' in Rehearsal

Peter Glaser and Jo Lynn Waller run through scenes from the Opera Workshop's production of John Gay's famous and much used opera. The production, with musical settings by Benjamin Britten, will play at 8 p.m. Feb. 7, 9, and 10 in Hogg Auditorium.

A Cappella Choir On Concert Tour

The University A Cappella Choir began Tuesday the first of two tours planned for the 1967-68 school year, marking the first year since the choir began touring in 1959 that two trips to various Texas cities have been planned rather than the one annual spring tour in April.

The first four-day tour will take the choir to West Columbia, Angleton, Pasadena, Freeport, Corpus Christi, Brownsville, Harlingen, McAllen, and Kingsville. The choir will be performing both for high school assembly programs and civic audiences.

Shortly after its return to Austin the A Cappella members will get ready for their first performance of the second semester, singing for the state convention of the Texas Music Educator's Association Feb. 10. This will be the second appearance of the A Cappella Choir for this convention and the fourth appearance by the University Choral Organizations in conjunction with this convention in the past nine years.

Diverse Exhibit to Open at Laguna Gloria

An exhibition of painting representing each state in the nation will open Wednesday at Laguna Gloria Art Museum. The exhibit, entitled "Fifty Artists From Fifty States," will run through Feb. 18. The exhibition was organized by the Rockford, Ill. Art Association and is being circulated under the auspices of The American Federation of Arts.

for exhibition. Four purchase prizes and 10 artists, awards were given to various artists for outstanding achievement.

The exhibition ranges from the representational work of Joseph Flornoy's "Watching the Breakers" (Maine), the assemblage of John Day's "Portal" (Connecticut), the figurative-abstract of Alex Duff Combs' "Migration" (Alaska), to the hard-edge abstraction of Kenneth Noland's "Approx" (Vermont).

20 Prisoners Reported Shot

Inmate Reveals Sadistic Tale

By The Associated Press
CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. An inmate whose long memory of a graveyard for forgotten men led to the unearthing of three skeletons claimed Tuesday that 20 other Arkansas State prisoners were shot to death on Labor Day of 1910.

Reuben Johnson, 59, a hefty 6-footer who first went to prison in 1937 for killing his brother, said that years ago he helped bury 10 or 12 convicts who were "shot with a pistol, a shotgun or just beaten to death."

Most of them were Negroes, Johnson said, adding: "But they killed some white ones on Labor Day in 1940. They killed a bunch of them - I'd say about 20 . . .

"We were all scared. I thought I was going to get it. A lot of mornings I thought I wouldn't come back to the building."

Listed as Escapees

Prison records showed that 36 men escaped Sept. 2, 1940, and that one man was killed trying to escape. The records also showed that 24 escapees were recaptured quickly, and a prison staff member said it was possible others were recaptured later.

Meanwhile, a grim, exploratory digging operation was halted for the time being on the prison grounds. State police took charge of the investigation and said that, before resuming, they "need to see what we have first."

On Monday, Johnson led officials to the unmarked graves of three men, the remains encased in coffins buried in the rich soil of the Arkansas River bottoms. The prison farm is 60 miles southeast of Little Rock.

A former prison board member said the skeletons might be part of a paup
