Nutrition, Health Illustrated With Slides by Doctor

Text By H. C. Sherman Used in Economics Department

Dr. H. C. Sherman, Mitchell professor of chemistry at Columbia University, will deliver an illustrated lecture on the "Modern Aspects of Nutrition," at 8 o'clock tonight in Garrison Hall auditorium.

Relations between nutrition and health and the importance of vitamins in food will be discussed in the lecture. Dr. Sherman's greatest contribution to chemical research has been in chemical problems involving nutrition, although he is considered an authority in many other fields of chemistry.

Dr. Sherman has conducted several nutrition investigations in Porto Rico. During the World War, he was a member of the Elihu Root commission, studying the food conditions in Russia.

"Chemistry of Food and Nutrition," by Dr. Sherman, has been used as a text book for several years in the department of home economics at the University and other schools throughout the country. "Food Products" and "Food Analysis" are also books written by him.

Dr. Sherman is brought to the University by Sigma Xi, honorary science fraternity, the department of home economics, and the department of chemistry. He will deliver a lecture to Sigma Xi on "Enzymes and Vitamins in Modern Chemistry." Friday, March 19.

The reunion is to be held April 18, and will be part of the Round-Up program. W. A. A. is following the example of several other women's organizations in endorsing the cotton dress movement which was started by Mortar Board several weeks ago.

Members of the group were urged by Beth Law, president, to submit their stadium pledges and the lists of W. A. A. members.

FOURTEEN STUDENTS ILL

The University Health Service officials reported the following students ill at Saint David's Hospital Wednesday: Miles Streiber, B. P. Ayres, K. Kendrick, Curtis Driver, Norman Shafer, Robert Kelly, and Lurline Brady. John V. Wheat and Martha Harrell were reported ill at Seton Infirmary. Scottish Rite Dormitory reported Mary Alice Graves and Lucille Starke; and Brackenridge Hospital reported Carolyn Cason. Home visits were made to Marion Robb and Louise Kirk.

graduate instruction at the various state teachers colleges and to restrict to one or two specialized subjects the graduate work in other higher educational institutions except The University of Texas, which would have the main graduate school of the State.

Presidents of practically every higher educational institution of the State attended the hearing Wednesday and participated in the discussion.

Benedict Appears

President H. Y. Benedict of the University was the first one called upon by the Committee. He presented a series of statistics showing that the concentration of graduate students throughout the United States was in state universities or in privately-supported institutions in large cities.

"Graduate work is very expensive as to faculty and equipment," President Benedict said. "Research work calls for much material. The problem is one of dollars and cents and the amount of money available to get the best results. I would welcome a coordinate, economical plan of education by which wasteful duplication might be avoided."

"The University of Texas would welcome any study by the Legislature of such a general plan and organization for education in this state."

"Graduate work is expensive, it is concentrated in large cities and in large institutions, and the entire matter must be worked out in terms of economics. The Board of Regents of the University and I would want to do that which will get best results for the people of Texas out of the money available."

Dr. P. W. Hom, president of Texas Technological College, called attention to the "magnificent distances" in Texas and urged this as a reason for a number of institutions of the first class, giving graduate instruction. He protested against the provision of the bill which would restrict his institution to graduate instruction in engineering. He maintained that graduate instruction in engineering was the most expensive of all types and that it would be economical to allow his institution to give also a master of arts and master of science degrees.

President R. B. Cousins of the College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville asked that no limit be put on the graduate work done at that institution with the exception of work toward the doctor of philosophy degree. He expressed the opinion that The University of Texas would be able to do all the graduate work required.

President L. H. Hubbard of C. I. A. at Denton suggested that an exhaustive survey and study be made of the situation before legislation was passed.

Judge Claude Pollard, a member of the Board of Directors of the College of Arts and Industries, addressed the committee briefly in support of President Cousins' contentions.

A. & M. College was represented by President T. O. Walton who stated that that institution is interested at this time only in graduate work in agriculture and engineering. He did not agree with Dr. Horne that distances made any difference to the student who earnestly was seeking graduate work.

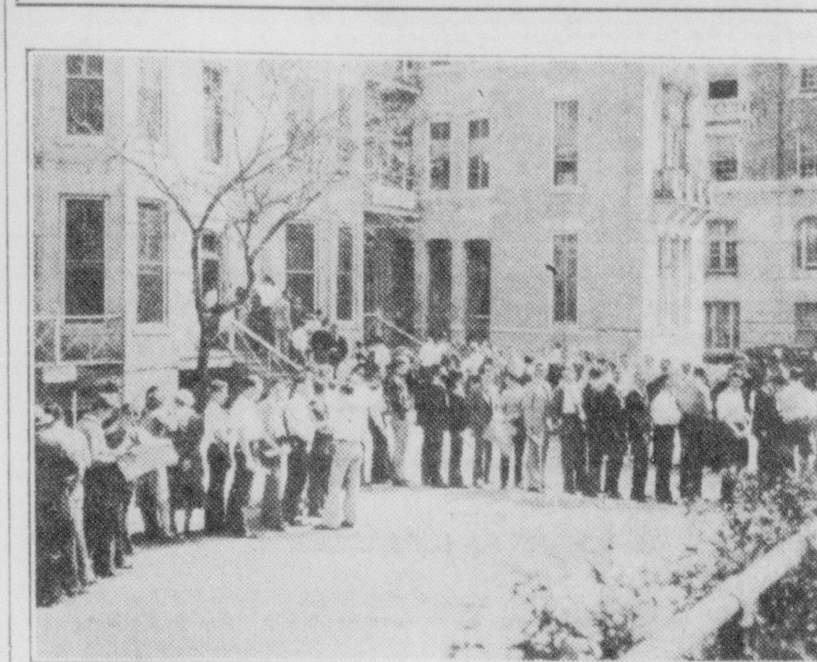

President Joe Hill of the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon spoke for the teachers colleges. The position of the teachers colleges was that as a group they were not so much interested in giving graduate instruction unless the technological schools and other institutions, other than The University of Texas, were allowed to give such work in their special subjects. They made the point that teaching was the special subject emphasized by the teachers colleges and that those colleges should be allowed to give graduate work in that field if certain other institutions were permitted to offer graduate degrees. President Hill expressed the personal opinion that the teachers colleges should give graduate work required by teachers, and that one year should be added to the curriculum of those institutions.

Dr. R. L. Marquis of North Texas State Teachers College at Denton said that there was no demand for a wholesale system of graduate instruction and, in answer to a question from Senator Grady Woodruff, said he would favor one great graduate school at The University of Texas, feeling that the attention was being placed too much upon research and not enough upon actual teaching. He thought that the University should have a laboratory school for the benefit of students in education.

President S. H. Whitley of the East Texas State Teachers College at Sherman said that he

Lady Mary's Wit, Fame Discussed

English Professor Talks To Austin Women's Club

Seated at an oblong table behind a large bowl of Bluebonnets in the south room of the castle-like mansion, the Austin Women's Club, Dr. R. H. Griffith, professor of English in the University, told club members Tuesday afternoon of the life of Lady Mary Pierrepont Montagu, whom he described in the title of his paper as "A Woman of Wit, Wisdom, Beauty and Fame."

Dr. Griffith began his biographical sketch of Lady Mary with the incident of the gay toast to Lady Mary, proposed by her father at a meeting of the Kit-Cat Whig club, and which brought her wit and beauty to the attention of the world while she was still a child of only eight years.

Lady Mary's loss of her mother at an early age and her rather negligent bringing-up by her father, who for the most part left her in the hands of an old governess, were touched upon slightly by Dr. Griffith. He also mentioned her early taste for study, a remarkable mentality which caused her to devour all the books in her father's library and to learn Latin so well that she could read the great classics and make herself a woman of intellectual culture, at a time when there were no schools for girls and when women received only domestic educations.

Basketry Taught To Craft Club Members

THE TRAVEL URGE

Travel is educational. Education makes the mind travel. Travel takes the person out of his physical environment and at the same time forces his mind out of the rut deepened by years of shuttling to and fro in a restricted area.

Distant fields look greener it is true even though the yearner browses in fields which are just as green. The best idea for the curious, the restless and the dissatisfied, then, is to overcome clinging inertia and find out how the remainder of the world lives and loves and struggles. Though the circumference of the earth is some twenty odd thousand miles, the sensations and experiences to be gained by extensive travel far exceed that number.

If travel is education, it naturally follows that the seeker after education, if he is looking for a well balanced diet of learning so to speak, can use travel as the roughage to counterbalance the pap nourishment of book education. To most students travel is no more than a pleasant dream during the years they are actively engaged in degree-striving. Some utilize every available vacation period and the summer months to add labels to the suitcase or yarns to their personal travelogue.

Why the controversy upon the question of which is the best means of travel? Why the bickerings over the respective travel merits of America, Europe, Asia, etc? Are students who travel in clusters and register appropriate amazement when a guide waves at the wonder spots in a grab-and-run tour any more likely to absorb travel satisfaction than the drifting idlers who somehow have never learned to appreciate art galleries, crooked streets or dilapidated cathedrals?

The essential idea is travel as the heart dictates, not as the transport companies suggest.

"Ten cents a shine," was the recent theme song at the University of Oregon when the juniors operated their shoe shining stands all day "Shine day." Now the day has gone and the song too, but the melody and probably the polish lingers on.

SEA-GOING

The Junior Prom is going to be all at sea Friday night when the Seniors and their "masculine" escorts set sail on the yacht which will be transported into Gregory Gymnasium for the occasion. Life buoys scattered about, desk chairs at convenient locations, banners streaming from bow to stern, and the presence of ventilators, will prove to doubting one that they really are yachting.

To climax it all, the orchestra will play from the "poop deck" and the couples will woo and dance to the gentle sway of the boat as it is rocked by the musical waves. It is suggested that the number of chaparrones be increased in order to prevent any unruly "male" from becoming intoxicated with the spirit of the voyage, with the consequent embarrassment of any of the co-eds from the Senior class.

It is hoped that the weather for the trip at sea will be agreeable, otherwise someone might return "all wet."

Sing Sing prison guards will go to school in order that they may be smarter than the crooks they watch. And if the crooks had spent more time at school they might not need so much watching.

DAILY ACTIVITIES

The recent additional feature of The Daily Texan, the Activity Calendar, has received much favorable comment since its introduction three days ago. The purpose of this calendar of campus events is to present in concise fashion a chronological list of all the meetings of the day as gleaned from the news stories in The Texan. In this way, each student of the University can immediately notice anything of interest to him without the necessity of a hasty glance over the paper. Added to this advantage is the elimination of an important announcement to the individual being overlooked by him.

The effort is made in compiling the Activity Calendar to include every event of importance. Notice of activities to those interested is thereby facilitated.

Co-eds at the University of Detroit have been forbidden to converse with the male students at any time on the campus. It won't be long until they have developed some way to overcome this handicap. Will it be sign language or picture drawing?

CO-EDS AREN'T TYPES

Interesting and unusual are the opinions of one Bernard De Voto, instructor at a large mid-western university, about co-education. Having taken his degree from a western college, he had a horror of the very name of co-education. Need of a livelihood, however, forced him to begin teaching in a co-educational institution. His impressions upon entering his first classroom: "You've got to make a living and you merely elect to make it by talking Coleridge to a chorus of ravishing girls, who don't give a damn about poetry and who use your classroom as a convenient place to pry luncheon dates out of unsuspecting males. It's an old delusion that you can educate women. You're not fool enough to believe that any of that ballet has any idea that Coleridge wrote poetry or knows what poetry is."

The longer, however, that Mr. De Voto taught mixed classes, the further he grew away from his first opinion. "The large American University is now a training school. It is engaged in preparing the students for their vocations. In the mass young men come to college to learn how to sell. They'll be damned if they've got any time to waste on wisdom—or knowledge—or beauty—or truth. The women are another matter. In the mass they do not see why they should bother to prepare themselves for dentistry or law, or feel the need to become expert at selling. Their lives have room for the qualities that education once dealt with; knowledge, wisdom, and beauty. That is why they are so significant."

"Above all, co-eds are interested. The college man lives up to the type that has been created for him by the humorous magazines, in that he seems continually bored. His is not the boredom of cynicism, but the boredom that is usually called Philistine. Show him the principles of Mr. Blank's course in Business Psychology that will enable him to close a sale, and he will cast off his lethargy and dig; but through the courses in Greek thought in the Fourth Century or the social institutions of Medieval Spain he wanders somnolent and pathetic. He has no desire for the impractical, breathless, dizzying wisdoms that add stature to the soul. But the co-ed, whether self-consciously or not, is genuinely interested in living by the higher centers of the brain. Education retains for them some of its old adventurousness, and to them there is still some delight to be had in the pursuit of intellectual ends which can never, by any conceivable means, be turned into commissions."

"College men tend to become a type, and, our civilization providing the mould, that type is the salesman. The co-eds, in general, develop into individuals. If, hereafter, our colleges are to preserve any of the spirit that was admirable in their past, I am disposed to believe that the co-eds, those silly and irresponsible young nitwits, will save it unassisted."

Ninety Co-eds are working their way through the University of Hawaii, according to reports in the student newspaper.

Student Forum

The editorial board of The Texan solicits the writing of free-lance editorials or "firing line" articles to be published in the Student Forum columns. Such editorials must be written by University students and must pertain to some phase of student life. All contributions must be signed, but the contributor's name will not be printed if he so requests. Unsigned articles will not be printed. Those of 200 words or less will receive preference.

A few words in regard to the letters of Mr. Joe Glenney seem to be needed. It is my intention to give another side of the question raised by Mr. Glenney, as gathered from discussions with other students on the campus and also my personal opinion. In any line of endeavor today, it matters not so much who or what the man is but results that he produces as what matter. I ask you, Mr. Glenney or anyone else taking Mr. Glenney's view point, what results has Coach Walker produced? Judging from the number of championship teams Coach Walker has turned out the answer is none.

You say that Coach Walker lost his best men through graduation, then how do you account for the fact that this year's squad had four seniors on it? And I defy any man to say that these men were not of championship calibre if they had been handled properly. Captain Fomby got more than his share of the tip offs but what good did this do when there was no man ready to receive said tip off from Fomby. This is no fault of the players either but rather a lack of training.

Do you remember the T. C. U. game that was played in Austin, Mr. Glenney? If so you will recall that the score was rather close during the last few minutes and instead of Coach Walker using a man for man defense he made his men stick to the old zone defense and consequently Texas got beat.

Let us consider the S. M. U. game that was played in Austin. The game ended in a tie, an extra period was necessary, S. M. U. looped a field goal to start the extra period off and then Coach Walker sent in three substitutions. He took out the men who had played S. M. U. to a tie and expected three subs, who had little experience as compared to the regulars, to win a game from a team such as S. M. U. It sounds ridiculous.

It was mentioned that Elkins was seen at Pete's place at ten minutes after eleven on the night before the T. C. U. game. In the first place this was not a nice thing for Mr. Glenney to mention but in the second place it helps prove that Coach Walker is through at Texas. When a Coach fails to have control over his men it is time for that coach to go elsewhere.

Coach Littlefield pulled the Longhorns out of a terrible hole this past season, Coach Ditch has produced championship teams so long that it is getting to be a tradition for Texas to win the baseball championship, only the Texas basketball team is weak. We can not change the men and they are undoubtedly as good as at any other school so why not try changing coaches?

THEATERS

"MY PAST" (Ex-Mistress)—with Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, and Lewis Stone, now through Friday. "Illicit," with Barbara Stanwyck, James Rennie, and Charles Butterworth, midnight matinee Friday night and continuing Saturday through Tuesday. At the Hancock.

"EX-FLAME" (East Lynne)—with Neil Hamilton, Marion Nixon, and Norman Kerry, today through Saturday. At the Queen.

"ALL OF THE FLESH" (Singer of Seville) (*)—with Ramon Navarro, Dorothy Jordan, Renee Aodere, and Ernest Torrence, today and Friday. At the Texas.

HER TEMPORARY HUSBAND—presented by the Harley Sadler Company, tonight, Friday night, Saturday matinee and night. At the tent theater, Guadalupe and Sixteen Streets.

Reviewed Today

PARLOR, BEDROOM, AND BATH, now at the Paramount, has drawn the following squib from an estimate of "fair" from J. A. L. of The Dallas Morning News:

Originally a stage farce, then musical comedy, "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" has now been adapted to the screen by Metro-Gwynn-Mayer with the dead-end Buster Keaton in the leading role. As motion picture producers went to do, the film version has been so altered and rearranged that the screen play is hardly recognizable as the popular stage comedy of fourteen years ago. This change, however, detracts nothing from the film, for an excellent cast has resorted to every known form of comedy, including satire, hokum and slapstick, with the result that the picture is highly amusing.

Buster Keaton's antics start the laughs rolling and Charlotte Greenwood, virtually making a debut in talking pictures, keeps the rolling. The rest of the cast, including Reginald Denny, Cliff Edwards, Dorothy Christy, Sally Henders and the platinum-haired Allie Moorhead, contribute handsomely to the success of the play. Every one in the case seems to be enjoying themselves so thoroughly that the spirit of their clarity seems to pervade the audience.

The story isn't much and doesn't have to be. It involves Buster's change from a shy, recent billposter, thrown by circumstances into wealthy surroundings, into the king of all livers. By winning Dorothy Christy he not only gets a fortune, but makes it possible for money to marry Sally Henders.

Keaton and Greenwood display some perfect pantomime throughout, especially that scene in which Greenwood teaches the naive Buster how to make love.

"MY PAST" ("Ex-Mistress"), now at the Hancock, had its pulse taken by Photoplay, and the following is the verdict:

"And here are Mr. and Mrs. Bebe Daniels—er, beg pardon! It's the Ben Lyons!—playing the romantic leads in one of these ultra-modern love things. Fairly faithful to the book, too. Bebe and Ben are satisfactorily mated where and when required."

ed, and Lewis Stone plays with customary perfection. It's really a delightfully entertaining picture, and there are some swell clothes."

Add: Miss Daniels plays the role of a celebrated actress, mistress of a middle-aged president of a manufacturing concern. She has never loved. On a yachting trip with the manufacturer she meets a young man. They fall desperately in love with each other, spend their first night ashore together at her apartment, separate when the young man's wife cables him that she is returning from Europe. The actress goes back to the manufacturer. The young man's wife divorces him. The manufacturer, recognizing that young love belongs to young love, brings them together again and goes away, comforted by the fact that he has made a grand gesture. And that's the story.

The cast is also graced by Joan Blondell, Natalie Moorhead, Albert Gran, Virginia Sale, and Daisy Belmore.

"CALL OF THE FLESH" is the provocative title under which Ramon Navarro's film originally called "Singer of Seville" will be on the Texas Theater screen today and Friday. It is what is commonly spoken of as a good show, having as its motif a glamor dear to reveries although not found in life. Mr. Navarro plays a none too righteous singer in love with a run-away novice (Dorothy Jordan) whose brother pleads and pleads, for the good of the girl, that she be given up. Interwoven with this is the story of the singer's success as a concert artist, it being found necessary to break his heart before he's worth his salt as a singer. The drama is leavened with the light comedy for which Navarro seems to have a special penchant. Effective characterizations are given by Ernest Torrence and Renee Aodere, with the added advantage of painstaking direction and beautiful photography. Mr. Navarro sings a number of songs both popular and classical, his best efforts being expended in "Pagliacci" of classical content, the sequence being in technicolor.

Estimate: B.

Opening Today

"EX-FLAME," which will be the attraction on the Queen Theater screen today through Saturday, is presented as "a modernized version of the world famous stage play and book, 'East Lynne'." Leading roles in this favorite story of a husband who wronged his wife are taken by Neil Hamilton, Marion Nixon, and Norman Kerry. Just why it should pose as "East Lynne" is something for the question box, for in addition to being modernized, whatever that means, it is changed in many ways, presumably to the advantage of the picture. Even a death and a kidnapping or so have been inserted in the story, with a reconciliation for the final

KANSAS TEACHERS' COLLEGE SENDS IN LIST

By WELDON HART
Texas Sports Editor

Another ineligibility case looms before Texas officials. Cecil Godfrey, candidate for second base, is the lad whose status is questioned.

Godfrey is a transfer from West Texas State Teachers' College at Canyon, where he played baseball under Os Eckhardt, old Steer star. The year before Godfrey played, W. T. S. T. C., along with other members of the T. I. A. A., decided to drop baseball as a conference sport. The following year a team was organized at Canyon which played games with other college teams, but which received no financial aid from the school, being forced to defray expenses as best it could. At the end of the season, strange to say, letters were awarded the free-lance ball-players.

Godfrey received a letter but entered the University under the impression that his year of baseball at Canyon would not affect his eligibility status, since he had not taken part in any official intercollegiate contest. The question of whether he was correct probably will be settled by the Southwest Conference. If that body decides the unofficial games in which Godfrey took part were intercollegiate contests, as the term is used in conference rules, he will be ineligible to play with Texas or any other Southwest Conference school.

While on the subject of ineligibility, hear from Flem Hall, sports editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram on the Ox Emerson case:

"Emerson's case is still hanging fire, and may be until the conference's meeting in May. Dr. E. W. McDiarmid of T. C. U., vice president of the conference, has the case under consideration, but regardless of any decision he makes the matter will be more or less open until the organization 'fathers' had down a joint verdict.

"At present it appears that Emerson has a 50-50 chance to play again.

"Those who have studied the case say they are reasonably certain the captain-elect did not play in 1928, but they admit more than an individual case is involved. It is a question of whether the records shall not be accepted as correct. If Emerson is declared eligible for another season of competition, the records, official and otherwise, will be denied and other young men may step forward and say the records of their participation are also incorrect. Having set a precedent, it would be difficult to deny them.

"It is our guess that, when the final decision is made, it will be, in effect, this: 'Emerson may play in 1931, but hereafter the official records will be accepted

Inquiry From Minnesota Received

Kansas State Teachers' College, Brackenridge High School of San Antonio, and Shiner High School have entered the Seventh Annual Texas Relays, Ed Olle, business manager of intercollegiate athletics, said Wednesday. A wire inquiring as to rebates to contesting teams has received from the University of Minnesota. Since visiting teams are given favorable terms, all receipts being prorated toward their expenses, Mr. Olle expects Minnesota to enter. Individual entries are now above the 300 mark and indications are that about one thousand contestants will participate in the games here March 27.

Trophies which will be awarded to winners were placed in the display windows of Carl H. Mueller, 606 Congress, Wednesday afternoon.

The trophies, including six plaques, six statues, 683 medals, and nine watches, and representing a value of approximately fifteen hundred dollars, will remain on display in the downtown store window until Tuesday, March 24, when they will be moved to the windows of the University Co-Op. They will remain there until the day of the Relays.

Moore Entertains Athletic Council

Members of the athletic council of the University will be entertained with a dinner by V. I. Moore, dean of student life, at Dean Moore's home today, Ed Olle, manager of intercollegiate athletics and manager of the council, said Wednesday.

After the dinner the council will hold a business meeting, at which plans for the Seventh Annual Texas Relays, to be held here March 27, will be completed. The matter of awarding numerals to members of the freshman basketball squad will also be taken up at this meeting, as well as several other important matters, Mr. Olle stated.

Minnie Ingenhuett, Chi Omega, will go to her home in Comfort Saturday and will return to Austin Sunday.

as correct and there shall be no appeal from them."

Standing out amid the rather shaky defense of the Steers in the White Sox game was the work of one Roger Williams, third-sacker starting his second year of competition. Last year Roger, while flashing at times, was unsteady and subject to long spells during which he was unable to handle the ball.

Now he seems to have settled down. His work in the Giant and White Sox games was of high order, and he handled everything which came his way cleanly. The Raja can hit the apple, and his improved defensive work will him a fifty per cent better ball player than he was last season.

Dischmen Play Houston Buffaloes Here Monday and Tuesday

Steer Relay Quartet—All Five of Them

From these five men Coach Clyde Littlefield will pick a mile relay team with which he expects to win the Southwest Conference championship and perhaps chip a few seconds off the present record. Headed by Captain Wilbur Westerfeldt, premier quarter-miler of the section, the Steers have five men who can break fifty seconds when they are in shape. Scott Wilkey, veteran sprinter; Adolph Schiller, half-miler; star; George Stuart, sophomore flash, and Fred Meyer, promising sophomore from Missouri, are the other possibilities.

FIFTY OUT FOR BASEBALL AT T. C. U.

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY TEXAN.
FORT WORTH, March 18.—More than fifty men are reporting daily to Coaches Meyer and Wolf for varsity and freshman baseball practice at Teas Christian. This is the largest number ever to report for the two squads, according to Coach Meyer. There are 25 men reporting for varsity, and 28 freshmen reporting. Three men have joined the varsity baseball squad since the close of the basketball season. Noble on the squad, Adolph Dietzel, first baseman, and Johnny Vaught, outfielder. This is the first week that all aspirants have been out. The return of seven varsity squad men from service at the Fat Stock Show has given the mentor a brighter outlook on the present race.

The Horned Frogs have only two early practice games scheduled so far. Coach Meyer takes his squad to Ennis March 27, and on April 4, the same team comes to the Frog diamond for a return game.

The Frogs will probably play the Fort Worth Cats in the annual two-game series some time the latter part of this month, and negotiations are under way for two games to be played with the Wichita Falls Spudders, another member of the Texas League.

Texas League Relay Entries Expected To Flock in This Week

Big league baseball being over for the Steers, Coach Billy Disch is pointing his crew for games with Houston, Texas League Club, which will be played here next Monday and Tuesday, March 23 and 24. One other contest against professional opposition is on the card, Texas going to Bonham March 26 for a game with Montreal, International League entry.

The Houston Buffaloes, managed by Joe Schultz, are prime favorites among critics for the Texas League flag this year and will play a brand of ball comparable to that exhibited by the Giants and White Sox. Several former major leaguers and several others who are only a step away from the big show are on the Buff roster.

Although the Steers lost to the White Sox by a handy margin Tuesday, they looked more like a ball club than against the Giants a week before. Improvement in hitting was noticeable, although the Dischmen collected only seven blows, the same number as in the opening contest. The boys smacked the ball hard, and all four of the Steer tallies were earned.

White and Ater joined the slugging quartet, Baumgarten, Koy, Sullivan, and Lamm in the hit column. The last mentioned four also picked up another basehit a piece.

The Houston series will give Coach Disch a chance to try out some of his pitchers. Peeples and De la Fuente, who did most of the work against the big leaguers, probably will divide one game, with Howard Tyson and Charley Winton taking the Buffs on in the other.

Delta Delta Delta will hold formal pledge service at the chapter house Sunday night for Ruby Rowe of Fort Worth.

Although the Seventh Annual Texas Relays are almost two weeks off, more than 250 entries have already been made, and the officials predict a greater number than ever before, as entries are expected to begin coming in thick and fast by the end of this week.

Interest in the first entries is being shown more in the Middle West than any other section of the country. Northwestern University, University of Kansas, and Iowa State College, Drake University, Oklahoma University, Washington University of St. Louis, Oklahoma A. & M., and the College of the City of Detroit are the feature entries thus far. A large number of Texas high schools have entered teams in the carnival this year.

The entry of Northwestern is featured by Tom Warne, pole vaulter, who set a new relay record in this event at the last year games with a leap of 13 feet 8 1/2 inches. Until last year Warner was joint-holder of the record with Canby of Iowa State. Northwestern also has a fast two mile relay team, which is entered.

Kansas scored the most points in the meet last year, and the Jayhawks recently won the "Big Six" indoor championship. Seven men are entered this year by this team, and it will enter men in all the events in which they copped first places last year.

The Oklahoma Aggies will enter ter Glass, who equaled Cy land's record in the century the Stock Show track meet at Ft. Worth last Saturday, and Captain Alvin Jenkins, an exceptionally fast distance runner.

Senator Joe Moore, in a brief statement at the close of the hearing, expressed great satisfaction at the interest that had been manifested in the bill and stated the opinion that this marked the beginning of a study and a program of legislation that would have as its goal the establishment of a fixed policy and a general coordinated plan of education in Texas.

No action was taken on the bill Wednesday night, the Committee recessing subject to call the chairman.
