

War News

From International News Service

Summary

Finland agreed to send her special emissary back to Moscow Saturday as she welcomed eight Swedish divisions on the Finnish-Soviet border and was assured of British aid against a Russian invasion. With the exception of a few diplomatic outbursts, Friday was a quiet day on the Western Front.

German bombers winged over Scotland only to be right-about-faced by British ships and sent home. The British press moved a little of the war news to inside pages as it cracked down with a barrage of criticism on Prime Minister Chamberlain and his followers.

Strange as it may seem, Soviet Russia and Turkey reaffirmed their mutual friendship Friday shortly after the Anglo-French-Turkish mutual aid pact had been signed. Naturally, Italian officials spent the day worrying over Turkish actions.

Bulletins

HELSINGFORS — Dr. Juho Passikivi, special Finnish emissary, will return to Moscow Saturday night to continue his discussions regarding Soviet demands upon Finland.

WASHINGTON — In a setting heavy with drama, silver-haired Senator Hiram Johnson of California warned the Senate Friday that repeal of the U. S. arms embargo would place the United States "in the shade, walking down the bloody path to war."

ROME — Political circles in Rome were puzzled Friday as to the ultimate effect upon Italy of the Anglo-French-Turkish mutual assistance pact.

PARIS — German bombing planes which recently raided Britain's Scapa Flow naval base used Scottish regional radio broadcasts as aerial "channels" to guide them to their destination.

MOSCOW — Only a few hours after the Anglo-French-Turkish mutual assistance pact was signed, Soviet Russia and Turkey Friday reaffirmed their mutual friendship.

BERLIN — While delivering a grave warning to Turkey for aligning herself with Britain and France, Germany gave unmistakable indications today that Chancellor Hitler's peace offensive has not been shelved completely.

LONDON — Air raid warnings were sounded Friday morning in South and East Scotland, sending residents to cover in anticipation of a German bombing attack.

U. S. Defense Program

WASHINGTON — A $1,750,000,000 national defense program calling for new warship construction and numerous additions to the military and coast guard establishments has been drafted by four government agencies.

Summarized, the new program tentatively calls for:

- 1 — Laying down of at least one new battleship, several cruisers and a number of submarines and destroyers.
- 2 — Construction of additional aircraft for the coast guard.
- 3 — Provision of approximately $50,000,000 for the army's training maneuvers in southern areas.
- 4 — Substantial increase in Federal Bureau of Investigation personnel for counter-espionage and sabotage prevention.
- 5 — Increase of about $100,000,000 each in the war and navy appropriations.

Argentine Ousts Subs

BUENOS AIRES — The Argentine Government announced Friday that it will not follow the policy of the United States Government regarding belligerent submarines.

The Argentine Government will allow submarines of the warring nations to enter Argentine ports for twenty-four hours, provided they navigate on the surface. It was believed Chile and Uruguay will adopt a similar attitude.

Scotland Gets Scare

LONDON — Appearance of unidentified aircraft, presumably German, over the Firth of Forth and other parts of Scotland caused the air raid sirens to sound over large areas of the British Isles Friday.

Up Avenue, Up Drag 32 Bands to March

Swinging up Congress Avenue through downtown Austin, then over to Guadalupe Street and up the Drag will come marching the members of thirty-two high school bands at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

For today is Band Day!

And on Band Day the girls and boys in motley-colored uniforms parade from the Katy station to the far northwest corner of the University campus. To the beating of drums and the blowing of trumpets they come, for every Band Day high school bands in and near Austin come to a University football game, and their music is their ticket.

Dana X. Bible, head football coach, said Friday that he "particularly wished the members of the bands a very pleasant day." His welcome was echoed by George E. Hurt, director of the Longhorn Band.

Because last year it was necessary for some of the bands to perform for a half-empty stadium in order that all could have a chance to play, Col. Hurt has announced that this Saturday the bands will not play as units at the game.

Instead, an All-Star Band, representing the individual bands, will play at the half.

For the rest of the boys and girls who participate in the morning parade, the game will present no other worries than just sit and watch. They will be admitted into the game free, and may store their instruments in their busses before entering the stadium, where they will be seated as a unit.

School superintendents, principals, and band directors can obtain their game passes from Col. See UP AVENUE, Page 3.

The Gals Must Be a Bit Balmey About This Guy

A Texan reporter Friday called the president of a certain club to follow up on a news tip. Asking for the student, a male, in her best professional tone, she received in reply:

"Now listen, honey, do you like this fellow especially? I'm an old and crippled woman, and I'm just killing myself answering this phone. If you must talk to him so often, call him when he's here. I'll declare, I'm going to get rid of him if this keeps up."

Girls, for his telephone number, call 2-2473 and ask for a Texan reporter named Nell. There'll be a slight charge, of course.

War Ups Costs For Commons

Subs Are Threat
To Books; Drugs

War in Europe is beginning to cost The University of Texas—in time and worry on the part of its officials, and in dollars and cents.

Three effects of the war, and of the submarine warfare in particular, are already apparent. Food costs for the University Commons are increasing. The Controller's Office is finding it more costly and more difficult to buy supplies for the University. The University Library is having to spend more money and go to more trouble to get books from European countries.

"There will be no increase in the cost of meals at the Commons this year," stated Miss Anna Janzen, director of the Commons, when asked what the rise in food prices would mean to University students. Although the Commons even now is selling some foods at a loss, the interest from its reserve fund will tide it over and enable it to avoid advancing prices through this year at least, she explained.

"Virtually everything we buy has risen in price," said Miss Janzen. She cited the cost of meat as an example. For sirloin strips the Commons formerly paid 35 cents a pound; now it pays 48 cents a pound. Even paper napkins cost more nowadays.

Other factors enter into the price increases. For example, the drought in Central Texas has raised the price of feed, and this in turn has raised the price of butter and milk.

But undoubtedly the war is a major factor, Miss Janzen believes. European countries are buying American foodstuffs in See WAR COST, Page 3.

Ex Students' Officers Will Convene Today

The Executive Council of the Ex-Students' Association will meet Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the Ex-Students' Office in the Texas Union. The meeting was called by H. C. Pipkin of Amarillo, president.

Members of the Administrative Council of the University will be guests of the Executive Council at a luncheon in the Union.

FRANK SMITH
... makes a practice of being president.

Law School Chooses Frank Smith President

Frank Smith was elected president of the School of Law Friday in the election run-off, Albert Maverick vice-president, and Charlotte Boeck secretary-treasurer, J. Waddy Bullion, election judge announced.

Smith defeated Faires Wade, and Maverick won over Herbert Petry. Miss Boeck was automatically elected when Ed Butler withdrew from the race for secretary-treasurer.

Apparently Smith makes a practice of being president, for he was president of the Rice Institute student body in 1936-37. He is a graduate of Rice. This year Smith, a senior law student from Houston, is editor of the Law Review magazine, member of Phi Delta Phi and Phi Delta Theta, and past vice-president of the mid-law class.

Maverick is from San Antonio. He is a candidate for the Law Review, a member of Phi Delta Phi, a Cowboy, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and a quiz master in the Procedure courses in the School of Law.

Miss Boeck, of Austin, is a past president of Phi Mu sorority, past president of the Present Day Club, and belongs to the Mortar Board.

Frosh Try Today For Math Prizes

A voluntary examination in mathematics will be held Saturday at 2 o'clock in Waggoner Hall 101 for freshmen who wish to compete for the Brown University Mathematical Prizes. The examination covers the usual admission units in mathematics, namely, elementary algebra and plane geometry.

Prizes last year for first, second, and third places were fifteen, ten, and five dollars respectively. First prize was won by Martin Ettlinger.

These prizes are awarded annually from the interest on a fund established in 1917 by an alumnus of Brown University. For young mathematicians who wish to figure it out, the amount of each prize See FROSH TRY, Page 3.

MICA Membership Climbs to 1,000

"It was the most successful membership campaign we have ever put on," said Pat Wells, president of MICA, summarizing the three-day drive Wednesday through Friday.

He estimated that the membership rolls will carry about one thousand names when a complete check of paid-in dues is made. Friday was the last day on which membership for the first semester could be obtained.

At an open house Friday night, held in Gregory Gym, Arno Nowotny was presented with the first life membership in MICA. The award was presented by Wells.

Gene Saxon was master of ceremonies at the open house which was held as a get-together for new and old members.

Some Rocks Were Rearranged And There Stood a Tea House

By JACK HOWARD

Back in the 1870's a Missourian named William Gardner moved to Austin, married an Austin girl, and built an Austin home. He built the home to live in.

If he came back today, he would find on the lot that once was his, at San Jacinto and Twenty-sixth Streets, a cottage that looks like his and is built of the rocks that were in his house. But he would not be able to live in this house, just eat.

The Home Economics Department is responsible for the change. Nine years ago Miss Mary Gearing, chairman of the department, found the spot. Last May the rebuilt cottage was opened to the public as the Home Economics Tea House.

Discovery of the location on the banks of the small creek came when a committee was planning the route of San Jacinto Street. Miss Gearing was already thinking of the day when her department might want to promote such a project, so asked J. A. Calhoun, comptroller of the University, if she could not "have an option on it." She got it.

Mr. Gardner's former home was rapidly assuming the guise of a pile of rocks, however, before the department felt that the crowds were getting too large for the tea room in the Home Economics Building. Last winter, however, razing crews got to work on the old house; and then building crews got to work on the new one and $26,805.50 was spent.

The same length as the original house, 102 feet, but 9 feet wider, 55 feet, the south wing of the Tea House was built completely from the old rocks, with some to spare. The kitchen, a private dining room, and various small offices are in a frame addition to the north.

Part of the excess stone went to build a patio on the east side of the house, overlooking the pecan tree-shaded creek (now dry). As the place has been open only during the warm months so far, this patio has been very popular.

Inside, the weather is variable. Oscillating fans on the wall of the main dining room have kept it cool.

"And we are ready to put in air conditioning, when the time comes," says Miss Rosalie Godfrey, business director of University residence halls. The cool air would travel through the same conduits which now carry warm air in winter weather. There are also two fireplaces in the room.

This home-like eating place is a training center for students of dietetics. Women students aid, as part of their laboratory work, in the planning, preparing, and serving of meals, and in the managing of the Tea House.

Several regular workers are employed, however, to steady the standard of food coming out of the kitchens. The students, of whom almost a new group enters each semester, are not started out on the preparation of the heavier foods or more See SOME ROCKS, Page 3.

Razorbacks to Give Longhorns First Conference Test Today

Fans Promised Pork at Rally

1,000 Yell as Team
Says 'We'll Win'

"We're going to bring in some hog meat," said little Jack Crain, Nocona's one-man chamber of commerce, as he made the first speech at the pre-game rally in front of Hill Hall Friday night.

And judging from the crowd's reaction, all that was needed to make a good breakfast was about 100 dozen eggs.

Big Park Myers was next up. He looked over the crowd and grinned.

"Not much I can add to that," he said. "Just that we are going to be in there trying all the time."

The rally started just after 7 o'clock when the Longhorn Band and the Cowboys led the way from S.R.D. down past the girls' dormitories. A cheering, shouting, happy crowd stormed its way past the Varsity Theater and Texas Union and finally rushed across the open grounds in front of Hill Hall to mill around for further directions.

It wasn't long before Jimmy Graves, head yell leader, had stepped up on the platform and started co-ordinating the confusion into a rolling, rumbling "Yea, Texas."

Over on the steps of Hill Hall the football boys grinned.

"Boy, when the student's come out like this we feel they are really behind us," one of the football players said.

Jimmy Grubbs got up on the platform and made a short speech.

"We're not going to play like we did against Oklahoma," he declared. "We're going to win."

Then Grubbs pointed out various members of the squad, there was Henry Harkins, then Chal Daniels, next to him Ted Dawson, and on the far end was David Thayer. As each stood up the crowd roared its approval.

There was plenty of spirit in the crowd, which may have been as large as 1,000 people. They had more pep than a Kellogg factory. It is estimated that more than 16,000 will attend the game Saturday.

Editor Will Tell Of European Trip

"American Newspapermen and Their Routine in Europe" will be the subject of a talk by Frank Baldwin, editor of the Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald, to be given in Professor Paul J. Thompson's 10 and 12 o'clock journalism classes November 3.

Mr. Baldwin spent last summer in Europe, visiting the capitals of the countries now at war. He was in Danzig and Poland while they were preparing for war.

Since his return to the United States, Mr. Baldwin has been lecturing throughout Texas. He was the principal speaker at the Delphian Day program at the Dallas State Fair October 11. He is scheduled to give eighteen talks before December 1.

A.E.D. to Give Annual Pre-Medical Smoker

Plans for the annual pre-medical smoker were discussed at the regular meeting of Alpha Epsilon Delta, honorary pre-medical fraternity. The smoker will be held Friday evening, October 27, at 7:30 o'clock in the Junior Ballroom of the Texas Union.

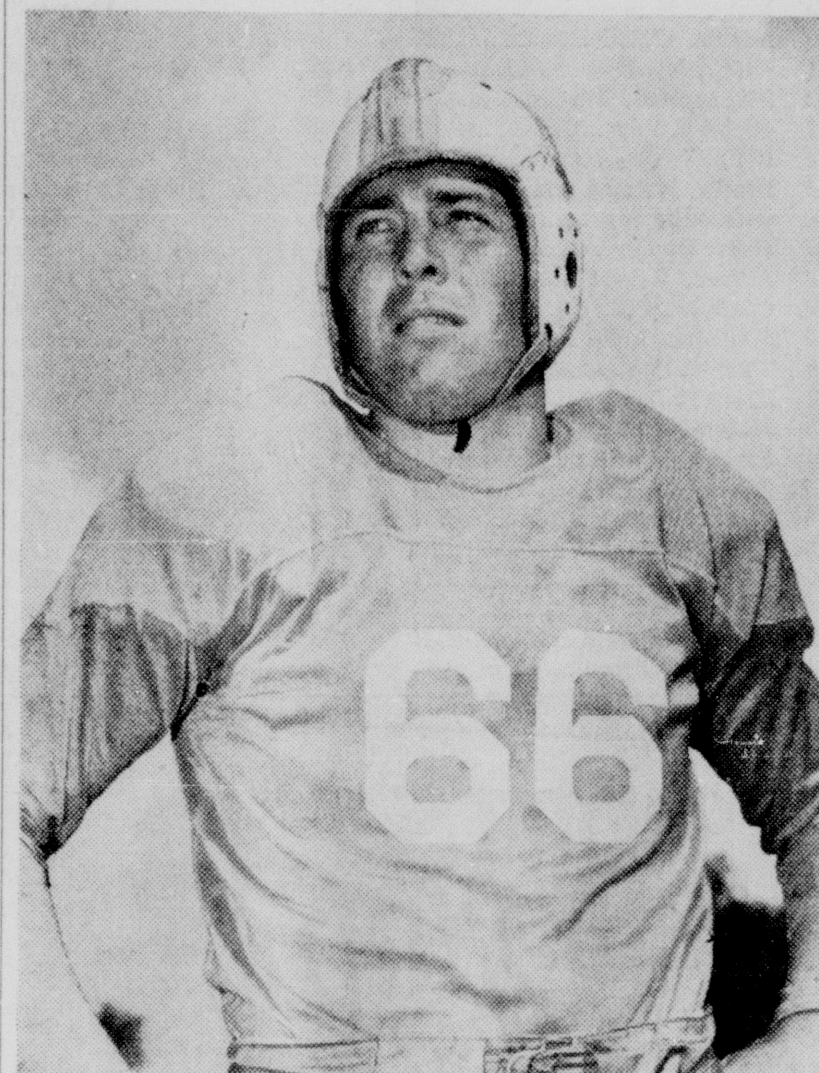

The admission charge will be 25 cents. Tickets may be obtained beginning Monday from the Union Building Office, from any member of A.E.D., or may be bought at the door Friday night.

Hugh Hanson Heads Pharmaceutical Group

Hugh Hanson was elected president of the University Pharmaceutical Association for this semester Thursday night.

Warren Casteel is the new vice-president; Carolyn Tally, secretary; Helen Crews, treasurer; Milton Skolaut, reporter; and Robert Epperson, sergeant-at-arms.

225-Pound Steer—He Tackles

Park Myers, 225-pound Longhorn tackle, will enter his first Conference game as Co-Captain of the Steer eleven today against the Arkansas Razorbacks. Myers, who leads the Texas team along with Right End Ned McDonald, is one of the four linemen who have retained their starting positions under the fire of hard-fighting sophomore reserves.

Myers, one of the squad's few seniors, throughout the pre-conference battles has proved himself one of Coach Bible's most consistent, if not most brilliant, linemen.

Tardy Student Blames School-Yard Gun Fight

Hot Lead Shower
On Congress Bars
Way to University

Late for class, and what teacher would ever believe your story that you were delayed by a bank robber!

But that was the true plight of Mrs. Mildred Walters, visiting student in home economics, who was late to her 10 o'clock class Friday because cops and a robber were "shooting it out" on South Congress.

On her way to school Friday morning, Mrs. Walters, wife of pharmacy student Joe Walters, had gone a short way when State Patrol Captain George Schauer started firing at Howard Tatum, alleged bank robber, on the Fulmore Grammar School grounds.

Tatum had previously held up the Blanco bank, and when he was flushed by Captain Schauer, he jumped out of his car and ran on the school ground where children were playing during recess period.

But so excited was Mrs. Walters when bullets began flying that she turned and walked back into her house.

"I might say I was running when I reached the door," she grinned.

So Mrs. Walters was late to her home economics class.

Blanco Bandit
Tries to Hide
Behind School Kids

Many a time Austin school children have played the old game of cops and robbers, but Friday they took part in a real game where the cops shot at the robber and the robber shot back.

School children in Fulmore Grammar School in South Austin were playing during recess Friday when a sudden gun battle broke out between police officers and Howard Tatum, who allegedly held up the Blanco bank Thursday, robbing it of $1,167.

Bullets whizzed across the school grounds, but the children dropped to the ground, watched the gun-fire, and escaped without injury.

Wounded in the hip was State Patrol Captain George Schauer, while the bandit was shot in the foot. Neither injury was serious.

Captain F. D. Allbright of the Highway Patrol, who participated in the capture, said that he and Constable J. A. Woody of Travis County and Patrol Officer R. B. Butler were cruising on a tip that the robber had held up a motorist at Dripping Springs and took his car. They were traveling on the San Antonio Highway, Meantime See BLANCO BANDIT, Page 3.

Bell Still 'peeling for Girls To March With Longhorn Band

Eight girls Friday answered the Longhorn Band's call for drum majors, as Basil Bell, president, decided to extend the final date of applications to 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The eight girls were: Ann Sebring, Francis Barton Harris, Ruth Dolores Lee, Margaret Grubbs, Jane Armacost, Peggy Bush, Kathryn Nelle Rafter, and Margaret Wiskechil.

The decision to use girl drum majors was made by the executive council of the Band Thursday night. There will be two girl assistant drum majors selected to work with two boy assistant drum majors, under the direction of the head drum major, a boy.

Appointment of the girl drum majors will be good for the duration of the football season only, although they will be used on other parades.

"We think it will work out fine," Bell said Friday night.

Try-outs for the positions will be held at 4:30 o'clock Sunday at Memorial Stadium, and girls who wish to try out may present their qualifications at the Stadium then. It was decided to extend the time for applications to be received because some girls had not had time by 5 o'clock Friday to present their qualifications to the committee.

Visitors' Eakin To Hog Air

Steers to Use Crain
In Early Score Try

If the weather man is right it may not be hog-killing weather this afternoon, but nevertheless Coach Dana X. Bible will send his football team out to slaughter the Arkansas Hogs at 2:30 this afternoon at Memorial Stadium.

The Arkansas squad of 33 players arrived in Austin yesterday afternoon and Coach Fred C. Thomsen ran them through a light drill at the Stadium.

This will be the first conference game of the season for the Steers but the Razorbacks already have played two, winning from Texas Christian and losing to Baylor.

University athletic officials yesterday announced that all students who do not have a blanket tax picture may still get one by having a picture taken at the University Co-Op between 8 and 10 o'clock in the morning. They will be able to get the pictures back by 1 o'clock. No blanket tax holder will be admitted unless he has the picture, officials warned.

It was also announced that all students who had pictures made last Wednesday must have them made over because they were no good.

Today's game will match two teams with light backfields but with a different type of offense. The Razorbacks will rely chiefly on a passing attack with Kay Eakin due to do the tossing and Red Hickey, Maurice Britt, Bill Southerland, and O'Neil Adams doing the catching.

The chief Steer threat will be Jack Crain, change of space specialist who has scored at least one touchdown in every game in which he has played. Crain was particularly sensational against a strong Oklahoma team last Saturday, getting loose for two 71-yard runs. Crain is second in the Conference scoring and is far ahead of the other ball carriers in average gain. He has carried the ball 28 times for 317 yards and an average of 10.61 yards.

The Hogs will have a decided advantage in punting. Eakin had the best average in the Conference last year and was fifth in the nation. This year he has kicked 26 See GRAY RETURNS, Page 2.

Conference Games To Be Broadcast

The Texas-Arkansas football game will be broadcast over KNOW at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon with Eddie Dunn of Dallas announcing and Dave Young presenting the color.

Austin football fans also will have an opportunity to hear two other games involving Southwest Conference teams in Saturday afternoon games. At 1:50 o'clock, KTEM of Temple will broadcast the Baylor-Nebraska game being broadcast from Lincoln, Neb. At 2:30 o'clock, the Texas Quality Network and WOAI in San Antonio will present the T.C.U.-Texas A.M. game to be played in Fort Worth.

At 7:45 o'clock Saturday night, KNOW will broadcast the St. Edwards-Daniel Baker game, with Conrad Vernon announcing and Alvin Cowan presenting the color. Vernon and Cowan are University students.

Regents Will Meet For Routine Business

The University Board of Regents will meet on the campus Saturday morning for their second meeting since the opening of the 1939-1940 Long Session. Only routine business matters were scheduled for the docket, and it is possible that the business items will be considered in time for the members to attend the Texas-Arkansas football game in Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon.

The Board last met on September 30 and adjourned in time to see the Longhorns defeat the Florida Alligators, 12-to-0.

Ed 'Yankee' Cardner, Halfback, Breaks Leg in Freshman Scrimmage

Injured Trying To Make Tackle

Park, Mauldin Do Well in Practice

By L. W. BROOKS JR.

Texas Sports Staff

A prospective afternoon of hard football for the University freshmen was interrupted Friday when Ed "Yankee" Cardner, halfback from Atlantic Highlands, N. J., broke his leg. "Yankee," as he is known by his teammates, was attempting to tackle Ralph Park when he was injured. He is being treated at St. David's Hospital.

Although his leg pained him, Cardner was more disconcerted because it was the first time he had been able to show the coaches what kind of football he could play.

As planned for each Friday, the freshmen were playing their intra-squad scrimmage when Cardner was hurt. Continuing only a short time after the accident, the Yearlings did play some hard, rugged football.

Ralph Park demonstrated some of the "Jack Crain type" of ball carrying with several nice runs. The only thing that might have taken your eye from Park's running was the defensive play of Stanley Mauldin.

The freshmen will begin Monday a week of intense practice preparing for their first conference game of the year when they meet the Rice "Slimes" Friday night at House Park.

Soldiers Shoot At Injured Frogs

FORT WORTH, Oct. 21—(INS)

—The Texas Aggies, who think they have trouble with injuries, were scheduled to arrive in Fort Worth this afternoon and learn from Texas Christian what real trouble is like. Coach Homer Norton issued a new probable starting lineup because of damage to a few of his starters. T.C.U. lost its only reserve quarterback yesterday when Kyle Gillespie's bad knee gave way, and he will be out probably for several weeks. Since Jack Odle is still out of uniform, this leaves the Frogs only one regular quarterback, Rusty Covart. Logan Ware, regular right half, also is out because of arm and knee injuries.

DALLAS, Oct. 20—(INS)—Escorted by a fire truck and a detail of police, Marquette University's Golden Avalanche came into Dallas today for the game Saturday with Southern Methodist. The coaching staff was to have a special luncheon today with Texas State Fair officials and members of the S.M.U. faculty.

Meanwhile Coach Matty Bell of the Mustangs reported his team was in good physical condition, but expressed doubt as to its mental balance—that is, he thinks his boys are too cocky about the prospects of an easy win. Only three players, Joe Pasqua, tackle, Horace Young, blocking back, and Dick Miller, running back, will be unable to play.

HOUSTON, Oct. 20—(INS)—Coach Jimmie Kitts of the Rice Owls plans to take no chances of losing the game against Sam Houston Teachers, which most of the Rice fans think is in the bag. He said he would start the entire first string, including Ernie Lain.

Dr. Miller to Resume Teaching Next Week

Dr. Edmund T. Miller, professor of economics, who recently recovered from an illness that has kept him from classes this semester will resume teaching next week, members of the Department of Economics said Friday.

Except for the long term 1927-28, when he served on the State Tax Commission, Dr. Miller has taught continuously in the University since 1909. He specializes in finance.

SPORTS BILLBOARD

By Clyde LaMotte

Following our custom of inviting the sports editor of the rival paper to write a guest column for Sports Billboard, we wrote to Fayette Locke, sports editor of the Arkansas Traveler, University of Arkansas paper. Yesterday we received the following wire from him:

No prediction due to lost ouiji board. Suggest you consult agricultural judging team for Hog-Steer blue ribbon award. Say, suppose he thinks this is A.&M.?

Yesterday afternoon Don Paterson and I spent a pleasant half-hour chatting with genial, ruddy-faced Fred C. Thomsen, head coach of the Hogs. He is a husky, well-built fellow who looks as if he might do right well on a football team himself. Fact is Thomsen has done quite a bit of playing. He played for three years at Nebraska—one at end and two in the backfield. Later he played professional ball.

Thomsen has one record that's hard to beat. He's been at the Ozark school since 1929, and there is no sound of howling wolves at present. Over that span of ten years he has won two championships—the first in '33 and the second in '36. If you don't think that is such a good record you should realize that Arkansas never won a championship under any other coach, including Francis Schmidt, who is now at Ohio State.

Ever since I've been around this school Arkansas has beaten us. Last year the Hogs really went wild, rolling up that terrible (for us) 42-6 score. So yesterday I asked Thomsen about the game.

"It was terrible," he said surprisingly. "We didn't deserve to beat Texas that badly, but everything we did that day was right and everything the Steers did was wrong. Why, I even had fourth stringers in there part of the time in the last half and they scored two touchdowns."

Texas has played Arkansas twenty times and has beaten the Hogs fifteen of those times. But since 1934 Arkansas has won all of them. I asked Thomsen if he could remember the days when the Steers gave him trouble. He groaned.

"Yes, they used to give us some sound lickings," he admitted. He mentioned Stafford and Koy as two of the Texas players who had dealt him the most misery, stating that Stafford was the greatest defensive back he had ever seen in the Southwest Conference. Finally we got around to a discussion of this year's teams and Thomsen admitted that he feared the Steers. "You have a dangerous team here this year," he said. I questioned him about the defeat the Hogs suffered last Saturday at the hands of the Baylor Bears. He didn't hesitate in telling me that the Bears have a good team. "Jennings has the best team up there this year he has ever had since I've been sending teams against him," Thomsen said.

Injuries have hurt the Hogs a lot. In the Baylor game, for example, Thomsen had to get along without his first three ranking ends. Eakin was not in top shape, either, but he managed to play some darn good ball. There are still a lot of injuries on the squad now. The Hog coach had to leave two of his guards at home and several of the players he brought along are not in good shape. Among those on the injured list are Eakin, Cole, Britt and Freiberger. All will likely see action, however, with the exception of the tall Freiberger.

After watching the Hogs in action, however, I didn't waste too much sympathy on Thomsen in regard to the end positions. Adams (brother to the Adams who caused us so much trouble here last season with those leaping overhead shots in basketball games) looked o. k. Adams is just a sophomore but he is doing right well. He is the boy who scored both the touchdowns against Texas Christian. Another very adept pass catcher is Sutherland, an end. He was hauling in everything they threw in his direction yesterday, going after the ball easily and naturally and handling it like a basketball.

I had heard reports that the Hogs were going in for more running plays this year and Thomsen admitted that he had planned to do so but that he had not discovered a running attack that would work with his light backfield. He does have a bunch of lightweights in that backfield, too, making it about equal in poundage to the Steers.

Gray Returns To Reinforce Grubbs, Crain

times for a total distance of 1,090 yards and an average of 41.9 yards.

For Texas, Bullet Gray and R. B. Patrick will probably do most of the punting with Crain and Gilly Davis likely doing the quick-kicking.

It promises to be a spectacular game, therefore, with the Hogs tossing a great many passes and mixing in some "running" plays while the Steers will be trying to shake Crain loose on wide end sweeps or sending Patrick into the line. The Hogs are undoubtedly stronger at kicking and passing, but have as yet failed to uncover a running threat equal to Crain.

Texas fans are cheered by the fast that Bullet Gray will be back in the line-up to share the line backer position with Jimmie Grubbs. Gray, because of his experience, his defensive ability, and his punting, will start the game with Grubbs ready to relieve him.

Crain will start, too. Until now Coach Bible has been starting Davis, saving Crain until he felt that the other team was tiring. By starting Crain, the coach may intend for the Steers to make their scoring bid early in the game.

In the backfield with Crain and Gray will be Nelson Puett, reliable pass defender, and Patrick, Stan Neely, end, Jack Freeman, guard, and Henry Harkins, center, will be in the starting line-up along with the usual starters—Ned McDonald, end, Park Myers and Don Williams, tackles, and Ted Dawson, guard.

Coach Thomsen plans to start his first-stringers, although not all of them are in top physical condition.

The Razorbacks are slight favorites today because of more weight, experience and height. In addition the Hogs are expected to take fullest advantage of the pass defense of the Steers.

Here Are Some Football Scores

Following are the scores in some high school football games played Friday:

- Mirabeau Lamar (Houston) 13, Jeff Davis (Houston) 6.
- St. Edward's Prep (Austin) 6, Kirwin (Galveston) 2.
- Paschal (Fort Worth) 14, Riverside (Fort Worth) 14.
- McAllen 26, Mercedes 2.

- And in some college games: Lon Morris 14, Hillsboro College 7.
- Schreiner 32, Texas Lutheran 0.
- Kilgore Junior College 25, Weatherford Junior College 0.
- Lamar 7, Centenary Frosh 0.
- Paris Junior College 27, Decatur Baptists 0.

'SENSE' IS HEALTH AID

In moderation and wise expenditure of leisure time can be found the "common sense" solution for possible ill effects from the sustained, fast pace of modern day living, says George W. Cox, state health officer.

"Those who are burning the candle at both ends could well stop to consider," he says, "that the excessive use of stimulants, consistent loss of sleep, and other nerve-shattering practices are the real allies of nervous breakdowns, neurotic conditions, and more serious mental manifestations."

Austin Licks Laredo, 13-0, As Raven, Lewis Combine

By BILL WHITMORE

Texas Sports Staff

Austin High's undefeated and untied Maroons scored their sixth consecutive victory and second straight District 15AA win last night as they overpowered the Laredo Tigers, 13 to 0, at House Park.

Travis Raven, leader of the Maroon offense this season, once again directed the Austin team's attack, but left the scoring honors to little Pete Lewis, halfback, and substitute end Lewis Holder.

Austin made its first touchdown in the middle of the first quarter when Duane Coltharp, left end, recovered a fumble by Pogell, Tiger safety, on the 28-yard line as the Laredo back was hit hard by several Maroons. Austin picked up 12 yards on a pass from Raven to Jack Allison, right end. The Maroons were thrown back to the 20-yard line on three downs, but on the fourth down Raven passed to Coltharp for a first on the 9-yard line. Raven went over left tackle to the 2-yard line, from where Lewis went over right tackle for the score. Raven's try for extra point was blocked.

Lewis, who was a valuable running mate to Raven, set up the next touchdown with a 50-yard run to the Laredo 19. Raven carried the ball to the 15 on two plays, and then diminutive Johnny Lucius, veteran halfback, made a first down on the 8 on a spinner. Lewis picked up one yard on two spin plays, and the Maroons finally got the ball over when Raven whipped a pass to Lewis Holder, who took a pass from several Tiger defenders. For the extra point Raven faked a kick and sped around right end.

Starting line-ups were: Austin: Coltharp, lg; Dippery, lt; Griffith, lg; Giles, c; Swenson, rg; Larsen (c), rt; Allison, re; Nelson, qb; Lewis, lb; Lucius, rh; Raven, fb; Laredo: Hein, lg; Nichols, lt;

THE ARKANSAS Razorbacks are big and ugly but they are not tough—not after having been properly barbecued last week by a collection of devout, Neff-fearing Baptists. If the booming Sooners of Oklahoma, the speedy Badgers of Wisconsin, and the agitated Aligators of Florida could not stop that scot man from Nocona, "Boots" Crain, how can a box-car full of mountain williams with one leg shorter than the other do any good? What will you have—pork chops, pigs feet, or tenderloin? Texas 19; Arkansas 7.

Unless the local volunteers can rig up some captive balloons with nets to stop the Hog aerials the ball will be singing through the air like a one-way tennis game. Those midget backs on the Longhorn squad will make about as much headway with their pass defense as a dull beaked mosquito in a wax museum. Texas 6; Arkansas 27.

Austin Mobilize for Human Needs for 1940

The city of Austin has been unceasingly vigilant in relieving human suffering and trying to better living conditions of all classes, especially the poor. But the war against ANTI-SOCIAL forces in every urban community must be hugely supplemented by voluntary efforts and contributions.

The Austin Community Chest is your legal and publicly-endorsed agency to receive and disburse voluntary contributions and to mobilize this community for human needs.

Four Teams Win Leagues; Softball Ends Next Week

Four softball teams, two fraternity, one MICA and one club, fought their way to bracket championships in the University's intramural league Friday afternoon.

Sigma Nu shaded Phi Gam, 3-2, in a top notch mound duel to win its bracket. Bobby Taylor, with three for three, paced the Sigma Nu offensive, as Lewis McDonald kept Phi Gam batters in check. Phi Gam Jimmy Smyth's triple pushed across both the losers' tallies.

Phi Psi won its bracket by nosing out a fighting Chi Phi team, 4-3, in a twelve innib marathon. Brion Dillon pitched well to gain the win as he was given first class support by his teammates.

L.C.D. smothered the Presbyterians, 8-1, in another bracket championship tilt. Powerful hitting by G. E. Martin and Bill Choniski paved the way for L.C.D.'s triumph.

The Wukashians, playing heads up ball, took Hutchinson House's measure, 10-4, to gain their bracket championship.

Non-title games saw the Zippers down Wilkes House, 6-5, in a close fray and the Progressive Czechs outscore the Rinky Dinks in another close game, 7-6. The Czechs needed an extra inning to win.

Kappa Sigma trampled the Phi Sigs, 9-3, behind Tom Moore's fast ball flinging. All the Phi Sig counters came in a final inning rally.

Theta Xi edged past Pi K. A., 1-0, in a hard-fought defensive struggle. Claude Wallace, with ten strike-outs to his credit, was the winning pitcher.

P.E.M., Hunt Chapman leading the onslaught with four bingles, won from Pflugerville, 7-2. The teams play again Tuesday for the bracket title.

Tejas Club topped Prather Hall, 5-2. These teams also play again Tuesday for their bracket championship.

Championships in the three divisions, fraternity, MICA, and club, will be decided Wednesday and Thursday, with inter-division finals Friday.

Press Club to Go To Bastrop Park

Pencils, scratch pads, and typewriters will make way for baseball, bats, and mosquitoes, when the Press Club member take off Sunday at 2 o'clock for Bastrop State Park.

A superfluity of reporters, thirsty to be exact, will be turned loose, and this time they won't be nosing for news. Smell of hot dogs, will be the "news tip" that the dinner gong will soon be a sound.

And above the din of it all, a speech may be heard. J. Howard Lumpkin, newly chosen radio director, will talk about "Radio in the News." Punctuating this talk and the "courses" of dinner will be music played on the side lines, and this won't be exactly a concert in the park.

War Costs --

enormous quantities and consequently the prices shoot upward. England, especially, is creating food scarcities. The Commons this year was unable to get its dried fruit supply from the usual source, a large packing firm in California. The firm had sold its entire stock, hundreds of thousands of pounds in dried fruit, to the British Government.

How high the food prices will go is simply a matter of conjecture. "It's a nerve-racking business," said Miss Janzen.

War is troubling the Comptroller's Office chiefly by making shipping contracts uncertain. J. W. Calhoun, comptroller, stated. In buying supplies for the various schools and departments of the University, the Office must make its bids immediately, and with the expectation that the importing agency may not be able to live up to its agreement.

In general there has been only a slight increase in prices, although prices on imported drugs for the School of Pharmacy have been fluctuating considerably. The cost of electrical equipment has shown a definite rise.

To the University Library war means added insurance costs and a potential decrease in the flow of foreign books to the Tower stacks. So far, the effect has been slight, said Alexander Moffit, assistant librarian.

Because of the submarine menace, the Library now pays an insurance rate of 2 per cent on all shipments, he said. Also, it is difficult to obtain back copies of recent issues of German books, for in order to conserve paper the Germans are publishing only periodicals for which they have subscriptions. There are no extra copies.

Paper shortage may eventually curb German book supplies more stringently, but at present it seems likely that the books will continue to come to America as usual, by way of Holland or Italy.

The book business in England and the neutral countries has not been affected as yet. The French trade, however, has been seriously affected by the war. French book firms are usually small, and their staffs and often their proprietors have been mobilized.

Education Organ To Be Issued Soon

The first issue of "Education Today" will be published late this month, Dr. James G. Umstadd, editor, has announced. The magazine is designed in part to provide a medium for the exchange of educational ideas between the United States and Latin America.

Dr. Umstadd, professor of secondary education, is being aided by an advisory committee from the School of Education, including Dean B. F. Pittenger, chairman; Dr. F. C. Ayer, Dr. Frederick Eby, Dr. D. K. Brace, Dr. Hob Gray, and Dr. Clara M. Parker.

Among the first contributors will be Dr. Palmer O. Johnson of the University of Missouri; Dr. C. H. Thurman of Southern Methodist University; Dr. J. E. Grinnell of Terre Haute, Ind.; Dr. H. O. Soderquist of Wayne University in Detroit, Mich.; and Dean Pittenger, Dr. Gray, Dr. Parker, and Dr. J. L. Henderson, all of The University of Texas.

Blanco Bandit --

Captain Schauer, traveling in another car, had already flushed the bandit and his car and passed Albright's car in the chase.

Albright and his men joined in a mad chase toward Austin. Near the outskirts, Tatum apparently saw the school children playing at recess and thought if he ran toward them the officers would stop shooting. He jumped from his car, shooting.

Schauer skidded to a halt and as he stepped out of his car a bullet caught him in the hip. He staggered, then started pouring lead at Tatum. There were numerous spectators. There is a small community center at the spot. Somebody yelled to the school children, "lay down!" And most of them obeyed. Meanwhile Albright and his officers had joined in the fight. Tatum had taken refuge behind a tree.

He apparently emptied his guns—he had two, Albright said, a .45 and a .38—and surrendered.

DOLLEY TO TALK

Dr. J. C. Dolley, professor of banking and investments and chairman of the Intercollegiate Athletic Council in the University, will speak on "Is Man's Best Friend the Bank?" Monday night at 8 o'clock at Austin High School at Twelfth and Rio Grande Streets. His talk will be the first of a forum and lecture series sponsored by the Austin Public Evening School. The public is invited.

Dr. Dolley has written many articles for economic and business publications, including the Texas Business Review, of which he is financial editor, the American Economic Review, Howard Business Review, and the Banker's Magazine.

Allison, Van Ryn Win City Tennis

Kamrath, Batjer
Lose 1-6, 1-0, 3-6

Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, former world's doubles champions, swept through Bob Kamrath and Henry Batjer easily in the finals of the Austin tennis doubles tournament yesterday afternoon on the Penick Courts, to retain their city title, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3.

Flashing excellent overheads, volleys, and returns of services, displaying very good teamwork, and making few errors, Allison and Van Ryn far surpassed Kamrath and Batjer as a doubles combination during most of the match. They had the spectators, who nearly filled the stands, wondering if they still couldn't be one of the best net teams in the nation.

It was a slam-bang match all the way, as all four contestants are of the hard-hitting type. Batjer was not playing up to par, or it would probably have been much closer. He missed many shots just barely netting the balls. Allison and Van Ryn played Batjer a good bit more than they did Kamrath, hitting to his backhand most of the time.

Some of Kamrath's forcing backhand drives and sideline shots brought the greatest applause from the fans. Van Ryn made remarkably few errors, while Allison's superb volleys and hard drives probably accounted for more points won.

Kamrath and Batjer were able to win their services only three times during the entire match, although Kamrath started off by capturing the first game. Batjer won his service once in the second set and once in the final one. They broke Van Ryn's service once and Allison's once, both in the third set.

In the finals of last year's tournament, Allison and Van Ryn conquered Kamrath and Maurice Fincher, captain of the Varsity team who played in this meet with Reuben Riskind. Fincher and Riskind bowed to Allison and Van Ryn this year in the semi-finals, 6-1, 6-1. Kamrath and Batjer defeated Mrs. Van Ryn and Harry Thornberry, 6-2, 6-1, in their semi-finals contest.

The parade will leave Fourth Street and Congress at 10:30 o'clock, proceeding up Congress to Eleventh Street. It will go west on Eleventh Street to Lavaca, north on Lavaca to Nineteenth Street, and west to Guadalupe. The bands will then march north on Guadalupe to the northwest corner of the campus at Twenty-fourth Street, where the bands will be dismissed.

As soon as the parade dismisses, all members of the All-Star Band will meet with Erwen Gathright, drillmaster of the Longhorn Band, at Memorial Stadium.

The bands which will participate and the order in which they will march in the parade are as follows: Austin, Hearne, Bastrop, Belton, Lockhart, Taylor, Nixon, San Marcos, Temple, Giddings, Evant, Seguin, Brackenridge (San Antonio), Devine, Trinity, New Braunfels, Yorktown, Karnes City, Georgetown, Martindale, Elgin, Manor, Marlin, Cleburne, Kilgore, Smithville, Waxachachie, Cuero, and Tivy (Kerrville).

The Allan Junior High, Austin, and the University Junior High bands will also participate in the parade.

The Cactus

Tower Chimes

HAVE YOU MISSED those chimes at the noon hour this year? Remember the religious, collegiate, and folk tunes we used to hear every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 12:50 to 1 o'clock as we left the campus at the lunch hour? The carillon of bells hasn't been played this year. Somehow the short concerts were a peg on which to hang your school spirit. They were something definite you could say made you love your school more. You liked to think they might become a sort of tradition with the University.

The seventeen bells were installed soon after the completion of the tower. Their total weight is approximately 40,000 pounds and the average cost was $1 for each pound. For some time they were played only on special occasions.

Then Marion Carnes, 17-year-old student from Houston, started giving the short concerts three times a week. The College of Fine Arts, under the direction of Dr. E. W. Doty, dean, aided in making arrangements for the carillon concerts. Carnes was an organ student and this was his first time to undertake playing such an "instrument." The first concert was given November 8, 1938, and "The Eyes of Texas" was played that day. Thereafter Carnes invited requests from listeners for selections and each day of a concert the pieces to be played were announced in the Texan.

Why are there no noon-time concerts this year? J. W. Calhoun, comptroller, says it costs about $20 or $30 a month to maintain them. However, if the students really would like to hear them and there is expression of such desire on their part, the concerts probably will be arranged. So far there has been little comment from the student body as a whole.

Give Neighbor

DURING THE PAST WEEK, University staff and faculty members have organized a campus campaign to raise funds for the Austin Community Chest drive which gets under way in the city during the coming week. A goal of $57,836.30 has been set and the twelfth annual campaign has already taken an optimistic air in that advance contributions have been very pleasing. But $57,000 is a lot of money and the campaigners realize that their optimism must be reserved until after the conclusion of the drive on November 1.

With Mayor Tom Miller as general campaign chairman and Dean W. R. Woolrich of the College of Engineering as campus chairman, taking the lead, several hundred Austin women will make a house-to-house campaign in soliciting funds. They will have plenty of worthy causes of which they may tell to the contributors.

Included in the proposed budget for the coming year are seventeen organizations which appear under five budget divisions. Groups included under family service and relief are Austin-Travis County Citizens Welfare Board, Family Service Society, Salvation Army, Travis County Association for the Blind, and the Emergency Relief Fund.

The division for the care of dependent children includes the Child Protective and Humane Society, the Home of the Holy Infancy, the Settlement Club, Home, Mexican Soup kitchens, and the Negro Community Chest.

Altenheim and the Old Negro Woman's Home are listed under care for the aged, while Girl Scouts and Y.W.C.A. are included in the youth appropriations. For efficiency and common service, benefits have been provided for the Council of Social Agencies and Social Service Exchange, campaign expenses, and chest administrative expense. Also, a fund of $3,600 has been reserved as collectible pledges.

This year Austin ranks third among Texas cities in construction, headed only by Houston and Dallas. The total construction values expended in Austin for the first seven months of 1939 exceed the same months of 1938 by 59 per cent. Private building values are 40 per cent greater than last year for that same first seven months.

The thousands who have moved here to make Austin their home, increasing the city's population by about 50 per cent in nine years, have demonstrated Austin's attractiveness and its unexcelled qualities as a city to live in.

Despite this, however, the City of Austin has fallen behind other cities of approximately the same population in Texas, in so far as Community Chest funds are concerned. In 1938, Austin raised $45,777, while the five other Texas cities in the same population class as Austin, raised from ten to seventy thousand dollars more.

Waco raised $83,529. Beaumont contributed $118,669. El Paso pledged $100,000 and Galveston collected $62,500, while Amarillo pledged $54,396.

Austin should surpass these cities in their contributions and head the list as it heads other signs of progress in business and advancements made by Texas cities of this size.

There are 10,000 students in the University and probably twice this number of Austin residents residing in the University area. The University section of the city should be willing to do its share in aiding the Community Chest in meeting its 1939 goal.

The Community Chest has a great program to carry out and a great many people must lend their assistance in making a successful program possible. A Greater University should have the interests of a Greater City of Austin at heart. A high welfare rating for the city will not only help Austin but the University as well.

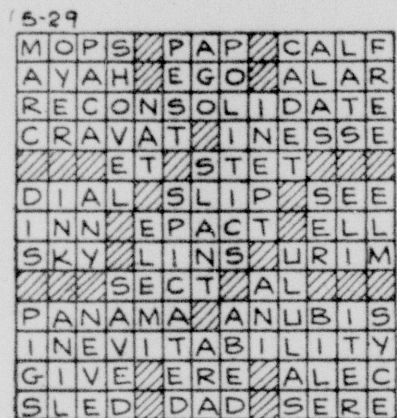

Last year, the University met its quota in Community Chest pledges. The attitude displayed at the campus organization meetings this week indicates that the University is again willing to do its part.

The Firing Line

DEAR EDITOR:

I've been wondering how an amusement staff, which apparently should see enough picture shows to know the good ones from the "rotten," could possibly pass on some of the shows playing, recently. For example: the picture, "Rio," which was shown at the State last week, was called passable by the Texan, also undisturbing and one that would allow the reader to go back to his work without thinking about it. Passable is entirely too flattering for that show, which did not have a single amusing scene in it.

I can't help but believe that the editor of the amusement column felt very much the same way about it that I and the rest of the audience did, unless it was made worth his while to enjoy it.

Undisturbing—I was exceedingly disturbed by the thirty-five cents that I wasted—to say nothing of the time. I would have felt cheated, even if I had gone on a pass.

I think that it should be the duty of the Texan to give an honest, unbiased opinion of the shows, as the majority of students have neither the time nor the money to see all of the shows that Accustomed as we are to the violent exhortations of newspaper columnists and soap-box orators, it is hard for us to realize the size of the bombshell which Ambassador Joseph C. Grew threw into Japanese-American relations in his speech before the Japan-America Society in Tokyo Thursday when he declared that the United States acutely resented Japan's invasion of China.

Diplomats don't have a habit of going around telling one country that another country "resents" its foreign policy. It just isn't being done. Yet Ambassador Grew, for twenty-five years one of the ablest and most reliable diplomats in our foreign service, did it. He must have had an excellent reason.

Some weeks ago, this column noted the fact that the United States is the only Western power still in a position to oppose Japan's imperialistic aims in the Orient. Apparently, that is just what we are preparing to do.

There can be little doubt but what an address as laden with potential international dynamite as Mr. Grew's was approved, if not actually inspired, higher up. Someone have had a president who took such a direct interest in the conduct of our foreign relations as does Franklin Roosevelt. Someone also have had as astute an international chess-player at the head of our government as is President Roosevelt. In spite of his crackpot ideas about domestic problems, when the president speaks of foreign affairs, he knows what he's talking about and we would do well to listen.

Imperialism, or aggression as we have come to call it, in any form is acutely distasteful to Mr. Roosevelt, and he does not intend to allow it to run roughshod over any part of the world if he can find any peaceful means of stopping it. He still believes what he said in his premature Chicago speech about quarantining aggressor nations just as fervently as he believed it then. He has merely been biding his time waiting for public opinion to form on his side.

Although the public is still not so solidly behind him as it might be, it is considerably more so than it was three years ago. The time is propitious for other reasons. In the first place, the public ought to welcome having its attention diverted from a major war to a relatively minor one. In the second place, the president is confronted with doing something in the Orient now or perhaps not doing it at all. As we have pointed out before, the United States is the only power left who can possibly influence Japan's actions; and nothing impresses the Japanese so much as does quick and decisive action with an appreciable show of force. That is just what the president intends to give them if he is not again howled down by the cries of isolationists and pacifists.

He does not intend to give them anything more, however. The president means it when he says he hates war. He would rather go down in history as the great peace-maker than as the great liberal. All his efforts in Europe have been unavailing and any more he might make will be less than futile. There is still a possibility, however, that he might save something of what is left in China. That possibility can materialize, however, only if he is given a free hand, as was intended by the Constitution, in his dealings with Japan. His efforts deserve all the support public opinion can give them.

JUST A BREEZE

A Daily Texan sports reporter under the influence of the 1939 European war might give you something like this on the Texas Arkansas football game.

HOG COMMUNIQUE NO. 1

Little Rock . . . Coach Thomsen sends a copy of Austin paper to Coach Bible by special messenger in which Coach Bible stated that he expected to have a much stronger team this year with better reserves and a more varied defense. Coach Thomsen demands a retraction and an apology.

STEER COMMUNIQUE NO. 1

Austin . . . Coach Bible declares Coach Thomsen is seeking to cause internal dissension in Texas with his malicious accusations. Coach Bible produces newspapers of past four years in which Coach Thomsen made basically the same statements as those for which he is demanding a retraction and apology.

HOG COMMUNIQUE NO. 2

Little Rock . . . Coach Thomsen makes a radio address to the people of Arkansas setting forth his principles of good football and appealing to them not to be misled by the flood of Texas propaganda. If need be, every loyal man of Arkansas will take up cleats and headgears rather than be subjected to submission of an outside team.

STEER COMMUNIQUE NO. 2

Austin . . . Coach Bible, before his board of strategy, proclaims a policy of watchful waiting. News

HOG COMMUNIQUE NO. 3

Little Rock . . . Coach Thomsen says his men are the mightiest in the land and if Coach Bible forces them to defend what rightfully is theirs they are prepared to battle indefinitely. It is reported that members of the Oklahoma coaching staff called upon Coach Thomsen in a friendly meeting last night after he reviewed his forces. A coalition is hinted.

STEER COMMUNIQUE NO. 3

Austin . . . The U. T. campus is now on a regular game time basis. Cheerleaders have been outfitted, classes are being attended irregularly, martial music is heard about the campus, great motor caravans carrying people and supplies are arriving from all directions, and the stadium is being cleared for action.

HOG COMMUNIQUE NO. 4

Little Rock . . . Coach Thomsen is marching towards Texas with his full strength. Air raids by Saturday is the prediction with sharpman of Arkansas will take up cleats and headgears rather than be subjected to submission of an outside team.

STEER COMMUNIQUE NO. 4

Austin . . . Coach Bible makes final preparations for expected attack and delivers a news report to a throng surrounding the gymnasium to the effect that the Arkansas force has been greatly exaggerated because of active propaganda machines. He declared their reserves were weak and untrained and could not possibly last throughout a long tiring battle.

HOG COMMUNIQUE NO. 5

Little Rock . . . News sources report Coach Thomsen is well into Texas territory without encountering serious opposition. He expects little opposition even at the capital. Great numbers of Texans are deserting and joining the Arkansas forces; others are running away from the coming clash. Coach Thomsen blames all destruction and suffering directly upon Coach Bible's intolerance.

STEER COMMUNIQUE NO. 5

Austin . . . Coach Bible hopes for wet weather to hinder the highly mechanized Arkansas football machine but assures the public he has a surprise in store for the invaders in any event. It is rumored the capital will be moved to San Marcos State Teachers College if defense of the Forty Acres is too costly.

STEER COMMUNIQUE NO. 6

Austin . . . Special . . . Coach Thomsen's force has been seen at the outskirts of Austin advancing rapidly.

FLORIDA:

Continuing the success they enjoyed in both elections last year, the Gator political party, led by Chairman Randy Matheny, walked away victorious with 60 per cent of all offices in the recent annual fall balloting.

Opposing the newly formed F party, headed by Ollie Lancaster, the Gators took their main strength in academic class offices, honor court and executive council positions, while the F's assembled their forces to come out with six of the nine law class officers.

Gator party candidates won ten of the twelve academic class positions.

After a spirited debate in the Student Senate Saturday, that body voted to allow the members of the present publications committee to continue in office for the remainder of the year.

There had been agitation afoot to remove three members because they also held jobs on the two campus publications, the Branding Iron and the WYO Magazine. The members who would have been affected are Keith Osborn and George Johnston, editor and business manager of the WYO Magazine and Teno Roncallo, business manager of the Branding Iron.

The Georgians from Mercer were entertained last Saturday afternoon in Denny Stadium by Bama's Million Dollar Band with a bit of romance that didn't come from the pages of "Gone With the Wind."

TENNESSEE:

"University Assist War Efforts"

"COTO Opens for Enrollment of Students and Graduates; Council Gathers War Board Information."

So the headlines run in a neighboring University's paper, the McGill Daily, in Montreal—the paper of a country at war!

Aimed directly "to enable students desirous of enlisting their services to do so" rather than any conscription, the entire University has been organized on a war basis. No faculty or students, however, have, or according to their editors, Malcolm Davies, need be forced to join. "Business as Usual" was the editor's editorial which minimized the war scare with the prediction that "McGill's motto for the next several months at least will be 'Business as Usual.'"

Sports events and social affairs of the schools, unlike the cessation in England, were being planned as if no war were on.

Principal note of uneasiness came in the third rather than the first issue of the Daily. In it Editor Davies bemoans the complete censorship which has been placed on his paper's news by the government.

Trinity College has a history class conducted by a blind instructor.

The Intercollegiate Peace Association was organized at Earlham College in 1906.

West Virginia University professors have developed a new spray that will make apples red.

The College of the City of New York has the largest R.O.T.C. voluntary unit in the nation.

Rutgers University has a new course in the organization of public relief.

Fordham University this year has a special seminar in play writing.

St. Mary's University (Texas) owns a bus for athletic trips that holds 53 passengers.

Intercollegiate athletic competition has been abandoned by Bard College.

The University of Chicago Roundtable was the first program series on any network produced without use of scripts.

The postoffice department this winter will issue a special one-cent stamp honoring Harvard's famous president, Charles Eliot.

Knox College, the original "Old Siwash," has been selected as the location for a series of "Old Siwash" motion pictures.

Phi Beta Kappa has started a drive to raise a scholarship fund of $300,000 for "the defense of freedom of speech and the humanities."

Despite its present low standing, the University of Chicago grid team has won more Big Ten championships than any other team.

Famed cartoonist "Ding" Darling will address the national convention of the Associated Collegiate Press in Des Moines, October 27.

Alpha Chi Omega Party To Celebrate Founding

U. T. Chapter Will Banquet In Queen Anne Room Tonight

Alpha Chi Omega sorority will celebrate its Founders' Day with a banquet in the Queen Anne Room of the Texas Union at 7 o'clock Saturday night.

Scarlet and olive green, Alpha Chi Omega colors, will be used with red carnations, sorority flowers, for decorations.

Jo Anne Pittenger, toast master, said the toasts would be sung. The actives of the chapter will sing an original composition to the tune of "Deep Purple" called "As the Years Roll Away." Songs will be dedicated to the national and local founders and to the girls leaving the chapter. Both active members and pledges will give skits.

Alpha Chi Omega sorority was founded by seven girls of DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., October 15, 1885. Four of the charter members are still alive and attended the sorority's national convention this summer.

Mrs. H. H. Power of Austin, the sorority's national treasurer, will attend the banquet.

Allegorical Drama To Be Given Sunday By Presbyterians

A modern morality play in one act, "The Old Candelmaker of St. John," will be presented for the Student League at the University Presbyterian Church Sunday night at 6 o'clock. Supper and a musical program will precede the performance.

Directed by Kathleen Howard, the play is written in the style of the allegorical dramas of the Middle Ages in which actors represent abstract virtues.

Characters in this modern play are Andrew, the old Candelmaker of Saint John, Ed Sholl; Joyous Youth, Will Hadden; Joyous Maiden, Catherine Cameron; Maiden Innocence, Ilyne McJimmey; Truth-seeker, Charles Hubbard; First Worshipper, Eugene Wood; Second Worshipper, Robert Douglas; Servant of the Lord of Service, James Alsbrook; Mother whose Child Is Sick, Alice Lee McCelvey; Priest of Saint John, Oliver Wood.

Nina Evelyn Cole and Evelyn Knight are in charge of costumes; Arthur Talley is arranging the lights; and Bob Whitten is directing publicity.

Women's Gym, Swim Sections Still Open

Registration for women's gymnastics and swimming classes will remain open through October. The classes meet for one-half hour each Monday and Thursday at 6:30 o'clock.

Any woman in Austin may join by applying at the Women's Gym between 6 and 8 o'clock on class nights. Present attendance numbers around 115 swimmers.

Badminton courts in the Women's Gym are open every Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock for members of the University teaching staff, their wives and husbands. Birds may be obtained in the gym at ten cents each, but players must supply their own rackets.

Dr. Joughin Discusses Gilbert and Sullivan

Gilbert and Sullivan's "Bab Ballads" were discussed by Dr. G. L. Joughin, assistant professor of English, before Ashbel Literary Society Thursday afternoon.

In business meeting, the group arranged details of their part in the tea to be given soon with Reagan and Sidney Lanier Literary Societies.

Southwestern Exes Have Picnic in Zilker

Exes from Southwestern University met in Zilker Park Thursday night to drink hot chocolate, roast weiners, and hold their first reunion and social of the school year.

The next meeting of the club will be Tuesday, November 7, when plans for a dance will be discussed.

MEXICAN CLUB TO ELECT

The Mexican Literary Club will elect a secretary and a treasurer at its next regular meeting Tuesday, October 31 at 7:30 o'clock. A skit by Gamboa, which was read by Theodore Apstein, graduate student, and a selection of Mexican piano pieces played by Mrs. Reginald Reindorp were presented at the last meeting October 17.

BOTTLEPOOL TOURNAMENT

The University Club will hold its annual fall bottlepool tournament at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the club rooms on San Antonio Street. Those in charge are James McNeil, Frank Gafford, and Byron Short.

Tailored Maid

June Preisser wears this navy wool with all-round pleated skirt and collars and cuffs in stiffly starched pique. The tie flaunts red polka dots with red buttons substituting for cuff links. A triangle white patent bag, white gloves, and black sandals and "beanie" complete the ensemble.

Engineering Teacher Leaves for Chicago For Welders' Meet

M. L. Begeman, associate professor of mechanical engineering and superintendent of the machine shop of the College of Engineering, will leave for Chicago Saturday to attend the annual meeting of the American Welding Society.

At the meeting Mr. Begeman will present a paper describing the beginning of his project at the University, that of experimenting in welding materials used for hard-facing the teeth of heavy tools, for digging into rocks, to keep them from wearing off.

Mr. Begeman is a member of the fundamental research committee of the Engineering Foundation. He will also attend the National Metal Congress and Exposition while he is in Chicago.

Chairman to Entertain Pi Tau Sigma Members

Ray Woolrich, chairman of Pi Tau Sigma, honorary mechanical engineering fraternity, will entertain members of the fraternity and their guests at his home, 700 Texas Avenue, Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

New members will be selected after the social, Don Dunklin, treasurer of Pi Tau Sigma, has announced.

Mr. C. J. Eckhardt, professor of mechanical engineering and faculty chairman of the fraternity, and Mrs. Eckhardt will also be guests.

Girls' Glee Club Chooses Soloists

Bonnie Ruth Taylor, Elsie Biggers, and Gloria Rollins have been selected as soloists by the Girls' Glee Club.

The organization had previously chosen Carlie Barnes, Roberta Struss, and Mary Sue Ries as members of the Co-ed Trio, and Jean Agar, Fern Whitwell, Connie Kisten, Eloise Davis, Marianna Smith, and Frances McConnell as members of the sextet.

Eta Kappa Nu to Have Steak Fry at Zilker

Members of Eta Kappa Nu, honorary electrical engineering fraternity, will go on a steak fry at Zilker Park Sunday.

Everyone will meet in front of the Engineering Building at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and then will go to the park. Members of the electrical engineering faculty have been invited.

PHI DELTA OPEN HOUSE

Phi Delta Theta fraternity will hold open house for members and their guests from 8 to 11 o'clock Saturday night at the chapter house.

PI K. A. BUFFET SUPPER

Pi Kappa Alpha members and pledges will have a buffet supper at the chapter house Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock.

Wiley Discusses Nation's No. 1 Economic Case

Although the Report of the President's Committee on Economic Conditions in the South gives a fairly true picture of the present situation in that section, it fails to give a satisfactory analysis of what is needed in the future, Dr. C. A. Wiley, professor of economics, told members of the Social Science Club at their first meeting Friday night in the University Commons.

The report discussed by Dr. Wiley was issued by a committee which President Roosevelt appointed last year to study what he called "the nation's number one economic problem."

Grouping the fifteen topics covered in the Report under four main headings, Dr. Wiley analyzed the paper in relation to each of these general divisions and illustrated his points and criticisms by frequent quotations.

About University People

Rupert Friedls, student in the University, has gone to Shreveport for the week-end.

Miss Frances Barrington, June graduate of the University, will be in Austin for the Texas-Arkansas game Saturday. She is working in Houston now.

George B. Hamilton of Kerrville will visit on the campus the week-end of October 28. He plans to enter the University in February after completing his work at Schreiner Institute.

Miss Helen Beck of Austin, who received a bachelor of science degree in home economics from the University in 1922, is directing an N.Y.A. project in Taylor. The project teaches homemaking to rural girls.

Dr. Walter Prescott Webb, professor of history, left Wednesday to make several speeches at Dallas, Gladewater, and Arlington this week-end. He will return to the campus Monday.

Miss Peggy Mowers, August graduate of the University, is visiting friends in Austin for several days before returning to her home in San Antonio. She has just returned from a two-week visit in New York City.

Zeta Tau Alpha Yard Beautification Gets Under Way

Carpet grass is being planted in the front yard of Zeta Tau Alpha's new house and a row of small box hedges against the front porch, the floor of which is red-painted concrete.

When the proper time for planting comes, oak trees will be placed in the yard and water elms along the street between the sidewalk and curb. Plans are being made to have magnolias in the hedge line and gardenias against the house, where the length of the porch does not extend.

Future plans call for tiny vines on the back of the house and deep plantings of various shrubs against the back wall to enclose the rear. Later a brick wall, to be painted white, will be constructed to cut off a service yard. In the wall will be a fireplace and grill on the inside and in the service yard side an incinerator.

New League Calendar Marks Important Dates

A new Superintendents' Inter-scholastic League Calendar, originated by C. E. Berkman, manager of the Texas Book Store, has an extensive variety of important dates. In the calendar are football schedules for the Southwest Conference, schedules for Class AA, Class A, and Class B high school teams; special days, special weeks, and birthday anniversaries of famous men.

Among the special days listed are the birthdays of Benjamin Franklin, January 17; Robert E. Lee, January 19; Lincoln, February 12; Luther Burbank, February 22; St. Patrick's Day, March 27; Easter, March 24; Army Day, April 6; Thomas Jefferson's birthday, April 13; Pan-American Day, April 14; San Jacinto Day, April 21; Mothers' Day, May 12; Memorial Day, May 30; and others.

Czech Club Will Hold Open House Tonight

University Czech Club students will hold open house from 9 to 12 o'clock Saturday night at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Recorded music including several Czech selections, will be played for dancing, and a small admission fee will be charged. Several Austin Czechs have been invited as guests.

Sponsors of the club, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Prasatik, Dr. Edward Micek, and Jaroslav Zivney, will be chaperons.

Home Ec Staff Has Reception For Rug Donor

Donor of a collection of Oriental rugs, Mrs. John D. Hawson of Austin, was given a reception-exhibit by the home economics staff of the University Friday afternoon. Following the private showing to faculty members and friends, the seven rugs were placed on display in the Home Economics Building exhibit room, where the public is invited to inspect them. Miss Mary Gearing, chairman of the Department of Home Economics, has announced.

A Polish war treasure of another century, a 200-year-old Persian rug, called "Day and Night" because of its hue iridescence, is in the exhibit. It was taken from the Palace of Blacha, when Tzar Nicolas conquered Poland, taking with him all valuable articles once owned by Prince Joseph Poniatowski. The rug originally belonged to a collection of Grand Duke Mikhail Alexandrovitch.

A Turkish-Anatolian prayer rug takes its design from a mosque entrance, showing the lanterns and columns of the religious shrine.

Made by contemporary Persian hands is an Oriental prayer rug with an intense dark red background for the royal blue arch pattern.

A smaller Caucasian rug is named for the country from which it came, which is near the Caucasian mountains in Asia Minor. The artisans there have been influenced by modern methods, and their product is more nearly like those of ancient times.

An Eighteenth Century Persian Isphahan rug is large with gold thread in its floral pattern and on its border of birds. A small rug in "Flower Garden" silk is blended in shades of soft blue, green, and red.

Maladjusted Rich Get Film Treatment Again

Another of those pictures that sympathetically probe the new dated problems of the very rich, "Fifth Avenue Girl" uses the Cinderella plot for the optimization. Gregory La Cava, producer, had such success with Carole Lombard's picking William Powell up off the garbage dump to bring sanity and happiness to the very rich in "My Man Godfrey" that he merely switches the sexes and has unhappy Millionaire Walter Connolly pick up jobless Ginger Rogers on a Central Park bench. But the idea has not worn well.

Connolly's problems are equal in number to the number of persons in his family. Mrs. Millionaire has come to the age when women who can afford it seek a young escort in a conscious or subconscious attempt to stay the age that is creeping up her neckline.

"FIFTH AVENUE GIRL."—At the Paramount. Produced and directed by Gregory La Cava. Screenplay by Robert de Graze. Released by R.K.O. Radio Pictures. The cast follows: Mary Gray, Ginger Rogers; Alfred Burdett, Walter Connolly; Martha Borden, Verree Teasdale; Michael, James Ellison; Tim Borden, Tim Holt; Katherine Borden, Kathryn Adams; Higgins, Franklin Pangborn; Olga, Ferike Boros.

His son, played by youthful Tim Holt in his first featured role, prefers polo to pumps, and is well on his way to becoming a confirmed playboy. The other member, his daughter, spends so much time on parties that she has none for her father. The introduction of Miss Rogers, posing as Connolly's girl friend, brings them all to their senses, including one of appreciation for their father.

And just when Miss Rogers finds that the rich do have such onerous troubles that she can not stay in Connolly's maladjusted Fifth Avenue mansion a minute longer, she marries the millionaire's son and moves in for good. This of course is to provide the happy ending.

In spite of story faults, however, "Fifth Avenue Girl" has Ginger Rogers talent and looks, some good dialogue, and a few good sequences such as the one in which Miss Rogers and Holt find love on a busy Central Park bench, and the one in which Verree Teasdale as the repentant wife cooks a beef stew to win back her apparently erring husband.

The other feature on Paramount's double-show program for the week-end is Interstate Theater's "A Cavalcade of Texas," fifty minutes of Technicolor shots of Texas cities, countryside, and people. Included are the University, the band, and Dr. Rainey.

Originally made to be shown at the Texas exhibit at the New York World's Fair, the travelogue has the punch of a copy of your home town weekly. Like all James A. Fitzpatrick's Travel-talks, though, it has the annoyance of Mr. Fitzpatrick's stocky, blue-suited figure stalking through almost every scene.

Dr. Rainey to Speak At Galveston Meeting

Dr. Homer Price Rainey, president of the University, and Dr. Edmund Heinsohn, pastor of the University Methodist Church, will address the thirty-first annual convention of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers in Galveston, November 21 to 23.

Dr. Rainey will speak at noon November 21 on "Education for Human Relationship." Dr. Heinsohn will speak in the morning the same day on "Religious Moorings in Education."

Business sessions will be held in the Stephen F. Austin Junior High School. Delegates will gather in the Buccaneer Hotel. More than a thousand persons are expected to attend.

Bruce Waddell went to San Marcos Friday night for the football game between San Marcos and Texas A&I from Kingsville.

He Tells Ginger How

ON BEING A PLAYGIRL.—Producer-Director Gregory La Cava explains to Ginger Rogers, star of RKO Radio's "Fifth Avenue Girl," the technique to be employed by a poor working girl in loosening the collar of a rumba-exhausted millionaire. The millionaire, Walter Connolly, looks on. The picture is now playing at the Paramount.

Train Platform, Jumping Chair On 'Beggar' Properties List

The production crew of "Beggar On Horseback," which the Curtain Club will present in Hogg Memorial Auditorium during the week of October 30, has rolled up its sleeves and begun construction of the rear platform of a train and a chair that will jump three feet in the air when the script so orders.

On their list of properties also are the more commonplace items of wall-paper, stage furniture, and the furnishings for a court room.

Harvey Yale and Bob Eades are building the train platform, making even the wheels and axle. The script calls for the jumping chair in a courtroom scene when Neil, the hero, objects to the procedure of the court. The judge slaps his bench so hard that the blow makes the chair and himself ascend. To effect this rise, crew members will push down on a six-foot lever back of the judge's bench and carefully out of view of the audience.

The push required is a healthy one, for Bill Crain, the judge, weighs around 200 pounds.

Turning carpenter with the boys, girls in Drama 1 and 30 cut out flats with a jigsaw and paint wall-paper designs by swabbing a paint-filled sponge over a stencil. "We can hammer with the best of them," Blanche Page and Elizabeth Ann Chisholm insist.

Drama students have even taken a hand in writing a part of the play. Since an added royalty accompanies the pantomime in "Beggars," Dr. E. P. Conkle gave his class the task of creating one. Mrs. Aurora Stanley's dumb-show, entitled "The Wish," was chosen. For this unspoken drama-within-a-drama three pages of script have been written.

Billy Matthews is now editing "The Evening-Morning," a bizarre paper to be distributed during the play. Filling pages with drawings of faces, Ruth Ruetz has decided on stylized make-up for the cast.

Artie Shaw and Dialogue Rescue 'Dancing Co-Ed'

After seeing "Dancing Co-Ed," which opened yesterday at the State, we are still waiting to see a college picture which depicts college life as it really is and not as Hollywood gigolos and chorus girls (who never got closer to a college than the football stadium) think it is.

Thus, when we say that "Dancing Co-Ed" is better than the average run of college movies, we aren't saying very much; for the average run of college movies is far below the average run of movies in general.

"Dancing Co-Ed" has the same general faults as all pictures which attempt a portrayal of college life—a nostalgic romanticism which stresses campus extra-curricular activities to the exclusion of any mention of studying or class work, a characterization of all professors as stodgy fossils with walrus mustaches, and a completely illogical plot.

On the other hand, however, "Dancing Co-Ed" has several redeeming virtues. First and most important of these is the devotion of a goodly amount of footage (which is still not enough, however) to Artie Shaw and his excellent band. Second is the remarkably well-written dialogue which is seldom dull and at times fairly sparkling.

The acting of the principals stands up very well, but the supporting cast, headed by Roscoe Karns and Leon Errol, both of whom overact, leaves much to be desired.—PAT HOLT.

O. K., Band Gets Ready for Groove With Sax Appeal

Now they're ready to "get in the groove"—Clyde Mitchell and his orchestra—for the saxophone vacancy that had the maestro a bit perturbed a week ago has been filled.

Six calls followed an announcement that Mitchell needed a saxophone player to complete his organization, with Harold Suggs finally getting the job after many elimination sessions.

Mitchell is no longer worried about the band's sax appeal.

Texas Chemist Ranks High at Johns Hopkins

A. C. Bratton of Brownwood, an ex-student who recently was granted $1,200 for medical research at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., has been ranked among the four highest students in his class. He is the first student ever to receive this type of medical research award at Johns Hopkins.

Dr. Bratton received his doctor of philosophy degree in chemistry here in 1938. He is now an instructor of pharmacology, a first-year medical student, and a member of the research staff in medicine at Johns Hopkins.

In the summer of 1938, Dr. Bratton was a substitute professor of physiology at the University of Minnesota, and this year he became an instructor at John Hopkins medical school.

Model for Museum's Cowpony Statue Ready

A working model of a mustang cowpony statue which will be placed in the Texas Memorial Museum has been finished and is being prepared for shipment to New York. A. P. Proctor, the sculptor, has been working on this model on a ranch near Hebronville, one of the few places in Texas where these small, Spanish horses are still raised. The model must be built up by a long, tedious process. Then a cast is made, and finally the statue is molded from the cast.

The statue is being given to the museum by Ralph R. Ogden, Austin oil operator, and is intended to depict the mustang ponies used by the early cattlemen of Texas.

Space is ready in the museum for the statue, which will be ready early in 1940.

Faculty Concert Set for Oct. 25

Violinist, Baritone On First Program

The College of Fine Arts will present its first faculty concert complimentary to the general public Wednesday, October 25, at 8:15 o'clock, in Hogg Memorial Auditorium.

Artists presented will be Anthony Donato, violinist, accompanied by Carolyn Scott Donato, and Chase Baromeo, bass baritone, accompanied by Delphie Lindstrom Baromeo.

Honor guests will be the representatives of 32 colleges and universities attending the October 25-28 sessions of the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities.

While the remaining concerts in this series will be held at 4:30 on Sunday afternoons in Hogg Memorial Auditorium as they were last year, the departure from custom is made in the case of this concert in order to make it available to the visiting governing boards' officials. It is complimentary to the general public who are cordially invited to attend.

Professor Donato, who joined the staff of the department of music this September as head of the violin division, comes to the University from the State Teachers College of Iowa, at Cedar Falls, Iowa, where he was also head of the violin department. He is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music, holding both the bachelor of music and the master of music degrees from that institution. He was a member of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra for four years and of the Hochstein String Quartet for two years.

Chase Baromeo, who joined the staff of the department of music this September as head of the bass baritone division, comes to the University from the State Teachers College of Iowa, at Cedar Falls, Iowa, where he was also head of the bass baritone department. He is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music, holding both the bachelor of music and the master of music degrees from that institution. He was a member of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra for four years and of the Hochstein String Quartet for two years.

Diapason Club Plans November Meeting

The Diapason Club, society of organists, will have a meeting November 13 in the University Methodist Church at 8 o'clock. The club is sponsoring a membership drive to enlist members to help support their artists series. Several artists are being considered but the actual selection will not be made until the November meeting.

Members of the club who will be on the program at that time are Miss Emma V. Decherd, Miss Beulah Beaver, and Mrs. Felix Shuford.

Romance Club Elects Dr. Dabney President

Dr. L. E. Dabney, assistant professor of Romance languages, was chosen president of the Romance Club Wednesday afternoon. Reginald Reindorp, tutor in Romance languages, was elected secretary.

Theodore Apstein, graduate student, read his translation of Jose Joaquin Gamboa's play "The Knight, Death, and the Devil."

WAYNE KING... still does it sweet.

After a year's absence, Wayne King and his orchestra return to the airwaves tonight at 7:30 o'clock, CBS, in a weekly program. The "Waltz King" first won national recognition with his sweet interpretation of popular music and has never forsaken that style. The organization has moved serenely through swing and jitterbugging.

Dr. Henry Noble MacCorkle, president of Vassar, inaugurates celebration of the college's 75th anniversary tonight at 9:45 o'clock. Alumnae are to gather at seventy-five meetings throughout the country to hear the radio talk entitled "Trustees of Tomorrow."

Robert Hood Bowers, nationally known band leader, will hold the baton for the military band presentation of On The Mall, a transcribed program presented by KTBC at 9:45 o'clock this morning. Bowers was conductor for Victor Herbert five years, gaining much of his knowledge of composing and arranging in his association with that world-famous master.

Starting its fourth year in crusade against crime, "Gang Busters," dramatizations of actual police file cases, is to be heard on the Columbia network tonight at 7 o'clock. Since its debut in January, 1936, the program has presented over 150 dramas of such cases.

Happy Felton Plays for German

'Perfect Host' Blends Waltz With Swing

Germangoers this Saturday will dance to the "spiced" music of Happy Felton and his orchestra. The place is the Texas Union. The time is from 9 to 12 p.m.

Happy says that dancers like variety; therefore he does his best to spice and blend his music. He gives swing, waltz, rumba, and then goes back to swing.

Happy, the self-styled "Perfect Host" comes to Austin from a recent engagement at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas. He has an organization of twenty, and features Ken Mealy, "song stylist," Louise Dunne, "lyric soprano," and a hillbilly quartet.

The 260-pound Mr. Felton began his career a number of years ago in Allegheny College, where he directed a student orchestra. He was finally engaged to head a dance band.

Among the outstanding places where he has played are the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh, the Kit Kat Club in London, and Hotel Baltimore in New York.

MEETING TIME CHANGED

The Wesley Players will meet at 8 o'clock Wednesday night next week instead of the usual Monday night meeting, Edna McMahon, president, has announced. This change is because of the conflict with a party being given by the Wesley Foundation Monday night.

phony by Roy Harris, American composer, will be given for the first time over the air today by Arturo Toscanini and the NBC Symphony Orchestra. The symphony is in one movement, the composer's third in this form. The Red network carries this from 9:30 to 10 o'clock tonight.

Football gets the vocal salute of the "Saturday Night Serenade" chorus in a medley of gridiron favorites tonight at 8:45 o'clock, Columbia system.

Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 3, in C minor (Op. 37), is performed by the Conservatory Symphony Orchestra in Cincinnati in the third such concert of the season. It will be heard from 10:05 to 11 o'clock this morning over Columbia.
