

Texas Debaters Meet Missouri Squad Tonight

Jeffers, Knapp Represent University in Contest In House

Starts at 7:30

Hoover Administration Will Be Discussion Subject

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock, the debate between Leroy Jeffers and Frank Knapp, representatives of The University of Texas, and James C. Wilson and Sheridan Morgan, representatives of The University of Missouri, will be held in the chamber of the House of Representatives with Lieutenant-Governor Edgar E. Witt, ex-president of the University, presiding, according to the statement made by Tom Rousse, adjunct professor of public speaking in the University.

The debate, which was arranged because of an invitation issued by concurrent resolutions from both houses of the legislature, is the first one that The University of Texas has ever held in the House. The subject for discussion is "Resolved, that the Hoover Administration Should Be Condemned."

Jeffers, who is serving for the fourth year on The University of Texas debating squad, and who has participated in a number of intercollegiate debates, is a middle law student from Holland. He is a member of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary public speaking fraternity.

Knapp is entering his second year of debate representing the University. This is his first intercollegiate debate; however, he was a member of the Brackenridge High School championship debating team. He is a sophomore, and a member of the Athenaeum Literary Society. His home is in San Antonio.

Wilson, second tour, is a member of the debating team making the western tour last year, during which time the team participated in fifteen debates without a single defeat. He is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences, and belongs to the Tomb and Key, interfraternity group; Blue Key, service fraternity; and Alpha Tau Omega, social fraternity.

Morgan is captain of the varsity debate squad. He was also a member of the freshman debate group last year. He is a member of the Athenaeum Literary Society; Alpha Pi Zeta, social service fraternity for freshmen; and Zeta Beta Tau, social fraternity.

Benedict Cites School's Growth In Annual Report

President's Message Read At Exes' Banquets March 2

Reviews Events

Increase in Enrollment To More Than 6,000 Stressed

Increased enrollment to more than 6000 and progress in the building program are cited as special events of the year at the University by President H. Y. Benedict in his annual message to local clubs of the Ex-Students' Association meeting March 2.

His message will be read at various local banquets throughout the nation when Texas Exes celebrate Texas Independence Day in their school reunions.

"Despite the ups and downs of the commercial cycle and the wobbles that the Farm Board is still trying to control," his semi-humorous message says, "the number of students is now 6005 at the Main University and 447 at the Medical Branch, less, of course, those who have already withdrawn with or without acceleration from a dean. Compared with last year, Legislative appropriations for the running expenses of the Main University are about the same."

Points to Building
Progress in the building program, he says, includes completion of the mechanical engineering shop addition and Gregory Gymnasium, first of the Union projects sponsored by the Ex-Students' Association; near completion of the Chemical Laboratory Building and the Women's Activities Building, second of the Union group; starting Waggoner Hall, new class room building; and letting of bids on an addition to the laboratory building at the Medical Branch in Galveston.

"Strengthening local friendships, strengthening the ties that bind you to the University, renewing your youth, reviving memories of college days, rejoicing in the progress of the University, resolving to help the University to a finer life and broader service, resolving to do the same for yourself and family and friends and country, may your 1931 banquets be without flaw," the message concludes.

The annual March 2 banquets are held in keeping with a University tradition that "wherever two ex-students shall meet on March 2, Independence Day, they shall break bread together and honor the founders of the Republic of Texas who made their education possible." Arrangements for the local meetings are made from the central office of the Ex-Students' Association in Austin.

College of Pharmacy Plans To Grow Medicinal Plants

Plans to establish a complete medicinal plant garden in connection with the College of Pharmacy are being worked out by members of the department staff. A beginning has already been made with the planting last fall of a shipment of roots from Atlanta, Ga. It is expected that the project will be developed until approximately 400 different types of medicinal plants are represented.

The University owns a tract of land on the Colorado River bank, the Brackenridge tract, which will be used for this undertaking. At present, part of the land is being rented from the University for summer camp cottages, and part is used for the Texas Botanical Garden, but much of the land is still undeveloped. A gardener has been placed in charge of the medicinal plant work. Seeds of various kinds will be planted this spring, and it is thought that by the time of the State meet of the Interscholastic League to be held at the University in May a display of medicinal plants can be arranged from the garden for use in connection with the league's wild flower contest.

A few medicinal plants are native to Texas, all of which will be grown in the garden; eight or ten additional varieties have already been transplanted, and, by gradually adding specimens from time to time, the College of Pharmacy staff expects to build up a collection which will greatly facilitate the teaching of pharmacognosy and the forms of botany. Students will have the opportunity to observe the plant in its natural setting, and will study the methods of harvesting it.

Russian People Lack Freedom, Sforza Believes

Lecturer Concludes Series With Appraisal Of Sovietism

"Russia of today is Russia of yesterday," stated Count Carlo Sforza at his lecture yesterday on the "Situation in Russia."

"Never in history has a country been so little changed by a revolution," he continued. "Police ruled the people in previous centuries, and the police are still ruling. Individual freedom, the freedom the world is striving for, is lacking under the Soviet regime just as it was lacking under the regime of the Czar. However, the peasants are compensated for their present slavery, which is really the only difference between past and present Russia, because they feel as though they are the actors in the present movement."

"The peasants say, 'Yes we suffer, but our children shall be happy.' Conservative newspapers invent untrue stories about Russia. They say there is disorder and starvation in Russia; but while there is disorder, there is no starvation."

Count Sforza concluded by saying that the five-year plan is working; but although it does work, nothing but slavery is in store for them in the future.

"The mistake foreign countries make concerning Russia is wrapping her in barbed wire and refusing to consider them justly because they have a rather forbidding aspect," Count Sforza stated. The last lectures of Count Sforza will be Thursday and Friday at 4 o'clock in Garrison Hall auditorium.

Campus to Have 'Lily-White' Longhorn-Ranger Next Issue

Plans for the next issue of the Longhorn-Ranger have been changed from the "Old-Timers" number to a "Lily-White" number, Alfred Melinger, editor, stated Wednesday. The purpose of the next number will be to purify and clean up the stains on the character of the magazine, Melinger explained. The "Old-Timers" number will be released later.

The dead-line for the issue is set for March 3, according to the editor. He asked that a staff meeting be held this afternoon in the editorial offices and urged that every member be present in order to discuss plans for the issue. Practically no material has been turned in to date due to the fact that the motif had not been definitely chosen. The meeting is to be at 3 o'clock.

Five University Bills Studied by Committees In Legislature Today

A joint meeting of the state's affairs committees of the Senate and House to consider the five bills introduced during the last month relating to the investment of the University endowment fund will be held in the House of Representatives today at 2 o'clock. One of the chief bills calls for the transfer of all revenue from University lands to be invested in the maintenance fund after the permanent fund reaches the total of $18,000,000.

An open hearing of the bills concerning oil and oil lands was slated for Wednesday afternoon, but due to the rush on emergency bills caused the hearing to be postponed until next week. The hearing is expected to concern chiefly the governing and taxation of the University oil lands.

The House Wednesday appointed their members of a free conference committee to settle the difference of the House and Senate regarding the summer school appropriations for the state educational institutions. J. B. Ford, J. M. Claunch, Ray Holder, and Lee Satterwhite are the House members of the committee. The appropriations bill that the Senate passed this week called for appropriations amounting to $422,700, but the House cut the bill down to $250,000. When it was sent back to the Senate they refused to alter their original bill, so a free conference committee from both houses was appointed.

The bill legalizing horse racing in Texas was killed Wednesday when the House voted 63-60 to table the minority report from the committee where the bill was refused.

New Rush Week Proving Success, Moore Believes

System Permits Rushes To Select Congenial Groups

"The new order of rushing allows a student to choose a group congenial to himself," V. I. Moore, dean of student life, said yesterday in commenting on the current rush season.

"Evolution of rush week practices during the last two decades has been confined to the drastic changes introduced two years ago, whereby, the fraternity rush week deviated from making free-lance rushing, and rush week was bridled under the control and direction of the Dean of Student Life. This transition came as an arbitrary agreement and change and not as a force of compulsion," Dean Moore said.

"Some fraternity members were instantaneously alarmed and anticipated the disintegration and the ultimate death of fraternal societies. Unpleasant attacks were directed to the introduction of this practice. This tendency has shifted to pleasant reports and subtle admiration of the present system of supervising rush week activities," Dean Moore further remarked.

The existence of distinct "sweet boxes" has been obliterated, and a better feeling results from rush week. Most all of the fraternities pledge approximately the same number.

"Last year fraternities offering bids to rushes gave the bids to the Dean of Student Life, and a messenger gave the bids to the rushee. This year the fraternities delivered the bids in person. This practice will be continued," Dean Moore asserted.

D. A. R. Gift Tree Planted on Campus

A white ash tree which was sent from Mt. Vernon by the Daughters of the American Revolution was planted on the University campus Wednesday. The tree was placed in front of the new Chemistry Building on the plot selected for the Washington Monument which is to be erected by the D. A. R.

There was no ceremony with the planting of the tree, according to the statement of Mrs. Earl B. Mayfield of the Thankful Hubbard Chapter in Austin. There will be a dedication at an early date which has not yet been definitely decided.

DR. WILLIAM KEILLER

Sunday afternoon the University lost one of its oldest and most illustrious professors through the death of Dr. William Keiller, professor of anatomy in the Medical branch at Galveston.

Dr. Keiller has been with the University for forty years and has served as dean of the school for several years, but resigned in 1926 on account of ill health. After resigning his place as dean he devoted his entire time to research in the field of anatomy. His works include many articles, papers, and books on the subject. His most scholarly work, which represented the greater part of his life's research is "Nerve Tracts of the Brain and Cord; Anatomy, Physiology, and Applied Neurology."

The late professor was holder of many distinctions in the field of medicine, and while in his undergraduate work he won a number of prizes for his scholarship and ability. He was a member of the American Medical Association, the Texas State Medical Association, and an honorary member of the University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Numerous tributes have been paid to the deceased professor. Among them is one by Dr. Benedict who said:

"Dr. Keiller's forty years of eminent service to the School of Medicine amply entitles him to the gratitude of all Texas. Dr. Keiller wrote me a two page letter in his own hand in January. He perhaps did not know that this was to be his last letter dealing with the medical branch. Devoted to the institution and to the truth, he expressed his hearty satisfaction with its past record, present situation, and future prospects. It should make us all happy to know that he was satisfied when he came to look at the results of his forty years of faithful and distinguished service."

Dr. Edward Randall, professor of medicine, said of him that he was "not only a great scientist but also a great teacher. He was the outstanding anatomist of America and was recognized as such by all of the great teachers."

The University of Texas mourns the loss of such a man. His work, as much as that of any other professor, contributed to the standing and reputation of this school. But with the mourning felt at the death of such a distinguished man, the University should feel that it has been singularly fortunate in having had the acquaintance and the esteem of one so worthy.

A recent survey disclosed that students in the University of Missouri pass 75 bad checks a day.

TWO YOUNG MEN FROM TEXAS

"Two young men from Texas," Spurgeon Bell and Will Crews Morris, made their impression on the University of Kansas where they debated a team there last week. A signed editorial in the University Daily Kansan, student newspaper, according to its writer, "is the consensus of opinion of the students who attended the debate."

The editorial is quoted: "Two young men from Texas, convincing speakers, keen, pleasing, and impressive, last night admirably presented the side of a question that happened to be their lot in debate, but had a unanimous decision cast against them."

"Seldom does any debate team acquire the ability, poise, and effectiveness that these men had, and even more seldom does such a team get such an adverse decision. Their case happened to be that against the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution and for control of the liquor traffic by the several states."

"It should never be presumed that by one and a half hours of discussion on such a question as that debated last night that three judges will be induced to believe one way or the other regardless of their previous beliefs. However, a debate decision ought to indicate which team presented its case most effectively."

"Disregarding individual views on the question, it will suffice to say that the visiting team was outstanding; one of the best that has ever appeared here."

Statisticians figure that every man at Emory University drinks eight-tenths of a "coke" every day in the week.

TILED BATHTUBS

At the University of Illinois, a disillusioned editorialist cries his spite on a disgruntled typewriter about the "public's lust for material gain and for popularly built up standards of living." He sees education relinquishing its dying chance to make and preserve civilization and intelligent living to the credo of tiled bathtubs and chauffeured motor carriages. He sings a dirge over the death of the enjoyable life which depends upon the scope and intelligent observation of the individual's viewpoint upon life.

While at the University of Nebraska a protesting editorial writer shouts "nay" and "not so" and disagrees with one particular assertion of the Illinois writer where he claims that out of twenty students there will not be found one who has not visions of mahogany desks, huge offices, luxurious offices, well-dressed wives and fine suburban homes. And proceeds to bolster up his cry of idealism with the honest belief that so long as there is individualism, there will not be single-mindedness among a group of twenty college students anent tiled bath tubs and the other flairs and trimmings of the world's material definition for the much abused word, success.

It is interesting to watch some sincere but disillusioned student writers stand on the shore of the present materialistically-minded ocean and weep because they cannot get the flow of the tide to recede and leave them their beach of all that is fair and ideal. True as the Nebraska writer points out that there are individuals in the world to whom tiled bathtubs are merely nice conveniences but not ends toward which they must scramble amidst a shambles of personal ideals. And true as the Illinois writer points out, the colleges are standardizing and dogmatizing culture to feed the maw of a public which thinks in terms of luxurious offices and suburban homes. But what of it? Are the colleges to be run for the sole and exclusive amusement of the student; and if such be the case is there any assurance that the unholy specter of mahogany desks will be laid? Or might it be more appropriate for all classes having the faintest taint of "how to acquire tiled bathtub" to be stricken off to some convenient brook and have their faces in it and think of how uplifting it would be to take baths for the rest of one's life in cheap porcelain tubs or "old swimming holes."

Americanism: A fervent desire to civilize heathens—if they live across an ocean and don't wear dinner coats.

MENTAL LAZINESS

A member of the faculty in a university of another state has remarked that "five per cent of the people think, ten per cent of the people think they think, and 85 per cent would rather die than think."

This picture of mental laziness suggests the thought that perhaps physical laziness is not the most prevalent after all. This is logical in the generally accepted fact that mental labor is harder than physical—as it would follow that people would be less likely to use the brain. Mental sluggishness is evidenced by the habitual method practiced by many in the systematic pig-eholding of their thoughts. Rather than doing any individual thinking of their own, they look to that which has gone before, or that thought out and developed by others, or that which will at least temporarily meet the present demand, and go merrily on their way in momentary security.

It is a stupid and indiscriminate attempt at generalization, of bringing the present problem somehow within the category of that already provided for, and thus to get by with little effort except that exerted in the attempt to avoid real thinking. Fortunately, it is hard to work mentally. Only those who do so receive the lasting honors and plaudits of their fellow men. It is fitting that it should be so since those who think are those who pay the price which should precede success and achievement.

State Comment

A NEW HIGH RECORD IN THE UNIVERSITY

Tell it to the American world that the largest registration ever recorded in the history of The University of Texas was for the 1930-31 term, the figures having already exceeded the previous high record of the 1928-29 term when total registrations numbered 5,863. Now 5,988, this term's registrations are expected to reach the 6,000 mark before February 16 which is the last day for entering the University. A reminder that the law-makers of Texas should give the Regents, the governing body of the University, a free hand; that the shacks should be removed from the University and that the physical plant and the teaching organizations should be placed among the first in America. This is not too much to ask from the servants of the people who make the laws. It would be asked of the legislative body if the fathers and founders of the University were in the land of the living today.—Austin American.

Reviewed Today

"THE DEVIL TO PAY," current at the Paramount, is what may well be labeled an intriguing picture. It's good entertainment, gay, carefree, insouciant, cheery, presenting Ronald Colman in a role which no one save himself could polish off quite so well. He performs as the scapegrace son of a British nobleman, who suddenly loves the decent daughter of a wealthy linoleum manufacturer. The affair is mutual until the heroine suspects Mr. Colman of taking up again with an ex-mistress. The misunderstanding is sharp but brief, and there follows happiness and parental blessing.

The story is just that simple, but Frederick Lonsdale, British author, seems to be expert at making something out of nothing, and his dialogue, if not breath-taking in its wit, is lively and sophisticated. The picture is directed by George Fitzmaurice, who can be as palatial as Cecil B. DeMille and not nearly so ostentatious. The heroine is portrayed by the fresh and provocative Loretta Young, who might appear to better advantage did not one Florence Britton look so appealing and talented in the tiny part of the hero's sister. Frederick Kerr gives an accomplished performance as the irascible old father, and Myrna Loy, who can act when called upon, discharges the duties of Mr. Colman's ex-flame. There is a dog in the picture which receives considerable attention from the audience, particularly that section of it whose favorite form of theatrical fauna is the dog.

"The Devil to Pay" is, all told, a screen comedy at times almost farcical, but never anything but excellent entertainment. Best shot: Mr. Colman auctioning off his bed.

Estimate: B.

"THE PAY-OFF," now at the Hancock, is an unpretentious picture telling a short little story about two youngsters who unwillingly become entangled in the affairs of a big city gang.

Its chief asset is the suavely balanced work done by Lowell Sherman, who both plays the leading role and directed the piece. Including his performance as the gang leader in a dress suit who sacrifices himself in order that the youngsters may go free untainted, the picture is a pleasant piece of film work, interesting because it is human, and valuable because it lives up to its modest pretenses.

Prominent among the supporting cast are the charming Marion Nixon and the dependable character actor, George Marion. Miss Nixon has the role of the sweet and innocent young girl, engaged to be married to her childhood sweetheart, who attracts the attention of Mr. Sherman. He "adopts" the kids, and comes to love the little girl, although recognizing her love for her sweetheart to be real and refraining from interfering with it. When a discontented member of the gang traps the young couple into becoming accomplices in a job which results in murder, Mr. Sherman shoots him and then takes the blame for everything upon his own shoulders, making a bargain with the district attorney that the youngsters go free. Audiences will like this picture.

Estimate: C.

"SWEETHEARTS AND WIVES" is the name of the picture which will occupy the Texas Theater screen today and Friday.

It stars Billie Dove, who has practically retired from the screen since about the time the motion picture burles started gossiping about Howard Hughes taking a fancy to her. The picture is a hodge-podge of what-is-it, concerning a run-away wife, her sweetheart, and other persons gathered in a deserted inn on a stormy night, but it's not a mystery picture despite the fact that murder plays a hand in the denouement. Nothing more serious than divorce actually happens, though perhaps murder would have been the lesser evil, at that. (Oink, oink!) Clive Brook and Leila Hyams are also present.

TONE YOUR SKIN

this Way

AFTER the skin has been completely cleansed, it is ready for Toning. Cover the head of the Arden pater with cotton held in place by an elastic band. Moisten this Arden pad either with cold water or by direct contact with ice. (The toning and tightening effects are greatly increased by chilling.) Next, saturate the cotton either with Skin Tonic or the stronger Astringent. Beginning at the base of the throat, work upward toward the back of the neck. Pat confidently, with a definite upward stroke.

Next pat away every suspicion of a fowl... pat at the side of the chin to discourage heaviness... pat the throat to keep it young and firm... pat over the whole surface of the face, being sure that your motion is always up, and that you keep away from the tender tissues around the eyes. You will feel your face commence to tingle in less than a minute, and if you will continue faithfully for five to ten minutes, you will develop a fine fresh glow.

SWIMMERS PRACTICE

Varsity swimming practice will be held Thursday afternoon from 3 o'clock to 5 o'clock instead of the regular time at night on account of the Texas-Rice basketball game Thursday night. Practice will be held Friday night at the regular time, C. J. Alderson, coach, has announced.

And still we don't know whether Emerson played in 1928 or whether Little Tommy (Jinx) Tucker, head pressman for Bochey Koch, was right in his stirring contributions of several days ago.

Personally, Abe believes that Emerson is eligible, for even discrediting the facts that Emerson is not an habitual liar, and that his teammates are not given to the speaking of gross untruths, Abe can't see what there is to gain by his lying. Ox must have realized that the accusation, or rather statement, by Tucker that he played in '28 would be thoroughly investigated and the truth uncovered in true Conan Doyle fashion. Thus, if Ox had chosen to deny the charge knowing that it was the truth, he would be subjecting himself to be branded with the cognomen of a public liar.

Not that it isn't worth lying about. Lying is no sin; it's getting caught at it that is disgrace. And Ox must have known that he would get caught.

It requires no tub-full of acute perspicacity to see why Tucker bloomed forth with a story that did not concern him. He's a newspaper man. Beware of the tribe, Algernon.

Berkeley Bell, the big bond and bull salesman of New York, erstwhile alternate player on the Davis cup squad, erstwhile member of the Longhorn tennis squad, is in Bermuda. He's playing tennis. He won a match Monday. He beat William Freisen of Bermuda (where else could he be from?) 6-1, 6-3.

While we're on the subject of the rambling racketeers, let us turn our sensibilities, prithoe, to a perusal of the doings of one W. T. Tilden, late turned professional.

It seems that Tilden and a Czechoslovakian burdened with the name of Karl Kozeluh, are touring the country, and by means of the two-man tournament that they are rendering, are hoping to determine the professional net champ of the wide wicked world.

They are to play a series of six matches, as Abe gets it, and the winner of those matches will be the said champion.

Rather queer. In amateur matches, they play several sets in one afternoon, the winner being declared the best. Yet Mr. Tilden and his perpetual opponent must take half the United States, and about umpteen matches to decide the best man.

Verily, verily I must confess that it is Abe's opinion that they're trying to make money. Naughty.

The Rice Owls are navigating into camp tonight. Abe certainly would like to see the Steers pull through with a win, but at the same time, he can't see how it's going to be managed unless the Owls forfeit.

This season, useless reminder, is the most disastrous that the Steers and Coach Walker have ever gone through. Walker is a good coach, and in Fomby he has a good leader. The trouble seems to lie in the fact that Walker has no dynamo in his machine. He has five good men—what more? The squad needs a spark in the form of a Brock, a Hart, a Dixon.

Reports from Aggie town have it that Harry Stiteler, holder of the conference pole vault record

Contest Is Next To Last Go for Texas

Playing the next to the last basketball game of their 1931 season, Fred Walker's Longhorns meet the Rice Owls tonight at Gregory Gymnasium. The game starts at 7:30 o'clock. The Steers play their final game Saturday night, entertaining the Texas Aggies here. The Owls wind up their season tonight. Rice stands just above Texas in the percentage column. In their first meeting this year, Rice put on a last-period spurt to nose out the Texans, 50-42. Blake Sellars, big center, starred for the winners, while Earl Taylor led the Steer offense with 21 points.

Tonight the Steers are accorded a good chance to break their long string of defeats. Walker's men have performed nobly in their last three appearances, losing heart-breaking games to S. M. U., Rice, and T. C. U. They are due to win sometime, and tonight looks like the time.

Pug Daugherty, Rice mentor, has a couple of shifty, sharp-shooting forwards whom Fomby and his mates will have to stop. Ray Hart and Virgil Dixon are the boys who can hit the basket with irritating regularity, given half a chance. Blake Sellars, Austin boy, is a sure starter at center, while Nig McCarble and "Ug" Koch seem to be the best bets at guard.

Coach Walker is contemplating some minor changes in his starting line-up, but practically the same crew which has performed in recent games will play tonight. The line-up will be chosen from Elkins, Price, Harrison, Earl Taylor, Hopkins, forwards; Fomby, Kubricht, centers; Wyatt Taylor, Perkins, Tullis, Sparks, Ingram, guards.

Steer Golfers Hope For Winning Team

Longhorn golfers, with Dick Gregg, Fred Gross, Jack Tinnin, and Jim Loftin as a nucleus, expect to rank high in collegiate circles this spring, officials in the athletic office say. Golf has gained rapidly in popularity at the University, and is recognized as one of the most important minor sports.

Gregg and Tinnin have taken part in a number of amateur meets this winter, and are declared to be in excellent form.

Steer golfers are tentatively scheduled to participate in five meets, and it is possible that others will be arranged. April 4 the Steers will meet Baylor University golfers at Waco; April 18 T. C. U. at Austin, followed by another home meet with S. M. U. April 24. May 2 Rice Institute golfers come to Austin for a tourney. The conference meet will take place in Dallas in May.

Mustang Athlete Dies After Operation

Special to The Daily Texan.
DALLAS, Feb. 25.—Eugene Hamiter, 21, sophomore athlete at Southern Methodist University, died here Tuesday night after appendicitis and diaphragm hernia operations.

Hamiter, a halfback on the Pony football squad last fall, formerly attended Terrill School at Dallas, where he made a brilliant record in athletics. He was a star sprinter and middle distance man.

Alma Masur spent the week-end at her home in Lockhart.

Estela Garza has returned from San Antonio where she attended grand opera.

of 13 feet, 1 inch, is after his own record. The diminutive star is topping the bar at 12, 6, right regular these days.

One of the most peculiar games ever played in baseball was played yesterday between the Steer Reserves and Austin High School. Lanier, up from last year's frosh, pitched for the Reserves and allowed exactly no hits. The Reserves got 1 hit. The final score was goose egg flanked by goose egg. That's a piece of tough luck for Lanier, and some good material for the record books. Page John Hix.

NO-HIT GAME

The Steer reserves and the Austin High School nine demonstrated just what is meant by the proverbial expression, "air-tight ball game." A double by Shorty Watson was the only safe blow in the seven-inning contest, which ended 0-0. Lanier of the reserves held the schoolboys without a scratch. Austin filled the bases in one inning when Lanier struck a wild streak, but were unable to score.

Rice Loses To T. C. U. by 49-29

Special to The Daily Texan.
HOUSTON, Feb. 25.—The Texas Christian University cage team took a 49-29 victory from the Rice Owls here tonight. This gave T. C. U. eight games won out of ten played, with a conference standing of .800 at the top of the column. Rice has lost eight out of eleven played.

Dennis Signs 2-Year Port Arthur Contract

Tom Dennis, star Longhorn tackle for three years and captain of the 1922 Steer eleven, has signed a contract effective June 2 to coach the Port Arthur Yellow Jackets for another two-year period. Dennis has coached the Yellow Jackets for five years, and his charges were runners-up in the 1928 high school championship race and were co-champions in 1929.

Dennis coached the Austin High School Maroons for two years before going to Port Arthur, and for one year before taking charge of the Austin eleven he was coach at Meridian College.

BOXING HIGHLIGHTS

By F. H. STEVENSON

Among those who turned out for the fights were numerous co-eds and University students. The first fight, between Charles (Red) Jones, Chi Phi, and W. C. (Shorty) Regan, A. A. C., went three rounds to a decision for Regan, who took every round by a margin. It was a fast fight to the spectator's delight.

The second go between Ed Chote, 156, Griffiths, and Jack Orlick, 156, Hillel Foundation, was won by Chote. The first two were fast rounds in which the men mixed it, Chote hitting the canvas a couple of times; the third was slower and devoted to long range slugging. Both men were tired.

The third fight between Guy Matheney, 144 1-2, Eng. and Ross Hamilton, 136 1-2, Eng., was won by Matheney. The Irishman came out with a grin and kept it all through the fight. Matheney took the first round in a melee of slugging. Hamilton stalled and rested through the second, which was also Matheney's round. Hamilton came out for the third to do or die and stopped a haymaker that had him groggy through the round. Matheney's round. Hamilton was down several times during the fight.

Bout four between Max Merrick, 153 1-2, Eng. and Frank Alvarado, 154 1-2, Law, was one for the book. One was scared and the other glad of it. Scarcely a blow was struck during the first round, both men sparring and stalling. The second round was a little faster. Alvarado emulated the well-known ostrich and dove for safety whenever Merrick threw a glove at him. He was on the canvas most of the round. Merrick's round. The spectators booed and hissed the fighters and called for action. Merrick tried to oblige in the third but few blows were struck because of Alvarado's tactics. Merrick's fight by decision.

The fifth was between Rudy Beck, 150, Newman Club, and Clar Nabors, 155, Eng. Beck's

Dischmen Play Falk's Nine Friday Afternoon

Bib Falk and his gang have decided to stay over a few days and give the home folks a treat, so Clark Field will be the scene of a baseball game between the Steers and the All-Stars Friday afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock. A scheduled game between the same teams was rained out last Saturday.

Some of the Falkmen, notably Pinky Higgins and Tommy Hughes, will be missing, but veteran American Leaguer put a ful nine on the field. It likely that Bohannon, a pitcher from Luling, will work part of the game for the All-Stars, with Coach Disch of the Steers standing ready to lend Bib any second-hand or slightly used twirlers he may desire.

The All-Star line-up will include such major league players as Carl Reynolds of the Chicago White Sox, Eddie Marshall of the New York Giants, and Falk himself, property of the Cleveland Indians. Their line-up probably will be as follows:

Chester Falk, former Longhorn and professional athlete, first base; Ed Olle, ex-Steer and present athletic business manager, second base; Kelly Payne, former freshman star here, third base; Eddie Marshall, short; Carl Reynolds, Bib Falk, and somebody else in the outfield; Potsey Allen, ex-Longhorn captain, catcher.

The fights were judged by D. K. Brace and C. J. Alderson. The referee was Marty Karow. The next fights will be Friday night, March 5, in the auditorium of the Gregory Gym. If they come up to last night's performance they will be well worth seeing.
