WEAVER DIES SUDDENLY AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

THOMASON PRESENTS BILL TO ABOLISH FRATS

FRATS HINDER DEMOCRACY IN CAMPUS LIFE

Bill for Dormitories Will Be in House Soon

MINERAL BILL UP

Investigation of Land Office Affairs Probable

By ALBERT NIBLING, JR.

A bill providing for the abolition of fraternities on the University campus by Senator W. E. Thomason of Nacogdoches will come up for consideration within the next few days. Thomason stated that if regulation would be effective he would not favor complete abolition, but his opinion now is that fraternities are a hindrance to complete democratic harmony among the student body. Thomason is an ex-student of the University. He has a son who holds a degree from the University and a daughter who is at present a student. While in the University, he stayed at B. Hall, when it was used as a dormitory for men.

The bill providing for the erection of men's dormitories on the campus, which has already been introduced in the Senate, will probably make its debut in the House early this week. The consensus of opinion is that there will be little difficulty of its passage in the Senate, but in the House more opposition will probably be met.

A strong bloc has been formed in the House that will probably bar the introduction of money bills until the special session of the Legislature, although numerous money bills have already been introduced in the Senate. Among the money bills to come up will be the appropriations to the University. It is rumored that a lump sum for the University will be asked this year.

A bill providing for the change in the manner of investment of University funds, which has been introduced in both branches, will broaden the field for investment to include county, city, and independent school district bonds. Another bill will exempt University bonds from taxation, thus making them more desirable to purchasers.

Sentiment is fast forming for the institution of a measure that will change the handling of mineral rights on University lands. One probability in this direction is the plan which will invest the Regents with the power to control such sales. The passage of the bill restraining the sale of leases on land and mineral rights Friday removed the lands from the market.

DATE LIST POSTED FOR DINNER DANCE

The date list of the annual dinner dance for students of the department of journalism, Texan workers and their friends, Theta Sigma Phi members, and all members of the business and editorial staffs of the Texas Students Publications, Inc., sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi fraternity, has been posted in B. Hall, room 120.

"Please report to the committee in charge immediately, whether you intend to go to the dance or not. This is absolutely necessary before definite arrangements can be made," Jimmy McCamy, president, said Saturday.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of Sigma Delta Chi or in room 120 of B. Hall.

Bridge may be played by those who do not care to dance, it was announced. The banquet will be given Friday night, January 18.

Experimental Theater Seats on Sale Monday

Tickets go on sale Monday at a booth in the Main Building for the second presentation of the Experimental Theater, newest University dramatics organization which is organized for the purpose of sponsoring and encouraging experimental work in dramatics at the University.

Two one-act plays will make up the program of the presentation which will open the new theater of the Experimental Theater in the basement of the Education Building. Because there are only 100 available seats, it is expected that seats for the performance both Tuesday and Wednesday nights will be at a premium.

The plays presented, in pursuance of the policy of the new organization to present worthy plays from the pens of local authors, are written by Commodore Cumley, contributor to the Longhorn Magazine, and James H. Parke of the English faculty. The plays are directed by Virginia Barnell and James Parke, respectively.

"Atonement" is the title of the play by James Parke and the lead will be taken by Virginia Barnell in the part of Olivia Massey, a woman whose husband returns just as she is about to move to the city to live with her son, breaking up her plans and forcing her to remain at home and take care of the man who left her. Miss Barnell played the lead in the recent Experimental Theater production of "The Prodigal Father." She is a member of Alpha Psi Omega, honorary dramatics fraternity, and has long been identified with the Curtain Club.

Steele Kenedy, president of the Curtain Club, has the part of Reverend Shands, in "Atonement" while James Muckleroy and Fred Meredith have the parts of John Massey and Burt Massey respectively.

In "All Hail the Queen" by Commodore Cumley, which will follow "Atonement" on the play bill, Burt Dyke has the leading role, of the king who is in search of a queen to share the throne with him.

The play is a fantasy scene of which is laid in a mythical kingdom. Burt Dyke is a member of the Curtain Club and has appeared in many of the dramatic offerings of that organization.

The cast of "All Hail the Queen" is as follows: Oolan, John Hamilton; Joor, Barnett Shaw; Bottle, Jimmie Matthias; Leumas, John Storm; Clok, Ray Thurman; General Murof, Paul LaBorne; Ghoon, Edward Green; Tippatalia, Geraldine K. Pound; Cella, Mariella Matthias.

During the intermission between the plays, refreshments will be served and a period allowed for discussion and criticism.

SPANISH CLUBS TO GIVE PLAY MONDAY

A series of Spanish plays, songs and dances will be given at the Austin High School auditorium at 7:30 o'clock Monday night, according to William Kessler, president of the University Dramatics Club. The program is sponsored by two Austin High School clubs, El Arco Iris and Los Habladores. Members of the Spanish Dramatics Club and those interested are urged to attend, Kessler stated. An admission of 35 cents will be charged.

STEER NETTERS FACED WITH HARD SCHEDULE

T. C. U.	3	0	3	.000
Rice	1	0	1	.000
Baylor	1	0	1	.000

First comes the report of an attractive baseball schedule, and now from Dr. D. A. Penick, tennis coach, comes the word that the Steer netters will be seen in five intercollegiate tennis tournaments in Austin this spring. Oklahoma Aggies, Drake University, S. M. U., Baylor, and Rice are the ones scheduled to play here. The visiting netters will experience much difficulty turning back stars like Captain Hugh Dunlap, Berkeley Bell, Bruce Barnes, Earl Taylor, Louis Ferguson, Lucian La Coste, and David Minchen.

The tournament to determine the University doubles champions in handball got under way yesterday afternoon at the intramural gymnasium handball courts. Four leagues were represented, and after the champions of each league is determined, inter-league competition will begin in order to determine the University champions. The singles championship in handball was determined some weeks ago, when Arthur Sandlin defeated Paul Williams in the finals of the tournament.

News of the appointment of Bo McMillan to coach the T. C. U. football team is not surprising. Since Matty Bell, former Frog mentor resigned some days ago to accept the position of head coach of the Texas Aggies which was left vacant by the resignation of Dana X. Bible, McMillan has been mentioned for the job, according to latest reports. It was practically certain that McMillan would receive a great deal of preference over the other some 200 candidates on account of his experience and because he is a native of Fort Worth.

The Steers are scheduled to meet the St. Edwards quintet on the Deaf and Dumb Institute floor, Wednesday night, January 16. The Saints boast a strong team including all experienced lettermen, and recently they held the strong Rice Owls to a 29-25 score.

PONIES WIN, 34-25

FORT WORTH, Jan. 12.—The Southern Methodist University Mustangs triumphed here tonight over their ancient rivals, the T. C. U. Horned Frogs, 34-25, in the third conference game of the season for each club.

The Ponies flashed a brilliant offensive that the fighting Frogs could not check.

Sooners - Drake Included In Stiff Tilts

Tennis fans will be afforded the opportunity of seeing five intercollegiate tennis tournaments in Austin this spring, according to Coach D. A. Penick, who announced the schedule of games at a called meeting of freshman, ineligible and Varsity tennis players on Penick Courts Saturday afternoon.

Oklahoma A. & M. will come to Austin March 28 for two days; the first day to be taken up in practice and the second to be devoted to matches.

Drake University April 3, and S. M. U. April 15 will both play matches with Varsity here. Baylor and Rice are also scheduled to play in Austin but dates have not been set.

Outside contests include matches with Texas A. & M. at College Station, April 6; T. C. U. at Fort Worth, May 10; and Oklahoma University at Norman, Oklahoma, May 11.

May 16, 17, and 18, the Southwest Conference matches will be held in Austin, the winners of which will enter the national matches the latter part of June.

At the meeting Saturday, Dr. Penick urged his players to make themselves scholastically eligible for the matches, explaining that three and one-third courses passed out of five taken, or a total of ten hours' credit for the first semester's work is required for eligibility.

Intensive spring practice will begin immediately with the start of the second semester, the coach said, and a rigid supervision of the apportionment of courts among players will be made.

Former letter men and squad men will be given first choice of the courts, and all freshman and ineligible players will be required to play on courts allotted to them unless playing match games with squadmen.

To eliminate confusion and argument during practice hours and to use the practice time to advantage, a time table for matches has been arranged. Challenge matches must be played from 2 to 3 o'clock, singles matches from 3 to 4, and doubles from 4 to 5.

"This schedule applies only to the Varsity courts," the coach declared, "and will not be rigidly enforced."

All matches should be arranged ahead of time with the tennis manager to insure getting a place to play at the proper time, but in all cases, he said, first-rank men will be given preference.

Special Daily Texan Correspondent

DALLAS, Jan. 12.—Bo McMillan has been named head football coach at T. C. U. to succeed Matty Bell, ex-Frog mentor who resigned recently to accept the coaching responsibilities of their rival college, A. & M., according to unconfirmed reports received here today.

LONGHORNS TO MEET ST. EDS WEDNESDAY

Team of Veterans to Face Locals in Hard Go

Returning from Waco after their game with the Baylor Bears Saturday night, the Texas Steers will settle down to two days' practice before meeting the St. Edwards' quintet on the Deaf and Dumb Institute floor, Wednesday, January 16. This will probably be the last practice game for the Steers this year, as the conference race is now well under way.

From the dope, Texas should have little opposition in the game Wednesday, but the boys from across the Colorado have a habit of flashing lots of fight on occasions. They dropped a close contest to the Rice Owls, 29-25, recently, and then lost two close games to the San Marcos Teachers. Texas defeated the Teachers in two games just before the Christmas holidays, but had no easy job with the visitors.

Professor Gives Third Of Lecture Series Tuesday Night

In his lecture on "The Eddie Poems" Tuesday, Dr. Lee M. Hollander will quote passages from the Scandinavian poems and discuss the writers. "Some of these poems date from as early as the third century A.D. and all are written in the old Norse language," said Dr. Hollander.

The lecture is the third in a series on "Masterpieces of the World's Literature" to be delivered by members of the University faculty. The lecture will be delivered at 5 o'clock in Garrison Hall auditorium.

BULLETINS SENT TO HIGH SCHOOLS

This is being done with the purpose in mind of interesting those students who will be graduated from high school or "prep" school at mid-term in coming to the University.

CONTEST TO NAME LITTLE CAMPUS PAPER ENDS SOON

It took one William Shakespeare to figure out the wise crack about "what's in a name" but he knows nothing yet, says the editor of the Little Campus publication which is holding a contest for the selection of a name under which to be published.

There are 150 students in the Little Campus and the editor says that a majority of the residents have turned in suggested names in an effort to win the grand prize offered. The prize will be $1 in tailoring work, making at least one reply to Shakespeare's query.

The contest closes January 15 and the third issue of the paper will appear under its new name January 20.

T. H. Shelby, dean of the Division of Extension, is the author of an article "Problems of Financing Rural and Village Schools" in the January issue of the Texas Outlook.

The article has two general divisions; the first part presents a number of problems that hamper educational progress in Texas, and the second part gives some suggested remedies for the defects revealed.

Some of the problems presented are:

The disparity between common schools and independent schools with respect to qualifications and salaries of teachers, length of school term, and kind of school buildings; the disparity between Texas common schools and common schools of other states; the problem concerning the ten percent of Texas children attending one teacher schools; the racial partiality with respect to distributing advantages in Texas; the reluctance of Texans to increase taxation for the improvement of the school system; the inequality of tax rates in the different counties; the efforts of lobbyists to defeat the levying of taxes

What Do You Know About—

By J. C. WATKINS

1. Al Smith puzzles?
2. Senatorial wit?
3. "Flu" panacea?
4. Plane crash?

Al Smith breaks into print again.

The New York Times yesterday said that it was hinted in Democratic circles that the ex-governor would declare himself the actual as well as the titular head of the Democratic party in a nationwide radio speech next Wednesday.

Representative Box of Texas recently declared that Smith policies should be discarded by the party, and this has caused friends of the former governor to expect a reply from him. Also the South's sentiment in asking for the displacement of Raskob as party leader is regarded as a factor in inducing Mr. Smith to state his views.

The ex-governor may be heard over any of the NBC chain stations Wednesday, beginning at 7:30 o'clock Central Time.

Some of our senators ought to write editorials for College Humor. Epigrams and wit fill the Congressional Record of late, as a result of the long-drawn-out debate on the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war.

A few terse senatorial sayings: "A pious pronouncement of pure piffle"—Senator Blaine, Wisconsin.

"It puts us in the position of using hymn books for our first line of defense"—Senator McLean, Connecticut.

"If we are going to throw a kiss to Europe, let us understand that it carries no obligations of matrimony"—Senator Reed, Missouri.

"A provision that right, not might, shall be our guide in the future"—Senator Bland, Louisiana.

"Neither a great triumph nor an empty gesture; a forward step"—Senator Walsh, Massachusetts.

"Look over your partner's shoulder while dancing; so that your face won't be exposed to the germs from your partner."

No, not Arthur Murray speaking, but one of the scientists at the mobilization of health officials in Washington to combat influenza. It is one of a number of edicts issued, others being, "don't drink out of a friend's cocktail glass," and "don't wear too much clothing."

The question of medicinal liquor came up for a hot discussion, and was finally ruled out as "extraneous."

Before adjourning, the conference adopted resolutions seeking from Congress larger appropriations for research and for a system of "national public health defense," adequate to deal with other diseases, particularly in the rural sections.

A tri-motored Fokker plane, of the same type as the Question Mark, yesterday carried seven men to death when it was smashed to pieces in a desperate attempt at a forced landing. The eighth member of the crew died later in a Middleton, Pennsylvania, hospital, a mile from the place the airplane crashed.

Because the plane was so completely smashed authorities state that the cause of the accident will never be known.

And in the last issue of the American Magazine Archibald Rutledge writes interestingly of the fastidious raccoon, which washes its food before devouring it.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

MANY loudly sing the praises of hard work
But many idle hours within such singing lurk.

CASABIANCIA

The boy stood on
The burning deck
A-baking of his Head, by heck.

And as he stood
He shivered some—
He found the heating
System bum.

But he was not
One to complain
Because he caught
A bad chilblain

For many a most Hapless wight
Has had more pain
And less delight

For this poor zaney
Found great joy
To be a super-
Heated boy.

And so would you
If you were he
And heat and you
Did so agree

But since it isn't
What you like
You call that boy
A simple tike

When he was really
Very wise
For doing what
He thought was nice

For 'tis becoming
To God's creatures
To do what most Becomes their natures.

It has been called to our attention that the pupies are again yapping at our heels. Again the Little Campus Outrage pours boiling oil on the waters. The perpetration of this sin again mankind, suggests that by calling him Dandruff we must want him to fall on our neck, but we're no fool; look at his left.

All these young pups believe in giving flowers to the living cauliflowerers.

Our girl friend Mamie was down to see the Legislature the other day and the best they could give her was a balcony seat. Mamie wants to know, what is Democracy coming to?

And now one of the Senators wants to introduce a bill forcing legislators to ride the water wagon while working. This was a free country once upon a time.

What can you expect of the younger generation when they are told from rompers on up that Washington never told a lie. People want to be original.

If history repeats itself one should be able to read the first installment and know it all.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN TAKEN UP BY CITY

City officials will take up the University improvement project in February, according to information from the office of City manager Adam Johnson. Matters for consideration include the widening of Guadalupe between Nineteenth and Twenty-fourth streets, the closing of Speedway between Twenty-first and Twenty-fourth streets, the moving of the street car line that runs east of Speedway, and the paving of the streets in the University neighborhood.

SENIOR ENGINEERS TELL TIME BY SUN

Members of the senior civil engineering class in field work during the past week have been making observations of the sun to determine the time. The time is determined by the altitude of the sun, and by reference to the nautical almanac.

This week the class will determine the latitude of Austin. This is done by making an observation of the sun at meridian or apparent noon, about 12:36 o'clock at this time of the year, and after obtaining the altitude of the sun, referring to the nautical tables, it was said.

The course is under Professor E. C. H. Bantel, and there are about ten members enrolled.

Eleanor Luetke of Newman Hall is spending the week-end at her home in San Antonio.

VAUDEVILLE AT HANCOCK

Aside from two or three skits, there have been lots better vaudeville bills at the Hancock than the unit show which the industrious can still see today. But then maybe those two or three scenes are worth the price of admission, at least, they'll hand you a laugh.

The best punch comes in the "tintype" scene in which heads and hands are stuck through a back drop representing an old fashioned picture. Extraordinarily clever selection of old-time sob-songs make the scene a wow.

Another of the famous scenes of famous people is that of the blindman before the lingerie shop, this was plenty good and plenty funny.

The phrase that familiarity breeds contempt evidently doesn't hold for jokes because it was very noticeable that the audience laughed most at the oldest jokes. Why this is so I do not know but I surmise... Now that is a cryptic statement.

Jung in eccentric costume, chiefly consisting of a coat which he said he got from a broad, gave a few good laughs and he deserves the applause he got. Not so one Billy M. Greene who seemed to run the whole she-bang.

The entire bill had a distinctly Hebraic tinge, but that is neither here nor there because as a rule Shylock's progeny furnish about the best entertainment in current vaudeville attractions.

Tom Atlas and Steve LaMar are the most attractive tap dancers that have come this way. Most tap dancers look something like microcephalic imbeciles with a tendency towards cretinism, but these boys are really handsome.

But, and this is emphatic, if another act comes forth with a finale with drums I'm going to get up and scream and tell 'em the war's over. One drum is bad enough, but fourteen is sufficient to call down the wrath of all the gods that be. No matter if they are played by scantily clad females, drums are drums just like pigs are pigs.

What with Margaret Livingston wearing asbestos clothes, "The Apache" turns out to be something more than cold. Miss Livingston has handsome Don Alvarado to heap coals of fire on her head and as a consequence it's a pretty good picture.—A. N. M.

JANNINGS BOOKED

"Sins of the Fathers," Emil Jannings' latest film has been booked for showings at the Majestic theater starting next Wednesday. The supporting cast includes sweet little Jean Arthur, handsome Barry Norton, and some others but these are the big artillery. Ready, aim, fire.

MYSTERY FILM AT QUEEN

What have you got at the Queen now? Well, first of all there's chills and shivers with assorted screams emitted from the comely mouth of Laura La Plante in "The Last Warning," mystery special with music score and sound effects. The last word in intensity and suspense and general gosh-awfulness is promised in this mystery picture. It is here Sunday through Wednesday. Then comes "Shopworn Angel" with Nancy Carroll and Gary Cooper. This is a talkie, showing at the Queen Thursday through Saturday. And there are always Vitaphone specialties and, with the first show of the week, Movietone news to make things all the more interesting. Let's go.

RONALD COLMAN NOW AT MAJESTIC

For sheer scenic beauty of background and exquisite photography "The Rescue," playing at the Majestic through Tuesday, is the best picture we have seen lately. Besides it has a romantic and stirring plot—brings Ronald Colman his first starring role—and gives to the screen the much exploited Lily (it really isn't Lily) Damita.

And while we are on the subject of Miss Damita, let us expound her many virtues. For one thing she is softly blonde—something in the manner of the displaced Miss Banks—but infinitely more vivacious. In long shots, she tends to look a little pallid; but in the close-ups—well, we really couldn't quite believe in Mr. Colman's resistance. For another, her acting is particularly good for a newcomer to the screen. She played the somewhat unsympathetic role of the seductive wife with great charm and appeal. Another thing, she is particularly apt in the more romantic scenes. By this, silly, we mean the scenes in which she leans on Mr. Colman's shoulder and attempted to do him no good for his soul's sake—let us tell you!

Ronald Colman has appeared to better advantage; but has never done better acting. He really merely looked more morose and perplexed than ever before; and if Mr. Goldwyn is willing to call this acting and pay hard cash for it—well, we have nothing to say. It really doesn't matter. Colman has a distinct appeal—and not only to the palpitating flappers. Just what it is, we can't decide; but it is distinctly not the Glyn type of "it."

Savages, Sijon—at his meanest, and weird songs on the Vitaphone tend to add to the dramatic value of the picture. Really, one of the best that's been here since "White Shadows of the South Seas."

production of Victor Hugo's classic, "The Man Who Laughs," starts its run today.

This beautiful romance of a maimed mountebank and a beautiful blind girl, enacted by Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin, was directed by Paul Leni, internationally celebrated master of "direction."

Lavishly beautiful settings and romantic atmosphere feature this photoplay, the period of which is laid in England is 1705, during the reign of Queen Anne. The many famous figures of her court move prominently through the picture.

"The Man Who Laughs" is promised as even more magnificent and gripping than "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," the Victor Hugo classic brought to the screen so impressively by Universal years ago.

SACRED FILM NOW AT TEXAS

The cinema program at the Texas theater this week is led off by "The King of Kings," called by many the greatest picture ever made, and since it is on a sacred theme, the life of The Christ, it is certainly a picture everyone should see. Special music has been arranged for its presentation Sunday and Monday. "Varsity" with Charles Rogers and Mary Brian will be shown Tuesday only; and "Love Over Night" with Rod La Rocque flickers across Wednesday and Thursday. The concluding show of the week will be George Bancroft in "The Drag Net."

'RED WINE' HERE

Conrad Nagel proves himself capable of philandering with gusto in "Red Wine," the picture which arrives at the Hancock theater Monday for showings through Friday. June Collyer and Arthur Stone are also in the cast. This picture was given a "best of the month" by Photoplay, in case you want to know, and in case it'll help any.

"FOUR SONS" COMING

What promises to be one of the most appealing films on the mother-dear theme is "Four Sons" coming to the Hancock theater January 21. The mother is Margaret Mann, the four strapping boys being Charles Morton, James Hall, Francis X. Bushman, Jr., and George Meeker.

SEE! HEAR!

A PICTURE that will chill you with its spooky thrills as it warns you with its daring drama. The startling story of what happened to a beautiful stage star when she and her companion dared the Unknown and came back to a long-empty theater to revive a performance that previously had proved fatal. It's more thrilling than "The Cat and the Canary." SEE IT.

pages that have lived scores of years beyond their maker, has left us a tale of strife between LOVE and PASSION intermingled with the life blood of a period so different from ours that it will sweep you away into the era of loves that influenced the histories of nations—The conspiracies, the torture chambers, the life of the English court of the late seventeenth century will hold you spellbound as they have held the millions who have loved Hugo's "L'Homme Qui Rit."

STEERS BARELY WIN FROM BRUIN FIVE

and then the other out in front by a few points' margin. A scoring spree would bring the other team up past, and a few minutes later the other would be in the lead.

The Bruins took a three-point lead in the second period through one of the greatest freak shots ever witnessed by the writer. Rees and Rose both went into the air after a long pass thrown down the field. The ball merely grazed the tips of their fingers, and fell through the basket counting two points for the Bruins. This shot, ordinarily would have discouraged any team but the Steers came back and flashed out in front of the Bruins by a great display of basketball fight.

The game was witnessed by a crowd estimated at 1,200 persons. The fray early developed into a defense affair, with the score tied two-all after six and one-half minutes of play. Baylor was stalling, while the Longhorns were throwing out a defense that could not be broken through. All scores up to the tie had been scored on free tosses.

Coach Walker appeared to be pleased with the outcome of the game, as he figured that a tight game did more to knock the cockiness out of the squad than anything less would.

WHEREAS: In his death the College of Engineering has suffered the loss of an efficient and capable worker, his colleagues the loss of a valued friend, and his students the loss of a faithful and inspiring teacher,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the faculty of the College of Engineering of the University of Texas extend their heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family, and that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the engineering faculty.

"It is a great loss to the institution," said T. U. Taylor, dean of the College of Engineering, in speaking of Professor Weaver's death.

death. "He was an untiring worker."

"In the death of Professor Hal C. Weaver, the University of Texas, his colleagues, and the students of this institution have suffered an irreparable loss," Carl J. Eckhardt, instructor in mechanical engineering, said in speaking for members of the mechanical engineering faculty.

"As a man of sterling character he has long been revered by those who have been privileged to know him, as the truly noble man that he has always been. He has labored with reckless abandon to serve the University and Texas' young manhood.

"His impeccable integrity and his nobility have indeed been a resplendent inspiration to all who have known him. As a tireless worker he has served this institution some 20 years. During this time, he has been a tower of strength in furthering constructive aims in the University's development.

"The faculty members of his department have lost a very able and most considerate leader. The students of the University have lost that commendable and praiseworthy teacher who has done so much to shape the destiny of many young Texans who have always been inspired and encouraged by the genuine fineness of his character and by their profound appreciation for his ability as a mechanical engineer.

"More words are surely far too meager to express the sentiments of those who have known him well and those who by knowing him have learned to appreciate him truly."

"I was astonished and stunned at hearing of the sudden death of Professor Weaver. I have known him long enough to honor him highly as a man and as a professor. I regret exceedingly his loss to the University," stated Dr. Frederick William Simmonds, professor of geology and secretary emeritus of the general faculty.

WEAVER DIES AT HOME SATURDAY

tor in the engineering life of the state as well as the country. Its graduates are occupying positions in almost every part of the Union," said Dean T. U. Taylor of the College of Engineering.

Professor Weaver was born November 1, 1883, in Chester, Michigan, and received his early education in Charlotte, Michigan, schools. He attended Michigan Agricultural College in 1902 and entered the University of Michigan in 1903, where he received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering in 1908.

In the fall of 1908 Professor Weaver came to the University as a tutor in steam engineering, and while acting in that capacity, until 1910 he pursued courses toward a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering, which he received in 1912.

A year later he received a master's degree in electrical engineering from the University and in 1926 he received a master's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Michigan.

Practical Experience

During his undergraduate days, Professor Weaver accumulated a wealth of practical experience. In the summer of 1903 he served as assistant to the city engineer of Charlotte, Michigan. Since that time, he has held positions with the Olds Motor Works, Westinghouse Machine Company, and Cadillac Motor Company, and he has done a large amount of drafting work.

In the University he has taught steam and gas engineering, thermodynamics, power plant economics and power plant design, manual training and engineering shop work, refrigeration, heating, and ventilation.

During the World War, he was a first lieutenant in the air service and also served on the academic board of the United States Army School of Automobile Mechanics. He was a member of the board of control of war schools at the University.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Margaret, 10, and Helen, 14; and a brother, Dr. Don Weaver of Oakland, California.

The funeral will be held this Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence, 109 West Thirty-second street.

"Hal C. Weaver was an outstanding man in his field of work," stated J. W. Calhoun, comptroller. "He was an unselfish and untiring ing worker and his efforts did not only extend to the University but to other public needs.

"His scholarship was very thorough and he had just recently taken up some advanced work, always keeping abreast of his time.

"As a man, Weaver was of the highest type and was most highly esteemed by the public which he served so untiringly."
