Wednesday evening a rally was held in the Auditorium for a triple purpose. First, President Mezes desired that the students be given every opportunity to become better acquainted with one another; second, the important reports of those men who spoke in the interest of the Hogg Movement last summer were presented; third, the Press Club wished to present a plan for aiding in the advertising of the University.

President Mezes, himself, presided and gave a short address of welcome, and spoke a few words of gratification and congratulation during the course of the evening upon the splendid work done by the Hogg Movement in general and the work of the speakers in the interest of that movement, in particular.

Luther S. Hoffman related briefly his experiences in canvassing the northeast portion of the State. Then following were George Dupree and Mr. Gunter of Sam Houston Normal, each reporting that general interest over the State was good and that activity toward aid in the Hogg Movement was apparent wherever an appeal was possible. Mr. Brailey supplemented these speeches by a few remarks complimentary to the work done. Hugh Potter was absent owing to sickness.

The Hogg speakers reached fifty thousand people last summer, covered ninety-eight counties, and made two hundred and seventy-five speeches. It may be seen by this that a tremendous impetus is given the Hogg Movement and that very great credit is due those men who accomplished such an admirable piece of work in speaking under frequently trying circumstances.

Chas. Francis, in behalf of the Press Club, outlined a plan which seems to be of unusual merit. The purpose of the plan is to advertise the University through the State press and especially through the country press. To inaugurate the plan, cards were handed around to be signed which contained the agreement to act as correspondent for some home newspaper. A bulletin board will be kept in the Main Building so that topics of vital interest to the University may be most efficiently treated for publication in the respective newspapers of those who have signed the cards. The articles published in the newspapers from this source are to be clipped out and handed in to the Press Club. Next spring a prize of $25.00 will be awarded to the person writing the most effective article.

Too much cannot be said in favor of the Press Club plans. It is efficient because it is direct. The students, by watching the bulletin board for topics of especial importance, are enabled to set their case before their respective home people in a light hitherto unrepresented.

It is urged that not only shall the thirty-seven signers be active in this work, but that the student body, as a whole, shall awake to the importance of the scheme and procure cards with the sincere purpose of using the opportunity afforded them for materially benefiting their own school.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Henry F. Cope, General Secretary of the Religious Education Association, will address the students Sunday at the University Methodist Church. Mr. Cope, who delivers the address under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., will speak on "Modern Bible Study." He is a man of national reputation in religious fields.

SEE THE MANAGER.

There are many students in the University who have not yet learned that the editors have charge of the news that goes in The Texan and that the Managers attend to the business of the publication. If you want to subscribe, advertise, or register a complaint about not receiving the paper, see the Managers. It will do no good to see the Editor. He does not control that department, and besides, has troubles enough of his own.

Bear Chases Co-Eds Scarf Pin Skillfully Pressed Into Service

One would think that, of all places, the University would be most dignified and lacking in excitement, yet even here, in the midst of the effete culture of modern civilization, may not a mighty nimrod be denied his sport. One "Gene" Cavin, well known to University fame both because of what he has and what he has not, said, is our hero. Often before have we longed to behold his marvelous feats of hunting, but little did we think that ever the time would come when we should see the pride of the Law Department and the Y. M. C. A. in action. It happened thusly:

Realizing that we have a football team, and being proficient in this sport and quite a devotee thereof, one Ed. Jalonick last spring purchased from a grizzly mountaineer a cub mascot for said team. In due time the plot was put in execution, and Ed, and the bear arrived. The bear, be it said, is unusually well trained, being almost as expert as his master in the gentle art of hugging and even more adept with his claws. Also, he is young and inexperienced, but nevertheless, needs exercise, and hence it is the custom for certain of the bear's associates to take him for a stroll when the weather permits exposure. On this particular occasion one Bruce Law wasn't in charge of the family ward, and was holding him by a 40-foot chain (so Gene says). Gene, on the other hand true to his ever chivalrous nature, was accompanying two charming young ladies (the Managing Editress has forbidden the use of their names, but take it from the reporter, and Gene, they were charming, all right) homeward. Bears are traditionally fond of sweet things, so, catching his guardian off guard, the cub made a dive for the girls, taking Law with him. The shy co-eds ran as though a rat, not a bear, were in sight, and seizing his opportunity to win everlasting renown, Gene tackled the bear low, but not as low as the bear tackled him. Then followed a scrimmage worthy even of Little Brown, and, as on Saturday, Texas came off second best—the actual damage being one leg off one pair of trousers.

A scarf pin was pressed into service, and the vanquished hero wended his way homeward with the ladies, but they did not seem to entirely soothe his wounded pride, for Gene immediately went back to the Y. M. C. A. (after finding out there was no political affiliations between the bear's master and himself), and got a gun. Even the dulcet tones of Hoffman and the sympathy and advice of George Dupree failed entirely to placate him, and it is rumored the Sigma Chi's have, in conjunction, just bought a single pair of trousers.

Basketball practice begins Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

DIRECTS SCRUB GAME OVER THE TELEPHONE

STRANDED AT FARM HOUSE
COACH DISCH DEVISES NEW MEANS TO VICTORY.

Coach Billy Disch of the Varsity Scrubs put a new wrinkle in college football Thursday afternoon when he directed the playing of his Scrubs at Bastrop by telephone and enabled them to defeat the Austin Academy eleven, which was composed of Metzenthin at quarter, Rix and Kirkpatrick at halves, and Holliday, of A. & M. fame, at full-back. The Managers of the Bastrop Fair arranged for the two teams to play on their gridiron, making them a nice offer. The "call of the gridiron" struck Metz and Rix and Kirk and Holliday, and they could not resist the temptation to play again the game of their college days. Coach Disch was not to be overcome by such odds, but expressed himself as willing to risk his huskies against the world. The bout was arranged and automobiles were resorted to as means of conveyance. Luck broke against the Scrub Coach and his car went to the bad and left him stranded at a farm house half way between the two places. His efforts to make the gear work were in vain, but he let his head work and won fame. "Modern football" was what he called his tactics, when he copped on to the rural telephone and directed the playing of his men by wireless. So successful was the venture that the Scrubs came away victorious by the score of 6 to 0. He spent quite an enjoyable time on the roadside, so he said, and enjoyed every minute of his stay from 2:30 in the afternoon to 10 o'clock that night.

The game was a corking good one and was voted a complete success by the large crowd that witnessed it. The professionals played a strong game, but were not able to cope with the consistent clock-work of the Scrub team. The Scrub held well and they gave the big boys a tumble on every end run. Neither side was able to score until the last quarter, when, by a series of line plunges, the Scrubs worked the ball down near the goal, and Turner, who had relieved Edmond at right half, bucked across for a touchdown. Mather missed goal, and the game ended a few minutes later. For the Scrubs, Rathell at full, Massey and Edmond at halves, were easily the stars of the game. Pete Edmond played his usual stiff game and made several good gains. He did the punting, what little there was done.

BRUSH AND PENCIL PUSHERS.

Will Stimulate Interest In Arts and Execute Cactus Material.

The members of the Brush and Pencil Club met last evening in Room 37, Engineering Building, for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and for discussing matters of relative importance. Wm. Lightfoot was chosen for president; Miss Margaret Boroughs, vice-president; Miss Ethel Barron, secretary; and David R. Williams, treasurer. Prof. H. F. Kuehne is to be monitor and Miss Stella Elmendorf, assistant monitor.

It was decided to hold meetings each Thursday night, in Room 37, Engineering Building, from 7:15 to 9:30 o'clock. At the end of the year a prize will be offered to the most deserving member. T. M. Henderson, Jr., stated that the Cactus committee would also award a prize for the best piece of work submitted.

The purpose of the club is to stimulate an interest in arts among students and such others as may have a taste in that direction, and to execute such material as the committee of the Cactus may request. It is intended for actual work as well as for critical study.

GAME TODAY OFFERS PUZZLE TO LONGHORNS

HOWEVER, BEST CONTEST OF SEASON ANTICIPATED—INDIANS
COMING STRONG.

Today's game with the Haskell Indians has proven the hardest game on the Longhorn schedule for the team, the coaches, and Varsity supporters to dope out. The Redskins come down to us almost an unknown quantity and most any sort of a surprise may be looked for from these Indians.

Haskell Institute is located at Lawrenceville, Kansas, and the distance between the Indian school and Varsity is such that newspaper dope is all that can be found about the Longhorn's foe of today, but from this we learn that the Redskins will send a team that will give Varsity one of the stiffest games of the season.

All we know about the Haskell team this year is that they have a seasoned team of veterans and a good number of new braves who are making the "old guard" hustle to hold their positions, and that they have B. R. Kennedy, the coach of Kansas U. in '08, '09, and '10, when the Jayhawkers finished with two championship teams. With such a coach training these Redskins and the new rules adapted, as they are seemingly, just for the Redskins' style of play, we may expect all sorts of new and tricky plays to be pulled off by the fleet Indians in today's game. It is expected in this game that more "new football" will be uncovered than in any other game to be played on Clark Field this season. And it is a sure thing that the Longhorns will have a hand full when they meet the Haskell Indians today at 3:30.

Another fact that gives some light as to the strength of the Haskell Indians is the news that Manager Garrett gives out. He says that in arranging this game he found out that the Indians were after games with Minnesota, Colorado U., Denver U., Kansas and Wisconsin. If the Redskins aspire to meet these teams they must be pretty well up in football.

The Longhorns will be in better condition for this game than in any game they have played this season. Coach Alford has put his squad through a hard week's work and the Longhorns should show signs of rounding into mid-season form in today's game. Just what the lineup will be when the game begins can not be learned, but very likely the second string men will be called in during the last two quarters. The team is in good shape and optimistic not only about today's game, but about the remainder of the schedule.

The game will start promptly at 3:30.

Woman's Athletic Rally.

Monday evening all the girls in the University interested in athletics, met in the girls' gymnasium for a rally all their own. Miss Berneta Minkwitz was "stage manager," introducing the speakers of the evening, and making a speech herself on tennis. Willie Magee told the girls about basketball and the fun of being on the team. But for fear they would not fully understand, she announced an impromptu game between the "Giants" and the "Midgets." The lineup of the "Giants" was:

Berneta Minkwitz . . . . . Centre
Elizabeth Butte . . . . . Side-centre
Mary Paulsen . . . . . Left forward
Hazel Porter . . . . . Right forward
Mary Lake Henderson . . . Left guard
Ora Lee Tankersley . . . Right guard

The "Midgets" were:
Lutie Britt . . . . . Centre
Margaret Schultz . . . . . Side-centre
William Ledbetter . . . Left forward
Mary Jane Butts . . . Right forward
Gertrude Goldsmith . . . Left guard
Sammie Hogue . . . . . Right guard

The "Midgets" won by a score of 53-13. The game was refereed by Sallie Whitehouse. Maude Thomas explained the various walking clubs. Refreshments were served in the form of ice cream cones. This rally, unlike those held in the Auditorium, drifted into a dance. As a result of this rally, several new members have been added to the Association this week.

MANAGERS.

The candidates for the various managerial positions on the athletic teams are:

Manager Baseball, K. K. Belt's.
Ass't. Mgr., Garrett E. Matthews.
Mgr. Basketball, F. V. Lowry and Texas Schramm.

Ass't. Mgr., Julian E. Gillespie and Herman Eastland, Jr.

Ass't. Mgr. Track, H. B. Jones and W. R. Hamilton.

No one has applied for Manager of Track.

Dr. Mather, Chairman of the Athletic Council, has requested the announcement that all applications for the various positions be filed at once.

PROF. TAYLOR BACK FROM OKLAHOMA TRIP

CONTRASTS PAY FOR EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS IN THE TWO STATES.

Prof. T. U. Taylor, Dean of the Department of Engineering, returned Wednesday morning from Fort Worth, Dallas, and Oklahoma City, after an absence from the University of four or five days. While away from Austin, Prof. Taylor says that he met dozens of former students of Texas University and also encountered a large number of friends and acquaintances. He met one former school-mate, he said, whom he had not seen in thirty-one years.

Dean Taylor left this city on the night of Thursday, October 17th, and spent the following Friday in Fort Worth, where he attended an important meeting of the City Water Supply Board of Engineers, of which he is an active member.

Saturday he devoted to the city of Dallas; and among other things, made himself famous in the Dallas newspapers by unexpectedly rallying an alumni meeting which was about to disperse and at which he afterwards presided. A full account of his experiences on this occasion was contained in the Dallas News last Sunday. Also, he incidentally attended the football game at Gason Park, but has not much to say about that mournful event.

From Dallas, Prof. Taylor went to Oklahoma City to be present by special invitation, at the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of Dr. Stratton D. Brooks as President of the University of Oklahoma to succeed President Boyd, who after sixteen years of continuous connection with that institution, recently resigned and left for New Mexico.

Leaving Norman, Dean Taylor spent the remainder of his time in Oklahoma City, where he took occasion to visit the famous Oklahoma City high school, about which so much has been said and written. Speaking of the high school and the advantages which it contains, he said:

"The Oklahoma City high school is one of the best equipped and most complete in the entire country. There, manual training, domestic science, stenography, and all of the vocations are taught to the students without any extra tuition charge. The fourteen hundred or more students have the advantage of the best educational building of any south of St. Louis, with the possible exception of the Rice Institute at Houston. There is no building in Texas used for educational purposes that can approach it," he declared.

Continuing, Prof. Taylor said that the people of Oklahoma City annually spend more on their public schools than the entire State of Texas appropriates from the general revenue for the support of the University of Texas. The sum, he said, annually amounts to more than five hundred and fifty thousand dollars. "The faculty is composed of some fifty-three competent teachers, each one drawing a good salary. A feature of the course of study is the night school, one of the few in the country that gives free tuition to all of its students."

Prof. Taylor said that the Oklahoma City high school contains so many superior qualities that he is unable to enumerate them all. He thinks that the public schools of Oklahoma City are better supported than those in any other city in the entire Southwest. Oklahoma City has a population of about 70,000.

The Monte Ne Banquet.

A Monte Ne Banquet will be given this evening at 8:20 o'clock at the University Commons to the delegates to the Y. W. C. A. State Convention. Two hundred guests are expected. They are to assemble in the Girls' Study Hall in the Main Building of the University, and go from there to the Commons in a body. Miss Helen Knox, well known to the University girls, is to be toast-mistress.

Denton Club meets Monday, October 28, at 4 p. m., Room 48.

Relieves Freshman Of $18; Leaves Two Cents For Postage

Tuesday evening last, an uninvited guest entered one of the upstairs apartments at Pope Flats, and spent quite a profitable half hour. Choosing a freshman for his greatest victim and knowing that this class have little use for money, he relieved Jas. Clark of eighteen dollars, leaving a watch and stick pin unmolested. Simmons, Clark's room-mate, was broke, so escaped damage. In the next room are Crane and Higginbotham, and, evidently fearing their football prowess or being a lover of the sport, he left them strictly alone. Anyway, Crane has just returned from Dallas, and Higginbotham from home. Ike Finck did not fare so well, but the intruder showed his sense of humor. Ike had just 89 cents. The thief took just 87 cents, leaving Ike enough to pay postage on a letter asking for more cash. Bickett, the only cautious or rich man, had bolted his door.

There have been a series of robberies in the University neighborhood lately, the Phi Gam House and several private boarding houses having been entered.

B. Hall Jubilee.

Wednesday night while the Pedegies, newspaper reporters and faculty were being haggled in the Auditorium, B. Hall had a little celebration all its own. D. A. Frank, a graduate of the Law and Academic Departments, Editor of The Texan, Inter-society debater, track team man and football scrub (not to speak of being President of all the religious organizations in the country) was here visiting his brother, James D. Frank, of the Middle Law Class. Mr. Frank was an inmate of B. Hall before the women took charge of it, and the freshman left, in the days of Adrian Poole, Hackett, (now Prof.) Schuddemagen, Lumpkin, and others.—about 1903, when Tom Henderson was a freshman. Finding that he was present, about fifty of the present generation came in to pay their respects, and in response for calls for a speech, Mr. Frank told all about the conditions in the good old days, before the War-Horse declared war, when there was no hazing pledge, and Carrie Nation took the University under her wing. Mr. Frank was given a rousing ovation, and was asked to "come again."

Senior Class meeting Tuesday, Oct. 29, 3 p. m., Room 48.

Be present at the scalping ceremonies this afternoon.

Every loyal student is expected to root for the Hogg Movement.

Remember, it is usually the man who lets up who is let out first.

Some of the "eds" are developing a suspicious interest in that Y. W. C. A. Convention.

Laying aside the bellicose spirit let us nevertheless see to it that we are as effective against the Indians with the pigskin ball today as our forefathers were with leaden ones in times gone by.

"Pep" in the team is the spice of athletics, of course, but Mgr. Garrett insists that at this stage of the game the most reasonable seasoning is to be found when your financial support turns to season tickets.

STUDENT NEWS-LETTERS.

Fifty thousand people were reached this summer by the students speaking in behalf of the Hogg Organization. The good that they accomplished was made apparent at the rally Wednesday night. Erroneous impressions about student life were corrected. Correct information about the school, its size and its standing, was disseminated. Poor boys and girls were shown the opportunity which awaits them here. Men who have been our enemies because they were unaware of true conditions were changed into friends of the institution. In short, thousands of people were enlightened, as to the service we are rendering.

All this occurred during the summer months of a hot Texas summer. Now an advertising campaign to take place during these winter months and to be conducted by every student who will take part in the movement has been launched. The proposal is for every student to write news letters to his home paper, and in this way carry on the educational campaign that has been started. These letters will reach people beyond the influence of the speakers, and will convince men whom the most eloquent or most polished address cannot affect. In order to facilitate the work, the Press Club offers its services, and has decided to post on a bulletin board to be placed in the rotunda for that purpose articles on University conditions and events which the correspondents can use in carrying out the scheme.

As a further incentive to this work, a twenty-five dollar prize has been offered for the best series of news letters published in any paper in the State. The articles must be clipped from the paper and turned over to Mr. Lomax in Room 47, who will keep them filed until they are graded and the prize awarded.

A number of students have already signed the card agreeing to do this work. Another public meeting and discussion will be held soon, but in the meantime, if you are willing to render what service you can, see Mr. Lomax about the matter or call at The Texan office for one of the cards.

SIGN THE AGREEMENT.

Last week there appeared in this paper the announcement that a movement had been inaugurated to do away with all party lines, and to place politics beyond the control of cliques. All students who believe that the best men are the only ones good enough to serve the student body were asked to come out publicly in this belief and sign an agreement.

In the past a number of students have voted in accordance with the spirit of this agreement, believing it to be the only correct basis, while a still larger number have desired to do so, but have been prevented by existing conditions. The papers bearing the agreement, have therefore been readily and enthusiastically signed by the great majority of those who have been given the opportunity.

The movement has met with some slight opposition on the part of those who do not thoroughly understand it, and with very bitter opposition upon the part of a few who give as their reason that the men who inaugurated it "are scoundrels, and have dark and hidden motives." If it were a question of men and motives, a list of those most bitterly opposed to the plan might be printed, and their motives disclosed, but this principle, like all others, should be decided strictly upon its own merits. If it is a good movement, it should be supported regardless of your opinions of some of those who started it, and if it is a bad movement it should be stopped, regardless of how you consider those who oppose it.

Let the agreement speak for itself—it means what it says, no more and no less. No one should sign it unless he understands its spirit and believes in it, but all who do understand it, and who do believe in it, should get behind the movement.

A copy of the agreement will be placed on the girls' bulletin board, and a copy on the bulletin board in the main rotunda, just to the left of the entrance to the old library. A list of all who have signed will be published in the next Texan.

With an enrollment of thirty per cent in excess of the most sanguine pre-registration estimates, the School of Business Training begins its first year in the University under most auspicious circumstances, according to Prof. S. Bell, head of the school. There are thirty-eight enrolled in Business Training II, three of them women, besides thirty-one who are taking other courses.

It is the intention of the director of the school to bring prominent men in the business circles of the state and elsewhere to the University to give a series of lectures for the benefit of those taking work in business training.

"Our object," said Prof. Bell, "is to bring the students more in touch with the actual methods of the business world."

THE FIRING LINE

Is it necessary that at the beginning of each school year scores of students must be handicapped for a week or two by not being able to procure text-books at the Co-op? Can not the Co-op management anticipate an increased attendance at the University and provide the students with their much needed text-books? It is well known that the first two weeks is a very important period in the scholastic career of a student. If he is unable to get a good start, he is greatly handicapped throughout the entire session.

It is not only a disadvantage to the individual student unfortunate enough to be compelled to do without a text-book until the Co-op receives a new supply from Boston or New York, but the entire class suffers when a third or a fourth of the students have no text-books, which is often the case. A class cannot make the progress it should when it is held back by the students who are unable to study properly.

Well-managed book stores in the cities are not eternally running out of books. The managers study conditions; anticipate an increase in business, and have the books to sell when the demand arrives. Why can't the Co-op?

F. P. B.

ELBERT HUBBARD SPEAKS.

"The Romance of Business" Is His Subject—Makes Appeal For Efficiency.

On Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Adcrafters of Austin, Elbert Hubbard, philosopher, writer, business man, and founder of the Roycrofters of East Aurora, delivered a lecture on the "Romance of Business" to a large audience composed of Austin business men, University teachers, and students, at the Eighth Street Fire Hall. The speaker was introduced by Miss Katie Daffan, who welcomed him as "the man who has taught us that we all depend upon one another and that our neighbors are the ones that need us most."

Mr. Hubbard opened his speech by the statement that in his opinion the greatest book of the last decade is a little book written by Maurice Maeterlinck, made famous in America by his BLUE BIRD, called the LIFE OF THE BEE. In this book Maeterlinck says that a bee taken four miles from home will never get back, that a bee separated from its hive makes no honey, and that one bee alone has no intellect, but the whole hive has a vast and wonderful intelligence, as evidenced by the fact that by a special process of feeding known only to themselves they can take a common larva and produce from it a queen. From this Mr. Hubbard draws an interesting parallel—a man separated from his kind has no intelligence, and only through co-operation with other men does he become of any value to himself or anyone else. The field of modern business Mr. Hubbard uses as an illustration of this co-operation; and he attempts to dispel the old tradition that every man is in business for what there is in it to him, regardless of the other man, and that no one is in business for his health. "Modern business," says Mr. Hubbard, "is a form of service; it feeds and clothes and looks after the world according to a definite system, in which honesty and energetic effort are the prime virtues; and the best business man, the man with the largest bank account, is always found to be the man who has learned to work and play and love and laugh." As a concrete example of romance in business, Mr. Hubbard told the familiar life story of James J. Hill, the great railroad magnate.

Mr. Hubbard attributes these new ideals and principles that are dominating the business world today to the fact that "For the first time in the history of the world we have enough imagination to put ourselves in the other man's place." He concluded his highly interesting, and in some ways remarkable, talk by quoting from Dr. Elliott that "That man is best educated who is most useful."

Basketball Prospects For 1912-13.

During the last season, basketball at Varsity went up fully a hundred per cent. The success of last year's team, in spite of the generous appropriation given by the Council, shows how much in earnest the players are, and how anxious they are for dear, old Varsity to excel even in this so-called effeminate branch of athletics, as it is generally considered by a large majority of persons, who have never seen a real, live game played. We are going in for the State championship this year, and there is no reason why it should not be ours. Through the season ticket scheme, we expect a very generous appropriation this year, and, with the financial problem thus solved, the only thing lacking to be supplied is the support of the student body. In former years the last named factor has been almost an unknown quantity (possibly for the reason named above), but whatever the reason, come out and encourage the team or even get a suit and try it yourself. It won't take long to see just what kind of a game basketball is.

As we look over the material which is thus far available, we find two great holes, which will be filled with great difficulty. John A. James, former captain and guard, was graduated from the Law Department last year. To those who have seen "Johnny" play, nothing more needs be said. He was a hard, consistent player, and his guarding will certainly be missed. Morgan Vining is the person who fits the other hole. The four year rule bars him from basketball this year, but he will be out to give his support and influence. The man, to fill his shoes, will have to be "some" man.

With the exception of these two, all of last year's Varsity team are back, including Garrett, guard; Ross and Schramm, forwards; McVeigh, center. All of these old men are "rearing to go," so to speak, and are anxious to get the season started in full blast.

Graduate Meeting.

Wednesday afternoon there was held a meeting of the Graduate Department. The following officers were elected:

Mrs. Taylor, president.
Miss Halden, vice-president.
Miss Sweet, secretary-treasurer.
Jennings, sergeant-at-arms.

W. B. Hamilton, Representative to Students' Council.

Among the plans for the year, a get-together entertainment, at which the members can become better acquainted, is planned to take place in the near future.

The growth of the Graduate Department is one of the most encouraging developments of the University. So it is interesting to note that a larger number is enrolled in this Department than ever before, and that a large proportion of these are candidates for a Master's degree this year.

Freshmen Extremes.

Of course, it sounds natural for a freshman to be the butt of a joke. However, this isn't intended for a piece of humor. Its a fact, and shows up on the records of the gymnasium.

The two extremes, as regards the fat and the lean, are to be found in the freshman class in the personnel of E. H. Neathery and W. R. Garrett. The former, when stripped, weighs 253 pounds and measures 49 inches around the waist. Its needless to say that he could not chin himself. Garrett resembles a Lilliputian in that he only tipped the scales for 81 pounds and has but 25 inches waist measure. The difference of 170 pounds would be almost enough for a husky football player.

On certain occasions it has been really amusing to see some of the co-eds as they passed Neathery. They invariably giggle. He seems to enjoy the "giant" distinction, nevertheless.

There are two or three of the smallest sized fellows at the University, but Garrett is probably the thinnest of flesh. He and Neathery, when seen together, aptly illustrate the "before and after."

The New "Get a Receipt Plan"

In order to prevent disputes, overcharging, and mistakes in making change, the Co-op has adopted the "New Get a Receipt Plan." Under this system everybody is given a ticket representing the amount purchased, and everybody is given a rebate at the end of the year. This does not eliminate, however, an advantage to those who hold a membership card. Ask for any student necessity you may need.
