Ten Classical Courses Added

2 New Profs Praise Beauty of Campus

The addition of two new professors to the faculty of the Department of Classical Languages has made possible the addition of ten new courses in Classical Civilization which require no knowledge of any foreign language.

Dr. Lester C. Houck, assistant professor of classical languages, and Dr. O. W. Reinmuth, professor of classical languages, will teach the new courses.

"It was not known that these men would join our faculty and teach the new courses until too late to notify the students properly," Dr. William J. Battle, professor of classical languages, said. "The courses will be of unusual interest."

Dr. Reinmuth, who received his bachelor of arts degree from Clinton College, Mo., and his doctor of philosophy degree from Princeton, was for six years, 1921-27, president of Canadian Junior College in College Heights, Alberta, Canada.

While teaching at the University of Nebraska, 1934-37, Dr. Reinmuth served as chairman of the Department of Classics. Before coming to the University he was professor of classical languages at the University of Oklahoma.

In 1938, with his family, Dr. Reinmuth took an automobile trip through southern Europe over roads now being used for military purposes.

Dr. Houck received his bachelor of arts and his doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Michigan. He has lectured extensively, and has spent three years studying in Rome. Dr. Houck has ready for publication, accepted by the American Academy in Rome, a 500-page edition of Leo Diaconus, a Byzantine historian of the Tenth Century—text translation and notes.

Both Dr. Houck and Dr. Reinmuth praise the beauty of the University campus. Dr. Reinmuth, who taught in the University of Nebraska while Dana X. Bible coached football there, and who has taught at the University of Oklahoma, says he believes the Longhorns will win the traditional Texas-O. U. game this year.

Like to Broadcast? Try Radio Shop

Get a secret ambition to become another Don Wilson, or Ken Carpenter?

If so, here's one way of getting on the beam. Students of the University with thirty hours work, and free time after four in the afternoon, have an opportunity to obtain free specialized training by calling for an appointment to audition at Radio House, 22281.

Beginning at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the staff of the Radio Workshop will conduct auditions to find a group of students particularly adaptable to radio announcing and acting. These auditions will continue until 6 o'clock, to be resumed at 7:30, and the same schedule followed on Wednesday.

Due to a heavy load of work, Howard Lumpkin, radio production manager, is looking for a variety of men's voices. No previous radio experience will be required and all new people selected will be enrolled in a broadcasting laboratory for approximately six weeks. This will be furnished by the staff of the Radio Workshop as a reward for the student's work in this unit of University broadcasting.

C.A.A. Wings Deadline Set For Today

Tests to Determine Forty Members For Two Classes

By ELGIN WILLIAMS

At least forty of you chilluns that haven't got wings can get them this year in the University's C.A.A. courses—if you hurry.

Today is the last day to turn in applications at Engineering Building 212 for primary and secondary training. Twenty students will be signed up for each course.

Already twice as many applications have come in as there are places open, but V. L. Doughtie, C.A.A. co-ordinator, has emphasized that priority doesn't mean a thing.

If you get your application in the last thing today—5 o'clock—you're just as eligible as the boy who turned his in September 1. All you have to do is look one of the forty best taking the preliminary examinations.

After applications close today, regular C.A.A. interviews will be given Wednesday and Thursday—applicants for primary training Wednesday, and secondary Tuesday.

There will be two types of interviews. The first, by Mr. Doughtie and his staff, will simply ascertain whether the student has the proper number of credits, has hours open for ground school classes, is the correct age, and so on.

The second will be given by Austin flight instructors who will teach the students. They have designed a group of questions to test the flying ability of a prospective airman, and will give all applicants a verbal overview.

First of all, of course, all applicants must pass the physical examination.

Students who enroll for the secondary course must have completed the primary satisfactorily. Other requirements include an age limit of 19-26 years (and you have to be 19 as of September 1, too; last year a boy was two days too young and they wired Washington, even, to no avail) and fees of $23.20 for the primary course and $31.60 for the secondary.

Primary applicants are limited to fifteen hours of University courses, and those classes must leave either 8-9 o'clock in the morning or 1-2 o'clock in the afternoon open, for that's when ground school will meet.

Secondary applicants are limited to thirteen hours of courses. Secondary ground school will be held either 7:30-9:30 in the morning or 12-1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

W. J. Carter, who was primary instructor last year, has been moved to secondary ground school instructor, and J. H. McClendon will teach the primary.

Rio Grande Biography

Professor To Write Story of Texas River

The murky Rio Grande—sluggish here, there swirling turbulently, life-giving now, then destructive of life and crops—is to have its life history told.

Dr. C. A. Timm, government professor and holder of a Carnegie Foundation grant, left this week for a field study of the social, political and economic influences of the Rio Grande throughout the 175,000 square miles of its drainage basin. He has received a leave of absence for the fall semester to plumb the effects of this famed stream.

"In its way, the Rio Grande has had as great a bearing on the lives of people on both its banks as has the Nile," Dr. Timm explained.

"For centuries—perhaps in prehistoric times—it has served as a fount for watering crops. In its upper stretches, in New Mexico and Colorado, drainage ditches dug by Pueblo Indians generations before the coming of the white man are still in use. The Spaniards used these same ditches on their arrival, and today the Pueblos on their reservations continue to use them."

Today irrigation developments on both sides of the Rio Grande are rapidly converting the drainage basin into a fertile crop-growing land. For the most part, early irrigation projects—prior to 1910—were undertaken in the upper valley, above El Paso. Today, however, intricate networks of brick-lined canals have brought water to some 500,000 acres in the lower valley, around Brownsville. Today, too, Mexico is attempting modern irrigation on a large scale.

Dr. Timm will probe such phases of life along the Rio Grande as co-operation development of resources, land tenure, education, problems of social contacts between Anglo-Americans and Mexicans, and the gradual transition from agriculture to industry.

Prelude to Pandemonium

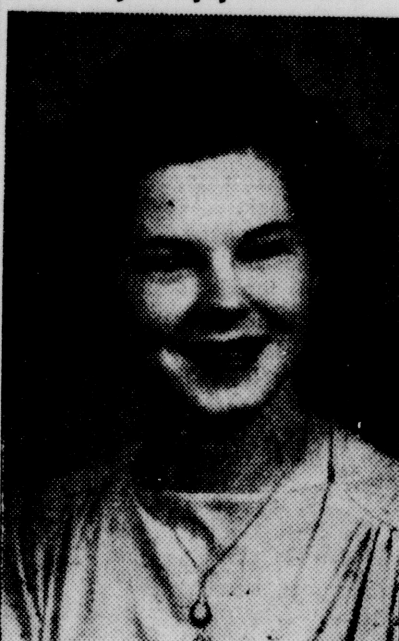

Frede, Clark Named Election Judges As Politics Creep Up

BY WALTER NIXON

Politics noiselessly lifted its hideous head Monday with the opening day of filing for the twenty-four student government offices to be filled in the fall elections October 21.

Only thing to break the serenity was the announcement by Fred Nieman, president of the Student's Association,

Co-Op Appointee

JOSEPHINE MCCUTCHEON

Co-Ed Appointed To Co-Op Board

Miss McCutcheon Replaces Graduate

Josephine McCutcheon, arts and sciences student from Austin, has been appointed to the Board of Directors of the University Co-Operative Society, Fred Nieman, president of the Students' Association, announced Monday.

Miss McCutcheon will replace Bill Collins, graduate student from Wichita Falls last year, who did not return to school this fall.

She is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority, Panhellenic council, Young Democrats, president of Forensics, women's debate club, and a probationary member of the Curtin Club.

Other student members of the Board are Carlton Terry, engineering student from Talpa, Roy Sheffield, arts and sciences student from Dallas, and Carlyle Schnelle, business administration student from Marble Falls.

Faculty members are Arno Nowotny, assistant dean of student life, chairman, Thomas A. Rousseau, associate professor of public speaking, L. Theo Bellmont, director of physical training for men, president, Byron Short, professor of mechanical engineering, secretary, and Malcolm Macdonald, instructor in government.

that he has appointed Ralph Frede of Austin and Bill Clark of Austin as head election judges.

So quiet was the beginning of the autumn sidishow that it was unknown even to President Nieman, Secretary Marty Haish, or Judge Frede.

Expressing surprise in finding that the filing days have begun, Miss Haish said that no petitions have yet been submitted to her, but that she would be willing to accept them at any time.

She will hold open house for office-seekers in Texas Union 206 from 11 until 1 o'clock each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday; from 8:30 until 1 o'clock each Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday; and each afternoon until filing closes October 11.

Should office-seekers not be able to find Miss Haish at these hours, they may reach her at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

To be filled in the October 21 elections are eighteen seats on the Students' Assembly and six benches on the Judiciary Council.

Unless changes in enrollment in the various schools and colleges should cause a re-apportionment, the assembly seats will be elected as follows:

College of Arts and Sciences.....6	(three men, three women)
College of Engineering.....3
School of Business.....2
Administration.....2
School of Law.....2
Graduate School.....2
School of Education.....1
College of Fine Arts.....1
College of Pharmacy.....1

Members of the Judiciary Council are elected from the University at large. Three members are men; three are women.

To file for these offices, candidates must submit to Secretary Haish:

1). A petition announcing the intention to run for office, stating that the candidate is a bona fide student in the University of Texas, and being signed personally by at least fifty other bona fide University students; and

2). Also a statement signed or counter-signed by the Registrar of the University stating that the candidate is at the time of filing registered for at least twelve hours of scholastic work, that he has passed in the last semester at least nine hours of work with an average of C, and that he has a C average on all University work.

Other qualifications state that the candidate must have previously attended the University for at least two semesters, both terms of the Summer Session being considered as only one semester.

Commenting upon this year's plans, Judge Frede said he and

Pre-Laws Plan Stump Speakin'

With plans for a political "stump speakin'" to be held preceding the fall election week under way, the University Pre-Law Society enters into its third year on the campus with the opening meeting at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, October 1, in Law Building 1.

Officers for this year are Charles Alton, president; Millard Luther, treasurer; Donald Shield, secretary; Sterling Fulmore, parliamentarian; Edwin Lea, sergeant-at-arms. Dolph Briscoe will serve as program chairman and Ray Keck as membership chairman. Dr. Malcolm McDonald of the Department of Government and W. Page Keeton, assistant dean of the School of Law are faculty sponsors.

Election for a new vice-president will be held at the first meeting.

President Homer P. Rainey and many other distinguished speakers will appear on the program this year. Forums and trials are also scheduled as well as the stump speaking before the October 21 election.

Any pre-law student who is registered in the University is eligible for membership.

Navy Called Vital Offensive Unit of Defense

'Defeat Enemy In Own Waters' Says Capt. Underwood

Asserting that the conception of the Navy as a static bulwark of defense is a false one, Captain H. W. Underwood, United States Navy officer in charge of the Naval R.O.T.C. unit here, outlined "Some Features of the Present Naval Situation" in a speech to the Kiwanis Club Monday.

"When war starts, no naval action can be defensive," Captain Underwood said. "The war must be carried out of our waters to the enemy shore; invasion is to be defeated where it starts, with our own sea coast untouched. It is a striking thing when you realize that the closest and most critical study of history shows that no great naval battle—not even one of fleet action—has ever been won by the defensive side."

CAPTAIN H. W. UNDERWOOD

Importance of offensive naval operations has grown because last week, on September 16, the U. S. Navy passed from a peace to a war footing. Although it is true that the United States has been patrolling the Atlantic with guns ready, any influence exerted was more through the threat of what could be done than what actually was being done.

"During the half-war, it was difficult for the Navy to know what to do. Policy was not clear, tasks were not defined, responsibility was not fixed. Such circumstances will not keep a naval captain from action, but they do lead him to pray that not too embarrassing a situation will arise while his own ship is 'on the spot.'"

"The President's great and historic speech cleared the air so far as the Navy is concerned. It was a forthright enunciation of policy, the clearest in history of the country. In unmistakable terms it set forth our national policy and told the world in precise detail exactly what the Navy would be ordered to do to reinforce and uphold that policy."

Captain Underwood describes the duties of the Navy as being, first of all, to establish and maintain the security of home waters. It guarantees that no enemy force can establish a base or gain a foothold in home waters, and that if temporary penetration cannot be denied the submarine and airplane, the Navy must still detect and effectively drive out such penetration.

To afford protection is the Navy's second task. Following it closely in importance are the keeping open of lines of legitimate commerce, and the service of information and security. These are the known tasks, and behind them, to quote Captain Underwood, are "the secret, contingent tasks. What we will do if the other fellow does so and so. We have our plan all completed and ready in each case."

Captain Underwood stressed in conclusion that all ship-building and expansion is ahead of schedule and "ahead of the other fellow." "I know," he said, "that the Navy is ready—well-trained in spite of expansion—and that it can do these assigned tasks or any others that may reasonably be expected."

U. T. Graduate Wins Harvard Scholarship

Out of a field of 600 competitors, Richard Kuhlman, University graduate, recently won a scholarship in architecture for 1941-42 study at Harvard University.

Formerly resident architect at Beaumont with the National Parks Service, Kuhlman is now a member of the Austin architects' firm of Jessen, Millhouse, Jessen and Kuhlman.

12th-Man Enthusiasts To Raise Old Billyell

By BOB OWENS

The University of Texas student body will start raising old Billyell Wednesday night.

It'll be a grand night as the Texas Longhorns inaugurate the 1941-42 "twelfth man"—the spirit, the fighting Texas spirit—at the opening pep rally of the year in Gregory Gym at 8 o'clock.

Last year about three thousand students came to the rally and observers said it was one of the best yell-raising they'd ever had at Texas. And Texas had a good year last year. 7-0!

The Longhorn Band will probably begin playing at 7:30 o'clock.

Head Football Coach Dana X. Bible will speak to the student, and will then introduce the coaches and the players. Colonel George Hurt and Arno "Shorty" Nowotny, one of the greatest yell leaders the University ever had, will also speak, Dick Knowles, head yell leader, said Monday night.

To be elected at the rally are four assistant yell leaders. Selected by a committee to appear before the student body and try-out for assistants were Brooks Keller, Bob Stewart, Billie Keenan, Bobby Bush, John Hill Jr., Windy Winn, Chester Beckwith, Edward Drake, and Dewus "Gunga" Mason.

Judges who selected the yell aspirants were Coach Bible, Dean Nowotny, Pete Layden, captain of the football team, Malcolm Kutner, representative of the basketball team, John Seaman, foreman of the Cowboys, men's service organization, and Knowles.

The nine will be introduced by Knowles to the student body and will lead a yell. After all have finished their yells, the nine will be voted on by the student body according to applause. The four receiving the most applause in the opinion of the judges become assistant yell leaders. They will accompany the football team on all out-of-town Southwest Conference trips and to the intersection game with University of Oklahoma in Dallas October 11.

Judges for the rally will be Coach Bible, Dean Nowotny, Colonel Hurt, Seaman, and Knowles. The Longhorn football squad leaves for Boulder, Colo., Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and the game Saturday with the University of Colorado Buffaloes.

Enrolling Starts Again Tuesday

One hundred seventy-four students paid their fees at the Bursar's Office Monday to bring the total enrollment for the 1941-42 Long Session to 7,942. This is twenty-four more students than had paid their fees by the end of the same period last year.

Although slightly above total two-day registration for last year, enrollment is slowly dropping. First-day fee-paying this year was 4,662 as compared to 4,268 a year ago. Second-day registration was 3,106 as compared to 3,371 a year ago.

Students may pay fees in the Bursar's Office again Tuesday morning.

Registration procedure will begin again Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Students will begin at Waggener Hall 101 by filling out cards. They will go then to Room 116 to receive permits. They complete registration at Gregory Gymnasium by arranging courses and sections and paying fees.

Registration will be by admission tickets, which may be obtained at the Registrar's Office.

There will be no registration Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday. Students may pay fees at the Bursar's Office on those days.

Registration will follow the same procedure on Saturday as on Tuesday, except no admission tickets will be needed. No student may register without loss of credit after Saturday.

Graduate students should obtain a registration permit and for the first six days of classes should visit the classes they wish to take. Dr. A. P. Brogan, dean of the Graduate School, has advised.

The selection of courses should be initiated on the permit by a professor in the department in which he is a major. The students should then obtain the Graduate Dean's approval in Main Building 121.

They must complete registration Saturday by paying fees.

To change a section of a course, students should see the chairman of the department in which the course is listed. To add or drop a course, students should consult the Dean of the school in which the course is listed.

Add, drop, and section change cards may be obtained at the offices of the deans of the various schools.

Blanket Tax, Cactus Sales Up

One hundred and one students paid blanket taxes and eighty-five students reserved the 1942 Cactus Monday as they paid their fees at the Bursar's Office. These figures brought the total blanket taxes sold to 5,248, and the number of yearbook reservations to 3,681.

The percentage of registered students paying their blanket taxes was 72, an increase of 4.6 per cent over the first two days of registration in 1940-41. The percentage of Cactus reservations was 46.3, an increase of 5 per cent over the first two days of the opening period of registration last year.

Students may reserve their yearbooks Monday morning in the Bursar's Office. Tables will be placed at the end of the registration line in Gregory Gymnasium Tuesday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. Reservations will be made Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday at the Bursar's Office, and at the Gym again Saturday.

Students who have paid their fees may reserve their Cactus also at Journalism Building 108 between 8 and 5 o'clock. Subscriptions to the Texas Ranger, monthly humor magazine, and The Daily Texan will be taken there also.

Mebbe So, Bible Holds 2-Hour Chalk Talk

By Tex Schramm Jr.
Texan Associate Sports Editor.

Well, it won't be long now until the lid is off and football season is under way. Speaking of getting under way, how would you like to be in the shoes of the Washington Huskies out on the Pacific Coast? Tabbed to play in the Rose Bowl by a current movie short, the Huskies merely open up with Minnesota, one of the country's best. Also, take the case of Oregon. They tie into the Stanford Indians in their initial contest and then wind up the season with Texas. Both of these opponents are favored heavily to win their respective conferences. Notre Dame, with their highly advertised schedule, starts with Arizona. Looking over some of the teams, Navy will probably surprise many by being the number one team in the east with Fordham suffering a pair of "upsets," one probably at the hands of a Southwest school.

Southeast
Duke should again be strong in the Southeastern Conference. Tennessee may take the usual drop after having a series of good years, and Alabama is due to start its rise back to the southern power it was in the days of Dixie Howell, Don Hutson, etc. The Southwest? Let's wait and see. Minnesota should again have a banner year with Bernie Bierman coaching his last Gopher team. Southern California will have his services in 1942 if all does not go well this fall for the Trojans and Howard Jones' successor, Sam Barry.

Pacific Conference
Out on the Pacific Coast, Stanford should repeat if the Indians can get over their first tiff with Oregon. Washington, if they have anything left after opening with Minnesota, could challenge while Southern California is definitely a dangerous dark horse. Santa Clara will be one of the strongest independent teams in the country along with a rejuvenated Notre Dame.

Substitute
Tech, under a new athletic set-up, will make it increasingly harder for Southwest Conference officials to ignore them as a logical substitute for Arkansas in the Conference. And Texas A&M. will be a lot stronger than anybody expects, especially on Thanksgiving. Now all you have to do is get a hold of one of those nice little football "skill" cards and make a million. In passing, we read where Sugar Bowl officials are thinking of holding an army service game, instead of their usual intersectional contest, as a help to the current U.S.O. movement. Big question is, will they give all of the seats to the boys in uniform and in so doing, give up a very juicy gate? Oh, yeah—you know they will.

New Coaches Not Hurting Tech, Cowboys
A change of coaches hasn't hurt either the Texas Tech Red Raiders or the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys. If their impressive opening game victories last week are any indication. The Red Raiders, with one of the largest squads of the Southwest and admittedly one of the fastest aggregations in the nation, turned on blistering speed early in the game and never let up as Abilene Christian College fell 34-0 Saturday night. The Raiders recovered their opening kickoff on a fumble, and two plays later had chalked up their first touchdown. They added counters in every period but the third on passes or brilliant runs. Hardin-Simmons displayed a balanced club with plenty of ground power and a fair passing attack to take Texas Wesleyan College 31-7 before 19,000 opening-night fans. H. C. Burrus took individual scoring honors with three touchdowns. The Wesleyan's only score came in the last quarter on a pass from Johnny Hunter to Raul Monrique. At Commerce, East Texas State Teachers uncovered a surprise find, J. C. Meeks, who sparked the Lions to a 30-0 victory over Austin College. The Oklahoma Baptist transfer started the scoring with a nice run, and then sat up others with passes and runs.

A Triple-Threat Buffalo

This is Vern Lockard, the Colorado Buffalo's triple threat, and a boy the Longhorns will see plenty of next Saturday. He can play any backfield position equally well and excels at passing, kicking, and running. Last year he made all-Big Seven Conference second team. He is a two-letterman and just to show he really lives up to his nickname of "Versatile Vern" he is also president of the Colorado University student body.

Six Western Conference Teams to Play Saturday

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(INS)—The Western Conference will play a major role in the big explosion of college football this week-end, with Minnesota's defending champion Gophers topping the conference gridiron parade against the University of Washington at Seattle. Although five other Western Conference eleven go into action this week, the spotlight will be on the Gophers' debut. This unusual tough opening test may establish whether Minnesota has been rightly tabbed for another crown. There is enough interest spread through the other conference debuts, however, to satisfy the most exacting Midwest fan. A big crowd is sure to be on hand at Ann Arbor for the traditional clash between Michigan—unveiling its Tommy Harmon-less team—and Michigan State. Hard Workout Ends Session

Top Men in Uniform; Layden on Heavy Duty

By L. W. BROOKS
Texan Sports Editor
Boraders at Hill Hall ate a late supper Monday night and it wasn't because of a mechanical fault or delay in a grocery delivery. It was D. X. Bible. The Longhorn coach kept his men in the dressing room from 3 until 5 o'clock going over the mistakes and general situation of last Saturday afternoon's game. The workout was over nearly two hours later. This was one of the longest chalk-talks Bible has given his charges in "many a moon."

Anyone wishing to purchase tickets to the Colorado game, to be played in Boulder, Colo., must do so before Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Ed Olle, business manager of athletics, announced today.

Missed assignments, poor pass defense, not hustling all the time, playing listless football, and the general attitude was the theme of his extended lecture.

Although the U. T. coaches realized the heat and injuries to key men had some effect on the squad, the mistakes had to be corrected. And corrected they were. Thirty-six strong, the Steers hustled onto Clark Field behind closed doors to polish off what snags have been hit since the fifth day of September. One man was missing from the workout and that was Ken Matthews, the wingback who suffered a knee injury from a crashing blow by end Wally Scott in the Saturday scrimmage. The injured stars of the backfield, Pete Layden, Jack Crain, and Noble Doss were again in uniform, but with only Layden doing heavy work. Doss and Crain are still limping slightly, but there is little worry that they will not be ready for the Colorado Buffaloes this coming Saturday.

A familiar tune was heard from Clark Field Tuesday afternoon. "beat those Buffaloes, beat those Buffaloes." It was the Longhorns ending their warm-up exercises. Before every game, starting on Monday, the squad chants this death knell for the opponent of the week, topping it off by spelling out T-E-X-A-S.

And they mean it. Bible was concerned over the pass defense, which was not too impressive in the week-end scrimmage. In Tuesday's practice he set up several situations whereby linebackers were put in various positions and shown mistakes of crashing or floating out of their pass-defense zone. Bible had "kind" words for his next Saturday opponent—the University of Colorado. He has coached many teams against those of

The Average Athlete

There Is a Place for Every Boy in the 'Mural Program

"Men wanted." That is not a sign posted by a short-handed employer, nor the wail of a heartsick co-ed, but the cry of Berry Whitaker, director of intramural athletics for men. If you have a health grade of A (and you probably have) there is a place for you in intramurals. You don't have to be good. In fact, the only men who aren't wanted are those who are too good. The University's intramural program is for the AVERAGE athlete. It is Mr. Whitaker's wish to give every man some organization to play for. Fraternity men have this. For the others there are the Club and M. I. C. A. divisions.

A man needs no connections whatever to play in the M. I. C. A. division. The area around the University is divided into districts, each of which may have an unlimited number of teams in every sport. If you want to get up, say, a softball team, you can organize one among the boys at your rooming house, or just any bunch of boys who live in your district and want to play.

Any club, society, or association which belongs to the Inter-Club Athletic Association may enter teams in intramural competition. The only purpose of this association is to prevent clubs from taking men merely to play intramurals. Such a practice as this is against the spirit Mr. Whitaker has been building up. Men are to play intramurals for their club because they belong to it, not because they play intramurals for it. Any group that desires to compete in one or more sports should appoint a team manager, who is the go-between for his team and the intramural office. All important communications are directed to him, and it is his duty to see that his team is duly informed.

No student may play for an organization unless his name is on its eligibility list. Any organization's eligibility list is limited to seventy-five names, but a group may enter more than one eligibility list. However, each list will be considered as that of a separate organization. Names may be added to these lists at any time. A student may transfer from one organization list to another once during each semester, and such transfers should be made at the intramural office by the organization manager or participant. Organizations should file their eligibility lists at the intramural office before their first contests. A student may not compete in the same sport with more than one organization.

All men students in the University are eligible to compete in intramural athletics, except as follows: a student who has been awarded a varsity letter shall not be eligible to compete in the sport in which he won a letter; a student who has been awarded a

Cross Country Squad Begins Daily Workouts

Lead by Harry "Dodo" Hafernick, captain, four returning lettermen reported Monday afternoon to Coach Clyde Littlefield for the opening workout of the University cross country track squad. Southwest conference champions in 1940. Other lettermen are John Caldwell, Joe Flack, and Mac Umstatt, winner of the conference championship last season. The boys will have approximately six weeks in which to get in condition for their opening meet with Abilene Christian College late in October. Along with the lettermen, several new prospects are out for a place on the team. Charles Strangio and Jack Polemus, sophomores, and Stan Kirk, a junior who did not participate last year, are among those reporting. After the A. C. C. meet the University team meets A. & M. about November 10, and S. M. U. a week later. All dates are tentative as yet. The conference meet will be held at S. M. U. the last Saturday before Thanksgiving. Among the freshmen reporting to Coach Littlefield this year is Jerry Thompson of Woodrow Wilson high school at Dallas. Thompson was state high school champion in the mile last year. Also among the good prospects for the freshman squad are J. C. Gargile, who is Class B state half-mile champion and Raymond Burton.

Julian Garrett, left, and Derwood Peveto, right, are two tackles that will see plenty of action for the Longhorns during the coming season. Garrett will handle the right tackle position when Mauldin shifts to center, while Peveto is slated to back both Garrett and Mauldin up when the going gets rough. Both boys weigh over 200 pounds with Peveto stopping the scales at 235.

'S. M. U. is Team to Watch This Year,' End Wallace Scott Warns Texas Fans

BY CLINT S. PACE
Texas Sports Staff

"S.M.U. is the team to watch —not A&M," Wally Scott, sticky-fingered right end for the Longhorn football team said, as he draped his 180-pound, six-foot-two frame over his bed at Hill Hall 201.

"The Aggies have nothing this year but spirit, and I think we can match them man for man on that. It'll be the hardest fighting team that will win that game, and I think we're just plain better than they are."

"The real threat this year is that gang from Dallas, and the crafty coach who runs it. Matty Bell always has a new trick, and he, like every other team in the conference, is pointing for the Texas game," Scott added.

Matty Bell should feel honored, for that statement, coming from Scott, is highly complimentary. Scott, one of the smartest ends in the conference, does know his football, and he doesn't mind talking your arm off on the subject.

A physical education major, Scott is probably—pound for pound—the best end in the Southwest Conference. Lack of sufficient weight has seriously handicapped the former all-State end from Tyler, but he more than makes up for it with his fight and game intelligence. He could spot a play from the bleachers—and chances are, he could get down there and break it up.

Scott came to the University from Tyler, where he was chosen as an all-State end in 1938. Weighing only 150 pounds when he entered school here, he was, nevertheless, a starter on the freshman team. At the beginning of his sophomore year, he had earned half enough playing time in the first two games to win his letter, but pulled a muscle in his hip just before the Baylor game and was injury ridden the rest of the year.

Because of his ability to spot the direction of a play and his driving power to crash it, he was shifted last year to left end, but has been shifted back to right, his first love.

A vicious charger, Scott has repeatedly broken up offensive plays in scrimmage, as was witnessed last Saturday when he tore through the Orange backfield, taking out two men on the way, and tackling Ken Matthews hard enough to cause the hard-running sophomore to be carried off the field.

"It all happened sort of quick-ly," Scott explained. "I saw where the play was going, so I went in. Matthews' leg was bent slightly when I hit him, and his knee popped back when he went down, injuring the muscles in the back of his leg. It makes you feel awfully funny when you see an injured man carried off the field, especially when that man is your 'victim,' so to speak."

That feeling is typical of the friendly, laughing Scott. He charges hard and he hits hard, but the heart that drives his slight frame is as big as a barn and as soft as silk. Barring none, he is the most friendly of the Hill Hall aggregation and one of the best liked.

Speaking of the Longhorns' chances for conference victory, Scott echoed the feelings of his coach. "Let's take them one at a time," he said. "We know that S.M.U. is good and that it's hard for us to beat them in Dallas; we also know that A&M is after us tooth and nail, but—well, I'd rather take them as they come. I'll worry about Matty Bell's boys right after the Rice game, and I'll worry about the Farmers right after we finish with T.C.U."

"What about the Rice game?" Scott smiled. "Boy, you watch us chew that bunch up. They made us eat the dirt of their stadium last year . . . and boy, oh, boy . . . will we give it to them now!" oam-65

And he may be right.

This Week's Series Will Tell the Story

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(INS)—Wyatt and Highe, they said as long ago as last March, in Havana, were the pitchers who would win the pennant for Brooklyn—and Monday as the Dodgers launch their last all-out drive for the wire, the two pitching stars have the chance to fulfill that promise.

Though it is apparent now that the race won't be mathematically decided for another week, perhaps not until the very last day of the season, this week's series will either make or break the Dodgers.

Dodgers Beat Phils 5-0, Move Ahead of Cards

Baseball's daffiest club, the Brooklyn Dodgers, moved a game and a half in front of St. Louis in Philadelphia today in the tough National League pennant race by shutting out the lowly Phillies 5 to 0 behind the air-tight chunking of Curt Davis.

After being nicked for a run in the second inning when Pee-wee Reese scored, Ducky Medwick, who had reached second on a double, young Ike Melton of the Phillies matched pitch for pitch with Davis until the sixth, when the Dodgers plowed him under with a four-run barrage to take the contest.

South's Grid Loops Travel

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 22.—(INS)—Southeastern and Southern Conference gridiron aggregations will participate in more than forty intersectional battles this season, but there are only nine inter-conference games between members of the two circuits, football schedules for the two loops revealed Monday.

In addition, the twelve-membered Southeastern group will "dog fight" among each other a total of sixty times, while the fifteen-membered Southern Conference's intra-conference clashes total eighty-three.

Outstanding peculiarity in the schedules is that the University of Alabama, doped by "experts" to replace the University of Tennessee Volunteers as champions of the Southeastern loop, does not engage in a single intersectional or inter-conference contest. The Tiders, however, taken on seven intra-loop foes—more than any other Southeastern squad.

All other Southeastern teams meet at least one intersectional opponent, but L.S.U., Ole Miss, Mississippi State and Vanderbilt do not play any Southern Conference foes. In the Southern Conference, Davidson, Furman, Richmond and Washington and Lee have no intersectional battles scheduled, while Davidson, North Carolina State, Richmond, The Citadel, Virginia, V.M.I., V.P.I., and Wake Forest fail to meet a Southeastern member.

Jim Yeager, C. U.'s new mentor, while the latter was at Iowa State.

The Buffaloes will use, principally, a double-wingback formation, but often mixing with it a short punt formation. The Colorado fans have seen conservative football in the past, but their clamoring has brought a new coach and a new system—razzle-dazzle, or as they term it in athletic circles—playing with "fuzz."

The Golden Herd has a great backfield returning, but will be weak in the line through graduation of ten of their "regular" linemen. Three men with some experience are returning to the forward wall.

In the backfield, the Buffs will depend heavily on "Bounding" Paul McClung and as they term him in Boulder, "Versatile" Vern Lockard. Lockard is the right wingback on the double-wing formation and from scouting reports, he is all the name he has been termed—versatile. An exceptionally fast runner, he also does the kicking for the Buffs. He is one of Colorado's main threats on the tricky reverses employed in the Yeager-system. Not to be left out of the triple-threat class, Lockard also comes in for part of the passing chores from the punt or tandem formations.

McClung is the tailback on all formations, and shares that position with Lockard when a double tailback is used with the double-wing set up. He is a 190-pounder who does the off-tackle work. McClung and Lockard are teamed with Ray Jenkins and Vern Miller. There might be an exception in the person of a Texas boy in Miller's place at the left wingback. He is soph Morris "Tex" Reilly, from Matador, Texas, who was picked up off the intramural field at C. U. and has become a definite threat to the starting backs of the Buffs.

U. S. Ship Sunk

The first sinking of a United States ship since the President's "shoot on sight" decree aimed at Axis raiders in the Atlantic occurred off Iceland September 19, as the State Department disclosed Monday night.

The ship, the Pink Star, flew the Panamanian flag, as did the Montana, America ship sunk near the same spot shortly before the president proclaimed his policy toward raiders.

The area in which the ship was sunk was within the American defense zone, proclaimed by the president, and also within the blockade zone set up by the German government. No American citizens were aboard the ship.

Bulgarian Reds Executed

Communists in Bulgaria were shot, imprisoned, and interned, it was reported from London Monday night.

The reports held that communist parliament members of Bulgaria were executed. The move gave indication that the Axis-controlled country might be ready to go to war with Russia.

Hull on Neutrality

The time has come for the United States to raise its ban on American ships entering combat zones to take supplies to belligerents, said Secretary of State Hull at a press conference Monday.

Mr. Hull did not state whether he expected Congress to suspend the Neutrality Act, but said that he and Mr. Roosevelt both were against the act from the state, since it was more likely to get the United States into war than keep it out.

Storm Whips Gulf

Four-foot tides along the Central Texas coast forecast the seventy-five mile hurricane approaching coastal cities from the Gulf of Mexico.

Storm warnings have been sent out, and the Coast Guard and Red Cross have been mobilized to meet the emergency. The center of the storm is expected to strike about Port O'Connor, with Galveston and Corpus Christi feeling the western arc of the hurricane. Homes in low portions of the coast have been evacuated.

Italians Claim

Gibraltar Attack

3 Vessels Sunk By Suicide Squads

ROME, Sept. 22. — (INS)—The Italian navy's "suicide" squad have succeeded in catapulting themselves in tiny assault craft through the reputedly impregnable defenses of Gibraltar to sink three supply ships, and damage another, the Italian high command announced Monday in a special communique.

The communique, revealing a dramatically successful sally into the inner roadstead of Britain's great fortress at the entrance of the western Mediterranean, declared:

"Italian naval craft penetrated the roadstead and inner harbor of Gibraltar to sink a 10,000-ton tanker, a 6,000-ton tanker and a steamship of 6,000 tons loaded with ammunition. Another vessel of 12,000 tons was damaged."

But authoritative quarters in Rome, asserting that the damage to the ship had run aground and probably was a total loss, made known that the exploit had been carried out by volunteers pledged the motto: "Memento audire ore"—remember always to be listening—which had inspired the famous raids during the world war of the late Gabriele D'Annunzio and Costanzo Ciano, father of the present foreign minister.

Nothing was revealed about the use of ships used in the attack, informed naval quarters indicated they had been the tiny "man torpedo" boats previously employed in daring raids on harbors in Crete, and recently in a sensational sally into the harbor of La Valletta in Malta.

Each of these boats is carried aboard a "mas"—a small torpedo craft, the smallest classification in the Royal Italian Navy—within a short distance of the objective to be attacked. Two men are on board the boat, sometimes called a "midget." One of them steers and the other operates the motor. The other literally "rides" the torpedo which makes up the rest of the "hornet."

When the objective is sighted, the boat speeds perhaps a mile or more under power of a specially designed motor, the helmsman and mate release the torpedo and it glides into the water. The exact mechanism of the release has never been revealed, but it is known that no provision is made to save either of the two "suicide" men.

Forget Draft Number; Army Wants Small, Expert Force

Senator Predicts Soldier Pay Increase to Industrial Level

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22, (INS)—A member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee Monday reported that high Administration officials favor a pay boost for 2,000,000 soldiers and sailors, and forecast a major revision of army policy, including a drastic change in the draft system.

This member, Senator Sheridan Downey (D) Calif., said that a pay boost of perhaps $30 a month is favored by many officials as a move to equalize army and navy pay with that in defense industries.

The proposed new army policy, he said, would be aimed at seeking a smaller unit—perhaps numbering 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 men—with a high efficiency, youth and morale rating and a long enlistment period.

"I am reliably informed that the Administration is now looking with favor on increased pay in the army," Downey said. "I have been told that Army and Administration heads are now proclaiming the necessity of additional compensation for the armed forces."

"I am sure that the Army and the Administration are preparing to reduce the size of the army and get away from the draft. I think they have given up the idea of training vast numbers of recruits each year, and have worked out a tentative plan for an army of 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 men, who would be in the army long enough to be trained thoroughly for modern warfare."

The pay boost issue, Downey said, will come before the Senate Military Affairs Committee in October. The committee now has before it three bills on this subject, one of them sponsored by an Administration senator.

Under present schedules, army privates receive $21 the first four months, $30 the next eight months and $40 after one year. The highest base pay for an enlisted man is $125 a month for a Master Sergeant.

"I think they are beginning to realize the inequality between men in defense industries and the army," Downey said. "I understand that the tentative plan is to increase the pay of army and navy enlisted men to perhaps $70 a month, and then consider 'board and room' worth $40 to $50 a month. This would about equal the minimum pay of $115 to $120 a month in defense industries."

Downey is advocating a pay boost of $30 a month, the increase to be withheld until the enlisted man is discharged, Senator Johnson (D) Colorado, has proposed a 25 per cent increase in pay, while Senator Hill (D) Alabama, has proposed an investigation on the question of equalization of pay.

The proposal to revise Army policy and abandon, at least temporarily, the plan to train hundreds of thousands of draftees for a short period, is said to grow out of the difficulty of training men in the art of modern warfare in a short period.

Fear that it might confront an emergency with an untrained army was given by army heads as the reason for extension of the period of service of draftees to eighteen months. The army is, however, discharging many draftees and National Guardsmen at the expiration of one year.

For months congressional committees have been told by high army officers that a draft of men from eighteen to twenty-three years would be preferable, but yielded to the reduction in draft ages to from twenty-one to twenty-eight. Senate Military Affairs Committee members also recalled that General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, originally urged a two-year period of training for draftees. Men voluntarily enlisted are required to enroll for three years.

Germans Report Land, Sea Gains

'Appalling' Red Losses Told

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(INS)—Sensational German naval victories in the Baltic and Black Sea, annihilation of thirty Soviet divisions in the giant iron ring east of Kiev and tightening of the rings around the besieged cities of Leningrad and Odessa, were announced by military quarters Monday.

Soviet prisoners in the iron ring east of Kiev will exceed the 300,000 taken from similar rings around Bialystok and Minsk earlier in the campaign, a military spokesman asserted.

Red casualties were said to be "appalling." It was stated that the "remnant" of the Red fleet at Kronstadt has no hope of escape since the adjacent waters are heavily mined.

Simultaneously, it was declared that a powerful German army is nearing Knarkov in the rich Donetsk basin, industrial heart of the Ukraine.

Two of Russia's most powerful warships, the 26,000 ton battleship October Revolution, and the 8,800 ton heavy cruiser Kirov, were said to have sustained direct hits from shore batteries in the Gulf of Finland. Four other Soviet warships and nine transports were sunk in other naval action, it was claimed.

Rows of Russian dead were said to line the approaches to Odessa and Leningrad as the German forces brought their heaviest weapons into play to take these important ports.

Thousands upon thousands of crack Soviet troops are being literally cut to pieces in the giant iron ring east of Kiev, it was stated.

Around Odessa, fighting was said to have been renewed in its most bitter form as the Germans brought flame throwers into use to silence strong Soviet bunkers, one by one.

The Russians have transferred the outskirts and approaches to the city into veritable forts, it was declared.

An eye-witness account said that "practically no more prisoners were being taken," but that the Soviet dead were piled three deep in long rows.

It was declared the defended towns around Leningrad had been battered until they were only "piles of debris, with tattered roofs hanging like scraps of paper and smashed heavy Soviet tanks between the ruins of which occasional bands of Red troops crawl out to surrender."

In the fighting east of Kiev, it was claimed, the greater part of four trapped Russian armies was "wiped out" by German legions which captured more than 150,000 prisoners, 151 tanks, 602 field guns and which repulsed desperate Soviet efforts to break through the encircling "iron ring."

The German news agency DNB quoted Hungarian reports that Soviet Marshal Semyon Budenny has been relieved of command of the Russian southern armies and that Marshal Semyon Timoshenko has temporarily assumed control over these forces.

Y.M.C.A. Will Have Retreat At Warnecke

Saturday, September 27, at 2 o'clock boys of the University Y. M.C.A. are leaving for their fall retreat at Camp Warnecke to plan the year's work and play.

Mrs. Homer P. Rainey will open the week-end program of work with a talk emphasizing the meaning of faith in controversial social questions, answers to fundamental questions dealing with student problems, and training for leadership in a movement that is local, national, and international in its scope.

Laying the groundwork for a profitable year of work to benefit the student body as a whole will be the purpose of this week-end retreat lasting through Sunday afternoon.

B. P. Faubion, assistant area secretary of the Southwest area of the Y.M.C.A., will deliver the closing address Sunday morning, September 28, at 11 o'clock.

WINS TWO AWARDS

Eddie Dowling, director and master of ceremonies for "We, the People," is the only Broadway producer to receive the Pulitzer prize and the New York drama critics' award for the same play during the same year. Eddie won this unprecedented honor for "Time of Your Life."

Nursing Course May Open For Austin Women

Women students of the Uni- versity will be allowed to enroll in the American Red Cross home nursing course only if the first course proves successful, said Mrs. Hal W. Atkins, chairman of the Travis County Red Cross home nursing service. These classes are a defense measure to prepare women to meet home emergencies when all available commercial nurses are in the army camps and hospitals.

The twenty-four hour course will be taught by graduate nurses whose qualifications have been accepted by the National Red Cross Headquarters in Washington. The first course will be open to mothers and housewives in Austin.

This new course is a result of numerous requests for such service, said John H. Keen, chair- man of the Travis County Chap- ter, American Red Cross. It must not be assumed that the home nursing course will train nurses for commercial purposes. It is merely to prepare women to care for the civilian population during war times.

Wesleyans Hold Social

The Methodist Student Reception will be held at the Wesley Foundation from 8 until 10 o'clock Wednesday night, Murray Dick- son has announced.

Students will be received down- stairs where refreshments are to be served.

Upstairs a Professor Quiz pro- gram, music, and recreation led by Sue Jo Roberts, Austin school teacher, will provide entertainment for the group.

In charge of refreshments is Mrs. M. Jones, who for twenty years has been in charge of the Foundation's Sunday evening Fel- lowship Suppers. Gladys Tooke will decorate the auditorium.

Miss Edna Belle Perry, B.J. '40, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug- las Hayden Perry of Robstown, was married to Jack Rabon, son of Mrs. S. H. Rabon of Luling, at 8 o'clock Friday night in the First Presbyterian Church in Cor- pus Christi.

Otto Moellering was at the or- gan, and Miss Robert Struss of Columbus sang "I Love You Truly." The Rev. Rodney Sunday read the ceremony.

Mrs. Rabon is a member of Chi Omega sorority and Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism orga- nization for women. Last year she was on the campus doing gradu- ate work as a student assistant in journalism. They will live in Aus- tin.

PATILLO BROTHERS VISIT
Lieutenant Sam Patillo, grad- uate of the University in 1938 and now stationed with the Army Air Corps in Salt Lake City, U. and his brother, Lieutenant Jim Pa- tillo of San Antonio, visited mem- bers of Oak Grove during the week-end. Both are former mem- bers of the dormitory.

Frats Entertain Co-Eds Sunday At Dinner

Sunday dinners at fraternity houses already are taking the place of rush week entertainments. With sorority pledges outnumber- ing last year's co-eds, the second of the fraternity dinners continues to live up to its reputation as a gala event of each week.

Women's Physicals to End
The last time to take the wom- en's physical examination, re- quired of all women students who are new in the University, will be Wednesday afternoon from 2 un- til 5 o'clock in the Women's Gym. All students who have not yet taken the examination must not fail to do so Wednesday after- noon. Miss Anna Hiss, director of physical training for women, an- nounced yesterday.

'Mix-Masters' Orientate New Newman Members

Newman Club received new Catholic students Sunday night at the Newman Club room, and en- listed a number of them. Last year's members functioned as "mix-masters."

Father Vincent Holden, chap- lain, was pleased with the esti- mated crowd of two hundred and the enthusiasm of the new stu- dents.

Ann Vilbig, sophomore from Dallas, was mixer-in-chief as she increased the dancing population on the floor by coaxing and herding the boys on the floor with al- luring tales of the beauty of the girls present.

The reception committee con- sisted of Johnnie Kunz, president; Betty Mathias, vice-president; Dorothy Jean Walenta, secretary; Cesare Galli, treasurer; and Tom Ingram, Tommie Maher, Dick Flume, Bernadine Lahey, Peggy Brice, and the irrepressible Miss Vilbig.

Co-Sponsored Dancing School Opens Soon

Despite rainy weather, organ- ization got under way Monday night on the jointly-sponsored M.I.C.A.-W.I.C.A. dancing school which will begin Thursday night at 7:15 o'clock at the Elizabeth Joseph Dancing Studio in the Texas Federated Women's Club Building.

The course of eight lessons will be given from 7:15 to 8:15 o'clock each Monday and Thursday night at reduced prices for members of the two organizations.

In order that Thursday night may be used exclusively for in- struction, registrations will be taken from 3 to 5 o'clock on Tuesday and Wednesday after- noons at the studio.

Instruction will be given by Miss Elizabeth Joseph, Austin dance teacher.

Although hoping that classes will be small enough to insure a maximum of personal attention, Miss Joseph emphasized that no line will be set which will prevent members from taking the course.

Besides the regular beginning class, advance courses in the newest steps will also be offered for those who already know how to dance. Miss Joseph also stated that private lessons can be ar- ranged for those desiring them. All classes will be mixed.

500 Flock To W.I.C.A. Union Tea

Over five hundred guests attended the reception given by the Women's Independent Campus Association Sunday afternoon to in- troduce the new organization to the University. The reception was given in the Main Ballroom of the Union, from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock.

Miss Dorothy Gebauer, dean of women and faculty sponsor, and Laura Oehler, president, greeted guests at the door.

The room was decorated with fall flowers, and punch was served from a lace-covered table on the balcony.

"We were more than pleased with the response to our invita- tion," Miss Oehler declared, "and believe that such interest promises a good year, for our first on the campus."

Among guests at the reception were President and Mrs. Homer Price Rainey, Vice President and Mrs. J. Alton Burdine, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brandon, Mrs. Gladys Henderson, and Miss Anna Hiss.

Name tags were pinned on guests before they entered the ball-room, and these tags were kept for future check.

Over two hundred and fifty tickets were sold to W. I. C. A. during the first two days of reg- istration, and this week will be taken to the dormitories, cooper- ative houses, and rooming houses for sale to interested girls. Membership costs $1, and is open to any woman in good standing in the University, who is not a member of a social sorority.

If any girl is not contacted at her living-place, she may buy tickets from any member of the organization, or in the W. I. C. A. office, Texas Union 310, through October 17.

First meeting of the new club will be held Tuesday night, Sep- tember 22, in the Texas Union.

WHITEMAN IN 'FRISCO

Inasmuch as he has to remain on the West Coast for his broad- casts with Burns and Allen, Paul Whiteman will follow his stay at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco with a date at the Florentine Gar- dens in Hollywood early in De- cember. The Burns and Allen stanzas tee off next month.

CLUB Notes

The newly-elected officers of CHI PHI fraternity are Rual Askew, Alpha; Phocion Park, Beta; Fred Griffin, Gamma; John Metzenthin, Zeta; Pete Andrews, Delta; and Coy Lay, Epsilon.

An informal meeting of DELTA SIGMA PI, professional business fraternity, was held Monday night with E. L. Haskins as head master presiding. Plans for the coming year were discussed and committees were appointed to plan the fall calendar and to arrange for the business administration open house to be held the latter part of October.

The first regular meeting will be Monday night, October 29, at 7:15 p. m.

GRAND COUNCIL OF FALPHA OMICRON OMEGA (FOO to you); Margaret Neil Carlisle, Cissie Voelker, Betty Jean Jones, Virginia Ford, and Gloria Obar, will meet at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, September 23, in the library of the Pi Beta Phi house.

This being the time of the year for try-outs, the GIRLS GLEE CLUB has decided to have its in-coming on Thursday and Friday afternoons from 4 to 6 o'clock when prospective new members of this organization will be given auditions at the Glee Club headquarters, Texas Union 405.

Girls who desire to serve as accompanists will be given their auditions from 4 o'clock to 6 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon at Littlefield Music Hall 103 with Miss Charlotte Du Bois, assistant professor of music education, in charge.

A completely remodeled auditorium at 2338 Guadalupe, above Renfro's Drug Store, will serve as the meeting place for the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE students' organization every Thursday night from 7:15 to 8:15 o'clock during the Long Session.

The organization's first meeting will be held Thursday, September 25. Les Flowers will be the reader.

A reading room, open to the public from 9 to 3 o'clock on weekdays and from 9 to 1 o'clock on Saturdays is located in the building.

All women students who are interested in joining BIT AND SPUR, University riding club, will be eligible for the club if they receive a grade of eighty-five or better in horsemanship at the try-outs which will be held Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Camp Mabry Ring.

The grades will be given on the basis of mount, 5 per cent; dismount, 5 per cent; walk, 5 per cent; trot, 10 per cent; canter, 15 per cent; hands and feet, 25 per cent; and general horsemanship, 35 per cent.

All girls who would like transportation to the tryouts are asked to phone Patti Swigart at 2-9480. A charge of 25 cents will be made for use of a horse.

Beginning the 1941 season of the GIRLS VARSITY DEBATE SQUAD, all interested girls will meet September 30, room 2504, Main Building at 4 o'clock, to draw numbers for sides. Odd numbers chosen will represent the affirmative, the even numbers, the negative side. The first round of tryouts will be held on October 14, Professor T. A. Rousseau, department of speech, announced Monday.

The contestants will speak on the Interscholastic League Debate question for 1941-42: Resolved, That the Federal Government Should Adopt the Policy of Equalizing Educational Opportunities Throughout the Nation by Means of Annual Grants to the Several States for Public Elementary and Secondary Education.

Freshman girls will be entertained Wednesday evening, September 24, at 7:15 o'clock with a tea in the lobby of the UNIVERSITY Y.M.C.A. A football scheme in orange and white is to form the theme for decorations and refreshments.

Entertainment for the evening consists of a talk by Mrs. Homer P. Rainey, a vocal solo by Bill Foster of the Austin Theological Seminary, and piano selections by Aurora Sterling. An original skit written and directed by Mary Elizabeth Sutherland will be presented.

Those assisting Margaret Bellhaz in receiving and introducing guests are Anna Munger and Helen Shudde, president and vice-president of the University Y.M.C.A.; Helen Carson, secretary; Anita Arneson, treasurer; and Patti Nolen, F.F.C., co-chairman; and Marthann Kessler, Ann Sutton, Catherine Stockard, Dorothy Matthews, Anne Stacy, Peggy Hilliard, Marion Thomas, Mary Beth Bertsch, Helen Claire Nolen, and Jean Rawls.

New Lawyers Are Oriented

Lectures Designed To Answer Problems

"Students' Interests and Activities" was the first of a series of introductory lectures addressed to the first year law students Monday morning in the Law Building. The lectures are designed to answer questions that trouble beginning law students about the nature and function of law and the courts and to explain the method of study to be pursued in law school.

T. C. McCormick, dean of the School of Law, opened the series with a welcome to the new students. The upper-classmen explained the student activity in the Law School. Ben Rice, a member of editors' board of Texas Law Review, discussed "Student Bar Association and the Honor System in Law School; Baine Kerr former quiz master, spoke on "Honors to Be Gained in Law School"; J. C. Brown, one of the winners of the competition prize, explained the "Law Club Competition for Freshmen, and Harold Marsh, editor-in-chief of the students' board of Texas Law Review, spoke on "Texas Law Review."

The two other lectures given Monday were "Function of Law in Society" by Mr. Clarence Morris and "Sources of Our Law," by W. P. Keeton, assistant dean of the School of Law.

Tuesday's lecture schedule includes:

"Methods by Which Suits Are Brought, Tried, and Appealed," by Gus Hodges, law professor.

"The Structure of the English and American Court Systems," by J. W. Moore, a new member of the Texas faculty who formerly taught in the Yale School of Law.

"The Law Library and the Use of Law Books," by Miss Lucy Moore, instructor in Legal Bibliography.

New Course Added For U. T. Architects

Architecture 59, The Principles of Housing and City Planning, a course designed primarily for students in sociology, government, economics, and architecture, will be offered for the first time this fall.

Meeting Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 8 o'clock and open to junior students, the six-hour course may count as sociology if preceded by Sociology 310.

To be taught by Hugo Leipziger, it is similar to a short course taught by Mr. Leipziger in Houston, Fort Worth, and Dallas. An outgrowth of his lectures in Houston was the creation of a group to further improved city planning there.

Architecture 59 will deal with modern housing and city planning, their historical background, the legal aspects and elements of the physical and social development of the city, particularly Texas municipalities.

The problems of construction, light, ventilation, fire protection of the dwelling unit are intimately connected with those of location and physical growth of cities, and those in turn are closely related to the topographical, transportation, natural resources, and economic factors, Mr. Leipziger points out.

"The study of the so-called master plan should include the coordination of those subjects which are now scholastically separated," he said. "They constitute legislation and housing reform, city planning and zoning, public health, sanitation and health, traffic, school and hospitalization systems, public safety, and recreation."

Mr. Leipziger came to the University from Europe, when he was a leader in the low-cost housing movement.

Machine Design Courses Added In Engineering

To learn how machines are designed and made—from gear parts to massive power tools—two classes will start defense engineering short courses in engineering drawing at The University of Texas, September 29, it was announced today.

Open to high school graduates with at least two years of mathematics, the beginners' course lasts twelve weeks, and will cover fundamentals and practical applications of mechanical drawing and geometry.

Students who finish the course will be eligible for employment as draftsmen in government service and in industry, Read Granberry, professor of electrical engineering, said. Classes meet seven hours a day for six days and three evenings a week.

A course in Advanced Engineering Drawing is open to students who have completed one year of college engineering, Granberry said.

Subjects offered include elementary mechanism, machine drawing, technical sketching, and machine shop practice. Classes will meet four hours a night, four nights a week, for twenty-four weeks.

Men interested in enrolling in either of the courses should communicate with W. R. Woolrich, dean of the College of Engineering, Granberry said.

DALLAS TRAFFIC TOLL—22

DALLAS, Sept. 22.—(INS) Death behind the wheel had chalked up the city's twenty-second 1941 traffic victim Monday after 3-year-old Louis Thompson Jr., was killed Sunday by an automobile as he ran across a street to join his father. The child's death was the third in as many days and brought the city-county traffic toll for the year to sixty-five on the eve of a new 100 Deathless Days safety campaign being planned by the Citizens' Traffic Commission.

Ex-Student Killed In R.C.A.F. Crash

Accompanied by a representative of the Royal Canadian Air Force, the remains of Cadet William S. Shand, 20, arrived in Kerrville Friday for burial Saturday. Shand, an ex-student of the University, was killed when his R.C.A.F. training plane crashed and burned near Rathwell, Manitoba, Canada. At the time of his death he held the rank of leading aircraftman and had only a few weeks of training left before being ready for transfer to England and for a commission as a pilot officer.

Shand, a student in the University last long term, left in January to hitch-hike to Canada where he joined the R.C.A.F.

Vengeance Promised For French 'Massacre'

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(INS)—A warning to Nazi officials in occupied France that they will atone for the "massacre" of hostages has been broadcast by the Free French radio, the London Daily Express reported Monday.

The Free French radio station directed this broadcast to France: "We solemnly proclaim that for each hostage massacred, two Germans will be judged and struck down by the victorious French."

The British radio in a program heard by CBS broadcast a reply to the address by Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, who urged termination of attacks on Germans in occupied France. Directly addressing Petain, the British announcer said:

"In whose name are you talking when you advise to submit? In any case not in the name of the French people, but in the name of a handful of traitors and cowards."

Clark intended to supervise the elections in the same manner as they were handled last fall and last spring.

"We've developed a good system so there's no reason to abandon it," Frede said.

Frede emphasized that students must vote at boxes provided for the individual schools and colleges. Voting in other boxes invalidates the ballot.

Frede, president of Alpha Phi Omega, honorary service fraternity, was election judge in the spring election of last year.

Clark, former secretary of A.P.O., served as head checker of voters in that election.

Assisting Frede and Clark will be members of Alpha Phi Omega, Orange Jackets, and Mortar Board.

Arrest Threatens If Nye Backs Lindy

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(INS) Warned that he faced arrest if he championed the Des Moines speech of Charles A. Lindbergh, Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota Monday said he would discuss the Lindbergh speech is the issue were raised at his America First Rally in Brooklyn Monday night.

Former Magistrate Joseph Goldstein in a letter to Mayor F. H. La Guardia announced he personally would attempt to arrest the North Dakota isolationist, if Nye subscribed to the Lindbergh charge that the country is being pushed toward war by the "British, the Roosevelt Administration and the Jews." Goldstein said an endorsement of Lindbergh's views by Nye would be "inciting a riot."

"Goldstein's attitude is based on representations that I have approved in toto of the utterances of Colonel Lindbergh. I have not thus approved. I have said that Colonel Lindbergh was not untruthful when he spoke of the Jewish people as being a contributing factor to the interventionist cause," Nye stated.

"It may have been and probably was unfortunate that Colonel Lindbergh was so direct in his expression as he was," Senator Nye continued. "But I will not be a party to the organized effort to crucify this splendid American young man especially when I know that this organized effort is intended to break the splendid united front of non-interventionists to which Colonel Lindbergh has so splendidly contributed."
