Ashbel Show.

The Annual "Open Meeting" of The Ashbel Literary Society Will Take Place May 12th in Auditorium.

The annual open meeting of the Ashbel Literary Society will be held in the University Auditorium Saturday, May 12th, at 8:30 p. m.

Those who were so fortunate as to see this society's presentation of "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream" last spring will be pleased to learn that the young ladies will give another one of Shakespeare's comedies—"As You Like It."

The Ashbel has been lucky in securing the services of Mr. Lemuel Josephs of San Antonio, who comes to them highly recommended as a dramatic trainer. Mr. Josephs and his splendid assistant, Mr. Murphy, are well prepared for this work, both having studied in the New York School of Dramatic Art, and having since had much practical experience. From reports of the progress made at the rehearsals, it is safe to say that a rare treat is in store for all who attend the performance.

The cast of characters will appear in the next Texan. However, it may be mentioned that the former favorites, Misses Aden and Knox and Lambdin, will take leading roles. The society is stronger this year than ever before and the resources of the organization now permit the young ladies to spare nothing that could perfect their production.

Tickets will be put on sale at the Co-op and the drug store, at the price of 25 cents. If you cannot get them there, you can also buy them at the University Auditorium. The prizes of the year.

DEBATERS RETURN VICTORIOUS.

Mr. Pope and Mr. Latimore "Showed" Missouri.

The April 28th the third great Texas-Missouri debate took place in the auditorium of the Missouri University at Columbia, and Texas scored another victory.

VARSDITY CIRCUS

Students to Give a Huge Performance. Some Facts About Athletic Situation.

The announcement of a University Circus to be held in the near future will no doubt appeal to many, at first sight, as a huge joke. However, the matter has been fully discussed and from the encouragement already received it is assured that the big show will positively occur on the athletic field before the end of the present term. From the early discussions the general impression is that the affair will be a feast of fun.

A benefit performance for the athletic association just at present is urgent; it was ever thus, and while those originating the circus movement have departed from the time-worn custom of minstrels, concerts, and the like, they feel that a popular chord will be struck and each recurring year will witness the celebrating of the University Circus, not alone as a means of securing funds for worthy causes, but as a distinctly pleasing social event.

A Texan reporter hearing of the contemplated circus, approached Mr. Marlin Wolf, who originated the plan, to state his views regarding it. If those who associate with Mr. Wolf in the enterprise are as enthusiastic about it as is he, its assurance and successful completion is already settled. The Texan correspondent takes this opportunity to express his sympathy with the movement, and will lend its columns and influence on all occasions.

"The old custom," said Mr. Wolf, "of giving a Texas to a man who does something in athletics has been changed to the giving of a row of representative members of the University, both done away with. These 20 young men were selected on May 1st and then had been selected on May 1st. They had been anything frenzied in athletics, but they had done a stint of frenzied finance. Tensely told, this is the story of their fleeing."

Three hundred dollars were needed before schedules for the baseball season could be made. All manner of plans for funds from the students had been tried, with only partial success. Thirty representative young men at $10 per were asked to sign a guarantee, payable May 1st; asked to sign only as a matter of ~~time~~ and assurance given that there would be no chance of their having to pay the guarantee. Then, too, they were the representative young men—indeed, they represented their fathers in the payment of the money. The demand for the guarantee has been made, and though some fun has been indulged in by the thirty young men, they are of one accord ready to make good their obligations.

There is no need at this time to inform the public that the student body in general should support the athletics of their own institution. The fact has been made known often before and seems too plain to need any explanation. Of course, it is somewhat expensive but the season closed the game, and the have better facilities and better terms.

The thirty young men referred to in order to show their good faith and their college spirit, to even a greater degree, are going to pay the guarantee. But they do not intend stopping there. They are going to give the biggest and best show ever undertaken in Austin. The benefit, not on their own, of their own, but of the athletic association, and other student organizations at the University.

Varsity Baseball.

Three Games Played—Texas Wins One, Loses Two—The University League—Local Schedule. Everyone Plays Baseball.

Reports from three games had been received up to the time that the Texan went to press. Of these three games, Varsity lost two and won one. The Farmers whitewashed the Longhorns in two successive games on their diamond. Varsity succeeded in putting a crimp in Louisiana's hopes on Monday. The following are accounts of the three games as taken from our good friend the Statesman:

A. & M. 9; Texas 0.

College Station, Texas, April 27. Agricultural and Mechanical College met her ancient opponent the University of Texas and shut it out with a score of 9 to 0. Graham and Smith, the two crack college pitchers of the State, were pitted against each other. Both pitched good ball, Graham striking out ten men and Smith twelve.

Agricultural and Mechanical won because of better batters and faster fielding, the latter getting ten hits, the University two.

Samuels made both hits for the University, one being a two-bagger. Denner knocked two two-base hits, Smith and Wessendorf hit for two sacks, while Captain Hickey made a three-bagger.

The game was Agricultural and Mechanical all the way, only one University hit reached third. The biggest crowd of the season cheered the game, and the enthusiastic students carried the successful players in the triumph on their shoulders. Handout of Allow Academy umpired the game.

A. & M. 2; University 0.

The Agricultural and Mechanical College defeated the University of Texas by a score of 2 to 0. The game was Agricultural and Mechanical all the way, only one University hit reached third. The biggest crowd of the season cheered the game, and the enthusiastic students carried the successful players in the triumph on their shoulders. Handout of Allow Academy umpired the game.

University. This biggest and best show will be the Varsity Charity Circus.

As now contemplated the athletic field will be one blaze of glory. Lights of all colors and designs will be strung over the park, rings will be made, platforms built, animal cages constructed, and tents for the side-shows erected. After the big show—which is only half over—there will be a stupendously grand concert, to which a small admission will be charged. Already several young ladies of the University have promised to supply popcorn and peanuts, and to make redlegionade, and as an added charming inducement, they will serve it.

Among the acts already secured we might mention as a starter, the Varsity Band, the Glee Club, and the Mandolin Club, as dispensers of real circus music. Then there will be Professor "Little" Houser and his troupe of oriental "barbarians," Dan Robinson, the strong man, and rats, and iron and steel, and El. Crane, who will swallow hooks and eyes and stand on his head for a week. Lynn Milkin, with 65,742 rats, and a staff, and who is best known as the "Bull-dog" Dr. King, the learned, who will sing "Sweet Songs" and tell her pictures of a nominal "Auntie" and "Uncle" and will lead the "Down-Down" dance. Already secured, 25 officers and 25 members to assist him. Several "barbarians" and advance agents have already been secured, and have offered to serve as "barbarians" in securing sensational acts. The party has been sent to Japan, South Africa on a wild goose chase, looking for a residence for the "barbarians." It is a very unusual party, and will be a real party, and will bring people from all over the city and all our efforts to overflow.

Lack of time and space forbids any further discussion of the plans, but you may state that it is positively going to be a success in about three weeks. We are already working hard, and should be able to pull off an enterprise, and a mass meeting, and will soon be called. Watch for the dope.

DEBATERS RETURN VICTORIOUS.

Mr. Al. S. Pope, of Marshall, and Mr. Sam Lattimore of Waco composed the team from this institution.

The Missouri Independent, which appeared on the day of the debate, gives the following interesting facts about the two debaters:

Missouri's speakers need no introduction to the public. J. A. Knitz, the leader of the team, is a Junior Academic first year lawyer. He represented Missouri in the last debate with Illinois, and quite a favorable impression on both the judges and the audience. In the preliminary contest he showed up especially well, and will certainly do better in the final contest. He is a member of the Aetna Society. William E. Ott, his colleague, has been Missouri's best debater for many years past. As its representative he helped defeat Kansas in 1909, and he led the team against Illinois. In both contests he rendered a favorable account of himself. He is a Junior Academic, a member of the Q. B. H. and of the M. S. U. Debating Club. He was only recently unanimously elected orator for commencement. The Texas debaters are Messrs. Lattimore and Alexander Pope. Lattimore is said to be a good solid debater. Mr. Pope, the leader, has had a remarkable career as a college debater. A few weeks ago he won the $100 prize as the best debater at the University of Texas. But Mr. Pope is more than a debater; he is an orator of great force and power. In the contest in which he won the prize referred to above he is said to have held spell bound by his eloquence the large audience of 1000 or 1500 people. Mr. Pope will undoubtedly make a speech at the Missouri debate that will be well worth hearing.

Let the students give honor where honor is due, for it is such contests as these that built up the University and give it its standing among the others.

VARSIITY BASEBALL.

The two teams played a second series of two games at Austin later in the season.

Rain Range, La., April 30.—The team of the University of Texas shut out the Louisiana State University team this afternoon. The locals did not put up the game they are wont to play, and the visitors bunched their work and drove the ball for long hits. The team of the University of Texas was about as good a sample of a collegiate team as has ever come this way. The attendance was fair.

DOINGS OF THE COLLEGES.

A new national organization known as the Delta Sigma Rho was recently formed in Chicago. Membership is limited to orators and debaters, and moreover they must have represented their Alma Mater in some intercollegiate contest.

The following are the universities represented: Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Northwestern, Chicago, Illinois and Michigan. Membership, owing to the conditions laid down, will be as honorable in the new society as in Phi Beta Kappa.

The Sophomores of Barnard College (Columbia co-eds) have laid down rules of conduct for the Freshmen. Among them are these:

1. No Freshman shall wear French heels on the campus.

2. Freshmen shall not chew gum in the lecture rooms. Furthermore, it is forbidden to stick gum on the college furniture.

3. Freshmen must not appear on the college grounds in the company of young men.

The following is an account of the annual Junior promenade of Oberlin College, clipped from the "Oberlin Review." "The Junior Prom, opened with a grand march and was followed by an excellent dance program (by the orchestra), but since the lower left-hand corner of the program bore the words: 'Owing to Oberlin traditions it is requested that you sit out the dances, no dancing was done. Strawberry sherbet was served.'

The Combined Penn. Musical Clubs' Concert and Dance at Atlantic City could not be given this year, as the steel pier is undergoing alterations and no other suitable place can be secured.

A report is current that an attempt is to be made at Columbia to abolish basket ball as an intercollegiate sport after the close of the present season. President Butler is understood to favor such action.

Any student of the University of Wisconsin who is known to have entered a saloon, even if only for a hot lemonade, is to be expelled.

The Sophomore won with ease the annual inter-class track meet at Northwestern University on Saturday, April 14. The second year men made a total of sixty points, the juniors next, with fifty.

On Tuesday, April 17, the Athletic Association of Northwestern University held its last meeting. With the prohibition of football for a period of five years and the abandonment of baseball, the necessity for such an organization has ceased.

Columbia has 90 students whose homes are in Europe. This is an increase of 95 in 11 years. Pennsylvania has the most foreign students, the greatest part of whom are studying dentistry. In the nine largest colleges in the country, there are altogether 600 students from abroad.

Jiu Jitsu, in which the Annapolis midshipmen have received instructions from Professor Yamashita, who instructed President Roosevelt, will not be retained at the Naval Academy when the Professor's contract expires a month hence.

Yale has a new monthly magazine. Its purpose is to solicit from members of every department any and every good thing it can in the way of current literature. It is published on a business basis. Its liberal editorial policy of paying undergraduates for contributions has proven very successful.

From the announcement in the "Daily Maroon" it is learned that a hockey league is to be formed in Minnesota, Chicago, Michigan, Wisconsin, Northwestern and probably other universities. An enormous rink and ice palace is to be built on Sixty-third street in Chicago, and will afford a fine place for match games.

All candidates for next year's football team at the University of Virginia will soon be out for spring practice. There will be the usual kicking and preliminary practice in running down under punts, etc. Spring football is a new departure in athletics at Virginia, and the results of this experiment will be watched with much interest by other Southern colleges.

The Alumni of the University of Alabama are making efforts to enlarge and improve their Alma Mater.

That the laws of Nebraska University must spit, seems a grave issue at that school. The Daily Nebraskan devotes a half column of editorial and a quarter column of news space to an announcement and discussion of the fact that spittoons have been purchased for the law school.

At a joint football conference of Lehigh and Stanford faculty committees with a similar committee from the University of California, football was abolished, and the old English game of rugby established to take its place. The report of the sub-committee recommended the adoption of the English game outright.

California is insisting that a graduate system of coaching her athletic teams be decided upon and adhered to. They say, "Let us no longer be blinded by the glamor of the football teacher from the effete East, but let us build up a system of graduate coaches that will surpass anything in the country."

Columbia won the intercollegiate championship, by defeating Lafayette recently.

Yale defeated the University of Illinois, 33 to 8 in an aquatic meet at Champaign, Ill., last week.

A FINAL WORD.

Concerning Dramatic Art and "The King of Korea."

In a recent issue of the Texan I had something to say concerning "Dramatic Art in the University." My remarks were not written to provoke a mudslinging contest; nothing was said impugning any man's motives; no reflection was cast on any man's ability. It is very evident, however, that somebody misunderstood the purpose of my article and has accepted a challenge wholly unintended. If the gentleman who responded with such alacrity will be kind enough to consider himself nicely bedaubed with mud, without my having to go through the exertion of trowelling it on, I will take advantage of this opportunity to revert to my original article and to make a clearer statement of what I intended to say.

An institution of the size and rank of the University of Texas should be able to produce something creditable in the realm of dramatic art. When so much of our time and talent is devoted to what is, to say the least, a doubtful form of art, legitimate drama is left hopelessly stranded. Should one have to apologize to the student body of a university for drawing a line of distinction between the comic opera and legitimate drama? Is it at all possible that the student body of this institution could prefer the former to the latter? There must be standards by which things are judged, and if we are no mere pretenders, mere receptacles for the opinions of others, we must apply the standards. Take any one of the hundreds of comic operas that have been presented in this country during the last several years, strip it of its spectacular features, its gaudy costuming, its lavish staging, the antics of the gay soubrette, the vaudeville "stunts" of the comedians, and what have you left that even pretends to be art except a few lovesick or would-be humorous ballads, a few stale jokes, and perhaps the shadow of a plot. It can easily be seen that the comic opera is a vehicle too lumbering, too loosely put together, handled by too rowdy a crowd, to form a conveyance for the artist's treasures. The farce is a much more adequate form of artistic expression, although it is the very lowest form of legitimate drama. In the farce there are far greater possibilities for the display of histrionic talent, and to be successful in it one must know at least something about acting. The fun in a farce is of the most obvious kind, but it can always be in good taste and still be fun.

Now leaving the comic opera in general and coming to the "King of Korea," I have no hesitancy in repeating what I said in my last article: "It is a sad mistake to think that the 'King of Korea' even approaches anything that is worthy of perpetuation or repetition." Admitting for a moment that a comic opera might be worth while, we do not admit that the "King of Korea" is worth while. We can admit that, produced one time, it had a right to remain free from anything like serious criticism; it could have then been regarded as an amateur college production and its defects would have been graciously overlooked. A second production revealed the fact that the author and some others had been, somewhat blinded by a generous goodwill on the part of the public to think that the "King of Korea" was a real work of art. The proposed third production convinced us all that this was their opinion and therefore placed their efforts on the same footing as other productions, professional or otherwise. In such a position, college spirit or what not should not free a pretended work of art from criticism. If such things are freely praised and continuously, in this institution, what must be the opinions of the world as to the standards of art in the University of Texas!

Again, we suggest that the student body of the University of Texas abandon comic opera, organize a dramatic club and produce some first-class dramas. We have an abundance of talent which only awaits a fair opportunity. If the author of the "King of Korea" is not too strongly attached to the memory of his production, which is so sadly soon to be deceased, he could perform excellent service by aiding in such an organization.

W. LAWRENCE COOK.

One-third of the 900 midshipmen at the Naval Academy have been guilty of hazing, was the report made to the House committee on naval affairs by the sub-committee which went to Annapolis to investigate. In addition to the physical hazing the midshipmen have a system of ragging borrowed from the English colleges, under which the underclassmen are made to do menial services for the upperclassmen. Ragging is the worst form of hazing, according to the report, because of its tendency to degrade the younger cadets, causing them to lose their self respect. Hazing is divided into physical hazing, ragging, running and rates. The present law, which prescribes dismissal as the only punishment for hazing, is a hindrance to breaking up the practice because of its severity. The committee recommends that hazing be punished with dismissal in cases of exceptional brutality, but that ordinary cases be punished by demerits, the curtailment of liberty, and other privileges.

A campus fund of $5000 is being raised at Tulane University for the purpose of building an athletic field. There is now $900 in the treasury and the remaining sum is yet to be raised. A plan for raising this amount is suggested by the editor of the Tulane Weekly, and if carried out successfully will no doubt prove an excellent means for obtaining the required balance. His idea is that "every student be taxed a monthly assessment of ten cents, to be collected by class treasurers." Perhaps some such plan as this could be used to advantage by other Southern colleges burdened with athletic debts. With a slight increase of the assessment, in the case of smaller colleges, large debts could be paid off, provided every student did his part, and yet no individual would be called on for a large amount.

Columbia University of New York City is arranging to build a new athletic field with a seating capacity of 35,000 people. This looks as if Columbia has not abandoned the idea of some day restoring football.

TEXAS-TULANE DEBATE.

The 18th annual debate between the University of Texas and Tulane University will take place next Friday night, May 1, in the University Auditorium. A great deal of interest is being taken in the contest, and a large attendance is expected. Railroad Rate Regulation is to be discussed, and those who are interested in this live and important topic will hear an able and logical discussion by attending. Texas will be represented by Messrs. John H. Keen, Robert Haynie and J. L. Kercheville, alternates, Tulane sends Messrs. Durrell, Kasey and Picklen, as alternate to do battle with Texas. Tulane has won the two preceding debates and the Texas men are going in with a determination to win this one. The recent victory over the University of Missouri has made the students anxious that Texas win again. The University Band and Glee Club will contribute to the evening's entertainment. The discussion is scheduled to begin promptly at 8:30 p. m. No admission will be charged, but was first announced. The subject for debate is as follows: Resolved that the Congress of the United States should confer upon an administrative commission the power when a complaint is made of the unfairness of a day or interstate freight rate to make a full and complete investigation, and if found to be so, to fix a reasonable rate, which shall be subject to appeal to the Supreme Court.
