

331 New Students Boost '38 Enrollment

Monday Last Day To Pay Fees

Mathews Warns Against Penalties

First day's registration for the new semester totaled 331 new students, and the total number of old students who have paid their fees came to 3,469 yesterday, according to information from the Bursar's Office. The enrollment is slightly higher than that of the second semester last year, being 33 more new students and 240 more old students who have paid up.

With approximately five thousand old students yet to pay their fees, E. J. Mathews, registrar, issued a statement yesterday reminding them that they must pay the Bursar by Monday, February 7, in order to avoid penalties.

Mr. Mathews said that if fees are paid on February 8 or 9, the penalty will be two semester hours of credit; if on February 10 or 11, the penalty will be three semester hours; and if later, it will be four semester hours.

The student should fill out a card in the Auditor's Office and present it, his receipt for the first semester fee, and the amount of his second semester registration fee to the Bursar. For Texas residents the fee is $25. Since this is not registration but simply the paying of the second-half registration fee, it is permissible for one student to pay another's fee, Mr. Mathews said.

No, Spring's Not Here--18 Degrees, Maybe

Another day of wearing winter clothes that smell of mothballs, of pushing bulky cars out of garages, and of thinking that because the sun shines so brightly it couldn't possibly be as cold as it has been promised by the weather man for Tuesday.

Monday the thermometer dropped to 20 degrees—cold enough to burst radiators, to freeze pipes, and to make the heaviest blankets welcome. Tuesday the forecast is 18 degrees minimum.

Cox Says Cotton Under Capacity

Paper Read Before International Meet

"U. S. cotton production has in no wise reached capacity," says Dr. A. B. Cox, professor of cotton marketing, in a paper which he sent to be read at the International Spinners and Manufacturers Association now meeting in Cairo, Egypt.

"The Future of American Exports of Cotton" was the subject of the speech. He discussed the United States' capacity to produce, foreign markets and their retention in the face of world competition, and the relation of the government in price control of cotton.

Backing up his statement that U. S. production could be greatly increased, Dr. Cox estimated that there were between fifteen and twenty million acres of land that could be added to present cotton acreage. Improved agricultural methods can also bring about greater yields per acre.

The efforts of the government to raise cotton prices and help the farmer during the past four years has been based on the assumption that the United States possesses a monopoly on world cotton production, and that by cutting production it can raise prices. But, Dr. Cox points out, "as we have cut production, other countries have increased their production, and the chances are that they will continue to do so." This has been one of the factors which has caused the United States to lose its foreign market.

Dr. Cox pointed out as some of the dangers in trying to hold cotton prices up, the increased competition by synthetic fibers and greater cotton production in other countries.

That the government must continue its policy of helping the cotton farmer is imperative for a time, says Dr. Cox, but he expresses the opinion that government subsidies would be better spent to encourage quality cotton production and improved methods.

REBELS REORGANIZE

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, FRANCE, Jan. 31—(INS)—The Spanish Nationalist regime was reorganized today, according to dispatches received here. Generalissimo Francisco Franco was named Minister of War, Vice-Admiral Cervera Minister of Marine, and General Kindelan Air Minister.

EYES OF TEXAS

Campus News As Seen By JOE BELDEN

★ THE FALL TERM is over and the spring term is slow in getting started. Meanwhile, now that leisure time is free for a day or so, a good pastime is to go exploring Austin.

For example, did you know that English students in a summer session of the University not long ago had bought the old wooden bed in which O. Henry used to sleep when he lived here and put it back in his former home on East Fifth Street? The good woman who shows you around the home said the students had been told the bed, which had been removed from the place, was for sale. So they pitched in their quarters, purchased it, and put it back where it belonged.

There are other places here that perhaps you have not seen. Have you climbed up the winding stairs in the Elisabet Ney Studio? Have you seen the Texas relics in the Old Land Office Building? Have you seen the campus from the Capitol dome? Or have you been up to the Wrenn Collection in the Library to find out about the priceless first editions? Or to the Latin-American Collection to see the 300-year-old Spanish manuscripts? Try it.

Registration Aid Given By A.P.O.

Guides Answer Crazy Queries

Information tables to help newcomers to the University were maintained at strategic points on the campus yesterday by Alpha Phi Omega, honorary service fraternity. One table was located in front of the Library Building and one in front of the Texas Union.

Livius Lankford, who directed the activities, said that although the tables were primarily set up to aid new students, they found their best customers were old students. Lankford said that the table in front of the Texas Union was almost swamped between 9 and 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Besides dispensing a variety of literature about the University, they answered all sorts of questions, Lankford reported. Several girls inquired about how to join a sorority. There were stock questions from newcomers on how to register and where to go for medical examinations; but most of the queries came from old students concerning the adding and dropping of courses.

One student hurried up to the table in front of the Texas Union and thrust out a combination lock to the boy in charge. Almost in distress, he said, "Can you show me how this thing works. I can't open it."

Lankford said that the fraternity members were pleased with the results of their experiment and that they are looking forward to next year when they can be of more service. He said that Bob Kniffin was chairman of the committee which worked up the project and is to be credited with much of the success. Kniffin was out of town yesterday and could not take charge of the activities.

Freshman Shelf Moved To First

That it may have more light, space, and supervision, the freshman reading shelf of the University Library has been moved from the second floor loan desk to the open shelf reserve room adjacent to the ground floor west entrance, Donald Coney, University librarian, announced Monday.

All English 1 reading books will now be checked from and returned to that room, which already houses government, economics, and anthropology books. The room is open from 8 to 1 o'clock in the morning, 2 to 5 in the afternoon, and 7 to 10 at night.

The popular reading shelf will now be expanded to include the space previously occupied by the freshman reading shelf at the second floor loan desk.

U. T. Increases 9,077 Since 1883

There are more than two times as many students registered in one history lecture section today as were enrolled in the entire University during the first long session in 1883-84.

During the fifty-four years that have elapsed since that time, the increase has totaled 9,077. The enrollment the first year was 221 students.

The next three years the enrollment failed to increase and the fourth year saw the addition of only five students to the total number above the first year. In the fifth year, when there was an increase of twenty-eight, the school was acknowledged to be a success.

Since 1888 there has been a steady increase with the exception of the long session in 1917-1918, when the World War occasioned a slight drop.

MARINES WITHDRAWN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(INS)—The American Government today ordered the Sixth Regiment of Marines, now stationed at Shanghai, withdrawn from Chinese soil and to be transferred to Hawaii February 18.

Slapped In China

John B. Allison, U. S. acting consul at Nanking, was slapped in the face by a Japanese sentry when he attempted to go inside a Chinese house. Japan has apologized.

Apologies Follow Jap 'Incident'

20 Soldiers Face Court-Martial

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(INS)—Japan today made a sweeping apology to the American government for the slapping by a Japanese soldier of American Consul John M. Allison at Nanking.

Japan promised that the officer commanding the unit and twenty soldiers will be court-martialed.

A State Department spokesman said the United States has accepted the apology as satisfactory. Replying to a protest over the slapping of Consul Allison by a Japanese soldier, the vice-minister for foreign affairs at Tokyo called on Ambassador Grew last night and expressed "profound regrets" for the unfortunate occurrence. He stated his government "will take suitable and adequate measures to punish those concerned in this affair."

Allison informed the State Department that Major Hongo, an attaché of the Japanese military forces at Nanking, had called on him and stated that the commanding officer and twenty men of the unit involved are being tried by court-martial. Mr. Allison said further that Major Hongo stated that he realized there had been a misunderstanding in regard to charges that Mr. Allison had insulted the Japanese army and that the true facts had been explained to the higher military authorities.

In protesting, Ambassador Grew informed the Japanese government that the Allison incident "is not an isolated case, but represents but one of, and cannot be dissociated from, a series of cases of irregular entry of American troops into Japanese territory."

Last Waco U. Hall To Be Razed

Special to The Daily Texan

WACO, Jan. 31—Contract has been let by Baylor University for the razing of Cowden Hall, the last building of old Waco University. The hall, built in 1875, is no longer safe, so Baylor will tear it down and use the brick and timber on its own campus. No plans have been made for the plot that will be left vacant.

Pulling down the old building will disturb old ghosts, the calf that died of exhaustion after some students of nearly three score years ago hitched it to the school bell for a prank; the horse that three boys wrangled into Professor Albert Bogess's classroom, for which they were expelled a week before graduation.

The building was originally named Maggie Houston Hall after the wife of Sam Houston, but the name was changed when George Cowden furnished $20,000 for remodeling. Students helped in raising the $25,000 to build it. Although intended for a dormitory for young ministers, there were not enough to fill it, so lay students were admitted. Board and room cost $6 a month.

Behind the building stood the old school bell now on Baylor campus. There was a severe penalty for anybody to tamper with it, although one student a day was appointed to ring it for classes and meals.

Russell Austin Better, Regains Consciousness

Faces Negligent Homicide Charge In County Court

Russell D. Austin, sophomore in the School of Business Administration, against whom charges have been filed in the county court for negligent homicide, has regained consciousness and is improving, attendants at Seton Infirmary said Monday. Austin was the driver of the car which crashed into an automobile driven by Clarence K. Krueger, 2107 West Sixth Street, at Guadalupe and Sixth Streets last Saturday morning at 12:17 o'clock. Tom Rowley, of Austin, who was riding with Krueger, died early Saturday morning at Seton Infirmary.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Austin, Austin's parents, and their son, Dale, have returned to Elgin after visiting Austin at Seton Infirmary.

Krueger, also seriously injured was reported improved by attendants at Brackenridge Hospital. Charles Urban, whose leg was broken in the accident, is also recovering rapidly, they said.

Charges which have been filed so far are the negligent homicide charge against Austin, and a speeding charge against Allen McFadden, Jr., of 1905 San Gabriel Street, who told police he was driving an automobile which was racing Austin's car at the time of the accident. A hearing on the latter charge will be held in the corporation court Friday, February 4.

Paralysis Fund To Get U. T. Aid

'March Of Dimes' Campaign Started

The University staff and the student body have been asked to participate in the "march of dimes" movement in the campaign for funds with which to fight infantile paralysis.

Governor James V. Allred, chairman of the movement in this area, has asked Dr. P. W. McFadden of the University Drug Store to accept contributions for the University community. A faculty committee has requested that contributions be left at the University Drug Store. If this is inconvenient, contributors are asked to call 2-2473, and a messenger will be sent for the contribution.

Those serving on the committee include V. I. Moore, W. E. Gettys, E. C. H. Bantel, Bess Hefflin, Edward Crane, C. F. Arrowood, J. Anderson Fitzgerald, E. J. Mathews, and W. F. Gidley.

Faculty Books In By Feb. 12

Faculty members will be reminded by letter today that library books checked out to them are to be returned to the University Library before February 12, Donald Coney, librarian, said Monday.

Each teacher will receive a letter from the Librarian today or tomorrow. The Library will recharge the books which faculty members wish to retain. Books stamped for return after December 31, 1937, need not be brought in now.

In accordance with a new ruling endorsed early in November by the Library committee of the General Faculty, books will always be returned near the end of the first or the beginning of the second semester of each long session.

When the Library checked the faculty file in October, it was found that six volumes had been kept out from eight to eleven years. There were 212 volumes which had been out for a year or longer.

U. T. Unicameral Club Will Meet Tonight

The University Unicameral Club will meet tonight in Garrison Hall at 7:30 o'clock, officers of the organization have announced.

Work of the club toward a one-house legislature for Texas and state-wide organization of the club will be discussed. A report will be given on responses made by some five hundred students recently interviewed by the Texas Bureau of Student Opinion on the question of unicameralism. The student body was found overwhelmingly in favor of the idea.

Open Forum Follows Syphilis Film Today

Editorial--

This is the second of a series of editorial pictures depicting the most common ways of transferring syphilis as set forth by the Texas State Department of Health.

When the syphilitic coughs or sneezes into his hand, and immediately shakes hands with someone, possible transfer of the syphilis germ takes place. Syphilis is contracted innocently by 50 per cent of its victims today, according to state and federal health authorities. These three posed illustrations point the way to possible syphilis infection, innocent though it may be.

Drs. Kratz, Cox, Klotz To Talk

Picture To Show Danger Of Disease

An open forum between audience and speaker will be held immediately after the MICA-sponsored State Health Department film on syphilis tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Hogg Memorial Auditorium, Dr. F. W. Kratz, P. A. United States Surgeon with the Texas State Health Department, said last night.

Dr. Kratz will lecture on the picture while it is being shown. He endorsed the open forum as a means of answering any questions on syphilis that may still be in the minds of students after the picture is shown.

Dr. George W. Cox, head of the State Department of Health, will make a short talk on syphilis before the picture. Dr. H. L. Klotz, assistant physician of the University Health Service, said last night that he will make the introduction of the speakers instead of Dr. Joe Gilbert, director of the Health Service. Dr. Gilbert will be unable to attend the meeting because of a surgeons' meeting in San Antonio tonight.

Governor James V. Allred and Dr. Gilbert commended the showing of such a film in statements Saturday night. Governor Allred telephoned long distance to endorse the movement.

The lecture will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock and will end shortly after 8 o'clock, thus causing no conflict with the basketball game which is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock, Sydney Reagan, president of MICA, reported.

The seating capacity probably will be seriously overtaxed if prior indications are correct, Reagan said. He advised coming early in order to get seats. Austin men, as well as University students, have been invited to attend.

Due to a large number of inquiries about the film by women students, the possibility of showing the same picture at a later date for women was indicated last night by Reagan. Plans are being made for a meeting of all key men in MICA Wednesday night for the purpose of deciding on a possible re-showing of the picture, Reagan said.

An explanation of the wide prevalence of syphilis begins the moving picture, Dr. Kratz said. Then it is pointed out why no one is immune from the disease.

The many methods of contracting syphilis are explained in several scenes. The fact that anyone can contract the disease unknowingly in hundreds of different ways is emphasized.

Methods of preventing the contracting of syphilis will be illustrated. See FORUM, Page 7.

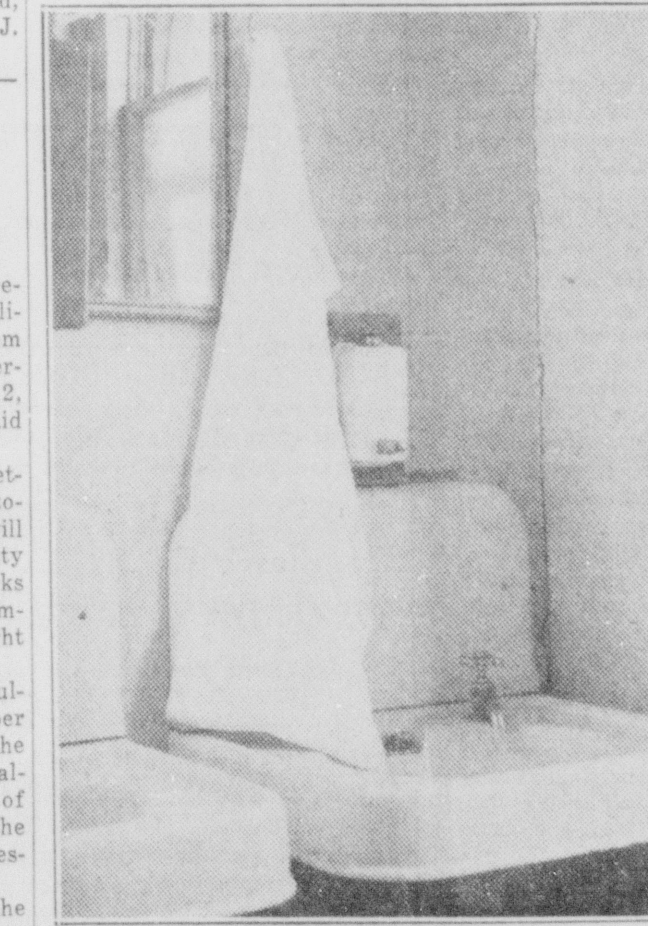

Syphilis Tests Begin At G.W.U.

Voluntary Wassermann tests by university doctors will begin today at George Washington University as part of the school's drive against syphilis. The number of probable volunteers was unpredictable, Howard Ennes, editor of the Hatchet and one of the sponsors of the drive, said in a telegram to the Texan. Pittsburgh, in a similar drive, had more than one thousand.

With the object of establishing the tests as a routine part of all physical examinations at George Washington University, an intensive educational campaign was staged there in November. Poster exhibits, panel discussions by leading medical authorities, and articles from Dr. Thomas Parran, Jr., surgeon general of the United States, and Dr. Raymond A. Vonderlehr, assistant surgeon-general, were prominent.

Ennes then carried the campaign to the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of Mid-Atlantic States, taking posters and literature from the exhibit with him.

Among other large universities offering the tests on a voluntary basis as a regular function of their local health services are Harvard University, the University of Illinois, the University of Kansas, the University of Oklahoma, and the University of New Mexico.

"... sometimes by accidental infection from filthy towels," says Surgeon General Thomas Parran, M.D., in tracing the sources of infection. The author of Shadow on the Land, who cites United States Public Health Service statistics to estimate that half of the syphilis cases are innocently acquired, lists infection from the tainted towel as one cause for innocent acquisition of the disease.

Texas Newsman Buried In Dallas

DALLAS, Jan. 31—(INS)—Funeral services were held here today for John Frederick Lubben, 72, secretary-treasurer of the A. H. Belo Corporation, which publishes two Dallas newspapers. Lubben, a native of Galveston, entered journalism with the Galveston News in 1881 and had served on Belo newspapers since then.

RAINES TO SPEAK

"Parent Education in the Bible" will be Dr. W. C. Raines's topic when he speaks before the Child Study Association at its meeting at 10 o'clock today at the University Baptist Church. Dr. Raines is an instructor at the John C. Townes Bible Chair.

Extension Students Take 7,943 Hours

Seven thousand nine hundred and forty-three semester hours have been completed in the last two years by students registered in correspondence courses, the recently published biennial report of the Division of Extension reveals.

Education courses head the list in the number of hours in a single course with 2,002 semester hours of work. Government comes second with 1,243 hours of completed work. The report showed that 208 ex-service men were registered in the courses during the two-year period.

Those who failed or dropped courses lost credit amounting to 312 hours of work.

Eyes Of Southwest Conference On Longhorn Cagers Tonight

...1940...
By JOHN D. McCULLY
TEXAS SPORTS EDITOR

INELIGIBILITY THREAT

The annual ineligibility scare is hanging around Gregory Gymnasium these days with several of the boys not knowing whether they will be able to compete for the University athletic teams. Exams and mid-semester reports always take their toll of the Longhorn athletes, some of whom fall by the way.

However, to date nothing definite seems to be known, so we hope for the best, sitting quietly until the axe falls. Ineligibility will not prohibit a man from working out at spring football, but it will knock a man out of any of the regular spring sports—track, tennis, golf, swimming, baseball, or basketball.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

Missing from practice were Charlie Naiser, Wes Boyer, Wally Lawson, and Roy Baines, but all of them will be out in a day or so. Glenn Jackson has gone home to Corpus Christi to work, promising to return in the fall and make the team. Bible is full of praise for Glenn's attitude and has all the faith in the world in his ability to make good. Beefus Bryan, working out for track, managed to stop every now and then and watch the boys in football uniform. He gets plenty of work at pole vaulting and running.

John Peterson, a few minutes late for practice, stumbled over Kelso Dabney, fell down carrying Kelso with him. And then he cuddled the football manager as if to ease his hurt. And Kelso, incidentally, needs a couple of managers to assist in spring practice. Anyone wanting the job should report to him this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Memorial Stadium. Someone (we won't say who) signed his card in the dressing-room file as a "fallback" ... let's hope not.

Although Bible is not exactly overlaid with ends, I don't feel he'll miss Buck and Ford so very much. Bully Gilstrap can still give the boys tough workouts in calisthenics. And there are probably plenty of sore muscles today.

BAYLOR FRIDAY

Sorry that I have been saying the Baylor game at Waco would be Saturday. It will be played this Friday night and will be a revenge match as far as the Longhorns are concerned.

For the first time this season the Longhorn cage squad will boast every man eligible and in condition tonight when the team takes the floor against the Olson Swedes. Jack Gray has every reason to be optimistic, and he does seem to be smiling a bit more freely lately.

From Arkansas comes word that Bob Johnson, Porker guard, is back in harness since mid-semester. So it seems the Longhorns aren't the only ones gaining by eligibility. Johnson should add materially to the strength of the league-leading Razorbacks, since Glen Rose was sorely in need of another good guard.

And I still wish the Arkansas games were to be played here this year. I'd surely feel much better about Longhorn chances.

Baylor meets the Frogs in Fort Worth tonight and should easily top the Christians, judging by past performances. This week-end the Frogs travel to Fayetteville to play Arkansas two games and will probably come out on the short end of the score both times. Meanwhile Baylor and Texas play the only other Conference game of the week-end, and Texas will down the Bears for their first loss.

T.C.U. Frogs Hold Little Hope Of Downing Undefeated Baylor

Bears Must Hurdle Longhorns Friday Before Definite Threat For Title

FORT WORTH, Jan. 31.—(INS)—Coach Mike Brumelow, the brave smile of a condemned man hovering on his lips, trotted out his Texas Christian Basketball team today for a last practice before the Horned Frogs offer themselves up as sacrifices on the altar of other teams' Southwest Conference hopes this week.

Even the most rabid T.C.U. supporters aren't looking for a victory in the game with undefeated Baylor here tomorrow night, or at Fayetteville Friday and Saturday. In fact, they're hooping the game between the Baylor and T.C.U. freshman teams as the real attraction tomorrow night.

Granting two more victories for Arkansas and another for Baylor, the stand-out game of the week and one which may figure vitally in the 1938 championship is the tussle at Waco Friday between Texas and the Baylor Bears. The Bears have yet to lose a conference match and will be at full strength for the first time since the season started. On the other hand, Texas will be able to trot out three new players, transfers from the famed John Tarleton squad who have just become eligible, and it is expected from now on out the Steers will be poison for the rest of the pack. A repeat victory for Baylor will establish them as chief contender against Arkansas for S.M.U.'s 1937 crown, while a win for Texas means a four-way race between Arkansas, Baylor, Texas, and S.M.U., with Arkansas having the inside track.

Flag Contenders Await New Deal

Spears Injured, But Will Play

By CLARENCE LA ROCHE
Texas Sports Staff

The eyes of the Southwest Conference will be focused on Gregory Gym tonight when the University's "new deal" Longhorn basketball team meets Olson's Terrible Swedes in a tune-up game before embarking on the final go-round of the 1938 basketball season.

Six other clubs, three of them quite gravely, will be waiting to see just what the Steers have in Jimmy Britt, Oran Spears, and Elmer Finley, on whom sports writers the state over have been lavishing so many adjectives.

A possibility loomed, after yesterday's scrimmage, that fans would get to see only two of the former John Tarleton College stars in action tonight. Spears, guard, turned his right ankle and was forced to leave the drill. After treating the injury Trainer Kelly decided that Spears probably would be able to play.

"Sure, I'll be all right," Spears told Gray after the drill. And to prove his point Spears took a few steps on the gym floor. But there is a possibility that he will miss most of the game.

Talking about the scrimmage, which was mainly a drill on fast breaking, Coach Gray said: "They looked better today."

After their high school showing in scrimmage Saturday, the Steers snapped through their paces yesterday in near mid-season form. The floor play, passing, and shooting was much improved over the showing Saturday, and the possibility of a Steer victory over the Swedes brightened considerably.

The fights for starting posts are so close that Coach Gray could not name a starting line-up for the Swede game. In scrimmage, the strongest combination seemed to be Willie Tate, center; Elmer Finley and Bob Moers, forwards; Oran Spears, guard; and Don White, guards. This team might open up against Olson's boys.

Rotating with this team has been: Wiggins for Spears, Henry Chovanec for Tate, Tommy Nelms for Moers, Jimmy Britt for Finley, and Gordon Hilley and George Leach for White. Hilley also fills in at center.

Should Spears be forced out of the game, Britt probably would fill in for him.

MISS FANNIE WINKLER, student at S.M.U., will arrive Wednesday to visit her sister, Miriam Ruth Winkler, freshman in the University.

KELSO DABNEY, manager.

THE TURTLE Club will hold its final tryouts Tuesday night, February 8, at 8 o'clock in the Women's Gym. Average from score of 6.5 will be given on four strokes. The strokes will be front crawl, racing or elementary back, breast, and side. Three dives will be counted on the score also, front, back, and optional.

Forty Men Answer First Call For Spring Grid Practice

Pete: Aids Steer 'New Deal'

Light Workouts For Few Days

Many Lettermen Missing From Squad

Crisp football weather greeted the forty men who turned out yesterday for the first day of spring football practice. Coach D. X. Bible said that he expected a much larger number on the field this afternoon, including every letterman with another year of eligibility and nearly everyone who will play next fall.

A chalk talk on signals, calisthenics, work on fundamentals, and light signal drill were the program for the first day. Work-outs on the same order will probably follow most of this week with a scrimmage Saturday. There will be little contact work until the boys are in better shape.

Missing from practice were several boys who have left school, some with the intention of returning, others with indefinite plans. Glenn Jackson, big center, has returned to Corpus Christi to work until next fall when he will return. Lewis Ford and Shelby Buck, ends, have left the University. Several freshmen didn't report and probably will not show up.

A number of players missed the first day because of visits home between exams, but Bible said he expected them all on the field today. Also absent was Charlie Haas, speedy halfback who is still having trouble with his broken shoulder and will not report for the training period. Haas, however, will be ready next fall. Beefus Bryan is out for track and will not work out regularly with the squad.

Although a complete list of those reporting was not available, the following were in uniform: Bernie Esunas, tackle; Lewis Gray, fullback; Bill Forney, quarterback; Jack Rhodes, guard; Burchell Allinson, tackle; Park Myers, tackle; Ned McDonald, end; John Peterson, end; and Stan Neely, end, all lettermen.

Also Carl Bage, quarterback; Larry Rupel, guard; John St. John, halfback; Fred Looke, halfback; Clyde Prestwood, fullback; David Kaine, quarterback; Ted Thomas; John Shane, back; Fred Flato, halfback; J. P. Hilliard, halfback; Louis McDonald, end; See FORTY MEN, Page 6.

U. T. Boxers Take Preliminaries In Local Golden Glove Bouts

Newell, Barnhart Win By Technical Kayo As Augustat, Griesenbeck Draw Byes

By V. J. VAN CLEAVE

Texas Sports Staff
Two University boxers won their bouts in the preliminaries of the local golden glove tournament last night in the Austin Athletic Club.

Joe Barnhart, light and inexperienced but very aggressive, took his fight by a technical knock-out in the third round. The redhead caught the fancy of the house, and won vociferous applause as well as the fight.

John Newell, popular U. T. boxer, also won by a technical kayo, his coming in the second round. His experience and training were too much for his opponent, and he won easily.

The bouts consisted of three two-minute rounds or less. Joe Augustat and Jack Griesenbeck, the only other U. T. fighters, drew byes. They will fight in the semi-finals to be held February 8 at the athletic club.

Augustat will probably fight Matt Martinez, local newsboy, in the finals of the lightweight division. Martinez won the final flurry of the evening when he took a decision over Wilbur Richards by virtue of a knock-down blow landed in the first round. Richards came back strong to take the final round, landing numerous overhand rights, but they lacked the steam to put Martinez out.

The highlight of the evening came when Ramon Garcia knocked out William Joseph in 32 seconds. Garcia landed a terrific

Arkansas Seeks Seventh S.W.C. Basketball Title

PORT WORTH, Jan. 31—"Champions don't repeat" will stand up as a war-cry for Southwest Conference football, but not for basketball.

The University of Arkansas repeated four times for the cage championship, winning it five consecutive years in 1926-30, inclusive. However, the Razorbacks are the only team ever to repeat for the championship in the history of the present conference (1924 was the first season in which the present seven members competed, although Oklahoma A.&M. did not withdraw until the 1925 season).

Arkansas has carried off the basketball flag six times during those 14 years—'26, '27, '28, '29, '30, and '36.

T.C.U., Texas and S.M.U. have each won first-place honors twice; T.C.U. in '31 and '34; Texas in George Slining, former boxer at Northwestern University, showed the best form of the night when he took a technical kayo over Raymond Otting in the third round.

Old Doom House Yields Interview, Conceals Mystery

Old Doom House, as it is called by students and faculty, still stands. It is that old house in the southwest corner of the girls' archery field directly back of the Engineering Building.

One of the oldest structures on the campus, it is one of those houses that people always say they want to explore at midnight but always seem to avoid after night-fall. Old Doom House is a very appropriate name, as from all indications the old house is certainly doomed.

The house got its name because, for many years, it was the home of Judge D. H. Doom and his family. It was through Judge Doom that the University purchased the old home, and the name of Doom has lingered because of its eerie appearance.

The old house was built in the late 1850's by Matt Raymond and his family, who lived there for many years. Later the Raymonds rented the house to General Walker, who at that time was supervising work on the construction of the new Capitol here. About 1892 the house was purchased by Mrs. Armanda Horne from the heirs of the Raymond estate. It was in this house that Judge Doom married Mrs. Horne's daughter, and it was here that they made their home.

In 1917 the Legislature authorized the Board of Regents of the University to purchase the house and a considerable tract of land adjoining it, thus greatly extending the University campus. The house was condemned as living quarters. From that time on, it has been used for little except as a store room for various school supplies and janitor's tools.

Though neglected, the old house is not averse to publicity and yields a very interesting although not very hospitable interview. The bow-legged posts supporting the porch in front have become quite worm-eaten, and the entire house seems to have acquired a definite slant toward the east. The vines covering the outside walls make the house a perfect setting for a dime horror novel.

One room tells an interesting story. At one time this room must have been the center for parties or entertainments. The walls have been painted in various colors from time to time, most of which now have faded to a drab grey or dirty white; but close inspection reveals the original colors very dimly. There is an old open fireplace at one end of the room that shows evidence of many years of usage. The room seems to be entirely resting in a shroud. The paper has fallen off of the walls in a large sheet, and, except for the part held up in the middle by an elaborate but tarnished chandelier, has draped itself over the room as if to say, "Do not disturb."

At a first glance, the room across the hall seems to be filled with queer, wooden, fence-like constructions that an imaginative soul might interpret as torture devices in such a creepy place. It is somewhat of a disappointment to have them turn out to be hurdles that have been stored there while not in use by the track team.

The room downstairs in the rear of the house is filled with row upon row of small wire-covered cases. These might have contained at one time queer creatures that were the product of U T'S LADIES and gentlemen will stroll into the University's ballroom in the Texas Union Saturday afternoon, February 12, to hear, watch, do, and eat while Jan Garber plays a four-hour tea dance. Dropping the charge from the usual $4.50 to $3.50 a couple, the crowd will be limited to 500 pairs of dancers.

Swank, of course, will accompany the revelry. At the tea time intermission drinks will be served to attenders. Unlike previous dansants, however, there will be no tables to clutter the floor and more room will be left for dancing.

The music is, of course, obviously too good to draw our comments. And so, congratulations to our efficient, hard-working Union manager, Charles Zivley, not only for providing this good dance, but for the other pleasures he adds, through his well-enjoyed position in our college life. He is a good egg.

WITH REGULAR German-goers getting fewer as the years go on it won't be long until U. T. students, like those at other educational institutions, will have to start paying a compulsory Union fee. With little other income it would be only fair for each student to have to pay his own small share on the upkeep of the Campus Country Club. And without doubt the fee will be returned ten fold if Mr. Zivley's present plans go through for additional facilities for students—and they usually do.

When you drink two cups of coffee in the Chuck Wagon the refill calls for a tax of only 3 cents instead of the usual 5.

Sort of hate to see Mack Robertson leave school. He has been writing an 8 A. M. column for the Texas about as long as we can remember the paper. Columnar ideas often run low and keeping going almost McIntrishly was one of Mack's good points. The little red-headed column father is off for a school in Arkansas that sent its call out to him via a feature story in Esquire. And he just couldn't resist the beautiful words.

MARY KATHERINE UNDERWOOD won't be back to school either. Her family is moving to Austin though and she won't be completely lost to the school since she will still grace the Violet Crown City.

There is still much fascination about watching a sign painter. College kids, who we might suppose would be developed past that stage, congregate around the fellow who decorates the Chuck Wagon blackboard with menus and pretty colored figures. They are as open-mouthed and big-eyed as their grade school brothers of a younger generation. But don't Texans say grammar school instead of grade school?

For the first time in years we have a longing for a piece of that confection the grocer used to call cream candy and hand out gratis to us when we went with our father—as always—when he left to pay the genial dispenser at the food emporium.

We feel pretty complimentary today. There is not much to do when we are in this nice mood except say nice things. So, Dorothy Buckley is a good kid. One of the most unputonish people we have seen around this center of camouflages, she does what she pleases, says what she pleases, acts as she pleases, and pleases.

SOMETIME when we are short of things to do and that's seldom enough, we intend to check up on the list of girls from Beaumont. Seems each sorority gets its share and few of them ever pledge the same club. Must be lots of fun to be a rushee down there.

The little one-eyed man has been perfectly content without any more of a name than that. Until Jimmy Newman, Wayne Smith, Mary Lou Stewart, and Exeen Thiele said he should have some appellation, he uttered not one word of dissatisfaction. Now, what can we do but name him? And we haven't an idea.

Sixes and Sevens

By JOHN R. FRANCHERY

Paris in the Spring

The French Line is on our trail and the traffic is terrific.

They want us to visit Paris—Paris in the spring. They feel we should get to know "la douce France" better. In fact they are deluging us with pictures of this belle patrie.

"Venez a Paris," we are being urged, "Paris au printemps."

We want no part of Paris, particularly in the spring.

When the flush of youth was yet on our cheeks, we got our fill of Paris. Even the backward glance is enough to make us wince.

It was a sweet night in May when last we visited Paris. Our pockets were laden with gold, the benison of Pulitzer journalist H. R. Knickerbocker who likes Texans and is the friend of all young adventurers.

"Take this," he said, "and visit Paris and blow yourself to a large holiday. And think of Knick." Our bags were no sooner unpacked than we sailed out of our hotel, out past the Louvre and down the boulevard. To show the good Parisians that we had been there before and appreciated them, we struck up "La Marseillaise" in our fanciest whistle. Lovingly we stroked our wallet, brimming full with French francs. For once we were in Paris with money, a fortune in francs, a hundred dollars, almost.

Of a sudden a car pulled over, a little sport job of a Citroen.

"Good evening," said a sinuous voice reeking with accent. "Do you have a light?"

We did and we gave it to her from a nifty cigarette lighter good ole Knick had given us. We showered her with some French we had learned.

"Oh what a fine accent!" she purred.

"Well, I wouldn't say that?"

"Oh but I do. Perhaps you are, a how-you-say, linguist?"

We looked into her deep, indigo eyes and protested—very feebly.

"No mademoiselle."

"Magnifique!"

"Thank you very much."

We took another look. She was perfectly incandescent.

"Your first trip, monsieur?"

"Oui, mademoiselle."

"Quel bel accent!"

"Is it really?"

"You must let me show you Paris. I have, how-you-say, une grande passion for Americans."

It happened just like that and before you could chant "Heaven help me!" we were on our way to see Paris, Paris in the spring.

"Perhaps we have better luck if we have a drink first," she said, as we chugged along.

"Please do," we said, feeling in our pocket. The wallet was still with us.

She pulled up in front of a cafe on a side street. Like magic an attendant whisked her car off.

I followed her into "Le Chat Gris" very timidly. The head-waiter was too humble.

"Allo," he said to me in very Gallic English. He clapped his hands and a waiter appeared.

"Your regular place, ma'mselle?"

"Oui."

Down stairs we went. She laughed merrily as we descended.

Somehow I was reminded of a line in Virgil, which my pony informed me meant, "Easy is the descent to Hell."

And there we were, sitting in a little room with a chic table and soft lights and a sybaritic divan, but no chairs. The waiter pulled out his order book.

I nodded.

She ordered a QUART.

"Do you have cigarettes?" she pursued.

I didn't. So she ordered a package of fifty.

It developed that she had forgotten to eat. In Emily Post fashion we urged her to do something about it. She was willing. The waiter put her down for a seven-course special.

Suddenly she remembered it was her mother's birthday. The waiter recommended a special cake to be baked, while we waited. He put her down for one that said "mama, ma chere" in pink frosting.

After he left with our death warrant, Mimi turned to us. She said she always liked blonds. In fact, she knew one named Albert who looked something like me. We did but no longer do. Her temperature was climbing she vowed. She mused up our hair to prove it.

The waiter came in with his cargo, all but the cake. He presented us with a bill, with figures that looked as though Mr. Roosevelt were puttering around with a W.P.A. project. On the bill there was an item of 250 francs for the use of the private salon.

"You can't do that to me," we protested, after doing some mental logarithms and figuring out the bill in American addition. He looked over at us silently, and we suddenly observed he looked like a boxer—a very good one.

We paid out all the money we had—all but forty francs. Mimi suggested we give that to the waiter for a "teep." We did.

"Now purred Mimi," after he had left, "we are alone."

"You mean YOU are," we said ungallantly, slamming the door.

We walked the forty blocks to the hotel. We cursed our flare for French and the professor who taught us what twelve words we know.

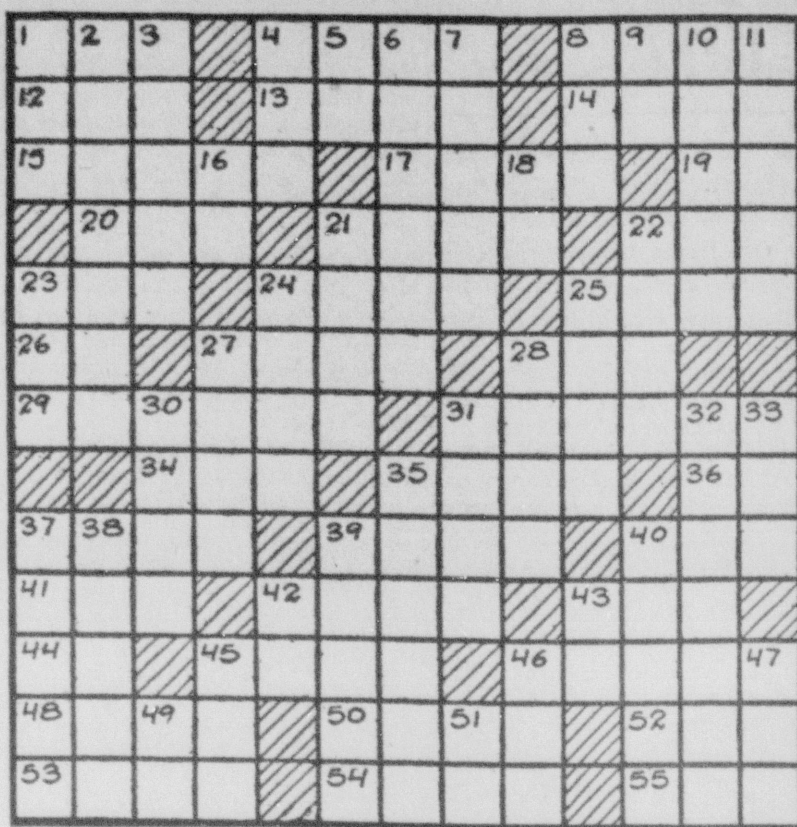

The next morning after a pawning our reporter's portable, we checked out, bound for the boat at Cherbourg.

At the Gare St. Lazare we spotted Rotarian Mimi. She had a good old Pennsylvania Babbit in tow, ready to show him the town.

We roared with Homeric laughter.

No, thank you, we are not interested in seeing Paris. Not even in the spring, if you don't mind, you tycoons of the French Line.

Patterings on the Peripatus

By PAT DANIELS

No, Oscar, Robert Burns didn't get an answer when he wrote "To A Field Mouse."

If you were one of those gentlemen who asked the newest addition into the ranks of Drag waitresses—this one is a blonde, cute—for a date Saturday night and didn't get it, don't feel all alone. By 7:30 o'clock she said that at least ten boys had asked her "What time she got off work." Later that night, you may rest assured, if you want to, that the total was much higher. But she is cute, isn't she? Fred has good taste.

The best examination question which has ever come under my nose was one on my Eco 313 final. No reflection meant to the prof, bless his soul, who I know must still be under the influence of his Christmas marriage. Any way, the question follows:

"The consumer would lose less, if without altering the conditions of free competition they surrendered freely to monopolies that increase in wealth that monopoly price would procure for the owners of monopoly. Is the statement true? Explain?"

A rose is a rose is a rose. I couldn't do it to save my life.

Glenn Appling, of the pretty Zeta midsts, had everything under control for that eco final. She had the answers to all review questions memorized. "My only trouble," Glenn explained, "was that I couldn't remember which answer went with which question."

However, she came out on top—with a B in the course.

May I add my word of admiration for the costumes of Bryson Martin and also Mr. and

Suggestions

Sir:

For some time there have been several things on which I should like to say a word, so I shall just put them all in one letter.

(1) Could not either the Texan or, preferably, the Austin American, run some sort of questions and answers column on traffic questions, perhaps in collaboration with the Austin traffic police?

For instance, I should like to know who has the right of way when the light on Congress at Eleventh Street is green for the north-south traffic: those coming north and making a left turn, or those coming out of the capitol grounds.

(2) As has already been mentioned in a Texan editorial, traffic lights are badly needed on the two dead ends of Nineteenth Street, at Lavaca and Guadalupe.

(3) On one of our recent sunny winter days I walked across that great expanse of cement in front

Mrs. George E. Hurt at the barn dance? And the others—well, they were all swell. The barn dance idea is a good one. Sel-dom is it that everyone literally "lets down their hair" and has a big time like that. Often-er would be better.

Sue Joe Roberts was one of the prize-winners, too. Somebody made this remark when her award was announced: "Gosh, she's always winning something, isn't she?" Yes, she won a prize or so on her Big Appling ability. She "let's down her hair" quite frequently—such as in "Time Stagers On"—and has a darn good time, I betcha. If more people would "let it down" more people would have a good time.

And, by the way, that was one of the only things admirable I ever found about the Big Apple—students forgot everything in their madness to "shine," etc. No, Jane, I still personally don't like to do it.

The person I had rather watch do the Big Apple was Therese Dean. She had a subtle way of shining that made it look not so much "shining" as it was being—well, just "cute," that's all. And the cutest couple I have seen "truckin' on down" is Helen Ramsey and Walter La Rue Hudlow.

Us poor people who are sometimes called columnists have come in for a little rough ribbing lately. Under the title "Publicity Hounds" of Mister Robert Engeling's current issue of the Texas Ranger, one of the verses reads:

"Also, when I read some columnists' Mumble, mumble... I don't blame him—I'd mumble mumble off, too."

HE SELLS TOBACCO TO THEM ALL

But Branch Bobbitt, like so many other independent experts, prefers Luckies...

"AT AUCTIONS in my warehouse in Farmville, North Carolina," says Mr. Branch Bobbitt, "Lucky Strike buyers know what tobacco they want and they'll keep bidding right up until they get it."

"Well—in a cigarette—it's the tobacco that counts. I know tobacco and I know what tobacco is in what cigarettes. So that's one reason I've smoked Luckies for over five years now."

Many other experts agree with Mr. Bobbitt. Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

Wedding Plans For Helen Sharp And Thomas Anderson Made

Completed plans were recently announced for the wedding of Miss Helen Sharp to Thomas D. Anderson. The wedding will be solemnized Monday, February 21, at 8 o'clock at the First Methodist Church, with the Rev. Virgil H. Fisher officiating.

A reception is planned following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Judge and Mrs. John H. Sharp, 1108 Colorado.

Miss Sharp received a bachelor of arts degree in English from the University last June. While here she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, Omicron, N.U.T.T., Ashbel Literary Society, Alpha Kappa Delta, and Alpha Lambda Delta. She was a Bluebonnet Belle in the 1933 Cactus and Duchess of Austin to the Battle of Flowers in San Antonio in 1936.

Many parties have been given and many more are planned to fete Miss Sharp before the wedding. Miss Virginia Nalle complimented Miss Sharp with a luncheon at the home of her parents at Saturday. Also, from 4 to 6 o'clock last Saturday, Misses Elizabeth and Virginia Schneider were hostesses at a tea for sixty guests in honor of Miss Sharp.

Following the Saturday afternoon tea, Mrs. Irbey Cobb gave a spinster dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the Georgian tea room, also in honor of Miss Sharp.

Dr. and Mrs. Terrence Watt, C. N. Avery, Jr., and Misses Helen and Frances Avery entertained members of the bridal party Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of C. N. Avery.

Arrangements have been made by the members of the Cotillion Club to fete Miss Sharp at a cocktail party, Saturday night at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Nalle.

About University People

Christine Stone leaves Saturday for a few days visit in Fort Worth.

Boys, What Is Your Dorm Dating Style?

Attention boys! When you call by the dormitory for your date, do you call for her according to the approved dormitory social regulations, or do you use your own roughshod technique?

The proper procedure is to ask for your date at the desk of the dormitory or give her name to the person in charge. You should sign with the attendant the name of your date, where you are going, and at what time you expect to return.

Your date must be back to her dormitory by 11 o'clock every night except Saturday.

MISS BASS GETS PH. D.

Miss Ruth Bass, assistant professor of physical education, will return early this week from State University of Iowa at Iowa City, where she went to have her doctor of philosophy degree conferred. Margaret Collier and Jean Brooker, University students, accompanied her.

STAFF MEETS TODAY

There will be a meeting of the society staff this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Journalism Building 212.

Bride-To-Be

Miss Helen Sharp, ex-student who will marry Thomas D. Anderson Monday, February 21, is being honored with many social affairs in Austin now. She was prominent in campus activities during her four years here.

Dig In Attic; Fashion Decrees Hat-Pins Again

Yes, the day of our mothers and grandmothers has returned; the hat-pin is coming into its own again in women's fashions. In New York hat-pins are all the rage, so say the fashion critics. Millinery shops here in Austin have received some chapeaux with these tiny weapons upon them, but they are as yet unpacked, which shows how new the style is. Think what delicious intrigues may be the result of this. And what swain will dare show his face if there is a pin scratch upon it? Perhaps a modern Lucrezia will sport poisoned hat-pins just for the novelty of it. But whatever your purpose, write to your mothers and grandmothers, co-eds, to ransack the attic for their old hat-pins that you may anticipate the style.

Miss Kathryn Rich Weds Corpus Man

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Rich of Austin have announced the marriage of their daughter, Kathryn, to Marcus B. Smith of Corpus Christi on Friday, January 21.

Mrs. Smith is a graduate of the University and Mr. Smith an ex-student of Texas A. and I. at Kingsville. After a wedding trip to Monterrey, Mexico, the couple is at home in Corpus Christi, where Mr. Smith is connected with the McCord Lumber Company.

COUNCIL ASKS FOR BELLES

The Inter-city Council has requested all member clubs to select Bluebonnet Belle nominees this week so that the council may take its nominee from this group. James Leach, secretary of the organization, said yesterday. The Inter-city selection will be made at the meeting in Texas Union at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, February 6, Leach said.

The Victoria Club will meet in Texas Union 815 at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night to elect a Bluebonnet Belle nominee.

No Chaperon, No Girl - In Cuba

Boy Meets Date, But Under Guard

"Imagine having a date without a chaperone tagging along!"

That was the puzzled statement of Leonard Del Monte, student in the University from Havana, Cuba. Del Monte is studying business administration and is preparing to enter business with his father who is manager of the Havana branch of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

In Havana, Del Monte said, a young Cuban must have a chaperon along when he takes a girl to a dance, a motion picture, or a night club. Boys and girls sit together when they go to a motion picture, but usually there is a chaperone near.

"However," Del Monte added, "the chaperon is often lost when entering the show."

Motion pictures are received in Havana about two months after being shown in the United States. They have English sound tracks, but under the pictures are subtitles in Spanish. Although Cubans, like the Marx brothers, the Ritz brothers, and other comedians, wild west pictures are not popular, and American love scenes are not torrid enough for the Cuban temperament, the student said.

"Everyone goes to the Yacht Club from 5 till 7:30 o'clock to talk and swim. This is called the 'pepillar.' It is usually on these occasions that dates are made. The dates start at 10:30 or 11 o'clock at night and last until about 4 o'clock in the morning," Del Monte declared.

The dates are met at the club. Sometimes a boy will escort his girl to a dance in the family car with a chaperon in the back seat, but the girls usually are driven to the dance by the chauffeur in a family car, he explained.

Because of the watchful chaperons, Cuban girls seldom smoke or drink, Del Monte said, adding: "It can be arranged, but it depends on the agility of the boy. And another thing—girls never drive automobiles there. There are no more than ten women drivers in the city."

Del Monte said American games are popular among the men, but girls do not take part in sports as much as they do in the United States.

Favorite Calhoun Recipe Given

Some dishes are fit to be set before the King—this one is fit to be set before the University President. It is "Sweet Potato Puff"; the recipe for it was contributed by President J. W. Calhoun to the Bickler School gift shop recipe file, which is a collection of favorite recipes of prominent Austin men.

Here it is:

Assemble two tablespoons of melted butter, one-fourth cup of sweet milk, the white of one egg, one teaspoon of salt, two cups of mashed sweet potatoes, and one-half teaspoon of ginger. Mix the butter, milk, and seasoning, add the potatoes, fold the egg white, and bake for forty minutes.

CLEBURNE CLUB TO ELECT

The Cleburne Club will select a Bluebonnet Belle nominee at its meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Texas Union, Barbara Kelley, president of the club, said yesterday.

Fort Sam Houston Duchess

Nina Murphey will be Duchess of Fort Sam Houston for the court of King Frivolous XXI at the coronation ball, March 1, the climaxing event of Galveston's annual Mardi Gras celebration. Miss Murphey, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. G. D. Murphey of San Antonio, is a junior in the University, majoring in English. She is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, has served in offices of her freshman and sophomore classes, is a member of Sidney Lanier Literary Society, and belongs to Bow and Arrow.

University Student Is Married To A.&M. Graduate Friday

Josephine Pendleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Willis and University student, became the bride of Mack C. Stallings, formerly of Bowie and a graduate of Texas A.&M. College, Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at St. David's Episcopal Church. The Rev. James S. Allen officiated.

Following the ceremony the south Texas, after which they will couple left for a short trip to be at 307 West Twelfth Street.

Theological Students Get Sermon Practice

Practical application has become the custom at the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, where each Tuesday night practice sermons are delivered.

This type of application has been termed the "internship of ministry" by Edward Bayless, president of the Seminary's Student Association. "The system brings results," he said "because the boy who is to conduct the service is allowed to select his own subject, prepare it without restrictions, and deliver it before visitors, faculty members, and fellow students."

After the guests leave, the faculty members and students give a criticism of the sermon delivered. Rotation in alphabetical order is followed until each has conducted one period of worship.

Many of the members of the Seminary attend the University. Faculty members include the Rev. T. W. Currie, the Rev. S. S. Joeckel, the Rev. R. F. Gribble, the Rev. George Summey, and the Rev. R. D. Campbell.

There is a special department in the school for Mexican students who expect to do religious work in the Rio Grande Valley or Mexico.

Tony Touchstone has gone to New Orleans for a visit between semesters.

Pi Beta Phi Chapter Moves Into New House Saturday

Saturday was moving day for Pi Beta Phi sorority when the girls moved into their new house at San Antonio and West Twenty-third Streets. It is a three-story brick structure with room for forty-one girls, equipped with every modern convenience, a loud speaking system for each floor, water fountains on second and third floors, three telephone lines with connections all over the house, bulletin boards, and a spacious blue chapter room on the third floor. About twenty-eight girls will occupy the house this term.

Inter-City Council To Elect Officers

New officers for the Inter-city Council will be elected at the meeting Sunday afternoon, February 6, at 2:30 o'clock in Texas Union 315. James Leach, secretary, announced yesterday. The new officers will serve until the end of the school year.

A Bluebonnet belle nominee for the council will be selected at the meeting, and plans for the second semester will be made, Leach said.

Retiring officers of the council are Jake Pickle, president; Bryson Martin, vice-president; Leach, secretary; George McClesky, treasurer; Herbert Petry, sergeant-at-arms; and Pat Daniels, publicity director.

Salad Duty Main Worry Of One Co-Op House Girl

By VIRGINIA PARTON

A blonde girl came bursting in the front door of the white, two-story house a little after 5 o'clock the other afternoon and slammed her books down on the table, jerking off her coat as she rushed into the kitchen.

"The jello will never get hard in time for dinner," she moaned.

"I forgot I have salad duty to-night! Why do we always have jello the nights I have salad duty?"

Another time the girls living in this house met in their living room just after dinner for their regular Monday night house meeting. It was supposed to last a few minutes, but it broke up at 1:30 o'clock in the morning. Determined to find out the cause of a recent discord among themselves, the girls went about it in a business-like manner and threshed out their problems themselves, although it was early morning when they finished.

Not only are the twenty-four girls who live in the two co-operative houses owned by The University of Texas learning co-operative housekeeping; they are also learning co-operative living.

At the end of the month when the books are balanced, each girl pays an equal part of the bills. Living expenses for them run from $17 per person per month during the summer month to $21 in the winter months.

There is no adult management of the houses. The supervisors are chosen from the membership of each group. It is the responsibility of these two girls to arrange the work schedules, plan the menus, buy the groceries, and see to the general welfare of the group in her house. Jane Halstead, who is a senior majoring in sociology, is co-ordinator of Unit I at 2412 Wichita, and Minnieletha Prater, who is a home economics major, is co-ordinator for Unit II at 2508 Speedway.

Every week a new schedule for the girls in her house is posted by the co-ordinator. Each girl does an hour's work each day, and in that simple manner the day's work is done without much trouble for any of the girls. The house duties, such as sweeping or scrubbing, and the cooking duties, such as doing the actual cooking, mixing salads, or washing dishes, rotate as much as possible in order that the same girl will not have the same duty every day.

Before a girl is allowed to live in one of the cooperative houses, her record is thoroughly investigated, and only the best of the applicants are chosen. Health, scholarship, and the ability to co-operate are important factors which are considered.

Very enthusiastic about the co-operative houses, the girls who live in them heartily endorse them. One of the girls said, "I assumed it would be 'cheap' living just like other places which offer room and board at very low prices. Instead, I found it exactly the opposite. I am thankful I have the privilege of living here. The girls all have high scholastic ratings; they are talented, active, colorful people; and I am proud to get to associate with them."

On September 14, 1936, Unit I of the cooperative houses was opened for the first time. It was filled immediately. There was an unanswered question in the minds of all concerned with the experiment, however, whether it would succeed or not. All that year those twelve girls worked together, trying to make their plan successful. Whether or not they did succeed in their purpose may be answered by the fact that a second co-operative house for girls was opened the first of this present school year.

Miss Dorothy Gebauer, dean of women and foster-mother to the co-operatives, says the future of the co-operatives will be in an increasing unity.

"The value of the co-operative plan of living," she said, "is not only to offer less expensive room and board to the girls, but also the opportunity to live together, to get the sense of unity in human relations which comes only after working, living, and playing together. It is a mutual dependence of the girls upon one another. Its value is in co-operative living rather than in co-operative housekeeping."

Town Wear

Bette Davis, now filming "Jezebel" for Warners, selects a three-piece suit for general town wear. The skirt of knubby black wool is topped off with a jacket of black and grey line-check and full-length coat of the same fabric. Her hat of dark grey felt has an accent of black antelope at one side.

Doom House --

the genius of a mad scientist, but they did not. Each one of the cages held a small white rat which gave its life in the biology laboratory for the cause of science. This room had been used as a storeroom for the little animals preceding their dissection. However, one of their cousins darts across the floor now and then startling a visitor as much as a prehistoric dinosaur would.

The back porch is used by the janitor to store hose, rakes, and other implements that could be murder weapons, but aren't.

Climbing the stairs gives the visitor the same sensation that going down in a sixty-mile-per-hour elevator does. A kind of central emptiness can be felt when the stairs creak under foot, especially since the bannisters rotted away some years ago. There is usually some noise upstairs that could possibly be a shutter banging against the side of the house, but not necessarily.

One room on the second floor is by far the most fascinating. The door is locked, and something has been thrust through the keyhole from the inside, entirely blocking out any chance of a peek. No amount of leaning out of the window in one room to attempt to look into the forbidden chamber will help. That has been tried. This locked room will have to remain the unsolved mystery of the old Doom House, which, by the way, would make a swell title for a mystery novel.

The rest of the house is a series of small rooms with squeaky floors and hunks of plaster which fall at the most inopportune times.

Forty Men --

Andrew Chilton, center; Nelson Puett, quarterback; Pat Toombs, center; Dudley Underwood, tackle; Don Williams, guard; and Ellis Minnis, end.

Bible, Blair Cherry, and H. C. "Bully" Gilstrap, assisted by Ney "Red" Sheridan and probably Clint Small, will coach the squad. Jack Gray and Ed Price are busy with basketball, and Clyde Littlefield is coaching the track team.

Bible once more issued his invitation to all men who want to try for the team, saying that there is a place on the squad for every man who really wants to play football and has the ability to keep up.

Dr. Dawson Talks To P. T. Staff

Percy M. Dawson, M. D., author of "The Physiology of Physical Education" and authority on exercise, will talk to the staff of the Department of Physical Training for Women Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Women's Gymnasium.

Dr. Dawson was formerly associate professor at Johns Hopkins University and at the University of Wisconsin. He has traveled and spent much time in Russia studying in his field there. He is spending the winter in Austin.

HOUSEMOTHERS TO MEET

DeWitt Reddick, associate professor of journalism, will speak at a meeting of the Housemother's Association for Men, Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in Texas Union 315. The Men's Glee Club will sing.

STYLE SHOW PLANNED

The members of the Junior Helping Hand are completing arrangements and appointing committees for their annual spring style show and tea to be given February 23.

Mail For S.R.D. Girls Gives Lone Postmistress Trouble

"Have I got a letter?" Fifty-odd times in five minutes this question is asked Miss Mary Offatt, secretary of Scottish Rite Dormitory, at mail-time in the morning. With two baskets of mail waiting to be sorted, she finds herself surrounded by eager faces, assailed by questions and exclamations:

"What, for heaven's sake, what has happened to my family? I haven't had a letter for a week and a half."

"If that guy thinks he can treat me like this and get away with it... when I remember all the letters I wrote him last summer."

"That's the fifth air-mail letter he's sent her this week. It must be pretty bad."

Miss Offatt is patient. For the most part she ignores her audience, which consists of all the girls that happen to be in the dormitory when the mail comes in at 9:30 o'clock. As quickly as possible she gets the letters sorted and placed in the proper boxes. Then anxious fingers spin the knobs of the combination locks and cadences of joy or despair indicate the presence or absence of mail.

There is one mail-box for each room in the two big groups of inside to be distributed. There are two deliveries a day, but it is the morning mail that is of most interest. The afternoon delivery contains relatively few letters.

Most of the dormitories have approximately the same system as S.R.D. Their mail does not go through the University Postoffice and the downtown postoffice is kept busy marking out "University of Texas" on envelopes addressed to the dormitories.

Blue-Eyed Girl Born To Princess Juliana

Holland Takes Noisy Holiday As Guns Boom Awaiting News

BAARN, Holland, Jan. 31.—(INS)—While all Holland listened, a salute of fifty-one cannon brought news today that Princess Juliana, running true to the form of the House of Orange-Nassau, had given birth to a girl.

There was disappointment that the signal which the Netherlands had eagerly awaited for weeks was not the crashing fusillade of 101 guns that would have meant the first male heir in half a century.

But this was quickly forgotten as the nation plunged into rejoicing that mother and child were well and the throne of Holland assured of succession.

The baby, fair-haired and blue-eyed, weighed eight pounds at birth. She will be baptized within five weeks' time.

"Her Royal Highness Princess Juliana gave birth to a splendid daughter at 9:27 o'clock (4:27 o'clock Eastern Standard time). The condition of mother and baby is very satisfactory."

The bulletin was signed by the attending physicians, Doctors De Groot and De Jongh.

No sooner had word of the event spread throughout the nation than workers declared themselves an impromptu holiday. Appeals by employers to wait until tomorrow so that adequate advance preparations could be made for a 24-hour cessation of work went unheeded.

In Amsterdam, Rotterdam, The Hague, and other large cities in addition to this tiny town adjoining the royal palace, crowds gathered in the streets, singing, shouting and parading. Business came to a complete standstill.

Labor Board Is Sanctioned

Broad Powers Given By Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(INS)—Shortly after Stanley Reed took the oath of office of an associate justice, the Supreme Court handed down two important decisions confirming broad powers of the National Labor Relations Board.

The accession of Reed, which marked a definite swing of court power to "liberal" justices, was witnessed by an audience which crowded the courtroom.

In ruling in two unanimous opinions read by veteran Justice Louis Brandeis that federal courts cannot enjoin hearings of the labor board, the high court virtually cemented other decisions upholding constitutionality of the Wagner Act.

In ruling that federal district courts cannot issue preliminary injunctions on complaints of corporations that hearings ordered by the board would cause irreparable damage, the high court sustained the procedure laid down in the National Labor Relations Act.

The case was regarded by the labor board as of great importance. An adverse decision, it said in a brief, would have nullified the legal procedure set up by Congress.

The controversy arose when the board ordered a hearing on charges that the company denied collective bargaining rights of workers at its Fore River, Mass., plant.

The company, asserting that the same issues had been before the old labor board, created under the National Recovery Act only four and a half months before, sought a temporary injunction. It contended that the new hearing would cause it great expense.

The company was joined in its suit by employees in the "representation of employees plan" alleged by union representatives to be a company union.

Justice Brandeis delivered the high court's opinion in the Bethlehem and Newport News cases.

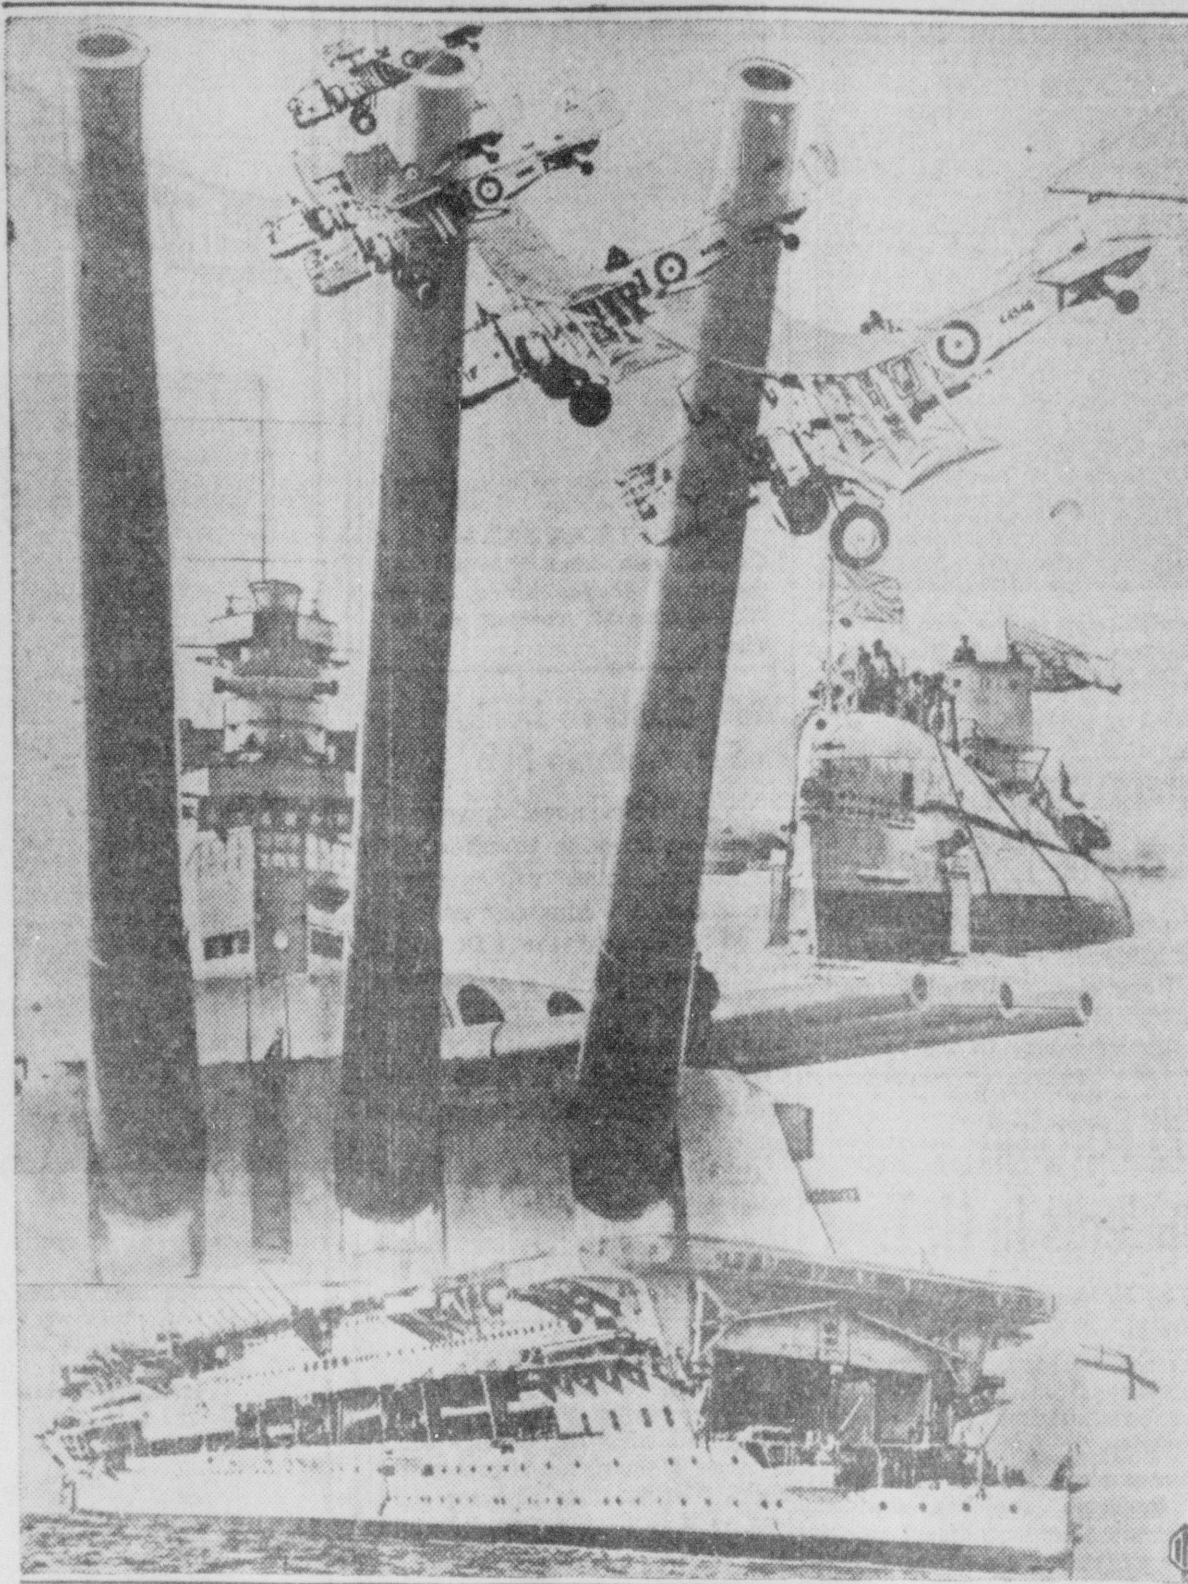

He said in the Bethlehem case that federal district courts cannot grant injunctions because Congress has vested exclusive power in the board and courts of appeals to enforce the labor act.

"The grant of that exclusive power is constitutional, because the act provided for appropriate procedure before the board and in the review by the Circuit Court of Appeals an adequate opportunity to secure judicial protection against possible illegal action on the part of the board," said the court.

"No power to enforce an order is conferred upon the board. To secure enforcement, the board must apply to a circuit court of appeals for its affirmation. And until the board's order has been affirmed by the appropriate circuit court, no penalty accrues for disobeying it."

"The independent right to apply to a circuit court of appeals to have an order set aside is conferred upon any part aggrieved by the proceeding before the board. The board is even without power to enforce obedience to its subpoena to testify or to produce evidence."

Is Your Navy Bigger Than Mine?

U. S., Britain, And France Agree To Swap News Of Japan

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(INS)—The United States, British, and French naval high command have reached a secret "gentlemen's agreement" to pool all information gathered by their respective naval intelligence departments regarding Japan's ship-building program.

It was stated on high authority today that efforts are now being made by agents of these three countries to obtain definite knowledge of Japan's naval activities. Particularly it is hoped to learn whether reports that Japan is building battleships greater than forty thousand tons are true.

The secret three power agreement, it was learned, was reached at a meeting at the foreign office attended by Captain Russell Wilson, United States naval attaché.

Wilson has been paying frequent visits to the admiralty, discussing the entire Pacific naval situation with British experts.

One aspect of these discussions is the action that the respective fleets would take in the event America or Britain or both become involved in trouble with Japan.

Leading ministers of the British cabinet were due to meet today to talk over reports about Japan's construction program.

Student Shocked By Electrified Case

Shocking Situation Number One in the life of the Library Building was uncovered by a Texan reporter recently.

While reading in the Rare Books Collection, the reporter learned against a case containing original copies of newspapers of the Seventeenth Century. The leaning was cut short by a short, for the case was electrically charged.

Returning the next day for a feature story, the reporter shocked the librarian by asking about the shocking case. "We have no electrical cases," the librarian insisted. The student was shocked again.

property and disregard of American rights by Japanese soldiers." Grew points out that Mr. Allison "was investigating an unauthorized and unwarranted entry of American property; that in company with a Japanese consular policeman and Japanese gendarmes, Allison proceeded to the American property in question; that the investigation led from the American property to property which was a former residence of Catholic priests but now occupied by Japanese soldiers; that the purpose in going to the last mentioned property was to identify if possible the persons who had without warrant entered the American property in question."

That Mr. Allison and Mr. Riggs (an American official of the Nan-king Mission), without encountering any sentry or guard, followed the Japanese gendarme inside the open gate of the compound occupied by the Japanese soldiers, that as soon as a Japanese soldier indicated that they should withdraw, they began doing so; and that the soldier slapped Mr. Allison before Mr. Allison had time to get out of the gate and while Mr. Allison was in the process of backing out of the compound."

Mr. Grew emphasized the importance of "prompt compliance" with these demands and informed the foreign office that he would remain at home all day Sunday (yesterday) awaiting "an immediate answer."

The protest was made orally on Saturday. Sunday evening the vice-minister for foreign affairs invited Grew to his official residence at 10 p.m., and there made the apology and announced those responsible would be punished.

trated by the picture and explained by the lecturer. Laboratory methods in tracing the disease and detecting its presence will be explained fully.

Several scenes of the terrible ravages of syphilis will be shown in order to impress the audience of its dangers, Dr. Kratz said. Microphotographs of the spirochete, the corkscrew syphilis organism, in action will be shown on the screen.

The problem of national control of the disease will be discussed by the film. Benefits of public health programs against syphilis are demonstrated by several scenes.

Methods of and facilities for the cure of the disease in all stages will be shown. These are included to show the public that syphilis can be cured and in order to warn people against incorrect treatment, Dr. Kratz said.

An explanation finally came from a janitor who said the electrification had been only temporary, due to a short in the lighting system.

Cold Turning To South, East

West, Middle West Have Zero Weather

The West and Middle West Monday shivered in zero and sub-zero temperatures as the winter's sharpest cold wave moved in, sweeping toward the east and south, International News Service reported.

At Chicago, the mercury touched zero in unofficial readings. Northern Iowa temperatures tumbled to 16 below, with 6 below zero, a record for the winter, at Des Moines.

Below zero temperatures prevailed in Colorado, Montana and Wyoming, with more snow and gale-like winds predicted. Havre, Mont., thermometers showed 28 below; Cheyenne, 10 below, and Denver, 3 below.

Severe cold gripped Indiana, where temperatures fell from 50 above Sunday to 8 degrees at 7 o'clock Monday morning. Relief was expected Tuesday.

Kansas City touched a winter low at 2 above. It was 6 above at St. Louis. Springfield, Ill., registered zero.

In Michigan the second blizzard within a week wrecked a factory, caused serious ice jams, isolated scores of villages and drove temperatures below zero. A bowling pin factory at Big Bay was wrecked when two huge smokestacks toppled on it. It was seven below zero at Marquette, near which city seventy-five lumberjacks were marooned when snow piled high around their camp. Many roads were impassable.

Warm weather prevailed over most of the East, where the cold wave was expected to arrive Monday night. Washington basked in a 60-degree climate, with 55 at New York, recording the warmest day of the year.

Rain was predicted in the Los Angeles area, ending a threat of frost which had imperiled crops. A gale was blowing up off the Southern California coast. Storm signals flew from Los Angeles Harbor to Cape Flattery.

Ice and sleet made motoring hazardous at Louisville and throughout much of Ohio. Streets were coated at Columbus and Cleveland.

handled by putting in the proper mail-box a printed slip announcing the arrival and asking its owner to call at the desk for it. The favorite question, says Miss Offatt, repeated throughout the year in spite of constant refusals, is "May I get my roommate's package?" This type of mail is delivered to no one but the addressee.

At the Woman's Building, which was designed before anyone had thought of putting tiers of glistening glass-and-chromium, combination-locked mail-boxes in a dormitory, the mail is distributed in a simpler fashion. Letters, papers, magazines, and all are spread out on a table in the second-floor hall and each girl picks hers up as she goes by.

Williams Play Is In Rehearsal

'Night Must Fall' Is Austin High Play

"Night Must Fall," a play which has been revealed to be taut in homicidal psychosis, popularized on the screen by Robert Montgomery, will be the third dramatic offering of the current season by the Red Dragon Players, Austin High School drama group. The play, which was written by Emyln Williams, will be presented by the group at Austin High School on February 10 and 11.

The play first enjoyed a prosperous season in London and one later in New York with Anglo-Welsh Mr. Williams in the personally composed role of Danny, the egocentric killer. Robert Montgomery played the role on the screen last season in a new departure in characterization for him. Weimer Stratton, brother of Betty Lois Stratton, University student, has the role of Danny in the Red Dragon play.

Gloria Jane Warner has the part of Mrs. Bramson, the part which was played by Dame May Whitty on both London and Gotham stages and in the motion picture. Frances Gale Jones plays Olivia Graye, the part essayed by Rosalind Russell in the screen version. The part of Dora, the servant girl, acted by Merle Tottenham on the screen, is played by Lillian Schwartzberg in the high school presentation.

Others in the cast are Helen Ransom, Doris Gene Peterson, George Thomas, and Wallace Shropshire.

The scene of the play is sixteen miles from London in the sinister atmosphere of Epping Forest where Danny, a page-boy at Tallboys Tavern, buries the body of Mrs. Chalfont, whom he has murdered. The body is decapitated, Danny carrying the head about in his hatbox. Danny secures a job as houseboy on the estate of Mrs. Bramson through the charm of his Irish blarney, after having buried the nude torso of the murdered woman across the road from her estate which is surrounded by the gloomy wood. Danny's egocentric and murderous career comes to an end only after he has murdered his benefactress.

James R. Burton, director of the play, believes "Night Must Fall" to be the most ambitious dramatic project his high school charges have assumed.

High Court Gets Interstate Appeal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(INS)—Movie producers and exhibitors today won an appeal to the Supreme Court for review of a Texas Federal Court order enjoining contracts on the ground of violation of the anti-trust laws.

In two separate cases the Interstate Theater Circuit and others, owners of movie houses, and the major Hollywood producers had appealed.

The government charged the Interstate Theater Circuit and other producers, including Texas Consolidated Theaters, Karl Hobbittselle, and R. J. O'Donnell, conspired to monopolize the first-run movie business in Texas and New Mexico.

T.C.U. Freshman Works At Four Jobs

Charlton McKinney, a freshman at T.C.U., believes that all work and no play is a good way to get a college education.

He works at four different jobs, meanwhile attending classes. His first task begins at 6:30 o'clock in the morning, when he acts as waiter in a boarding house. Classes occupy his time then from 8 until 1 o'clock.

As soon as he gets out of class, he starts on his N.Y.A. job, keeping at it until 5 o'clock. Taking little time to eat dinner, Charlton starts "hopping cars" at 5:30 o'clock at a campus drug store. Quitting time is usually 11 o'clock.

The other job is an odd one. He devotes all his "spare" time to it, taking orders for a Fort Worth manufacturer of coveralls.

FIRST SEMESTER STUDENTS who have not already done so are due to pay the second half of their registration fee. It may be paid between now and Monday, February 7, without penalty. If paid on February 8 or 9, the penalty will be 2 semester hours of credit; if paid on February 10 or 11, the penalty will be 3 semester hours; and if paid thereafter, it will be 4 semester hours. Students will fill out a card in the Auditor's Office and will present it and their receipt for the first semester fees to the cashier. For Texas residents the amount is $25. This is not registration but simply the paying of the second half of the registration fee, and it is therefore permissible for one student to pay for another student.

Handy Dancers

NICE HAND-WORK.—Simkie, center, star in her own right in Shan-Kar's Ballet, and two Hindu sisters, Zohra and Uzza, in a sequence of the ballet program to be given in Hogg Memorial Auditorium Friday night.

Shan-Kar And Dancers To Hand Out Hindu Ballet

ACCIDENTAL conceptions of the dance will be blasted when Shan-Kar and his troupe of fifteen Hindu dancers present a full program of exotic dances of the East in Hogg Memorial Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Friday night. The West associates dancing with the feet; the Hindu considers them only supplementary to the hands in the interpretation of the dance.

Shan-Kar and his troop will literally dance with their hands.

Shan-Kar's "dance dramas" will be red-blooded compositions complete with the leaping mechanizations of the traditional ballet, but these will be accented with bodily contortions bordering on the barbaric. In his repertoire, Shan-Kar has incorporated the native Hindu gesture art, considered by Hindus to be an idealized form closely related to the drama.

HAND LANGUAGE

The traditional dance of the Hindu shows the activity of divine figures and epic heroes, or expounds emotional themes. Shan-Kar has developed gesture into a highly cultivated, explicit language in which meaning is conveyed by every movement of the head or hands. Each "hand" has its name and origin, according to the suggestive movement of the fingers. Each movement has infinite variations or attitudes called "mudras."

Included in the group of twelve dances will be 108 coordinations of hand movements, composing two modes of rhythm or types of dance for ceremonial occasions. Every gesture has an age-old meaning; the hands in a circle denote love; the forefinger clinched with the thumb in the palm, signifies the god of love; and the joined palms express welcome.

BASIS IN TRILOGY

Shan-Kar impersonates "Kama Deva," the god of love, and creates a complete dance drama around an epic incident in the reign of "Shiva," the destroyer. All dances are based on three elements, religion, mythology, and folklore.

A corps of Hindu magicians will provide the essentially subtle accompaniment—obtaining percussive effects with a battery of fifteen drums, serpent horns, and a reed and stringed instruments.

Reserved seats for the Austin performance are $1; general admission is 50 cents; 25 cents for blanket tax holders. Tickets are on sale at the Texas Union and the J. R. Reed Music Company.

BASKIN'S COUSIN KILLED

Roy Baskin, student in the University, returned Monday morning from his home in Cameron, where he was called after the death of his cousin, Robert Young (Red) Baskin. Mr. Baskin died Sunday after being injured in an automobile crash near Huntsville Saturday night.

100 Foreign Students In U. T.

The University of Texas is well represented by students from all over the world, having over nine thousand from the States and over one hundred from Foreign Countries.

Texas alone has more than seven thousand students enrolled while the total enrollment of the other states is more than eighteen hundred. Besides Texas, Oklahoma sends the most students, having over two hundred enrolled. The other states having more than one hundred are: Arkansas, 112; Illinois, 110; Louisiana, 168; and Missouri, 128. The states that send the least number of students are Delaware, Rhode Island, and Vermont, each having two students enrolled. In the School of Medicine there are more than three hundred students, Texas leading the number enrolled and Arkansas second, having six.

Of the foreign countries, fifty-six students come from Mexico and twenty-seven from Canada. The students hail from forty-eight States and the District of Columbia five territories and possessions and twenty-two foreign countries.

Guide Books Shown For Six States

Six volumes of the American Guide Series, compiled by the Federal Writer's Project of the Public Works Administration, were placed on exhibit in the loan department of the University Library Friday.

The volumes are on Idaho, Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island, and Washington, D. C. Some were published by the Government Printing Office, others by the Houghton-Mifflin Company.

More than mere travelers' guides the books attempt to give an insight into the history, geography, art, literature, music, public life, and general character of the people and the country. They are illustrated with numerous pictures and maps. They describe places of tourist interest, show courses of sightseeing tours, and describe highways.

Dick and Fay Starley spent the week-end in San Antonio with a friend.

Vicki Baum To Lecture In San Antonio Feb. 2

Vicki Baum, novelist, who attracted nation-wide attention with her "Grand Hotel," will lecture in San Antonio Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the San Pedro Playhouse. Miss Baum is this season's sixth Town Hall attraction. The subject of her talk will be "Why Be Afraid?" a challenge to the fear complex within every person.

Other successful novels which Miss Baum has written are "And Life Goes On," "Falling Star," "Men Never Know," and more recently, "Sing, Sister, Sing."

ALECS MEET TONIGHT

The Sons of Alex will meet in the Engineering Building immediately following the picture show in Hogg Memorial Auditorium tonight. The meeting is being held late so that members may attend the show.
