VICTORY RALLY PLANNED TONIGHT

Bevo Leads Students In Pep Display on Eve Of Steers' Departure

War will be declared by the student body of The University of Texas at a rally in Gregory Gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock tonight, on the undefeated gridiron cohorts of Texas Christian University, preparatory to a clash of the opposing armies in Fort Worth at 2:30 o'clock Armistice Day afternoon. The pep fest will be a shouting sendoff for the Orange army that leaves for the Purple citadel at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

The murderously tossing longhorns of Bevo II, half-ton mascot whose dangerous strength symbolizes the spirit of the Longhorn eleven, which has rallied to the Orange and White standard so well that the championship of the Southwest Conference has been brought within striking distance, will prance proudly at the rally tonight, defiance for the Longhorn enemy gleaming from his eyes.

Bevo to Lead
He will lead the parade from Scottish Rite Dormitory, when

"Bevo II expects the girls of S. R. D. to meet him in front of that dormitory at 7 o'clock tonight, and to go along with the parade of the Longhorn Band, the Cowboys, and the freshmen to the rally slated for 7:30 o'clock tonight in Gregory Gym," Jack Boyett, head yell leader, said last night.

"And one of the best tap dancers on the vaudeville stage of the country will appear at that rally tonight," Boyett went on. "She is Frances King, member of Ewen Hall's stage show that is performing at the Paramount Theater from today until Friday."

"Her dancing," he said, "will scorch the Frogs' legs the Longhorn team will gather at Fort Worth Friday, and Friday night we'll have frogs' legs for a victory supper." Ewen Hall, director of the Paramount show, an ex-student of the University, has offered Miss King's services for the rally through the cooperation of Irwin Waite, manager of the Paramount Theater.

sturdy fanfares from the shining instruments of the Longhorn Band will announce to North Austin that the great rally is about to begin. Then, beneath the vast-arched roof of Gregory Gym will thunder the voice of a crowd of 5,000 students, asking for victory.

After the Cowboys, the freshmen, and the Longhorn Band have marched into the gymnasium, Jack Boyett will take the rally over with several yells, after which a speaker, whose name has not yet been announced, will talk about the Armistice Day football war, expressing the hope of his listeners that the Frogs will be forced to sue for peace.

Ewen Hall Sings
Next, members of the Paramount stage band of Ewen Hall, ex-student of the University, will

Discipline Group Penalizes Three For Dishonesty

Freshman Charged With Plagiarism Pleads Ignorance

The first cases of scholastic dishonesty for the year were brought before the committee on discipline Saturday when two students were charged with helping each other on a quiz and another was charged with plagiarism, V. I. Moore, dean of student life, stated Tuesday. The student charged with plagiarism was a freshman. All three students were found guilty. Penalties were assessed accordingly, Dean Moore reported.

The freshman plead ignorance of the meaning of the word plagiarism and was informed that the charge was brought for copying a theme and handing it in as his own work. Also he was told that "changing an occasional word or phrase doesn't make the expression the student's own."

Moore Warns Students
In the case of one student getting aid from another on a quiz, the committee pointed out the fact that a student who gives aid is considered as guilty as the one who receives it, and is subject to the same penalty. Dean Moore said that it was similar to the case where a person gave someone his gun to commit suicide; the owner of the gun was just as responsible as the person he gave it to.

These cases are brought to notice for the students at this early hour in hopes that it will clear up the situation that is undoubtedly not clear pertaining to rules of dishonesty. I suggest that all students read page 193 of the General Information catalogue, and never fail to practice these rules," he said.

New Members Named By Sigma Delta Chi

Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity for men, completed its election of new members at a meeting Tuesday night. Ray Bonta, president, announced yesterday. New members will be announced upon their notification and acceptance, Bonta said.

The holding of a joint steak fry with Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic fraternity for women, and the raising of funds for the year's program were discussed at the meeting. Bonta read a letter from national headquarters urging the planning of an official program for the year.

Band of University Praised by Parker

Charles Parker of Houston, former member of Baylor University faculty, and now operating several music houses under his own name, was a visitor on the campus Tuesday.

"You have a mighty good band not to have any better place to practice than you have," he said, speaking to "Red" Sheppard, assistant director of the Longhorn Band, and several of the other band members. "You ought to have better quarters," he declared.

300 Tickets Sold For Game Friday

"Approximately three hundred student tickets have been sold for the T. C. U.-Texas football game," Miss Alice Archer, secretary of the athletic association, said Tuesday.

Your Bit Toward a Championship

(AN EDITORIAL)

The Longhorns are about to face their greatest test of the year. Each man on the football team is spending three long hours each afternoon perfecting his play and studying the T. C. U. formations, and it appears that the student body should be anxious to show their spirit by attending the rally in full strength.

Some say that the rally has very little effect on the outcome of the game. But glance back over the past two years and compare the spirit and fire that the team showed on the football field with the spirit that was shown at the rally preceding the game. For the past two weeks the rally has been pitifully weak in attendance, and for the past two weeks the Longhorns have displayed a brand of football that has caused the coaches much worry. The two largest rallies during the past two years, that before the S. M. U. and Rice games, was followed by the greatest display of football that any University of Texas team has ever shown. Each student would like to feel that he or she had a small share in bringing another Southwest Conference championship to the University.

Many of the students are faced with fraternity meetings tonight. These groups have the interest of the University at heart and it is believed that they will arrange to have their meetings before dinner or after the rally. Some few fraternities may feel that their group will not be missed if they do not attend the rally. Every man and woman that can possibly be present will add just that much toward another championship for the Longhorns. Let's show these fellows, the hardest working group on the campus during the past three months that the student body is really supporting every move that they make. T. C. U. and the entire city of Fort Worth are giving the Frogs everything they ask for in order to help them win this game. All the Texas football men are asking for is a big and enthusiastic turnout for the rally tonight. Certainly we can fulfill this small request.

Mathews to Take Club Women Hear Red Cross Roll Benedict Speak

Contributions Aid Victims Or National Crises

E. J. Mathews, registrar of the University, is roll call chairman for the University in the Red Cross Roll Call which will last from Saturday, November 12, to Thursday, November 24. The Rev. F. L. Jewett, instructor in Bible, is roll call chairman for the city and county.

The American Red Cross has met the demands upon its services during the past year of world-wide economic turmoil, just as it did in the greatest war crisis. Victims of unemployment, drought, flood, tornado, and other major causes of distress have benefited by its aid. This year the overwhelming demands make it imperative that the Red Cross have greatly increased support.

Membership fee is $1 but a contribution in addition is earnestly requested by this organization to aid the millions of destitute people.

Dr. Blanton to Arrange Education Program

President H. Y. Benedict left Tuesday for Corpus Christi where he will speak today at the annual meeting of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. His subject will be "Pressing Problems of Higher Education in Texas."

From Corpus Christi, the President will go to Houston to preside over the session of the Texas Academy of Science, of which he is president.

Friday night he will speak at a meeting of the academy, explaining the plans for the W. J. McDonald Astronomical Observatory of the University.

Dr. Annie Webb Blanton, associate professor of educational administration, will also attend the convention and will have charge of the program of education.

The convention opened Monday and will extend through Friday.

Test Question Yet Undecided

Faculty Withholds Action On Controversy

No decision was reached concerning the controversy over the requirement of comprehensive senior examinations at the meeting of the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences Tuesday, Dr. L. L. Click, assistant dean, reported yesterday. An entire period was spent in debating that question. No other changes in the University catalogue were taken up.

A committee report was postponed for further consideration in the next meeting of the faculty to be held at an early date, Dr. Click stated.

Williams to Talk On Germ Theory

Bacteriologist to Discuss Infectious Diseases

"The Development of the Germ Theory of Disease" will be the subject on which Dr. O. B. Williams, associate professor of bacteriology, will speak today at 5 o'clock in Garrison Hall auditorium, Dr. O. D. Weeks, chairman of the public lectures committee, announced. This will be the third public lecture delivered by Dr. Williams this fall.

"The lecture will be limited to infectious diseases, that is, those transmitted into the body by the low forms of plant or animal life," Dr. Williams said. "The various theories which have been held in the past as to the origin of this type of disease will be discussed, and the known facts at the present time explained, together with a brief summary of the steps leading up to our present knowledge."

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (INS)—Riding the crest of a Democratic landslide, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been elected to the presidency by what may prove record-breaking figures in American elections.

Only Maine and Vermont had definitely gone for President Hoover up to a late hour tonight. Elsewhere, Gov. Roosevelt had either won, was leading, or was staging a close race with his Republican rival.

On the basis of returns tabulated up to 11 p.m., it seemed certain that Roosevelt has carried or will carry upward of forty states, and have an electoral vote that will closely approximate the record-breaking Hoover total of 444 four years ago.

7,000,000 Plurality
Roosevelt's popular plurality was variously estimated tonight at from 7,000,000 to 9,000,000, in a total of some 40,000,000.

As indicated by the returns and concessions, the following states appear in the Roosevelt column: Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 9; Florida, 7; Georgia, 12; Louisiana, 10; Mississippi, 9; North Carolina, 13; South Carolina, 8; Texas, 23; Virginia, 11; Oklahoma, 11; Missouri, 15; Kentucky, 11; Tennessee, 11; West Virginia, 8; Maryland, 8; New York 47; Massachusetts, 17; Illinois, 29; Indiana, 14; Ohio, 26; Minnesota, 11; New Mexico, 3; South Dakota,

'Best Wishes,' Says Hoover

PALO ALTO, CALIF., Nov. 8.—(INS)—"I congratulate you on the opportunity that has come to you to be of service to the country and I wish for you the most successful administration."

President Hoover in a telegram to Governor Roosevelt tonight thus conceded the Democratic candidate's election.

"In the common purpose of all of us," the President continued, "I shall dedicate myself to every possible service."

The announcement was made at 9:40 P. M. Pacific Coast time from the Washington office of the Republican National Committee.

IN WHICH the Reeler sits back and lets the customers do the work:

Dactah Johan Gilbert, attending physician of the Longhorn football squad: "I'm hoping for the best and I'm sure the boys will do their best. I'm sure there will be no doubt as to the final score if the Longhorns are in the same physical and mental condition that they were in the Rice game."

Gill DeWitt, a member of the Texas yelling squad: "It's going to be the toughest game in the Southwest this year. The deciding points for the winning team will come from the kicking toes of 'Ox' Blanton or Tiner. Three points will be the margin of victory."

William L. McGill: "Dear Iksome Irving: Answering your forty-fourth request, I submit (a) the contribution which I probably should make to your column: "Armistice Day is a very inappropriate occasion for an affair such as this will be. Between Horned Steers and Horned Frogs, I choose the beef. Good luck to Clyde and the boys."

(b) The contribution which I probably should like to make to your column: "This prophesying business is a trifle idiotic but possibly in keeping with the rest of the contents of a certain column I might name. Even more seriously, however, between horned cattle and Horned Frogs, (or horned sports writers), I'll take the bold bovines."

Catherine Neal, president of the Orange Neals: "With All-American Harrison Stafford in the backfield we're bound to win!"

Clyde Littlefield, head coach of your Larruping Longhorns: "At the start of the season I stated that T. C. U. has one of the strongest teams in the Southwest. I still adhere to that statement. Not only have the Frogs an advantage over our boys in an easier schedule, but they have been pointing especially for this game. If our players place themselves in the proper frame of mind, they will play well."

Dick West, member in good standing of the Texan sports staff: "A contest between two great clubs, with Texas holding a slight advantage because of an offense that has met and proved successful over such fine teams as Rice and Oklahoma."

Bill Smith, good-looking Longhorn center: "In my opinion Texas will win by two touchdowns. I believe that we will handle their line better than most persons think."

Willie Mae Todner, scandal-gatherer and journalism major: "I think Texas will win by one touchdown. If they don't, my face will be green!"

Ernie Koy Will Be Certain Starter

By FRED SCHAFFNER
Texas Sports Staff

"Gig a Frog" is the cry of every Varsity football candidate as Clyde Littlefield, Bill James, and Marty Karow put them through their paces in preparation for the crucial tilt against the Horned Frogs of T. C. U. in Fort Worth Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Co-captain Ernie Koy seems to be in fairly good shape, and it is almost a cinch that he will start against the Frogs. He suffered a severe injury to his back in the Rice game, but the aggravated member has responded nicely to treatment. His passing and all-round brilliance is being counted upon by the Texas coaching staff to bring victory to the Steer corral.

Drill Secretly
Tuesday's workout was behind closed doors, and the practices for the remainder of the week will also be secret. The coaches are taking no chances of having their new plays scouted. The team will take a long workout Wednesday afternoon, brushing up on a defense designed to stop Spearman and Oliver. Purple scoring threats, and will take a light workout Thursday afternoon in the T. C. U. Stadium.

The rumor is that Coach Francis Schmidt has saved his best offensive plays for the Texas game, and that the Frogs are set to give the Steers a sound drubbing. The great Christian line is ready for the bone-crushing line plunges of the mighty Koy, the off-tackle smashes of the great Stafford, and the phenomenal broken-field sprints of Bohn Hilliard.

On the other hand, the Bovines are straining at the leash to smear the sensational runs of Oliver and Spearman. The morale of the team is excellent, and with the driving ability of Captains Cook and Koy, the Longhorns are just as confident that they will beat the Frogs.

Thrilling Battle Expected
The game promises to be fast, with fakes and trick plays galore. Every previous T. C. U.-Texas game has been a thriller, and this year's affair should be the gem of all the games the two aggregations have played.

Such stars as Koy, Cook, Blanton, Stafford, Clewis, Moody, Bibby, Braly, Burr, Price, Furr, and Dubose will compete against Vaught, Boswell, Salkeld, Pruitt, Oliver, Townsend, Spearman, Howell, Evans and Dennis for the last time in the Southwest Conference. About twenty seniors will be in the starting lineups, and they will be battling to put over a victory.

John Davenport and Heber Stone spent the week-end in Brenham.

Maurine Lee visited her parents in Edna over the week-end.

Mary Golden went to Temple for the week-end.

Steer-Frog Go Headlines Week

The tentative championship of the Southwest Conference will be decided Friday when the University of Texas Longhorns invade Fort Worth to meet the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University. Both teams have perfect conference records, boasting three victories against no defeats, but early season games saw the Frogs tied in an intersectional contest by Louisiana State and the Orange and White defeated by Centenary.

Among those who will be fighting before the skeptical eyes of the critics in an effort to gain all-conference recognition will be Vaught, Spearman, Townsend, and Bosell of T. C. U. and Earle, Blanton, Cook, Stafford, Koy, and Hilliard of Texas.

The Arkansas-Southern Methodist tilt in Dallas Saturday will be a toss-up. The Ponies were held to a scoreless tie by the Aggies last week, and do not seem to have their offense clicking yet. Arkansas played an inspired game against Rice in Fayetteville, holding the powerful Owls to a bare 12-7 score. The Dallas game this week will bring together two good passing teams in the Hogs and Ponies, both Thimmes' and Morrison's crews having shown streaks of brilliance in their aerial games.

Rice Meets Aggies
The Aggies tangle with the Rice Birds in College Station for the headlines in the southern part of the State. The Owls have been in a football stupor since the crushing defeat by Texas a few weeks ago, but have managed to win their games in an unimpressive fashion. The Aggies, goals of the injury bugaboo, have been engaging in an uphill fight all season, but will give the Owls plenty of trouble on Kyle Field.

Baylor's Golden Bears journey to Lubbock this week to meet Pete Cawthon's high flying Texas Tech Matadors. The latter team, flushed by victories over Southern Methodist and Notre Dame B, are the favorites to down Jennings' team, and will be to more advantage playing in Lubbock.

Little Theater Will Offer O'Neill Play

"Beyond the Horizon," Eugene O'Neill's play, will be the next presentation of the Austin Little Theater," James H. Parke, director of the Little Theater and instructor in English in the University, said Tuesday.

claim that it's the best of O'Neill's many successes. Audiences have expressed approval of it without exception," he stated.

The last play given by Little Theater was "Beggars on Horseback," which was pronounced a success by Austin audiences. It is a sophisticated comedy with a fast musical movement. In contrast, "Beyond the Horizon" is a serious dramatic play.

FRANKLY FASHIONABLE

By MARY LEE WESTON

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The little woolen frock is the darling of the dressmakers this season, foretelling a cold winter ahead.

American women, accustomed to well-heated houses and apartments, are generally amazed on their first trip abroad, to find so much wool at the chic couturiers. But after one winter spent in any of the various great capitals, they easily understand the reason why. Cozy and comfy wool helps to combat the prevalent dampness and general lack of furnaces on this side of the water, and in fact, it almost a necessity.

Soft linings in any one of the new plain colors is mostly used. There are some stunning new varieties this season, some crinkly and some plain, but the nubby ones seem to be the favorites. Fancy tweed mixtures too, look smart in the lightest dress quality that can be found. Angora materials are also popular for the little woolen dress, often carried out in more than one shade. A good combination comes in powder-blue and black, also salmon and chocolate-brown.

Simple chic is the rule for the little wool dress, combined with original trim, if any. Long sleeves are the best suggestion, coming from under cap lengths formed into flat fur jumpers, but short ones with a simple turnover cuff look youthful when the woolen frock is merely intended as a separate item.

The neckline is another interesting point in simplicity, short front Vs being outlined by a narrow strip of the material on the cross.

Michelle shows a smart woolen frock in chypre with leather trimmings of the same shade at the elbow, about the waist and at the end of the short neck. There is also a sharp patch pocket on the right side.

Presbyterian Class Will Sponsor Picnic

Carolyn Kampmann of Scottish Rite Dormitory spent the week-end at her home in San Antonio.

New Theta Xi House Nearing Completion

Construction work on the new Theta Xi house is progressing rapidly, Emory B. Camp, president of the chapter, said Tuesday. The foundation and walls of the building are nearing completion, and some work on the rooms has been begun. Camp states that the contractor for the structure estimates that the house will be ready for occupation on or about the first of the year.

The house, which is located at Rio Grande and Twenty-eighth streets, is to be a frame house, built in early American style, in keeping with the fact that the fraternity was established during the Civil War.

The house, when completed, will consist of a foyer, opening into a living room, a card room, dining room, downstairs guest room and bath, nine upstairs study rooms, and sleeping accommodations for 22 men.

T. C. U. Looking for Bevo

Students, Bevo II needs your help. To get to Fort Worth for the T. C. U.-Texas football game, he needs transportation funds. A special car will be required to transport the big steer, and students have been asked to contribute a dime or a dollar toward the cost.

Now that we have our mascot, let's make good use of him. Bevo should be present at the T. C. U. game. The Longhorns need their mascot and so do the rooters. He stands for the fighting, staunch Texas spirit. Bevo MUST be at that game.

Friends of the University were kind enough to present us with the mascot, and it's up to us to see that he attends all the football contests and that he is properly taken care of. The Army mule is always at the games that the West Point cadets engage in. Those cadets care for that mule with a deep devotion. They regard him as a part of their school. For the mule to be absent from one of their football games would be unthinkable to them.

The same thing should apply to the University of Texas students and their longhorn steer mascot—Bevo II. Bevo should become a tradition. Steers of his type are rapidly becoming extinct. Soon there will be no more longhorns in this part of the country. We must give good care to our mascot. We must make him a center of a tradition, as well as known as the Army mule or the Yale bulldog.

So pitch in, students, and let's be sure that old Bevo does not miss that Fort Worth game.

Encouraging Reports

A clipping from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reads, "For the first time in 61 years, Ohio Northern University is going to hold a college dance on October 29, commemorating a long struggle by students against the ban of college dancing."

Such articles cause the student body at the University to sit back and thank the officials of this University of the first rank for the position that they have taken on social affairs at the University. There are few events on the campus where students can gather and meet each other on equal basis as the Saturday night dance held in the gymnasium. It is only regrettable that some of the new students feel a backwardness about attending these dances. Only once or twice a year student cases present themselves before the discipline committee for misconduct at the dances, and the student guilty of such misbehavior is dealt with in a sufficiently severe manner to keep the number of such reports at a very low mark.

Students appreciate the relative amount of freedom given them here in comparison with other schools over the State, and it is believed that they show this appreciation by an unusually high percentage of rule-abiding students. There is one privilege that the students do not have that they would thank the officials for it granted—the privilege of playing tennis on Sunday afternoons. It is understood that the advisory committee will consider the matter in their meeting this week, and if favorable to that body, the tennis question will be presented to the Board of Regents in their coming meeting of November 23. If the faculty advisors and Regents would see fit to consider this matter, the students would have a kind feeling in their hearts for both groups.

Time for an Inventory

The usual ineligibility of a number of men on the freshman football squad calls attention to the possibility that a large percentage of students, and of new students in particular, have no idea of how they are progressing scholastically. Half of the first semester has passed and tests are now being given for the express purpose of checking up on academic standing. It is unfortunate that the larger classes, those which permit the smallest amount of individual attention from the instructors, are generally classes for first and second year students. There are no instructors, however, who are not willing to give a large amount of their time outside class hours to conference periods with students. Many instructors hold regularly scheduled conferences, but students who are not in these classes should avail themselves of opportunities to confer with their professors. It is hard for many students to realize that they can actually gain benefits from such associations outside class hours, yet they have only to try the idea to be convinced. Instructors are elected to the faculty not only on account of their special attainments, but in consideration of their personalities and congeniality as well.

So, freshmen, it is a good idea to take advantage of this season to get around and really get acquainted with your professor. Find out how you're doing, and if anything's wrong, what it is. If you wait any longer, you won't have much chance of helping yourself, but if you will wake up to your difficulties now, no matter how low your grade might be, you have a pretty fair chance of keeping out of the list of busters. Get congenial with your instructor; ask him about his golf score and what he thinks of the election. You won't pull the wool over his eyes, but you might pull yourself out of a bad rut.

Nothing to Say

It is significant to note that, in the face of the storm of criticism which has been directed at the Students' Assembly because of its choice of appointees to the Board of Publications, not one member of the assembly has had anything to say about it in the student forum.

Now don't get the wrong impression! They're not sitting back calmly, secure in the righteous strength of their deeds. They know they were caught red-handed; and they are saying nothing because there is nothing that they can say that wouldn't expose them to further ridicule.

You must understand, of course, that not all members of the assembly were in on the deal. There are a few of them who try to do their unselfish best, but they are in such a minority that they are powerless.

It is not hard to understand why the government of the nation is so overrun with graft and political trickery when one sees such examples of selfish scheming among the youth of the nation.

SEEKERS OF KNOWLEDGE

The man who spends his time in the pursuit of knowledge seems to be held in low esteem around here. He is not regarded as a real college student at all. He does not go to rugby games; he does not join any societies or go to any dances; he does not cry "rah, rah" when his superiors tell him to. Books, lectures, or the laboratory occupy his time, and he peers at the printed word far into the night.

Of course, if he has eyes or ears for anything outside his work, he is not long left in peace. He is urged to get out and dance; to be a sport and come and listen to someone who will tell him to be a sport; to go to meetings and vote for people whom he does not know; to emancipate his individuality from the tyranny of books and submerge it in the beneficent rule of alleged student leaders. The poor individual is regarded as an incomplete man if he does not follow the general example of his fellows.

Revolutionary as the idea may be, we nevertheless think that the scholar has a place at college. For one thing, there is an extensive library of which he may make use. There are intelligent professors who very likely know more than they dare reveal in lectures. And in his defense it may be argued that the scholar is not very much of a nuisance, he makes little noise and takes up little room, and he provides a passive target for those who wish to bandy about the word "apathy."

It can be further said that the scholar even does some good. He may acquire enough learning to later become a professor and thus ensure the continuance of universities. He may come across a new twig of the tree of knowledge. He may write a great book, or become a great specialist. And the world may be the better for him, though he has never grown hoarse at an intercollegiate struggle or made his head ache at an undergraduate social evening.

As the scholar is a one-sided man, lacking many of the more popular accomplishments, he will naturally come in for much criticism. But the world can do with an occasional one-sided man. They help life to have more meaning for the others, they add to our store of achievements and hopes. It is well not to have too many of them, but the universities must be careful that they do not abolish them altogether. Scholars should be ranked somewhere near athletes, executives, debaters, and the like, when we consider those things which go to make up a complete university.

HAPPINESS COMES FROM ONESELF

Happiness, psychologists tell us, is mainly a matter of internal feeling, and they recommend at least an hour each day to spend alone in thought if that happiness is to be achieved. The college student's day, however, is so full of classes, activities, studying and pleasure with others, that such an hour is rarely on the program.

It might be well for the undergraduate to stop and question himself as to his state of happiness. He may or may not be shocked to find that he isn't as satisfied as he thought he was; he may suddenly realize that his constant activity is making him tired, irritable and critical.

Then is the time for him to try the suggestion of his teachers. Sixty minutes does not necessarily have to be the given time; it may be more or less. But the undergraduate will find that once he has learned to enjoy an hour or so each day by himself that he will derive more pleasure out of his other activities and a greater peace of mind from his whole day.

Parlin to Announce Degree List in March

The list of candidates for bachelor of arts degrees from the College of Arts and Sciences will be released in March, Dean Parlin announced Tuesday. A tentatively correct list cannot be compiled at present because of the enormous number of applicants for degrees, each of whom must be given personal consideration, and because second semester applicants will increase the list, while many students who are now expecting to get degrees will drop from the ranks by March, he explained.

Complete returns on the national election and the gubernatorial election in Texas were given by The Daily Texan through the cooperation of the International News Service.

ARCHITECTS HEAR SPEAKER

Edwin J. Cole, from the offices of Walter G. Warren and Company of Chicago, gave an informal talk to the sophomore class of the department of architecture, stressing as his main point the necessity of seeing a design problem as if it were going to be built rather than as a beautiful picture on paper. He urged the students to study the plans and then watch the actual construction of the buildings being erected on the campus. Mr. Cole stated that this is a splendid opportunity of studying and comparing the plans in the development of buildings.

Eleanor Jones spent the week-end at her home in Gonzales.

Janice Mellinger spent the week-end in San Antonio.

"HOT SATURDAY" (?)—Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant, Randolph Scott; and Ewen Hail's Band, now through Friday. At the Paramount.

"HELL'S HIGHWAY" (?)—Richard Dix, Tom Brown, Rochelle Hudson, now through Friday. At the Hancock.

"MADAM RACKETEER" (B minus)—Alison Skipworth, Richard Bennett, Evelyn Knapp, George Raft, now through Thursday. At the Queen.

"MAN ABOUT TOWN" (?)—Warner Baxter, Karen Morley, today only. "Down to Earth," Will Rogers, Thursday and Friday. At the Texas.

Estimates: A, great; B, good; C, fair.

Reviewed Today

Chiefly Alison Skipworth. AN ENJOYABLE TRIFLE, the Queen's "Madam Racketeer" sets about relating in farcical vein what happens when an old lady who has seen better days, both in and out of Western Hemisphere prisons, violates her parole to save two charming daughters of an early marriage from mesalliance and penury. Alison Skipworth, grand old dame of the screen who is less noted than she might be, has the role, and, fortunately for the picture, makes the most of it. For other roles in the playful bit of dramaturgy are recognizably props, although enacted by competent actors: Richard Bennett portrays the eccentric husband who does not quite know what to make of his long-absent wife's return. Evelyn Knapp and Gertrude Messinger are comely as the daughters. Robert McWade appears as the small-town banker whom Madam Racketeer shakes down for cash requisite to operations, and young John Breeden, as his son, inconveniently in love with one of the girls. George Raft has an unobtrusive role as another habitué of the half world who conveniently discovers he is not, after all, in love with the other daughter. Apparently well suited to legitimate drama, this play surprisingly is listed as an original screen story by Harvey Harris Gates and Malcolm Stuart Boylan. Audiences find it amusing.

Not the least uproarious laugh in the current Queen program, however, is contained in the advance shots of Laurel and Hardy's "Pack Up Your Troubles," which will show Friday through Monday. And there is talk that even the news has a couple of guffaws in it.

Estimate: B minus.

Opening Today

HELL'S HIGHWAY, starring Richard Dix with Tom Brown and Rochelle Hudson, opens today at the Hancock to play through Friday. This picture is the story of a life in a prison camp. It deals with the abuses of prisoners who are flogged and exposed to tortures if they will not or cannot keep up the man-killing pace at which they are forced to work. A love story is interwoven with the harsh cruelty of the picture. Duke Ellis (Richard Dix) sacrifices his own freedom to save his little brother (Tom Brown) so that the youngster can return to his mother and sweetheart. This picture should leave its mark on future prison legislation in the United States. "Hell's Highway" gives Dix the most realistic role of his long and successful career. Tom Brown, who enacts the role of Dix's little brother, Johnny, will be remembered as having been starred by Universal in "Tom Brown of Culver." Rochelle Hudson, a bright newcomer, plays the part of Mary Ellen, Johnny's sweetheart.

WARNER BAXTER, in "Man About Town," with Karen Morley and Leni Stengel, opens for today only at the Texas. The film has to do with the Secret Service, international spies, and a series of identifications of various persons following certain events. The exquisite Karen Morley should be enough to make all of you see this show. Warner Baxter, as an ex-Secret Service man who turns his home into a cosmopolitan gambling house, gives a smooth performance.

Rochelle Hudson, a bright newcomer, plays the part of Mary Ellen, Johnny's sweetheart.

WARNER BAXTER, in "Man About Town," with Karen Morley and Leni Stengel, opens for today only at the Texas. The film has to do with the Secret Service, international spies, and a series of identifications of various persons following certain events. The exquisite Karen Morley should be enough to make all of you see this show. Warner Baxter, as an ex-Secret Service man who turns his home into a cosmopolitan gambling house, gives a smooth performance.

Plummer Views Gas Regulation

Unit Plan Recommended For Oil Production

"Whenever oil is curtailed, means must be sought to curtail the flow of gas also," Professor F. B. Plummer of the department of petroleum engineering, said. "The curtailment of gas is by no means an easy proposition due to the fact that all gases have their peculiar behaviors. In most cases special equipment has been designed to curtail the excessive flow of gas. Such apparatus as the bottom hole choke, the reduction of the size of tubing, and the use of the gas lift whereby gas is not allowed to escape but is recycled by compression and reintroduced into the producing sand, curtail the flow," he added.

Professor Plummer believes that the conservation of the gas supply should be under the direction of engineers who are familiar with the working conditions. Regulation of the gas should be such that the minimum of gas is produced with each barrel of oil produced. The gas is the prime mover of the oil and as soon as the supply of gas has been dissipated there is little chance for the oil to be produced; as a result the oil stays in the ground and in the end becomes a waste. The regulation of gas control which does not interfere too much with the production of oil is commendable.

Common Umpire Needed. One of the best ways for the directed regulation of gas, according to Professor Plummer, is the unit plan which provides that the management of the properties is under a common umpire and the production practices to be in the hands of capable engineers. The gas is usually located at the top of the oil stratum and the gas reservoir is commonly known as the gas cap. Wells that are drilled into the top of the structure and pierce the gas cap are prone to produce more gas than is necessary, and in this way the wells on the top of the structure

HELL'S HIGHWAY, starring Richard Dix with Tom Brown and Rochelle Hudson, opens today at the Hancock to play through Friday. This picture is the story of a life in a prison camp. It deals with the abuses of prisoners who are flogged and exposed to tortures if they will not or cannot keep up the man-killing pace at which they are forced to work. A love story is interwoven with the harsh cruelty of the picture. Duke Ellis (Richard Dix) sacrifices his own freedom to save his little brother (Tom Brown) so that the youngster can return to his mother and sweetheart. This picture should leave its mark on future prison legislation in the United States. "Hell's Highway" gives Dix the most realistic role of his long and successful career. Tom Brown, who enacts the role of Dix's little brother, Johnny, will be remembered as having been starred by Universal in "Tom Brown of Culver." Rochelle Hudson, a bright newcomer, plays the part of Mary Ellen, Johnny's sweetheart.

Cooper Works On Educator's Life In Library Files

Late Teachers Responsible For Founding Of University

Hubert Cooper, youngest son of the late Dr. Oscar Henry Cooper, one of the founders of The University of Texas, is in Austin gathering material concerning his father's life and works. He is at present working in the various libraries on the campus. Mr. Cooper, with two brothers and a sister, have planned the writing of his father's biography.

Dr. Cooper died August 22, 1932, in Abilene. He was "the most active person," according to the testimony of former Governor O. M. Roberts, in the whole matter of the establishment of The University of Texas.

Dr. Cooper was born November 22, 1852, on a plantation in Rusk County, near Carthage. He entered Yale University at the age of 15 and in 1872 graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors.

Taught at Yale

In January, 1873, he returned to Texas. For six years he conducted Henderson College in East Texas and then became a member of the first faculty of the Sam Houston Normal Institute when it opened at Huntsville in 1879. He next taught classical languages at Yale for several years and then went to the University of Berlin. When he again returned to Texas, he became the principal of the Houston High School and soon after was elected State superintendent of public instruction. From 1890 to 1896 he was superintendent of the public schools of Galveston and in 1899 became president of Baylor University. In 1902 Dr. Cooper transferred his work to West Texas and Simmons University, of which he became president.

Dr. Cooper's education was obtained in private institutions. Dr. Frederick Eby, chairman of the department of the history and philosophy of education at The University of Texas, says that he was "supremely a master of the technique of teaching."

Dr. Cooper is responsible for much of the advanced situation of the public school system of today. He was the first professional school man to occupy the office of the State superintendent under the new regime begun in 1884; he set in motion a new building program; he instituted local supervision in schools; and he extricated the text book situation from chaos. There were many at this time fighting against the establishment of public high schools; Cooper represented the progressive view, Dr. Eby said.

University Founder

Dr. Cooper was interested in the training of teachers and introduced departments for the training of teachers at Baylor and Simmons universities. He was engaged in training teachers at the latter school and for several years at The University of Texas.

As for The University of Texas, there was great indecision and argument concerning its establishment. Dr. Cooper opposed the New York plan for the State of Texas and was one of the founders of the University. In 1921 Dr. Cooper was named chairman of the State Commission for the Survey of Higher Institutions.

Three sons and a daughter survive Dr. Cooper: Oscar Henry Cooper, Jr., connected with the publishing firm of Ray Long and Richard R. Smith, Inc., of New York; Dr. Stewart Cooper of Abilene, a fellow of American College of Surgeons; Hubert Cooper, newspaperman; and Mrs. Dan A. Gallagher of Abilene, who received her bachelor of arts degree from the University.

Announcements from Ed. Olle's office indicated that although not all student tickets to the game had been sold out last night, the rest would go in a wave of buying today, the last

CO-ED'S FATHER SOCIALIST CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

It is not hard to account for one of the 176 socialist votes in the recent straw ballot on the campus, when one knows that Octavia Edwards, graduate student in The University of Texas, is the daughter of George Clifton Edwards of Dallas, candidate for governor of Texas on the Socialist ticket.

Mr. Edwards, who headed a full socialist ticket in the election Tuesday, has a background of years of study and experience. He was born in Dallas and received his early education there. He took his bachelor of arts degree from the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., graduating first in his class. The following year he received the master of arts degree in English from Harvard.

Since his return to Dallas 30 years ago, Mr. Edwards has been the leader of the Socialist movement in Texas. He has initiated and sponsored many civic and public enterprises for the good of Dallas and Texas generally. It was he who wrote the initiative, referendum, recall, and eight hour day provisions into the Dallas charter. He established and taught the first night school in Dallas, which was later taken over by the public school system. He helped to get framed and passed ed the first anti-child labor law in Texas. As an attorney, he has consistently defended liberals who were denied their constitutional rights.

Octavia Edwards' scholastic record resembles her father's. Graduating first and youngest in her class, she received her bachelor of arts degree from Southern Methodist University in 1931. Last August, she took her master of arts degree from The University of Texas, and now at 20, she is working toward a doctor of philosophy degree. At Southern Methodist University she was a member of the honorary French fraternity, the honorary classical fraternity, Mortar Board, and the honorary scholastic society, to which she was elected in her junior year. She was also a student-assistant in the English department, won a student activity scholarship in her junior year, and a graduate scholarship at commencement.

In the matter of Socialism, Miss Edwards heartily endorses her father's platform. While she laughingly says that she does not expect a landslide of votes in her father's favor, she shares his earnest belief that Socialism is the next step in social evolution and that the time has come to take that step.

Hildebrand Society Continues Mock Trial

The case of Johnson versus Chaney for alienation of affections, being held as a mock trial, was continued at the meeting of Hildebrand Law Society Monday night. The case will go to the jury at the society's next meeting, Jack Roberts, vice president, said.

A new case, State versus Martinez, dealing with charges of robbery, will be started at the coming meeting after the present case has been finished, Roberts said. Spurgeon Bell's firm will act as prosecuting attorneys, and Roberts' firm will be the defense counsel, Dean I. P. Hildebrand will preside.

Eight Kitchens In New H. E. Building

"The new Home Economics laboratory will be composed of eight kitchens, which will be separate units in arrangement," said Jennie S. Wilmot, adjunct professor of home economics Tuesday. Four small dining rooms and kitchens of unit arrangements will be equipped on four different levels of cost.

"The equipment will differ in four price levels of utensils, stoves, refrigerators, china, and linens. The stoves will vary from day when students may get tickets here.

The Longhorn Band will go to Fort Worth in time to broadcast over two radio stations Thursday night, WFJZ and WBAP. For the game itself, Burnett Pharr, director, has arranged for a specialty by the band's trumpet section, rehearsals for which have been conducted during the past week.

Cret Commends University Work On Construction

G. L. Dahl of Dallas Here To Confer With White On Buildings

"The progress in construction work at The University of Texas is very pleasing to me," Paul P. Cret, consulting architect of the University from Philadelphia, stated. "The buildings being erected on the campus remind me of Italy with the white walls, and the red tile roofs against the sky. The architecture we feel is very well suited to this particular country."

Mr. Cret arrived in Austin Tuesday morning and will remain until Friday. He will return again when the Regents of the University call him to supervise any new plans that may be drawn up.

"It is rather difficult to describe the construction work already completed," Mr. Cret continued. "At this early stage I can only say that so far all plans have worked out very nicely, and we believe that upon the completion of all the buildings, the campus of The University of Texas will be one of the most beautiful to be found anywhere. As to the type of architecture it should be noted that it does not follow any definite period. The combination of white stone and red tile suggests Spanish or Italian architecture. It is this general type of architecture that we feel is most suited to Texas."

Dahl Confers with White George L. Dahl of the firm of Herbert M. Greene, LaRoche and Dahl, University consulting architects of Dallas, is also in Austin for the purpose of conferring with Mr. Cret and R. L.

White of the department of architecture. The architects will draw up the first plans for the new practice school to be erected soon on the east of the 40-acre campus, near Red River. The plans will probably be approved this week, Mr. Dahl stated, and the working drawings will then be drawn up.

"The area between Speedway and Main Building now occupied by B. Hall will be terraced," Mr. Dahl explained. "Two retaining walls will be constructed and an esplanade or court will be formed at the base of these walls. The first wall is nearly completed, the balustrades and ornaments having been placed this week."

Stone from Texas "All the stone used in construction work on the campus comes from Texas," Mr. Dahl continued. "You will notice that the first ten or twenty feet at the base of all the new buildings on the campus are constructed of this stone. The retaining walls will likewise be constructed of the same material, carrying out the building motif."

Mr. Cret gave a short talk to students of the department of architecture Tuesday afternoon and attended a dinner at the Alpha Rho Chi house, architectural fraternity, Tuesday night.

In a speech at the banquet Mr. Cret outlined the buildings of the Century Progress Exposition in Chicago, of which commission he is a member. Other members present who spoke in commendation of the cooperation of Mr. Cret had given to the University building campaign were Dr. W. J. Battle, chairman of the University building committee; Professor Goldwin Goldsmith, chairman of the department of architecture; R. L. White, supervising architect, and George L. Dahl of Dallas.

Mr. Cret, who has recently been awarded the contract for 57 United States post offices, and who designed Pan-American and Shakespearian Library (buildings in Washington, D. C., as well as many of the University buildings, was appointed supervising architect of the University buildings by the Board of Regents in 1930. He was instrumental in completing the final plans of the Littlefield Memorial.
