Dear Dr. Stenzel,

This evening, soon after I arrived home from the office, I received some beautiful red roses - with a card signed by you and Sonya. They are now brightening my apartment, and they are just the tonic I need after an especially rough day at the office. Thank you very much.

I get the idea that Sonya is with you - or at least she was when you ordered the flowers. No doubt she has many interesting stories about her new life in Mexico City.

Next week, I leave for two weeks in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Am really looking forward to it.

I am still recalling with pleasure our visit a couple of weeks ago. I hope the rest of your stay in Washington was pleasant, and that you accomplished everything you planned to.

Again - many thanks for the roses!

Sincerely,
