Geology

Prof. Henryk B. Stenzel

February 1, 1950 to September 1, 1951

Well above average intelligence; very quick in learning. Ranks considerably below Mr. C. O. Durham, whom you know.

Fair to high

Keenly interested and very eager

6.

Yes

quite kind-hearted.

Very eager to be liked by others;

stability

Good health; good emotional

Mr. Marks has had considerable difficulties here caused by his personality and working habits. We employed him here for one year to straighten out old shell and fossil collections in our Geology Department attic; the amount of work produced was much too small in my estimate. He simply would not stay with work which seemed mere routine and drudgery to him and spent his time on his own research. This may not be a difficulty in his task of acquiring a Ph.D. degree where his interest would be directly involved.

Professor, Department of Geology
The University of Texas, Austin.
