Dear Dr. Keen:

It was a great pleasure to meet you in person after corresponding for so long. I was greatly impressed with your fine collections, but I should add immediately that I realize it is impossible for us to utilize your system on account of man power shortage. It would be very fine if we could do our arranging and cataloging the same way you do, but we are not able to do that.

I enjoyed my visit at Stanford immensely and thanking you, I am

Sincerely yours,
