Mission

The Harriet Tubman Collective (HTC) is a Texas-based non-profit; it takes its name from the antebellum woman who "stole herself" to become an abolitionist leading the enslaved to freedom through the underground railroad. HTC develops projects that support anti-violence initiatives and progressive sustainable communities.

HTC Board (in formation)

Joy James, Williams College*
Stephanie Lang, UT-Austin
Elvia Mendoza, UT-Austin
Christen Smith, UT-Austin

Project(s)

Harriet Tubman Liberation School

The HTC will hold its inaugural liberation school in June 2012. This free program for students in grades 7-12 will be based in Austin.

Harriet Tubman Literary Circle (HTLC)

Members of the HTC have access to the HTLC blog (<http://sites.tdl.org/htlc/>) and digital repository, which are part of UT human rights initiatives in digital culture. Members may: post projects; find HTC updates; and access a list of board members at: <http://repositories.lib.utexas.edu/handle/2152/7828>.

Join Us

The HTC welcomes those committed to the mission. Members may: participate in board meetings; initiate or work on current HTC projects; donate resources; or join the HTC board.
