Dear Sir:

I regret very much to have missed answering your letter of August 5. Fieldwork in east Texas interfered with my correspondence somewhat.

Mr. Dante is a trustworthy and reliable person. His professional preparation has been the usual one here, and he has had a considerably varied experience since he left here. As to his professional ability, I am probably not in a good position to judge, because he was employed here only as a student assistant. I am somewhat dismayed at noting that he has been very much of a rolling stone, changing places rather frequently.

Very truly yours,

H. B. Stenzel
Geologist
