Purpose:

Black Students Advocating Truth is a committee of the Plan II Black Students' Association. Its aim is to increase African-American undergraduate involvement in using their cultural lore as an educational resource to enrich and benefit the general student body. We think that a kiosk is the best and most efficient way to send our message to as much of the student body as possible. The kiosk would act as an educational resource on how African-Americans have contributed to society. The display would be changed monthly, in accordance with a theme. For example, one month it may be medicine, architecture, or philosophy. Six contributors in the given month will be briefly profiled.

Not only is a kiosk highly visible, letting students know that the UT black student body is active, it also dispels the common perception that blacks have not made any significant contributions in the context of history.
