TRANSPORT TARGETS ATTACKED

Spitfire, Typhoon and Mustang fighters and fighter-bombers of the Second Tactical Air Force, taking advantage of long hours of daylight, carried out widespread attacks on road and rail transport and other military targets in France late yesterday (Saturday) evening.

Successes included the overturning of a 30-truck military goods train which was left on fire near Estrees, and a ground- strafing attack on a convoy of lorries near Crevecoeur, five out of eight lorries being left burning.
