

U. S. National Museum,
Washington, D. C.,
September 28, 1936.

Dr. H. B. Stenzel,
Bureau of Economic Geology,
Austin, Texas.

Dear Doctor Stenzel:

Thanks a lot for the separate of your paper on the new formation in the Claiborne. It's an interesting addition to a very interesting part of the Texas section.

I arrived in Washington last Tuesday after a most varied but entirely interesting summer. My trip west with Turner in June was certainly one of the high lights, particularly as I continued on to California and got my first view of the Pacific before returning to the desert. It's kind of hard to get back into the swing of office work again.

I hope that you will pay us a visit in Washington before long. At least we will see you in Texas next summer.

Sincerely,

Edgar Bowles