Dear Dr. Stenzel:

It is good news that you will be in the Bay Area for a while next month, and we shall be very glad to have you visit us. Our library and collections, such as they are, will be made available to you.

Yesterday I mentioned your visit at our Paleontology Seminar (a weekly get-together of students and faculty to review current literature and discuss pertinent topics). The hope was expressed that you may be able to meet with us and perhaps talk to us a few minutes about your work. Most of the time you will be here will be finals week and spring vacation, but perhaps we can schedule a special meeting, for I know a number of students will be eager to meet you.

Your "Treatise" work has my understanding sympathy. Is there never an end to it? I find none, for once one assignment is completed another unfolds.

Sincerely,

Myra Keen
