Dear Dr. Woods:

Thank you for sending me your recent work on Hatcheriseras. It is a pleasure to note the good appearance and style of the new Journal. Congratulations to all of you down under.

My present work concerns the family Ostreidae, which are being studied for the Treatise on Invertebrate Paleontology. When I accepted this assignment I did not realize how much work it would entail. I am much interested in the Australian living oyster which Saviile-Kent called Cornisopisaeformis. Do you have any specimens with both valves which could serve for illustrations?

Very truly yours,

H. B. Stenzel
