Dear Dr. Stenzel:

I must apologise for not having written sooner but I went on vacation then had to be out of town the past few weeks. I did appreciate your nice letter and hope something may be worked out later.

I got information at the University of Houston while on vacation and they said they definitely can't offer a Ph.D. at this time. Maybe after you have been there a while something can be worked out I had hoped maybe to go this year but have changed my plans now. If there should possibly be a teaching position open later I might apply for that and then I would be there to start work when the program was developed. I do love teaching.

Certainly hope that you can get satisfactorily settled in Houston, and that you like your new position. Let me know should anything develop in the way of a position and I can come to Houston for an interview with the necessary people. Three years teaching (was Asst. Prof. at T.C.U.) and 2 1/2 years industrial work should be useful in future teaching.

Best regards to all and good luck in your new venture.

Sincerely,

Bill
