Dear Lou:

Thank you for making the effort to obtain some Lopha frons (Linné, 1758) for me. Your letter said they were borrowed, so they are being returned to you by separate mail.

There is no question that they are correctly identified. I wish I had a good map showing their exact geographic distribution as well as that of other North American species. However, there just is not enough published on the distribution of this species. From these remarks, you may guess that I am working on geographic distribution of living oysters.

I have had several rush projects to do lately. The work on the oysters had to slow down during that time, but it will pick up again soon.

Many thanks,

Sincerely yours,

H. B. Stenzel
