Dr. R. C. Emmons
Chairman of Geology Department
University of Wisconsin
Madison, Wisconsin

Dear Sir:

I am writing this letter in support of an application for a fellowship by Mr. Dan Peray.

Mr. Peray is well known to me. He has worked for some time here in Austin and was with me in the field. I have had ample opportunity to become acquainted with him and to judge his ability.

He has applied himself to his task diligently and intelligently. He is a careful, orderly worker and is well grounded in the special field he has chosen. I am very favorably impressed with the thoroughness which he has shown in tackling the investigation of the microscopic forms of the Tertiary formation on which he is working. He will make a good graduate student and it is expected that his work will be a significant contribution.

He has a pleasing personality and is well liked here. In the field he was an agreeable and industrious companion. His personal outlook is mature. I recommend him for your serious consideration in his application.

Very truly yours,

H. B. Stenzel
Geologist
