

October 17, 1951
Groesbeek, Texas
Box 102

Dr. H. B. Stenzel
University of Texas
Austin, Texas

Dear Sir:

Your letter was received some time ago, and the publication arrived the next day. The publication is a welcome addition to my material.

In regard to donating the fragments of Triniparus, n. sp. to be described, I would be only too happy to do so. Also, I have enclosed 19 more fragments of the same for you.

This is the second new species which has come from this one locality. The other has been identified as an undescribed species of Acanthoceras, an ammonite.

This locality, a very peculiarly one, is covered at the time. For details, I suggest that you write Mr. Frank E. Loyo, Shell Oil Company, 3737 Bellair Boulevard, Houston 5, Texas. He, of course, understands this locality better than me.

Thanking you very much,

Sincerely
Johnny Barnett