Dear Mr. Poinboeuf:

I had meant to write you earlier in the summer, but I ~~was~~ ^{have been} very busy since May and the temperature here has been very trying. We had 107° F here one day, the highest ever recorded in Austin.

There is a favor I would like to ask of you. My cousin whose address is given below lives in Paris. I am sure she would enjoy hearing about me from you. So would you please look up her phone number and phone her? Please tell her all about your experiences here and what you remember about me. If you were to do that it would please me very much.

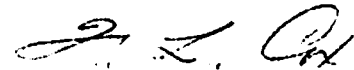

Please note that my future address will be

DOCUMENTS AND MINUTES OF THE GENERAL FACULTY

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL EDMUND THORNTON MILLER MEMORIAL RESOLUTION COMMITTEE

The Special Committee of the General Faculty on the preparation of the Edmund Thornton Miller Memorial Resolution has filed with the Secretary of the General Faculty the following report.

F. L. Cox, Secretary
The General Faculty

IN MEMORIAMEDMUND THORNTON MILLER

Edmund Thornton Miller was born in Fort Worth, Texas, June 6, 1878. He graduated from Weatherford College (Texas) with the degree of A.B. in 1897 at the age of nineteen, and subsequently enrolled at the University of Texas from which he received the degree of A.B. in 1900 and A.M. in 1901. Later he was a graduate student at the University of Chicago and at Harvard University, from which he received the degrees of A.M. in 1903 and Ph.D. in 1909. While at Harvard he held appointments as Austin Teaching Fellow and Henry Lee Memorial Fellow.

He began his academic career as a teacher of English and history in the Waxahachie High School. He became an instructor in economics at the University of Texas in 1904, an adjunct professor in 1913, and a full professor in 1917. This position he filled continuously for thirty-one years, going on modified service in 1948.

In 1913 Doctor Miller married Emily Maverick, a member of a colonial pioneer family of San Antonio. They became the parents of two daughters and a son: Emily Maverick Miller (now Mrs. Marshall F. Wells), Edmund Hollis Miller, and Mary Elizabeth Miller (now Mrs. Otis B. Gary). At the time of
