Dear Sir:-

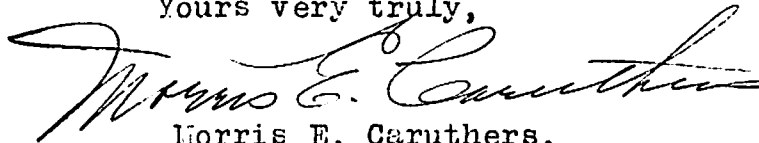

Your letter of November 5th with lists of fossils for exchange was received a few days ago. I am sorry to have to say that I do not collect fossils. Your lists look to be extremely interesting and include a number of genera which are not common living. Lack of cabinet space compels me to limit my collection to the living shells although there is actually no hard and fast line dividing living and fossil shells.

A correspondent of mine in New Zealand recently offered me Pliocene fossils from there. If you care for foreign species his name is, Charles S. Fleming, 92 Remura Road, Auckland, New Zealand.

I wish I could get in touch with some one in Texas from whom I could get both land shells and the typically Texan Marine shells but to date I have not been able to find anyone interested.

Thanking you for your offer, I remain,

Yours very truly,

Morris E. Caruthers.
