

The Center for Asian American Studies

presents

Displaced in the New South (1995)

CAAS Immigration & Migration Film Series

In 1980, there were a few thousand Asian and Latino immigrants in Georgia. By 1994, there were more than 300,000. This documentary explores the cultural collision between Asian and Hispanic immigrants and the suburban communities near Atlanta, Georgia, in which they have settled.

October 16, 2007

6:30 PM

WEL 1.316

For more information contact The Center for Asian American Studies, 512-232-9468 or kydawson@mail.utexas.edu