Dear Dr. Stenzel:

I shall be glad indeed to publish your paper on middle Eocene decapods. I find, however, that so many changes have been made, and are needed, on the first five pages that I am returning them with the request that they be retyped. Number them 1 to 5 and then add letters for the new pages. I am sure that the change will avoid much trouble with galley proof. When the sheets are returned, I shall send them on to Notre Dame.

The required changes are indicated. Were our typesetters better in the first place, many of them could have been indicated satisfactorily. I've found, however, that it is both cheaper and more satisfactory to submit clean copy.

Your plates are made up much more carefully than any others I have received. I have just returned one lot for third revision -- after much more detailed instructions than were furnished you. My thanks for your care, which saves both of us trouble.

Give our greetings to the Plummers, and to Dr. Sellards. I hope for more papers from members of the Bureau.

Sincerely,

Carroll Lane Fenton
