

OPINION

■ Community-wide support, which is critical to maintain a successful public school system. A new superintendent must build bridges to earn support from Waco's minority communities. Waco public schools are majority minority. They must have the trust and support of all Waco citizens. Community-wide support also must include businesses, social organizations and programs such as Adopt-a-School and Waco 1,000.