Dr. H. B. Stenzel,
Bureau of Economic Geology,
Austin, Texas.

Dear Doctor Stenzel:

In looking over the collections from Mexico this morning I came across some specimens that look to me like those that I saw in your puzzle box at the Bureau. I believe the suggestion was made that they were sponges. These of mine are better preserved and both by their outline and their sculpture suggest echinoid spines. My memory may be at fault but I am sending along the suggestion for what it may be worth.

With my best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

Julia Gardner,
Geologist.
